BANQUET CLOSES MISSIONS MEET

Two Days' Conference End Marked by Some Helpful Addresses.

MURRAY TOASTMASTER

Rev. Dr. S. O. Benton and Normay Williams Speakers—Sixty Gathered for the Occasion Enjoyed the Addresses.

The two-day missionary conference under the auspices of the United Missionary Campaign came to a close last night with a men's missionary banquet at the Park Club, following a conference held in the afternoon at the First Baptist church. There were about sixty guests at the dinner, comprising ministers, and prominent missionary workers from the various churches. William D. Murray was the toastmaster, and besides introducing the speakers of the evening, who were Rev. Dr. S. O. Benton, corresponding secretary of the foreign mission board of the Methodist church, and Mornay Williams, of New York, he explained briefly the "every member canvas" which is the real purpose of the campaign.

Dr. Benton, the first speaker, gave a graphic account of the progress of the work, and emphasized more especially how the needs of the world are supplied by Christ. He divided his subject into two parts, spiritual and physical, and then went on to show that where Christ is not considered there is no spiritual or physical advancement.

The speaker made the startling declaration that 90 per cent. of the native people of India live and die without medical aid, they relying on the crude native methods. He also said that only 1 per cent. of the natives of China have medical aid.

Mornay Williams spoke along the line of how to get church workers and others interested in the missionary movement, and of the Christians duty to spread the Gospel. He referred to the urgent call of the world which must be met by followers of Christ if the work of evangelization is to go on as it should.

The "every member canvas" was explained in detail by David McCo ughy, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, using charts for that purpose. He urged that every members of the church should become interested in the movement, adding that it was for promoting greater efficiency in local churches as well as in the foreign fields. Another point emphasized by the speaker, as well as R. E. Diffendorfer, secretary of the Missionary Education Movement, was the importance of organizing all churches into this great movement.

The committee in charge of the local conference comprised Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Arthur M. Harris and William D. Murray.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BRANCH AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Beginning on Monday, the Plainfield Public Library will open a free distributing station at the Washington School for the circulation of books. The circulating hours will be on Monday evenings from 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock.

The collection of books will be for young people and adults but not for children.

Book-cases are in the basement at the foot of the stairs leading from the Essex street entrance.

PLANNING TO REOPEN THE EPWORTH LIBRARY

Rev. Frederic J. Hubach, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, is planning to reopen the Epworth Library on a broader scale. The date of the re-opening will be announced soon. The library committee will meet on Monday evening. The official board of the church has taken over the management of this work.

Mrs. Clarence LaRue, at present organist of the church, has resigned, that she may be able to attend the same church with her husband. The Cantata Chorus is holding rehearsals every Friday night in preparation for a special concert to be given soon. The Epworth League vesper services at 7 o'clock Sunday evening have taken on new life and are largely attended. The support given the present cabinet with Miss Anna Matthews as the head is appreciated.

TEACHER SURPRISED BY MANY GOBLINS

N. P. H. S. Pupils in Disguise Swooped Down on Miss Casselle Last Night.

Miss Maude Casselle, teacher in the seventh grade of the Somerset School, was given a Hallowe'en surprise party by thirty-five of her pupils at the home of Mrs. Frank Rowley in Grove street, last night. It was a complete surprise to Miss Casselle.

The time was spent in playing games that were appropriate for the occasion and some of the scholars contributed to the evening's enjoyment with solors, both vocal and instrumental. Shortly before midnight refreshments were served by the committee in charge and at the hour of 12 the party broke up.

Those who were present are Ruth Vossler, Emilie Pilger, Helen Thompson, Marion Thompson Selma Cornwall, Florence Cornwall, Mildred White, Adele Demarest, Marjorie Barry, Ephlyn Smalley, May Moore, Helen Althouse, Dorothy Krewson, Evelyn Nelson, Franklin Rowley, Ronold Conray, Charles Moraller, Sterling Boos, Jack Cannon, George Hall, Ronold Scheuck, Harold Mantz Stanley Burner, Ernest Stahl, Sammy Buckley, LeRoy Western, Robert Ball, Harold Marsh, Harold Livingston, Kenneth Giddes, Harold Gayle, Adolf Larsen, John Kueldofher, Clifford Feiring, Lester Daley and Kenneth Bennett. The surprise was in charge of Helen Thompson.

IN CITY'S UNIFORM COP IS TICKET TAKER

And Green Man on the Force Refuses to Admit Reporter Who Shows His Card.

After making a tour of various amusement halls, last night, securing accounts of Hallowe'en social events in this city and borough, a Daily Press reporter intended to make his final "stop" of the evening at Sebring's Auditorium, where the Oriental Club was holding its annual masquerade ball. Ascending the stairway, the reporter was met at the second floor landing by Patrolman Martin in uniform, who was in charge of the place where tickets are taken and admission fees collected, at the door.

"Hello, Officer!" said the reporter. In reply Martin, who is a "green" man on the force, replied, "Tickets, please," and held his arm out to prevent the scribe from passing into the auditorium to secure an account of the event.

The reporter showed his newspaper identification card, but the 'copper' after taking a "peep" at the pasteboard, said, "Oh, that doesn't cut any ice with me, you don't get in unless you give me 35 cents." Words followed and the reporter left the building.

Coming out he met Charles P. Sebring, proprietor of the auditorium, who was asked if the patrolman, in uniform, was hired by himself, or the Oriental Club. Mr. Sebring said Martin was engaged by the club to preserve order at the dance.

"Is he supposed to take tickets or money at the door?" Mr. Sebring was asked.

"No" the proprietor of the building said, "he is supposed to see that the law is not violated and to keep order, but not to take tickets."

Captain Frederickson was seen at police headquarters. The captain said that Patrolman Martin had probably been sent there and another member of the force volunteered that "We're short of 'specials' just now."

Asked if Martin was supposed to take tickets or admission fees, Captain Frederickson and the other patrolman both said that in their opinion, Martin had no right, or authority, to take tickets.

"That fellow must be going crazy," said Captain Frederickson, "if he doesn't even know enough to pass a reporter into a place. I can't understand him, at all at all."

"BILLY" MAZZOCCO IN TOWN.

William Mazzocco, a former well known local automobile man, arrived in town Thursday from Rio de Janierio where he is now located as the American representative for several lare manufacturing firms. He will be in the city for a week, after which he will return to Brazil via Panama. Mr. Mazzocco is enjoying excellent health and reports business good.

Cadillac Awarded Dewar Trophy.

Cable from London advises that Cadillac has again been awarded the Dewar Trophy by the Royal Automobile Club. This award is made annually to the motor car demonstrating the greatest advance in the industry. Cadillac is the only American car ever accorded the honor and the only car in the world receiving the award two times.—Adv. ***

MASQUERADE BALL OF CHURCH PEOPLE

St. Joseph's Church Women's League Provides Enjoyable Time.

Debele's Auditorium accomodated the largest crowd of the season last night, when the Women's League of St. Joseph's church held its annual masquerade ball. The costumes worn included many comical, original and beautiful ones. The decorations about the hall and on the stage where the orchestra sat were one of the features of the occasion. Hallowe'en colors, black and yellow predominated. Lighted pumpkins hung in large numbers about the platform, and streamers of crepe paper were strung from the ceiling to the sidewalls in various designs. Cornstalks, black cats, witches, imps, and other symbols of the day, were also prominent.

Following a program of dancing the grand march was held at 10:30 o'clock and souvenirs were awarded by a committee to those wearing the best costumes. Daniel McCormack, as straw man or scare-crow, easily won popular favor and Charles Dilts, as a tramp was the second choice among the men. Miss Katherine Morris, in a comedy make-up on the order of "Sis" Hopkins, was mentioned as having the most original costume among the fair sex present and Miss Carrie Coon, dressed as a "coon" was picked as second.

The committee which arranged the successful event was composed of Mrs. Katherine Sutton, chairman; Mrs. Howard Cooper, Mrs. Vincent Meaney, Miss Mamie Carney and Miss Florence Hogan, assisted by the officers of the League, who are: President, Miss Mary O'Connor; vice-president, Miss Agnes Fitzgerald; treasurer, Mrs. Andrew E. Kenney and secretary, Miss Justina Smith.

THOMAS DUFFY DIES ONE YEAR AFTER SON

Thomas Duffy, former constable, died yesterday at his home in South Plainfield, where he has lived for the past 12 years, passing away just one year after his son died. During the early part of the day he talked about the death of his son. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon he was taken ill and succumbed several hours later.

Born in County Mayo, Ireland, 56 years ago, Mr. Duffy came to this country in 1883, settling in Jersey City, where he later became section foreman for the Lehigh Valley railroad, which position he held for a quarter of a century. During the twelve years he resided in South Plainfield, he took an active interest in civic and church work. He was elected constable two years ago. Mr. Duffy is survived by a widow; one son, Joseph Duffy, and a daughter, Miss May Duffy, and a sister, Mrs. Patrick Nugent, of East Fourth street, this city. He was a member of Court South Plainfield, I. O. F., and a communicant of the Sacred Heart church.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at his late home and at the Sacred Heart church where a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. The Foresters will have charge of the house services. Interment will me made in St. Mary's cemetery.

PARISH FESTIVAL SERVICE AT GRACE CH. TOMORROW

The annual parish festival service at Grace church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. There will be special music. The preacher will be Rev. Charles T. Walkley, of Orange. An invitation is extended to the general public to attend. All seats are free.

RELEASE YOUNG THIEF ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Elizabeth, Nov. 1.—Joseph Millinary, a Newark youth, who on Decoration Day stole a pocketbook from a spectator at a horse race in Plainfield was liberated under a suspended sentence in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday.

Judge Conolly was told that the mother of the youth was ill and as it was his first offense exercised leniency.

Mrs. Nelson L. Pollard, of Elizabeth, pleaded not guilty to sending "poison pen" letters to Mrs. Charles F. Jones, of this city. She will be tried November 10.

OWLS DANCE.

Plainfield Nest, No. 1327, Order of Owls, will hold its annual dance on Monday evening, at Saengerbund Hall.

HELPED PUT OUT STIRLING'S BLAZE

Plainfield Dep't Assists in Extinguishing Fire Threatening Whole Village.

LOSS ONLY $10,000

Two Buildings Destroyed—Gasolene Stove Supposed Origin—Seven Other Structures Were in Danger.

In response to a telephone call to local headquarters at 8:50 o'clock last night, Chief T. O. Doane, in his auto, and the auto chemical engine apparatus made a hurried trip to Stirling, where a fire in the centre of the village threatened to destroy the entire business section of the place. A volunteer bucket brigade had been pressed into service, the place having no efficient water supply system and help had also been secured from Basking Rridge, Bernardsville and New Providence. The flames were confined to two large buildings although seven more were in the danger zone and threatened to burst out at any moment.

The damage is placed at $10,000 and half that amount is covered by insurance. The fire originated in the upper story of a frame building owed by Otto Brogler and in which he conducted a grocery store. It was evidently caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove in the apartment of an Assyrian family, which occupied the second floor. The first intimation the villagers had of any blaze was when flames burst through the back end of the structure. In a short space of time another two-story building, occupied by J. M. Holmes, Jr., as a meat market on the first floor and a family apartment on the second, caught fire.

The bucket brigade was driven back by the intense heat and as a precaution against the destruction of the business section the calls for assistance were sent to nearby towns by an official.

The Plainfield apparatus made the seven mile run over the mountains in twenty-four minutes. The auto engine was unable to work to its full efficiency as it could connect with no adequate water supply and had to do the best it could from a back yard well. As it was the chemical stream killed the worst part of the blaze and made certain that no other buildings would catch fire.

The Plainfielders remained on the scene about forty-five minutes, returning to Plainfield shortly after 10 o'clock. Chief Doane declared today that the auto engine was given a thorough test on the up hill test and behaved admirably in every way.

THE LAST WORD

Now that you have heard Stokes, the Republican nominee, and Colby, the Progressive standard bearer, may we suggest that you complete your civic duty by lending your ear to Fielder, the Democratic candidate. Fielder is coming here tonight. He wants you to give him a hearing before you as a jury of voters render your decision on Tuesday. Don't you think that is only the fair thing for you to do?

Columbus Hall is the accepted place and 9:30 o'clock is the appointed hour. Whether you have a vote or not, you are welcome. If you have any questions to ask, do so after Fielder finishes his brief talk. He'll answer any pertinent query.

P. S.—Yes, Congressman Hamill, and that genial, whole-souled congressman of yours, William E. Tuttle, will also have a word or two to say.

Burning of Leaves Must Be Discontinued.

Section 20 of the general ordinances of the City of Plainfield prohibits the burning of leaves after 12 o'clock noon. The Police, Street and Health Departments will take such means as may be necessary to enforce this ordinance. The annual practice of burning leaves and debris should be discontinued, as the dense, acrid smoke is very irritating to the mucous membrances of persons having throat or lung trouble. Where leaves collect in large quantities they should be put in bags and removed from the premises.—Adv. ***

K. S. FOSDICK WEDS MISS ROBERT TONIGHT

Ceremony Will Take Place at the Hotel Gotham in New York.

Miss Martha Adelaide Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert, of 1121 Martine avenue, and Kneeland Sterrett Fosdick, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Fosdick, of Orange, will be married at 7 o'clock tonight at The Gotham, New York city. Owing to illness in the family of the bride-elect, only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends will witness the ceremony. Rev. Dr. Bernard Schulte, a retired Episcopal clergyman of New York, will officiate.

The bride will wear a gown of white satin, trimmed with lace, and she will wear a lace cap, an heirloom, and tulle veil, and carry a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. The maid of honor, Miss Louise Coleman, of this city will be gowned in pink with a white tunic and carry yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The best man will be Vincent P. Wyatt, of New York.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held and a wedding supper will be served. After a trip the couple will reside at Orange. Mr. Fosdick holds a responsible position with the Home Insurance Company, of New York. The bride has received a large number of gifts of value and use.

WM. S. AYERS DIES; HAD LONG BEEN ILL

William S. Ayers, aged about fifty years, son of the late William Ayers, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, after a long illness. He had been employed at the hospital for more than a year as a houseman. Mr. Ayers was born in this city and always lived here. For many years he was engaged in the express business. He was a communicant of St. Mary's church.

There survives three sons, Frank, Bertram and Leo, one daughter, and three brothers, Alexander D., Edward and Jesse Ayers, two sisters, Mrs. Adam Seader and one residing in Philadelphia. The funeral will be held at the home of the son, 532 E. Third street, the time to be announced later.

MRS. PETER M'DONOUGH GOES TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Peter McDonough, aged 57 years, died this morning at her home, 523 East Sixth street, following a brief illness with pneumonia. She had lived in this city forty-four years and had a large number of friends. She was a communicant of St. Mary's R. C. church. Beside a husband, Mrs. McDonough is survived by five sons, William, James, Howard, Peter and LeRoy McDonough, and one daughter, Miss Catherine McDonough. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and the burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

"THE ROAD PROBLEM."

WEIRD BARN PARTY FOR N. P. H. S. GIRLS

Borough Maidens Froliced With the Goblins and Flirted with Ghosts.

About forty members of the Sigma Gamma Kappa Club, of the North Plainfield High School, held a regular old-fashioned Hallowe'en party last night in an old barn on Manning avenue. The interior of the deserted buildig was decorated with small lanterns and many ghost-like figures hung from the walls and ceiling. Outside was a large campfire surrounded by the girls, who toasted marshmallows before going into the barn.

Every guest was masqueraded in some way and before they could get admittance they had to give the password which was "gum-gum-uary." Before the barn was entered the masks were thrown aside and a regular programme was arranged. Once in the barn the girls locked the door for protection against any mischief makers and had a fine time until midnight when refreshments were served. Shortly after this the party disbanded. The committees that had charge of the party are as follows: Entertainment, Margaret Ewart, chairman; Marion Doughty, Margaret Vossler, Mary Martin, Marguerite Barkalew; decorations, Lois Peck, chairman, Helen Schmidt, Naomi Wisch, Carol Hughes, Grace Robinson; refreshments, Bertha Keller, chairman, Lucy Hughes, Laura Smith, Daisy Schmidt, Hester Stebbins and Mary O'Connor.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. DeForest Entertain About 150 Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. DeForest, of Hillside avenue, gave a delightful Hallowe'en dance at the Plainfield Country Club, last night, there being about 150 guests. The clubhouse was elaborately decorated in a way appropriate to the occasion, long rows of lighted pumpkins being placed along the driveway leading to the clubhouse; also in the clubhouse. In the large room over the fire-place there was arranged fancy crepe paper bearing Hallowe'en figures.

The music for dancing was furnished by colored musicians and this was a feature. Four young women whose identity was concealed, wore long white costumes and they mingled among the guests. During the evening refreshments were served. The festivities were continued until after midnight.

OWENS WANTS DEMEZA TO DEBATE WITH HIM

The following communication has been received from John P. Owens, Democratic nominee for the city judgship:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

In your editorial column of last evening there appeared an article, entitled "The Right Man," wherein you advocated the election of William G. DeMeza to the office of City Judge, because "he made good."

You also stated therein, "Owens is an untried quality and no argument is advanced that he could pretend to do as well as the respected and honored lawyer who now discharges the duties of that very important office."

I assume you spoke authoritatively for Judge DeMeza.

I wish to ask: What argument has he advanced for his re-election to office, other than the broad statement, "I stand upon my record?"

I resent the accusation that "Owens is an untried quality," and I hereby, through your columns, challenge Judge DeMeza to disclose his record, as City Judge, fully, to the voters of Plainfield, and debate with me as to the powers and duties "of that very important office."

In view of the language in which your editorial is framed, I feel justified in thus challenging him.

If agreeable to the Judge, I will measure swords with him on Monday evening.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN P. OWENS.

Dated, November 1, 1913.

VACATION FOR PASTOR.

The Official Board of the Grace M. E. church, meeting last night, gave the pastor, Rev. C. C. Cain, a one month's vacation because of illness. The Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, superintendent of the Elizabeth District of the Newark Conference, will preach the sermon at tomorrow's morning service. At the evening service, and for the month, Rev. Dr. W. C. O'Donnell, of this city, will be in the pulpit.

TWO KILLED IN AN ACCIDENT

Mishap at Cranford School Building Causes Death of Ironworkres.

A FALL OF SIXTY FEET

Engineer A. E. Smith Had Warned Victims of Their Danger—One Instantly Killed, Other Succumbs in Hospital.

Due to the carelessness of a laborer, two ironworkers employed by J. H. Dooley, a steel contractor, of South Second street, this city, were dashed to the ground from the top of the new Lincoln School building in Cranford, yesterday afternoon, and were instantly killed. The fatal accident happened several minutes after Arthur E. Smith, engineer, of this city, had warned the men of their peril. The latter is superintending the construction work. The dead men were Edward Denning, 25 years old, of Seventy-ninth street, New York, and T. S. Cahill, 26 years old, who is thought to have relations in Albany, N. Y.

The men were seated on the top of a powerful derrick which was suspended sixty feet in the air. When a laborer loosed a guy rope, the ironworkers were dashed to the ground. Denning landed on his head and was instantly killed. Cahill fell on his face and as he lay unconscious, the heavy piece of mechanism fell upon him. Father Miller, of the Cranford church, administered the last rites to Cahill, while awaiting the arrival of an ambulance. The man was rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, in Elizabeth, where he died several hours later. The business agent of the Ironworkers Union No. 11, of Newark, who saw the fatality, has taken charge of the bodies and is attempting to find the victims' relatives

Mr. Dooley went to the Cranford police headquarters and surrendered himself. The authorities refused to hold him on any charge however. Mr. Dooley has but recently come to this city.

DUNELLEN WILL VOTE ON SCHOOL EXPENSE

Although the voters of Dunellen three months ago authorized the Dunellen Board of Education to expend $6,000 for an addition to the Whittier School building, another special school election will be held on Tuesday night, November 11, at the Whittier School, for the purpose of authorizing the expenditure of $17 000 for the construction of an addition to the Lincoln School; the remodeling of the present building and the furnishing of the new structure.

To make these improvements a lot will have to be purchased from the Dunellen Home and Investment Co., size 50x50, situated on the westerly side of the Lincoln School. The Board of Education has arranged to buy this land at a price not to exceed $500, payment to be made with a promisory note for a term not to exceed one year.

The voters will also be asked to authorize the issuing of 26 bonds in amount $500 each and 4 bonds in amount $1,000 each, for periods of one year to 30 years, respectively, to pay the cost of these improvements.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ELINOR STEWART HANN

The funeral of Elinor Stewart Hann, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hann, who died on Tuesday, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the parents on East Third street. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated. Miss Etta S. Raybert sang "Some Day We'll Understand," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and many beautiful floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pallbearers were Claude, LeRoy, Russel Haun, uncles of the little girl, and Harry Lazzie.

THESE WOMEN WILL BE HOSPITAL GOVERNORS

Following the action of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital in providing in the new by-laws for the appointment of two members of the Women's Auxiliary to that body Mrs. Frank D. Warren and Mrs. John Gray Foster were selected by the Women's Auxiliary at a meeting held yesterday and they will be suggested to the Governing Board at its next meeting.

The Proof Is Here the Same As Everywhere.

For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here, in Plainfield the same as everywhere. Plainfield people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills—fatal Bright's disease. Here's Plainfield proof. Investigate it.

Mrs. Patience Manchester, 20 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J. says: "I willingly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again. I still use this remedy occasionally and it always relieves me of serious kidney troubles. For a long time I doctored and tried various remedies for my kidneys and bladder, but did not get a cure. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me good results from the first and before long rid me of the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

TEPPER'S SAY. If It's Values You Seek, Read On

In these turbulent days of commercial upheaval it behooves every one, more especially a prospective purchaser, to exercise extraordinary vigilance before making such purchase, weigh carefully every claim, every statement made whether it is consistent with facts, or is its intent merely to attract for the time being.

Take into consideration the purchasing power of our four wide awake stores, then draw your own comparison. Judge everyone's values by the merits of each individual item offered and not by extravagant valuations.

Makes Hard Work Easy!

DUSTING, cleaning and polishing hardwood floors is hard, back-breaking work. An almost never ending task and seldom satisfactory the old way. But it is easy, quick and satisfactory the new way—using the O-Cedar Polish Mop. With it you can spend a few minutes doing what it now takes you almost half a day. You simply pass the O-Cedar Polish Mop over the floor and every particle of dust and dirt is taken up and held. The floor is given a hard, durable, lasting polish and finish.

O-Cedar Polish Mop

is also used for the dusting and cleaning of the tops of high furniture, between the banisters of the stairs and is so made that you can get to the far corner under the bed, beneath the radiator and other hard-to-get-at places.

It cuts house work in half.

Don't put up with the old-fashioned hard way when you can get an O-Cedar Polish Mop for only $1.50.

A FRIENDLY LETTER.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Yes, just that, a "friendly word, even though a perplexed one."

As we all know, who have ever tried to explain to our suffrage sisters, that our manifold woman's duties prevent our giving the time and thought requisite to an intelligent, conscientious exercise of the franchise, they assure us earnestly and vigorously that "it will only take fifteen minutes once a year to drop a ballot."

Sure enough, that is full time in which to "drop a ballot" (marked "Pure Milk," "Higher Wages," "Shorter Hours," etc.) in a box.

By-the-way, voting for separate issues—as the suffrage pictures always depict female voters as doing—how many votes would each woman be allowed to cast at one time?

Would we have to wait a whole long tiresome year, between votes, on all these really vital questions

How awful it would be, and how terribly hard to decide to which of them to give precedence!

About the time the exercise of the franchise will take, (that is what it means to drop a ballot) of course we would not have to neglect anything very much to give just fifteen minutes a year.

But this is the puzzling part of it.

Our suffrage sisters, when we speak of caring for the children, through all their young tender years (or our spinster sisters, trying to ease and care for the old father or mother during the saddest years of life, the declining years) say to us, "But what do you want us to do when the children are grown, and do not need us any more, sit in a corner and knit."

It seems strange, that doing that which only takes fifteen minutes a year, will fill the gap in life, left by the children growing away from us.

On the other hand, it is of course inconceivable, that women would be satisfield, to do anything as superficial, as to give but fifteen minutes to that which really should occupy their entire time.

It is terribly bewildering, but then it is but one point, in a bewildering, inexplicable whole.

To be quite serious, is it conceivable, that when the present generation of children is grown, all charity, social and welfare work will be a thing of the past?

Will there be no more poverty, sickness, sin or ignorance for us to help and comfort and banish?

Or do all suffragists really think, that their only chance of successfully accomplishing these things, will be through becoming members of political parties for each of us will have, to belong to some one party.

Do they really think, that all the good work—increasing in volume daily—being done by women—Suffragists and Antis—is not worth while, because the ballot is not behind it?

As the work increases, so quickly, do the workers appear to handle it.

If the women who feel that life will be empty when the children are gone, if they do not have a vote, will look around at what women are doing now for the world's betterment, they might feel that their fears are groundless.

Look squarely at what Plainfield is doing, and it is no exception in these days of social service.

A vast variety, with extraordinary vigor and efficiency, just a few branches of which might be mentioned here.

The Charity Organization Society, embracing too many branches to enumerate in limited space.

Nursing Bureau, including two visiting nurses, office with the organization.

Day Nursery, under auspices of The King's Daughters.

The Children's Home.

The Fresh Air Camp at Netherwood in summer.

The Open Air School for Tubercular children, one of the many branches being carried on by the Anti-Tuberculosis League.

The free clinics at Muhlenberg Hospital (orthopaedic, dental, eye, ear, throat etc.), in addition to the free beds, for those who cannot afford to pay.

The various branches of work being accomplished by the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

The never flagging efforts of the W. C. T. U.

Needle-work Guild distributing hundreds of new garments annually among the poor.

Churches working independently in a variety of ways, too many to enumerate.

The Parent-Teacher Association doing such work as its name implies.

The Mother's Club, providing the penny lunches to the children of the poor in the public schools, and doing and planning other good works for children.

Day's outings for the poor and aged.

Public Recreation centres with instructors and superintendents.

Municipal Orchestra, dances under supervision in Public School halls.

Town Poor Farm.

Thank God in Plainfield the problem so much talked and exploited needs little or no attention, but each and every woman in any community can do her share towards abolishing "white slavery."

Let every mother do her share by sending out into the world pure-minded, modest, womanly girls, and honorable high-minded, self-respecting boys. Girls sure that mother welcomes every confidence, and will never meet one, no matter what its import, with rebuff or undue severity.

Boys who know that the standard expected of them is on the same plane as that expected of their sisters. Boys who through mother and sisters have learned such reverence for women that they would rather sacrifice their lives, than their honor and manhood, by robbing a woman of her virtue.

One thing more, let every woman old or young, married or single, do it if it ever lies in her power.

Let her help any girl to redeem the first false step, and unless it is a most unusual case, a life will be saved to womanhood from worse than death.

No woman needs more to do her part towards abolishing "white slavery" than a true womanly heart, and the example of Him who said, "Go thou and sin no more."

One thing it is certain will never help her, and that one thing is the ballot.

It is easy to hear the derision from some quarters at the advice to follow, simple woman's methods in doing this great work, but having seen the individual cases aided, having studied the work of Mrs. Vanderbilt's "Big Sister" of sisterhoods and societies beyond number that advice is given with knowledge beyond dispute.

Especially when coupled with the fact that the suffrage States offer us no proof of any improvement in "white slave" conditions, even where women have voted for many years.

Dr. Helen Sumner tells us in regard to intemperance that "Prohibition never gets the women's votes," one of the many excuses which she cites being that "they declare themselves unwilling to waste their vote on what they consider a losing cause."

Remember the hundreds of good works being carried on throughout the country, by women, through woman's influence, with her help and co-operation but without her vote and put against them the following few facts:

All Socialists are Suffragists.

All Mormons are Suffragists.

Prohibition never gets the women's votes in Suffrage States.

You cannot vote wages higher or hours shorter.

You cannot vote away "white slavery."

Yours truly,
R. A. LAWRENCE.

SOME HALLOWE'EN EVENTS IN THE CITY

Dances and Other Festivities Are Enjoyed by the Young People.

Saengerbund Hall was the scene of a merry gathering last night the event being the annual masque ball of the Him, Her and I Club. The enclosure was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

The Oriental Club held its annual ball at Sebring's Auditorium, which literally took on the appearance of a mass of yellow and black as the result of the decorator's art in Hallowe'en trimmings. Souvenirs appropriate to the day were given the guests.

Many young people from the city made up an automobile party and went to New Brunswick to witness the parade and other demonstrations that were given in that city in observance of Hallowe'en. The P. O. S. of A., of Dunellen, also went to New Brunswick in a special car and took part in the parade. While in that city they were the guests of the P. O. S. of A., of that city.

The B. G. Club, of Dunellen, conducted a very successful masquerade and dance in Junior Hall, that borough, over 100 couples enjoying a lengthy program of terpischores. Many original costumes were worn by the guests and the spirit of fun apropos to Hallowe'en was evident at all times.

The Hallowe'en party given at the home of the Misses Estelle and Elizabeth Bittenbender on East Seventh sereet, was in the nature of a double surprise. While the guests gave the Misses Bittenbender a surprise the latter in turn surprised their friends by having elaborate decorations in the cellar which was termed a "maze" where ghosts pranced about and led the company in all sorts of "stunts." There was a witch's tent where fortunes were told and other features. The company marched about the house, out of it and back again. Appropriate Hallowe'en refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Grove P. Hinman.

Miss Elizabeth Smalley gave a barn dance, last night, at her home on Inter-Haven avenue, the borough, to about twenty friends. The barn was decorated with cornstalks, pumpkins, etc., and the usual Hallowe'en refreshments were served.

A Hallowe'en masquerade party was held at the home of Mrs. E. G. Quick, on Central avenue, last night, in honor of Miss Dorothy Quick, about fifty guests attending the affair. The house was decorated in yellow and black and the festivities were appropriate to the Hallowe'en season, games and dancing being the features of the evening, after which refreshments were served.

The Nonpareil Club held a dance at its club house in St. Mary's avenue. Over 100 dancers enjoyed the occasion.

At Meyer's Hall, Scotch Plains, the young people of that village enjoyed a merry Hallowe'en fete, dancing forming the principle diversion during the evening. Hallowe'en decorations were profuse and appropriate souvenirs were given to the guests. Henry Meyer, Miss May Buckley and Willard Marsten composed the committee on arrangements.

Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., entertained many guests at their headquarters, in observance of Hallowe'en. The spirit of the day predominated and the large number of guests thoroughly enjoyed the lengthy program of terpischore that had been arranged. Charles Hartfelder was chairman of the arrangement committee.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of Hope chapel will meet Wednesday afternoon, when the second chapter of "Comrades from Other Lands" will be studied. Miss Jessie Ross will play violin selections. The first social of the season under the auspices of the society was held last Wednesday, when the principle attraction was a playlet entitled, "The Witch of Blackwold." Among those who took part are Miss Elizabeth MacMillan, Miss Ethel Jamieson, Charles Bradford, Robert Heron, Leroy Nelson, the Misses Elizabeth Brown, Martha Williams, Harriet Mortimer and Edith Walls.

Louis Bennett will lead the Young People's Society meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening at 6:50 o'clock.

Rev. W. H. Hicks, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, will preach at New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. He will be accompanied by a number of his members. The Stranger Club of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church gave a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mrs. John Height, 325 Plainfield avenue, last evening. Miss S. W. Moore, the president, arranged the affair.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will attend service in a body at the church tomorrow morning, when Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will preach a special sermon. The subject of the evening discourse at 7:45 o'clock will be "The Peafect Number."

THE ROAD PROBLEM.

The advent of automobile traffic has so changed the problem of road construction that road builders all over the world have been obliged to experiment with various types of pavement in endeavoring to secure one which would meet the conflicting requirements of horse and motor traffic. Many of these pavements promised well, but were not durable, and the excessive cost of maintenance put them out of the competition fo reconomy. As pointed out in Engineering News, "the road is most econmical whose total cost per annum is the least; and the total cost per annum is equal to the interest on the cost of construction plus the annual expense for maintenance, plus an annual allowance for depreciation which will be sufficient to entirely renew the wearing surface of the road at the end of whatever term of years it becomes worn out so that its complete renewal is necessary." It is well to remember that an annual expenditure of four cents per square yard for maintenance will pay the interest on an additional investment of one dollar per square yard in the first cost of the pavement.

The wearing out of macadam pavements by the traffic conditions to which they are now subjected, is not peculiar to this State or country, and it is interesting to learn what is being done elsewhere to cope with these new conditions.

The International Road Congress at London last June agreed that high speed, light motor vehicles rapidly destroy waterbound macadam roads, but do not cause serious or exceptional wear or damage (except on curves) to roads properly treated with some bituminous material.

In an address before the American Road Congress at Detroit, Col. W. D. Sohier, Chairman Massachusetts Highway Commission, tells us that France has one of the best systems of roads in the world as far as location, etc., are concerned, but where there is much motor vehicle travel, their macadam roads are deteriorating just as fast, apparently, as our own roads are. On many of the roads, especially near Paris, they are using bituminous binder, either as a surface coat or incorporated with the stone.

The patrolmen, with their piles of stone along the road, are still there, but they now generally use tar or some other bitumen with the stones to hold them together. Without this binder, the automobiles soon scatter the stones all over the road. France is spending over $45,000,000 a year for road maintenance, and the Minister of Public Works is now recommending that $50,000,000 additional be provided during the next ten or twelve years for bituminous binder on the national roads.

Col. Sohier states that the English roads are not equal to the French in layout, but that the road surfaces are remarkably good, excepting near the cities, where the motor travel is heavy. Here the roads are full of holes where they have not been treated with tar, but most of them have been so treated.

In California, Engineer Fletcher (formerly in charge of the Massachusetts highways) has adopted for the State roads a four-inch concrete pavement with a thin coating of asphaltic oil and stone screenings, "painted concrete," its opponents call it. This thin pavement was chosen for reasons of economy, and would probably not be recommended for climates less equable than that of California.

In New York State the new Commissioner, John N. Carlisle, finds his department in bad shape and is "cleaning house" with a vigorous hand, reorganizing the entire department. Among other changes he proposes to abolish the patrol system, having instead regularly organized repair gangs, each with a steam roller, pressure sprayer (for asphalt, tar ,etc.) motor truck and full equipment. He seems to favor the use of concrete pavements with bituminous top.

The conditions have been ideal in Planifield until recently for securing macadam roads at a minimum cost. With trap rock of excellent quality close at hand and a soil on which a very thin macadam was sufficient to sustain the light travel of the time, a narrow pavement could be furnished at a very low price. But conditions have changed. The cost of stone and labor are now very much higher than formerly; thicker and wider pavements are required and on some streets, macadam of any kind is entirely inadequate to sustain the traffic.

For Plainfield it seems probable that something at least as durable as a first class brick or asphalt block on concrete must be used for the business streets and main thoroughfares.

For the streets of next importance, the choice might lie between a bituminous macadam and a concrete pavement with bituminous coating. If only a thin coating is used on the concrete, it should be understood that this is not the pavement itself, but only a temporary preservative, needing to be renewed from time to time. In case the thin coating should not be found entirely satisfactory, the same concrete base might receive a heavier top of such materials as Amiesite, Bitulithic or Topeka, which would cost more but would last longer. The bituminous macadam (penetration method) on Netherwood, Jackson, Thornton, Darrow and Compton avenues and on Essex street and Irving place and upon certain parts of West Front street, have proved very satisfactory, the oldest piece having now been down over four years. The results by the mixing method would probably be more reliable and durable than by the penetration method used.

A disturbing question in regard to this type of pavement is the doubt as to how long the bituminous part will retain its "life." This is a question for chemists, and perhaps they cannot always guarantee their predictions so far into the future.

On the remaining streets, good waterbound macadam with bituminous coating of tar or asphalt, the coating to be renewed when necessary, would no doubt give entire satisfaction, as it does now on a considerable number of our streets. It goes without saying that the dirt strips on each side of the sixteen feet of macadam, which are in evidence on so many of our streets, should be macadamized to the gutter lines on all streets of any importance.

Many of the streets need to be resurfaced, and after a few months' use to thoroughly bond the macadam, they can profitably be given the protective coating.

The macadam on some of the older streets is so thin that it is not worth repairing and must be reconstructed from the base up, as was done on East Fifth street between Park and Watchung avenues and on other streets. When such reconstruction is necessary in the central part of the city, the installation of some of the more permanent types of pavement would probably prove more economical than reconstructing with macadam.

This thin macadam is the cause of many of the complaints received, these being especially numerous when the frost is coming out of the ground in the spring.

Contract prices for waterbound and bituminous (penetration method) macadam in Plainfield are about 63 and 86 cents per square yard, respectively. A "Dolarway" pavement, consisting of concrete base with a thin bituminous coating, would cost about $1.40 per square yard, concrete with Amesite top about $1.75 and brick on a concrete base about $2.60 per square yard.

Before any permanent pavement is constructed, the underground structures should be carefully attended to. Existing sewer, water, gas, electric and telephone mains and connections should be repaired, enlarged where necessary, and new ones laid wherever they are likely to be needed within fifteen or twenty years. Plainfield has managed to get along so far with comparatively few storm sewers, by carrying the storm water in the gutters. This is satisfactory until the quantity becomes so great as to be considered a nuisance, when the installation of a storm sewer affords a much appreciated relief.

It has been suggested that an effort be made to secure such legislation as would permit the issuing of ten year bonds for street improvements and allowing the property owners ten years in which to pay their assessments. If this could be done, it is probable that the owners on many streets would petition for better pavements. This is being done in Westfield, where such a law is in effect and where many beautiful streets have been constructed under its provisions, the major part of the cost having been assessed upon the abutting lands. The capable Town Engineer of Westfield, Mr. A. W. Vars, is a resident of this city.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 26.

MY brilliant young friend, Thomas Dreier, editor of "Associated Advertising," the official organ of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, wrote this once upon a time under the caption, "THE WINE OF WORK."

"Get drunk, man, get drunk. Fire your veins with the wine of work. Become drunken with the desire to accomplish, to do, to achieve. All divine messages have come from men drunk with divinity. All great work is accomplished by men drunk with the wine of the desire to labor. Desire is the grape from which the wine of work is pressed. You get what you desire—and in just the measure of your desire. Produce great desires—the rest follows."

Some of us have desires all out of proportion to our willingness to work for their fulfillment. But no man with a sound mind in a sound body and a real desire to work need go without food and shelter and raiment in these days of big opportunities for the willing worker.

Judge Walter Malone, in his able reply to Ingalls' famous poem on "Opportunity," wrote:

"They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win."

Every day, in the Classified columns, opportunities are presented for the consideration of those who are willing to heed the call. All sorts of employers are constantly advertising for all sorts of employes. Capital is seeking labor just as assiduously as labor is seeking fruitful fields of production.

I see hundreds of able-bodied men idly sunning themselves every day, while at home, perhaps, wives and children crave the bare necessities of life. These men say they can't get work. The truth is that they haven't taken enough of the proper sort of wine to become even slightly intoxicated. The man whose veins are fired with the wine of work doesn't make excuses. He gets work.

There are opportunities for every man, every day, in the Classified columns of this newspaper.

A Real Deadly Parallel!

PRIMARY AND ELECTION LAWS

WHAT THE REPUBLICANS DID NOT DO

The REPUBLICAN machine in advertisements claim that the Republican Party passed certain direct primary laws.

It refused to pass direct primary laws for the election of GOVERNOR and CONGRESSMEN and DELEGATES to National Conventions or any CORRUPT ROAD and PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS from contributing to CAMPAIGN FUNDS? It refused to pass laws to safe-guard the registration of voters.

PRACTISES act to PROHIBIT RAIL-

A Boss-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

WHAT THE DEMOCRATS DID

The DEMOCRATIC Party passed the Geran Law and Corrupt Practices Act, by which Governor, Congressmen and delegates to National Conventions are nominated at direct primaries, contributions to campaign funds from railroads and other public utility corporations prohibited, election boards are selected by civil service examinations. The honest voter is protected by requiring signature to registration and other safeguards. Public Laws, 1911, Pages 276 and 329.

PUBLIC UTILITY LAWS

The REPUBLICAN Party claims to have passed a railroad commission act but the act was a SHAM as it did not give the commissioners any jurisdiction or power to ENFORCE their ORDERS and REFUSED to pass any law giving power to the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners to REGULATE RATES charged to the public for service, to supervise operations, to remedy abuses complained of, or to investigate issues of securities so as to prevent stock watering.

A Corporation—Republican Sham and Pacifier.

The DEMOCRATIC Party passed a law giving the Public Utility Commissioners all these powers and plenary jurisdiction over all puble utilities corporations, railroad, trolley, gas, electric, telephone, express, etc., and is saving the users and consumers more than a million dollars annually. Public Laws, 1911, Page 374.

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATORS

The law for which the REPUBLICAN Party claims credit in its advertisement did not make the choice of the people at the polls in any way binding on the members of the Legislature. Candidate Stokes publicly admitted this.

The usual corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

The DEMOCRATS made it compulsory on each candidate for the Legislature upon filing his petition for nomination to state whether or not he would be bound by the popular choice.

Public Laws, 1911, 276 and 288.

EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY

The act which the REPUBLICAN Party claims to have passed in 1909 did nothing more than to state in statute form the old common law. It left the employer still subject to all the dangers of his employment and the employer could set up the defence that the employe was injured through an ordinary risk or danger or through the negligence of a fellow servant. Nor did the law in question provide for compensation to the employe or his family while he was injured.

The usual corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

The DEMOCRATIC party passed a comprehensive employer's liability and compensation act which does away with all defenses by the master in case of injury to the employes, except where the employe wilfully injures himself. It also requires the employer to pay the employe a percentage of his wages while he is incapacitated for the support of himself and his family.

Public Laws, 1911, page 134.

GRADE CROSSINGS

The REPUBLICAN Party opposed laws to abolish grade crossings year after year. Mr. Stokes voted against these bills while he was Senator even when his Republican colleague Senator McCarter introduced them (see minutes of Senate 1900) and he was also opposed to them while he was Governor.

Not even the usual Corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

The law to abolish grade crossings has been placed on the statutes by a DEMOCRATIC HOUSE and SENATE and signed by James F. Fielder as Acting Governor and its passage is principally due to his efforts. Public Laws, 1913, page 91.

JURY REFORM

The REPUBLICAN Party never passed any law to reform the system by which juries are selected although there was a persistent demand therefor. Neither as Senator or Governor did Mr. Stokes support Jury Reform. Not even the usual Corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

The DEMOCRATIC Party Senator Fielder' initiative passed a jury reform bill giving the Supreme Court Judge the right to investigate the names of those drawn for jury service and to strike off objectionable names. Public Laws, 1913, page 803.

FULL CREW LAW

REPUBLICAN Party opposed this bill for fifteen years and Mr. Stokes voted against it as Senator in 1899 (see minutes of Senate 1899).

Not even the usual Corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

DEMOCRATIC Party passed and Acting Governor Fielder signed this bill which requires that every freight and passenger train shall be manned by a complete crew and which was demanded both by the railroad employes and the public for their common safety. See Public Laws, 1913.

BI-MONTHLY PAY FOR RAILROAD MEN

REPUBLICAN Party and Mr. Stokes opposed to this bill which was introduced while he was Governor in 1907. Not even the usual Corporation-Republican Sham and Pacifier.

DEMOCRATIC Party passed and Senator Fielder advocated this bill in the interest of the 60,000 railroad employes of the State, compelling the railroads to pay their employes twice a month instead of once a month. Public Laws, 1911, page 767.

The DEMOCRATIC Party also passed a Women's and Children Employment Law and a Widow's Pension Law.

If you want all these laws reduced to the usual Corporation-Republican Shams and Public Pacifiers, elect Stokes.

Ordered and Paid for by the New Jersey Democratic Committee, 76 Montgomery Street, Jersey City.

YOUNG WOMAN DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Miss Margaret T. Fitzgerald, 23 years old, daughter of Mrs. William Fitzgerald, of 1214 Clinton avenue, died last night following a short illness. Besides her mother, she is survived by three brothers, James William and Joseph Fitzgerald, and two sisters, the Misses Katherine and May Ritzgerald. Miss Fitzgerald was a member of the Children of Mary Society, connected with St. Mary's church and belonged to the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 9:45 at St. Mary's church, where a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

PLAINFIELD ELECTION OFFICERS ARE WARNED

In view of certain difficulties which arose in connection with the administration of the election laws by reason of the failure of election officers to return to the County Clerk the signature copy of the registry of voters the day after election as provided by law, Judge Connolly has made the following announcement:

If all these books are not forthcoming at the time required under the statute, the Court will make an order requiring the election officers thus failing in their duty to appear before the Court and explain why they have not been returned, and unless sufficient explanation can be offered such course will be adopted as shall be thought fit and proper under the circumstances. The Court is inclined to punish all election officers who fail to comply with the Election Laws.

ORDER OF EASTERN STAR CHAPTER ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of Lydia Chapter, Order Eastern Star, an elaborate Hallowe'en social was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Irving Weaver on East Second street. About eighty were present. The guests first assembled in the upper rooms of the house where all sorts of games were played. Afterwards they enjoyed vocal solos by Lewis Weaver and the singing of Southern melodies by a trio comprising Messrs. Weatherby Simpson and Weaver.

At 11 o'clock all marched to the cellar, which was elaborately decorated. Ghosts escorted the guests through the spook-room and then to the witch room, where fortunes were told and to another room where refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. E. W. Poinier, Mrs. W. R. Causebrook, Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard, Mrs. William Dunham and Miss Wilhelmina Vroom.

THEY WANT TO RECOVER LOST MONEY ON MORTGAGE

Heirs of Sarah M. Latimer are suing the executors of the estate to recover money invested in Hotel Netherwood in 1891 and said to have been lost by a mortgage sale of the property. Some of the heirs are now of age and they seek a share of the estate. They are trying to prove that the hotel property is not worth double the amount of the first mortgage in which the money was invester.

The executors, J. Fred MacDonald, William C. Shotwell and Nelson Runyon, through Charles A. Reed, proved yesterday at the hearing in Elizabeth that the property is worth between $150,000 and $185,000 and that the land without the building is worth more than the mortgage. Reuben P. Adams, of Kentucky, an heir of a deceased heir, has brought the suit. He is represented by W. A. Coddington. The case will be continued next Friday.

MRS. KELSO'S FUNERAL.

The funeral service of Mrs. Joseph Kelso was held at the home of George Van Blake, on West Fourth street, last night, Rev. F. D. Tildon, officiating. A quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Lambert, Seymour Van Blake and Mrs. Sarah Pryer rendered several selections and Dr. R. C. Wormley sang a solo. Interment was made this morning in Ottisville, Orange county, N. Y.

JACOB A. RIIS TO SPEAK.

Jacob A. Riis, the well known social worker, will speak before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Hartridge Auditorium, Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock on the subject of "Women's Share in Our Modern Day." As this will be the first appearance of Mr. Riis here in several years, his lecture should prove of unusual interest.

The John Wanamaker Store

Broadway and Ninth, New York

Will Begin on Monday Morning, Nov. 3, Its Fifth

Annual Election Sale of Men's Winter Clothing

1,445 Suits of $30 to $45 Grades at $23.50
855 Suits of $25 to $30 Grades at $18.50
750 Overcoats, $25 to $40 Grades, at $21.50

Burlington Arcade Floor, New Building.

1,350 Suits of $20 to $25 Grades at $16.50

Broadway, corner Eighth.

4,400 Garments

This is a more important sale than any that has preceded--a fixed Metropolitan event originated by the John Wanamaker Store because trade conditions permit it and men's pockets are benefited by it.

During the year one of the oldest and best manufacturing tailoring houses (wholesale) decided to merge its business with another house of very nearly equal standing. Some of the older partners retiring, a turning into cash of stocks on hand and in process, was necessary to permit a distribution of interest.

We were given choice of the stocks because of our quick distributing power—thanks to the men whose confidence in us has given it to us.

We selected 1,400 suits and 1,600 overcoats.

All the suits and 400 of the overcoats are included in this sale; the balance of the overcoats could not be finished in time.

The workmanship in these garments will stand comparison with that of the best tailors in America.

These stocks are supplemented by 2,250 suits and 1,000 overcoats purchased from four other houses whose product we have sold for years, who make the better grades of men's clothing, and who are interested in the success of our efforts to render greater service to a greater number of men.

The values quoted are conservative.

The range of fabrics and styles include all that a man of taste is interested in.

Extraordinary arrangements have been made to facilitate quick and satisfactory service—experienced salesmen from our Philadelphia Store, and 80 other men chosen from several hundred because of their intelligence and knowledge of clothing, will assist our regular force of salesmen; extra space, tailors, fitters and fitting-rooms will be provided; suits and overcoats will be grouped according to sizes; all the stouts will be in one place, with plenty of room for customers.

The business will be large; and since we must make deliveries first to those who purchase first, it will be well to come early.

There will be, as usual, no charge for alterations.

The Sale begins Monday morning next, at store-opening, in The Men's Store, on the Main floor of the New Building, Broadway, Fourth Avenue, Eighth and Ninth (Astor Place Station on the Interborough Subway.)

MRS. COLE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services for Mrs. Missouri Cole, who died in Bonnie Burn, Monday, were held Thursday afternoon, in the home of her brother, William Hurling, 527 South Second street, and later from the Ebenezer Baptist church. The Rev. G. W. Bailey officiated and interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

DR. CARROLL TO PREACH.

Rev. Dr. Charles W. Carroll, who occupied the pulpit so acceptably at the Congregational church, last Sunday, will conduct the service tomorrow morning at the service to be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. There will be communion and the reception of new members.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from the State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 41 degrees 11 a. m., 45 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 48 degrees.

—Daily Press want ads. bring results.

—In "learning to buy" the ad-reading housewife does not seek mere price-concessions. These are sought, of course; but they must apply to goods that would be value at "regular" prices.

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

And want ad-reading servants are of the desirable class.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

It is good to get away from the atmosphere of so much that is prevalent on the stage and see a play that deals with simple emotions and with human beings of normal mold. That is just the feeling you get when you see that delightfully novel comedy, "An Angel Without Wings," which is to be seen at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon and evening. It breathes the healthful spirit of the normal folk who have their joys and sorrows and Lawrence Eyre has told the story of the play in the manner of a Dickens. He has not gone far afield for his characters and he has shown that happiness lies at hand, just as modern thinkers have been striving to impress their audiences. Everything about the presentation is to be complete. Not a thing is required of the Plainfield Theatre management other than the bare walls of the theater, and William A. Brady, Ltd., will see that Plainfield playgoers enjoy a treat in "An Angel Without Wings." They have chosen a cast of players of metropolitan standard including Charles A. Milward, Alice Brady, Florine Arnold, Louise Muldener, George Henry Trader, Hilda Wallace Erskine, Josephine Williams, Aileen Burns, Nick Long, Idalene Cotton and Grace Dougherty. Immediately after seeing one of the rehearsals Arthur Collins, the famous English manager, secured the English rights to the play. He said he was satisfied without seeing any further performances. He plans to stage "An Angel Without Wings" in London during the boxing season.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES for Election

TUESDAY, NOV. 4th. WORTHY OF YOUR SUPPORT

MR. R. A. CLAYBROOK
Candidate for Councilman-at-Large

has lived in Plainfield for a number of years and has always taken an active interest in city and county affairs. He is an experienced business man and is the New York manager of a large Northwestern milling company. He was appointed by Mayor Stewart a member of the Playground Commission of this city, which position he now holds. His platform is: All for Plainfield; Plainfield for All.

HOWARD G. LAPSLEY.

Born in Plainfield
Educated in Plainfield and if elected as Councilman-at-Large will endeavor to help Plainfield do for Others
what Plainfield has Done for Him.

D. H. COLEMAN,
Candidate for Councilman-at-Large

who has been a resident of this city for the past six years, is a native of Derry, N. H., where he was born May, 1869. After receiving a public school education he entered the clothing business, continuing the same up to the present time. For several years he has been manager of the tailoring department of Schwed Bros., one of the oldest and best known clothing firms in this city. Every voter who casts his ballot for this plain Democrat can feel that should he be entrusted with the duties of said office, every public question will be considered in a non-partisan spirit and with a view to the best interest of the city.

F. ENDRESS,
for the Board of Freeholders.

Fred Endress has been a resident of Plainfield for 20 years, is one of the best known business men, and a large tax-payer. Mr. Endress has served for the last two years in the Common Council. He is well posted in city affairs, and has been most partial in his judgment (his record will show). As a candidate for Freeholder we must say that Mr. Endress will give all his time to the office and will conduct same as his own affairs.

PERCY H. STEWART

I am personally acquainted with all the candidates and feel that they deserve the support of the voters. They have my cordial best wishes and endorsement and I hope they will all be elected. PERCY H. STEWART.

MR. J. J. CALLAHAN,
for the Board of Freeholders

Mr. J. J. Callahan was born and educated in Plainfield. He is associated with his father in the butcher and grocery business; a highly respected and an ideal candidate for Freeholder —a business man for a business administration.

THEODORE A. MARTIN
Councilman for the First Ward

Theodore A. Martin has resided in Plainfield for the last twenty years. He served in the Spanish-American War; after that he served for three years in the Plainfield police department with honor.. For the last 7 years Mr. Martin has conducted a flourishing express business. He is a highly respected business man and stands for a progressive business administration.. Being familiar with the needs of Plainfield, he will make an ideal and fearless candidate for councilman.

DE WITT C. IVANS

FOR

COUNCILMAN

From the Second Ward

STEPHEN HAFF,
Councilman for Third Ward.

Stephen Haff was born in this city 34 years ago; he was educated in the public schools and later engaged in business in New York, commuting from Plainfield, which has always been his home. Five years ago he organized the well known Ritz corporation of which he is vice president and manager. Under his management this business has developed into one of the most active and flourishing enterprises in Plainfield. Mr. Haff's experience as a local business man makes him a valuable asset as a candidate for the Common Council.

J. H. COYLE,
Councilman for the Fourth Ward has been a resident of Plainfield for the past eleven years, where he has been connected with the Levgar Structural Co., at Dunellen, in the capacity of superintendent. Previous to coming to this city Mr. Coyle was in charge of the structural department of the Levering & Garrigues Co., located in Philadelphia. Mr. Coyle has always taken an active interest in city affairs, and if elected to this office will endeavor to give the people of Plainfield an economic and business-like administration.

JOHN P. OWENS,
Democratic Candidate for City Judge,

is a former pupil of St. Mary's School. He also attended St. Peter's College, Jersey City, and Seton Hall College, South Orange, from which institution he graduated in June, 1898, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Two years later he was honored with the degree of Master of Arts. He pursued his legal studies at New York Law School, and was admitted to practice as an attorney in November, 1900, and as a counselor at law in November, 1907. He has been engaged in the general practice of law in the city of Plainfield for the past ten years. He stands for an equal administration of justice.

Be sure to mark X before his name on Tuesday.

Take Care of the Shoes.

Nothing make a child look shabbier than uncared for shoes. Nothing makes him look in good condition more quickly than well cared for shoes do.

So look to the condition of the children's shoes. And, likewise, remember the same remarks apply to the grown-up portion of the family as well as to the children.

In English middle-class families a woman servant considers it part of her duties to black and clean the shoes. In this country the servants do not consider boot blacking part of their work. Moreover, in this country, more and more, the keeping of a servant is not considered a necessity by many persons in comfortable circumstances. Labor-saving machinery of various sorts has made housekeeping easier and many women prefer to do their own work, with the assistance of various labor savers, to putting up with the troublesome faults of the ordinary servant.

To get back to the boot problem: It is well to have some system about keeping shoes in order. One child might make it his duty to keep the family boots and shoes clean and bright. Or several children could do the work for a week at a time turn and turn about.

Whoever looks after the shoes, the equipment for keeping them clean and bright should be good. There should be liquid polish, for fine kid. This sort of polish is useless for boys' shoes and for heavy calf shoes of any sort. For these there should be good black shoe paste, and a firm felt and bristle brush. Then there should be white cleaning paste of some kind. There is now a liquid whitener that is easy to use. Some of the cakes of cleaning sand soap can also be used successfully on white shoes. A few strips of canton flannel or old felt for polishing are also good. Then there should be tan polish, varnish for heels, buttons and needles attached to shoe thread.

There should be a covered box in some comfortable, convenient place which contains these supplies, and by it there should be a strip of burlap or carpet to put the shoes on. A bench or stool or low chair should be part of the equipment.

Remember that well cared for shoes are an economy. Care lengthens the life of a shoe. And beside, a well cleaned and polished shoe, even if it is shabby, can be worn for a much longer time than one that is dirty as well as shabby.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Perhaps one of the strangest things about the way in which the advocates for equal suffrage argue is the way in which they calmly ignore any arguments advanced by their opponents which they do not find easy to answer; and also the way they distort telling arguments against their side. For instance, "Good Housekeeping" for November, in an editorial announcing a series of articles by Mrs. Pankhurst, speaking of womment's voting, says:

"Many women—millions of them—do not want the vote. They see in the entrance of their sex into politics the certain breaking-down of ideals that make life at its best fine and noble. They are sure that the woman who goes to vote will lose that quality of womanliness that makes queenly her dominance in her own circle. They see no gain to either society or the individual that can offset the loss of the reticence bred by ages of indifference to and aloofness from public affairs. Their argument is that the vote will only be increased absolutely, without indication of that discrimination which alone seems to justify the admission of a new class to the privileges, rights, and duties of the suffrage. 'The good women will be outvoted by the bad,' they say, 'because all the bad women will refuse to meet them at the polls.' And added to their feeling that the vote will not be gainful but the reverse, they shrink from meeting strange men while performing a duty new to themselves, but accustomed to the men through generations of expectation and observance.

"What these women do not see is that the good women far outnumber the bad and that by the vote they should in time give all women a better chance of staying good; that refinement of character is innate and need not be lost at the polls; that the educated woman is everywhere taking her place with man and should be able to vote intelligently; that the power of the vote puts in women's hands the possibility of enforcing a higher idealism than has ever yet been invoked in the conduct of affairs without the home. Today the women urge, petition, and plead; with ballots in their hands they can form the balance of power on any side of purity when it is assailed or force the acceptance of any measure intended for the common good. They can take the children from the mills and put them in the school. They can keep the woman of death from the street, safeguard the little traveling sister, close many an avenue that leads enticingly to sin. These things the timid, fearful women do not see—do not want to see."

Now, any candid person who has heard or read much of this movement knows that while the above may give some of the arguments which some of those opposed to woman suffrage use, they are by no means the ones on which most emphasis is placed.

It does seem to many of us that this urgent demand for the ballot is not having a very good influence on the women most prominent in the movement. Republicans or Progressives would hesitate to distribute their own literature at the doors of a hall in which the Democrats were holding a mass meeting.

Democrats would certainly not choose to hold a street meeting in front of Republican headquarters. Yet the women demanding the vote do these things without a qualm. Even this little invasion of the political field seems to have destroyed their sense of the fitness of things.—But this is an illustration merely, not an argument.

The reason which is most potent in animating the anti-suffrage movement is the fact that we, who oppose the suffrage, feel that we shall be throwing away a power which every day shows we possess; that in gaining the vote, we shall have bartered our birthright for a mess of pottage. And this does not mean, as the suffragists so often insist it does, that we depend on an undesirable personal influence for securing legislation. No, we go openly to our legislators, knowing what we want and why we want it, having studied the subject thoroughly, and our men, knowing we have no political favors to ask, grant the reforms we demand. This to me is an unanswerable argument against woman suffrage, and in the words of an article on "Votes for Women," in the Press for Wednesday, October 29: "By their fruits they are known."

The mere fact that good laws are enacted in the equal suffrage States might be an argument for equal suffrage, were it not for the indisputable fact that many of the male suffrage States have equally good laws for the protection of women and children; that New York and Massachusetts have the best child labor laws in the Union (best not only in the statute books, but best also in the enforcement) by the testimony of Owen Lovejoy, of the Child Labor Commission, himself a suffragist, that New York showed Colorado how to get an equal guardianship law; that Massachusetts is the first State to have a minimum wage commission; that Wisconsin has a code which is held up by social workers as a model for the other States; and that everywhere the people are seeking to remove the heavy burdens that oppress the less fortunate of our people, especially the women and children.

We are awakening to the idea that not only water and forests, but also human life must be conserved, and that conservation to be effectual must begin at the beginning of life. And it is in a male suffrage State that the first maternity law was passed.

If only all the good, earnest women would stop their snatching after the shadow and use the real power that is in their hands, the conditions which so appeal and grieve us now would be materially improved.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WITH ODDS AND ENDS.

THE scraps that are left from meal to meal should be used in concocting new dishes. The art of serving them should be studied. The shells and little china cases which one can purchase quite cheaply make a made up dish look most tempting and appetizing.

Minced Meat.

Rissoles of Minced Beef.—Take one-fourth pound short puff paste and one-half pound minced beef. Prepare the pastry, cut out in circles three inches in diameter, place a dessertspoonful of the mince in the center of each, fold these over and pinch the edges and fry in deep fat a golden brown color. Dish and garnish with parsley.

Meat In Batter.

Cold Meat In Batter.—Take one-fourth pound flour, one-fourth pint milk, one egg, salt and pepper, pieces of cold meat or poultry. Prepare a batter with the flour, milk and egg; season with salt and pepper. Dip the pieces of meat in the batter and fry in deep fat until nicely browned. Dish and garnish with parsley and baked tomatoes.

Meat and Tomatoes.—Take some slices of cold underdone beef and lay them in a buttered baking dish, add a layer of sliced tomato, a layer of sliced potato and a teaspoonful of chopped onion; season with salt and pepper. Repeat this until the dish is full. Add a teacupful of gravy and sprinkle the top layer with breadcrumbs. Bake for half an hour and serve.

In a Potato Mold.

Mold of Cold Meat.—Take one and one-half pounds cooked potatoes, one ounce butter, one-half pound minced meat, salt and pepper, one-fourth pint brown sauce, one egg, browned crumbs and parsley. Butter a deep cake pan and sprinkle freely with browned crumbs. Rub the potatoes through a sieve or mash them with a fork, add to them the melted butter, half the egg, salt and pepper. Line the cake pan an inch in thickness with the potato mixture. Brush over the inside with the remainder of the egg. Bake in oven until nicely browned. Prepare a brown sauce and place the minced meat in this to heat. Turn the potato shape carefully out of the pan, first on to one hot plate and then reversing it to another to get the hollow side uppermost. Fill the potato mold with the mince, garnish with parsley and serve.

The Blackbird Nipped Her Nose.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Old Mother Goose's Funny Clothespins.

"THERE, now; keep quiet," daddy warned. "I'm thinking—thinking up a story."

Jack and Evelyn's little tongues were still at once.

"Did you ever hear about the time that Mother Goose had a washing day?" daddy asked, as he gazed out of the window at the white clothes swinging on the line.

Jack and Evelyn had not heard, but were very anxious to know about it. So daddy began:

"It isn't often that Mother Goose does the washing, but when she does all the Mother Goose people offer to help her. They have a busy time. Even the queen takes off her crown, tucks up her skirt and offers to help.

"Simple Simon gives up fishing for the day and carries water in his pail. Little Boy Blue helps him. The Three Wise Men of Gotham lend their bowl for Mother Goose to make starch in. The three men in the tub lend their tub.

"One washing day the queen sent the maid out into the garden to hang up the clothes. 'She's not much use as a laundress,' her majesty said, 'but she can hang up clothes.'

"The maid had just stretched a nice clean towel on the line, when down came the blackbird and nipped at her nose.

"The maid screamed so loudly that every one ran to see what was the matter.

"'That horrid blackbird!' exclaimed the queen. 'It does love to tease her. Whenever she hangs out the clothes it flies down and nips at her nose.'

"'Oh, the poor thing,' they sympathized, while Little Bo-Peep bathed the poor nipped nose in hot water to keep it from swelling.

"'That's the reason her nose has never grown any,' explained the queen, as the maid wept and wrung her hands and said soon she would have no nose left.

"'Just hang the rest of those clothes on the line,' Mother Goose said, and in a minute every one was hanging up clothes.

"The blackbird and some of his cronies were loafing up in a tree.

"'Blackbirds, blackbirds, no longer free,
Hop on the clothes lines, be clothespins for me,' called Mother Goose.

"Well, just as soon as she said those words each bird had to fly down and perch on the clean garment so the wind couldn't blow it away.

"And when they saw the birds gravely perched in a line every one cried out with admiration at Mother Goose's cleverness."

A SMART TRANSPARENT TUNIC BANDED WITH FUR

Transparencies of all sorts are modish. Wired, fur edged tunics, blouses that are merely one width of chiffon over another and touches of lace on everything. With the return to favor of the pannier and the flounce, lace has come into its own again. Metal laces are especially fashionable. These are not entirely metal, but bits of the pattern are worked out in threads of gold and silver. Trimmings of mousseline and net on which odd designs in silver or gold threads are worked, etc. A bit of gold on a frock is very effective and very new.

In 7706 the tunic is of chiffon over a supple liberty satin. The edge is wired and banded with fox dyed to match. A fine wire also outlines the frill of lace at the throat, giving the slightly bouffant effect which marks so many of the season's evening gowns.

This model may be copied in size 36 with 6¼ yards of 36 inch material with 2⅞ yards of contrasting material or lace.

An overblouse and an overskirt pointed on each side make 7988 distinctive. A figured silk in which there were several softly contrasting colors and a wide Roman sash add further to the gown's effectiveness.

Size 36 in this design may be made with 7⅜ yards of 36 inch silk.

No. 7706—sizes 34 to 42.

The Embroidered Sash Is the Style Note of the Season.

Broad sashes of bright colored ribbons or silk are very much in vogue this season. The ends are usually decorated in beads, gold or silver cord or a combination of these gay sashes are often the only touch of bright color used on a somber gown and, if one has a number of these sashes, of different colors, they will give the appearance of having many dresses. Sashes of this type are also to be worn on the suits, this winter. These are tied at the back.

You could not make more attractive Christmas gifts for your girl friends than sashes of ribbon or crepe de chine decorated in this way. Pattern No. 14579 includes five motifs for braid and embroidery, which may be used on sash-ends, for catching up the folds of a draped garment or for making attractive hat trimmings. These motifs, carried out in rope silk, silver or gold thread and beads, would be appropriate for use on evening gowns or girls' party frocks. Chain-stitch, cable-stitch, snail-trial and couching may all be used instead of braiding for developing these motifs. Theatre bags and purses of velvet, moire silk broadcloth and satin are smart decorated in these motifs in cut leather or beads.

The rose motif is one-half by four inches; the conventional design, four by three and one-half inches; the long design for cord, three by six and one-half inches; the shield shaped design three and three-fourths inches and the oval design, two and one-half by four inches. Three transfers of each design are included in the pattern.

The pattern will be supplied to readers for 10 cents.

FROM THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

THE BUICK CAR

The Valve-in-The-Hand Motor The Reason Why of Buick's Greater Speed and Power.

The motor is the most intricate and expensive single factor in the construction of an automobile, representing in round numbers one-quarter of the cost of the finished product. With an electric self-starter built in, it represents even more. So much for money-worth. In point of service possibilities and general satisfaction, the motor represents more nearly 75 per cent. of any automobile's value.

Intensely significant, therefore, is the big feature of Buick construction—the overhead valve motor. Such an engine, not by theory but by the actual proof of over 150,000 Buicks now in use, develops from 15 to 20 per cent. more power than engines of any other type, of similar bore and stroke. The importance of this fact is worthy of a more detailed description.

An internal combustion motor operates by the conversion of a gas into energy through the medium of combustion. Unless every possible heat unit afforded by the act of combustion be conserved, the power stroke will suffer in direct ratio. Every possible chance for heat leakage must therefore be eliminated, if full power is to be obtained from a gas motor. A theoretically perfect engine would be one in which an extremely high temperature could be maintained in the metal cylinders. It is not practicable, however, to operate any mechanical device, especially a motor cylinder, when its surface is superheated; consequently some cooling device must be provided. In the case of an automobile motor, this is generally done by surrounding the cylinder walls with a hollow casing or jacket filled with water, which is kept in circulation and cools the cylinder walls uniformly. Yet in such cooling, many of the heat units are necessarily destroyed and wasted. The smaller the surface of cylinder walls which must be so cooled, the nearer a motor approaches the ideal.

The amount of cylinder surface in the three types of motors now in common use may be roughly shown by comparing them to the letters T, an inverted L and I. The first is called the T Head, the second the L Type and the third the Overhead or Valve-in-the-Head motor. In the last mentioned type the cylinders have no arms or pockets; consequently they present the least surface to the cooling agent and lose, therefore, fewer heat units. On the other hand, in the "T" or "L" types, where side pockets are cast on the cylinders for inserting the inlet and exhaust valves the combustion chamber is enlarged by the exact amount of extra surface in these pockets; and these surfaces must be as perfectly water-jacketed as the remainder of the cylinder wall. The result is a greater amount of cooling surface, which is continually giving up many heat units wastefully. The straight cylinder of the overhead type avoids this, and consequently in the same size cylinder is able to develop greater power.

Apart from its saving of heat units, the Valve-in-the-head type of motor has other superiorities. All motors must depend for their power upon the expansion of the compressed gas in the cylinders. This expansion is obtained by the firing or the burning of the gas under compression, and the rapidity with which this operation is performed and the greater its completeness, the more powerful will be the pressure developed against the head of the piston. It is this pressure of the exploding gas against the piston head that produces all the power of automobile motors.

A quick and complete explosion is therefore of prime importance. One of the first essentials to this is that all points in the combustion chamber be brought as nearly as possible to the point at which the flame is passed into the compressed gas; in other words, as nearly as possible to the points of the spark plug. This can be done only in a cylinder of the Buick type of construction. As a matter of fact, the distance from the points of the spark plug to the farthest point in the combustion chamber in the Buick motor is less than one-half that found in a "T" head motor of equal size; and some of the manufacturers of the latter type have even been forced to use two spark plugs, one at each end of the combustion chamber, in order to secure the same results Buick obtains with its Overhead and single plug. The disadvantages of doubling number of spark plugs are too obvious to need further mention. In the "L" type, as ordinarily constructed, the spread of flame must pass through the gas from the sparking points across the cylinder and around into the side pocket over the exhaust valve. This is necessarily a slower process of combustion, and there is a corresponding loss of power.

Therefore, as the gas expansion depends upon the rapidity of flame propagation, or, as commonly called, the explosion, it can be seen that the Overhead valve motor possesses an important advantage over both other types.

There are also additional advantages. Not only does the explosion in an Overhead valve motor prove more positive, but it cleans or scavenges the cylinders of burned gas more completely on the exhaust stroke of the piston. This is due to the fact that the exhaust stroke forces the burned gas straight out through the exhaust valve at the top of the cylinder, and not from the cylinder through a pocket and thence out. In the pocket type a certain part of the old gas remains after the exhaust valve closes. The dead gas that stays in the pocket of the motor cylinder is thus mixed with the fresh gas introduced through the inlet valve on the next charge, reducing it in amount and causing deterioration in quality. No such condition is possible with the Overhead valve. The fresh charge finds a perfectly clean cylinder. It fills it to the fullest capacity with clean gas, and this naturally produces a greater exansion and a corresponding greater piston pressure when fired.

HOW TO GET AUTO MOTOR WORKING IN ZERO WEATHER

Motorists living in the northern and central States are looking forward with some anxiety to the advent of cold weather and its effect on the manner in which the present grades of gasolene will vaporize when the crank is applied to a cold motor.

Some up-to-date information on cold-weather starting has been developed during the past summer by experiments made in cold storage under the auspices of the Studebaker engineers.

It was ascertained that the lowest temperature at which gasoline would vaporize from a piece of waste, soaked in the fluid and dropped on the floor, was five degrees above zero. At this temperature the Studebaker "Six" used in the tests started handily on the first turn of the electric cranking system. Below this temperature, however, the gasoline in the carburetor refused to vaporize. Naturally, no explosion could be secured from the motor.

For the advantage of the motorist who occasionally finds himself around zero several tests were made, the gasoline readily responding to any external application of warmth. The most effective, as well as the most simple, plan was to place a rag, soaked in hot water, over the intake. The car had been left over night in the cold storage apartment with the temperature at twelve below zero. In the morning the rag was applied and the motor started promptly on the first turn of the electric cranking apparatus.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—In the Tuesday elections Massachusetts and New Jersey will choose governors and other State officers. Maryland will express its choice for a United States senator, while New York and several other States will vote for minor officials and members of the Legislature.

Congressmen will be elected to fill vacancies in the Third district of Massachusetts, Third district of Maryland and the Thirteenth and Twentieth districts of New York.

These congressional elections, together with the State elections in Massachusetts and New Jersey, are focusing national attention to a remarkable degree for an off year.

But attracting even more popular attention than the State elections is the mayoralty contest in New York city, where a formidable opposition has united under the Fusion standard in an effort to defeat Tammany Hall.

Of much local interest and importance, also, are the municipal elections to be held in Philadelphia Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville and a number of other cities. In nearly all of these municipal contests the reform question is a dominant issue.

Final arguments in the Government suit for the dissolution of the International Harvester Company, capitalized at $140,000,000, will be heard in the United States Circuit Court at St. Paul, Monday. Attorney General McReynolds will appear in person to insist that the stock of the corporation, if dissolution is ordered, shall be disposed of under such stringent provisions as will make impossible a joint control of the component companies of the corporation at any future time.

The little Republic of Panama is preparing to celebrate on Monday the tenth anniversary of its independence from Colombia and coming, as it does, soon after the turning of water into the Culebra Cut, there is likely to be a continuous round of celebrations lasting for some time.

The hearing of Harry W. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, is scheduled to take place Wednesday before a United States Commissioner in Indianapolis. The charge against Jones is conspiracy to transport explosives illegally, which is the same charge on which President Ryan and thirty-seven other officials and members of the union were convicted and sent to prison some months ago.

Leading social purity workers of the world will assemble in Minneapolis Friday, to attend the seventh international congress of the World's Purity Federation. The congress will continue its sessions for five days.

Buick

The Reason for BUICK Superiority

A BUICK automobile must be so built that it will, at all times and under all circumstances, give the owner uninterrupted use of his investment.

Every BUICK owner is entitled to, and will receive prompt and efficient service---the kind that will insure him the motoring pleasure he expects.

BUICK reputation, so pre-eminently firm and fair, was not won by chance, but is due to the policy established with the production of the first BUICK car and so consistently adhered to ever since---that of giving the owner the maximum service for the minimum of cost.

No matter what its price, a BUICK car must, and will, give the maximum of that service for which it was intended, and must bear its proportion of the responsibility of maintaining that high prestige which BUICK cars have attained.

The true significance of the slogan, "When Better Automobiles Are Built, BUICK Will Build Them," is manifested to its fullest possible extent in the 1914 line described.

1914 Buick Model B 36—A Roadster of rich lines and handsome appointments. Complete in every detail necessary to make an ideal roadster. 112-inch wheel base; 35 actual H. P.; 34x4 tires; complete Delco equipment—$1235, F. O. B. Flint.

1914 Buick Model B 55—The New Buick Six—Replete with the most approved ideas in construction and comfortable equipment. Carrying everything an up-to-the-minute six-cylinder car should. 130-inch wheel base; 48 actual H. P.; 36x4½ tires; complete Delco equipment—$1.985, F. O. B. Flint.

Buick Nineteen Fourteen

BUICK motor cars for 1914 are still being built around the famous Overhead Valve Motor; differing somewhat in appearance from the handsome models of 1913, but identical in performance with the Buicks of the past. Changes have been few—but refinements have been made and details added for greater beauty and convenience, including the handier left-side drive and the simpler center control. But the fundamentals of Buick construction are unchanged—unchangeable.

In addition—the Delco System of electric self-cranking and lighting is built into every motor as an integral part and is included without additional cost.

A year ago, when untried, unproved self-starters were being bolted onto many an excellent car in any avaliable place—a source of bitter disappointment in thousands of cases—the Buick management took a firm stand. It announced that no self-starter would be incorporated in any Buick car until a starter had been found as good as the Buick car itself.

Such a starter is the Delco and the Delco installation in the Buick is something you may rely upon as a fulfillment of the Buick ideals, which means "uninterrupted use of his investment" to every Buick owner.

All this at a cost which makes the self-starting, automatically lighted Buick of 1914 the greatest motor car value offered this season.

There is a reason for this super-value; Buick cars are built in the Buick plant, in such numbers that literally hundreds of economies are effected in the necessary operations of casting, forging, machining, testing, assembling, etc.; and when completed, Buck cars are trustworthy and reliable, for every operation is Buick's own and nothing is left to chance or outsiders.

The factory savings and service savings effected by this gigantic organization and the experience gathered from the 150,000 Buicks that have made good, render it possible today for the Buick Motor Car Company to offer for 1914 a line that challenges comparison.

It has paid to build better cars.

1914 Buick Model B 25—A roomy Touring Car, with wide seats, tastefully trimmed, and refined in every detail. 105-inch wheel base; 28 actual H. P.; 32x3½ tires; complete Delco equipment—$1050, F. O. B. Flint.

1914 Buick Model B 37—A Touring Car of advanced ideas in design and construction, with gracefully curved cowl and wide, deep seats. 112-inch wheel base; 35 actual H. P.; 34x4 tires; complete Delco equipment—$1335, F. O. B. Flint.

Time and reliability are important factors and the ability to deliver merchandise quickly is a trade-making influence that promptly demonstrates itself in any line of business. Buy a Buick No. 4 Chassis with express body and six-foot express top. Price $1350.

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES TONIGHT

Good Contests Scheduled for the Opening of the 1913-14 Season.

N. P. H. S. VS Y. M. C. A.

Hope Chapel Will Play the Mystic Five of Elizabeth—Both Encounters Are Unusually Fast Ones for Opening Tilts.

Basketball players will usher in the 1913-14 court season tonight in two local gymnasiums, a pair of speedy games being carded for the initial night of the five month's performance. North Plainfield High School will take the floor against the Y. M. C. A. Ajax in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at 8 o'clock and after much negotiating Manager George Leighs, of Hope chapel, has signed the Mystic Five, of Elizabeth, to appear in the chapel gymnasium.

Both North Plainfield High School and the Y. M. C. A. are represented by particularly fast teams this season and the contest on the association floor is due to be a red-hot fight for court supremacy. The boroughites and the Y. M. C. A. youths have always been the greatest of rivals and the respective forces both have large bands of supporters both in Plainfield and the borough. The players who will perform as regulars for the borough High School and the association during the coming season will be used tonight in the opening contest. The lineups:

Y. M. C. A.	N. P. H. S.
Moulton	Love
Left forward.
McNamee	Van Mater, Conroy
Right forward.
Gavett	Dunning
Centre.
Brynlarski	Abrams
Left guard.
Glover	Burner
Right guard.

HOPE CHAPEL GAMES.

Two games will be played on the Hope chapel court, the first team pitting its strength against the Mystic Five, of Elizabeth, and the second five will play Watchung. Manager Leighs originally had the Crescent A. C. for the opening opponents but the game was cancelled by the latter manager at the last moment.

The Mystic Five is the same aggregation that was defeated by the Ajax the fore part of last season by a margin of two points and are certain to put up a close fight against the Chapelites. Coach Jack Martin, of the Hope Five, has had a large squad of men out at the regular practices and has a big field to select his regulars from. The veteran players have all returned and the following list of players will probably all get into the game tonight. The lineups:

HOPE CHAPEL	MYSTIC FIVE
J. Heron	Johnson
Left forward.
T. Heron	Mead
Right forward.
Doig, Schott	Menger
Center.
Leighs, G. Snyder	Kaller
Left guard.
A. Snyder, Wardrop	Shonts
Right guard.

SOCCER GUIDE OUT.

Spalding's Official Soccer Football Guide for 1913-14 of the Spalding Athletic Library has just made its appearance. The book this year is more interesting than ever. It contains the new rules which will govern the game during the coming season and a mass of interesting soccer matter which will be appreciated by lovers of the game.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—When a pin is toppled over in a bowling game when a "dead pin" is being removed, does the pin count or does it have to be respotted?—J. C.

Answer—During the past three years there has been a rule placed in the bowling code which calls for the respotting of such a pin.

Answer—January, snowdrop; February, primrose; March, violet; April, daisy; May, hawthorne; June, honeysuckle; July, water lily; August, poppy; September, morning glory; October, hops; November, chrysanthemum; December, holly.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where is the home for deaf and dumb people in this State—B. S.

Answer—The school for the deaf is located in Trenton and is open to deaf residents of the State between the ages of six and twenty-one years.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When does the hunting season open?—S. P.

Answer—November 10.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has any person ever gone over Niagara Falls and lived?—P. T.

Answer—The feat has been accomplished twice. On both occasions the persons used barrel-like devices constructed so that is was possible to breathe and their bodies were so secured that they managed to escape serious injuries. Mrs. Anna Taylor succeeded in performing the feat on October 25, 1901, and Bobby Leach, at that time a resident of Plainfield, did the trick on July 25, 1911. Leach was formerly proprietor of a local lunch wagon and his barrel was on exhibition for some time on the porch of the Hotel Iroquois.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A man sells a watch for $47.25 and made as many per cent. profit as the watch cost in dollars. How much did the watch cost?—N. E. V. A.

Answer—It looks as though you were trying to put something over. Candidly we believe you know the answer. We find that the watch cost $35 and the man cleaned up thirty-five per cent on the transaction.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who is the judge of the Plainfield District Court? Who is the clerk?—C. F. L.

Answer—Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., is the judge; and Horace G. Adams is the clerk.

'RUS' BEATTY WILL PUT LEFT-HANDED

Great Shot Heaver Has Sustained Permanent Injury to His Right Shoulder.

Russell Lawrence Beatty, formerly of this city and a graduate of Leal's School, who is now captain of the Columbia track team and holder of the intercollegiate shot-put record, probably never will be able to put the shot with his right hand again—at least, with the degree of skill which enabled him to set the intercollegiate record of 48 feet 10¾ inches at Franklin Field a year ago last spring.

Beatty injured his shoulder last fall, and although he rested up during the winter and for the greater part of the spring he was unable to approach anything like his oldtime form in the intercollegiate championships and was beaten by Whitney of Dartmouth.

This fall he consulted a physician and has been told that the injury to his right shoulder is of such a nature that it will probably be permanent, although it will not affect him in any way except in extra effort. Consequently, he is devoting his energies to putting the shot with his left hand. Unless his right shoulder, which is being treated, shows improvement during the coming winter, he will compete in all the meets next spring as a left-handed putter, and also will put with his left hand in the intercollegiate games.

The Columbia athletic authorities feel that he probably will be able to win all of his dual meet contests by left-handed putting, but doubt whether he will defeat Whitney, of Dartmouth, in the intercollegiates next spring.

N. P. H. S. GRADUATES TO PLAY ALMA MATER

Scotch Plains Quintet to Play Boroughites Next Thursday Night.

The basketball season for girls of the Scotch Plains Parish House will be ushered in next Thursday night, a contest having been arranged with the North Plainfield High School feminine quintet for that evening. Strengthened by the addition of the Misses Helen and Ida Hummel, two of the best girl players in the State, the Scotch Plains aggregation will present a formidable front against the fast boroughites and unlike previous years when the quintet in the village has been noticeably weak, the Canadians will have to hustle to win this season.

The two new players on the Scotch Plains team are former members of the North Plainfield High School team and will play against their alma mater for the first time next Thursday night. Their remarkable shooting ability will boost the 'Plains team's chances of victory considerably and it now seems possible, for the first time in the history of Scotch Plains' basketball, that the N. P. H. S. will have its colors lowered by a village aggregation.

COLLEGE TEAMS IN NEED OF KICKERS

Several Star Booters Lost by Graduation.

BAKER IS PRINCETON'S HOPE

Coach Stagg of Chicago University Opines That a School For Kickers Would Develop Good Toe Experts. Eastern and Western Teams Suffer Alike.

Where, oh, where are the football kickers? Where, oh, where can they be?

That is the mournful dirge sung in almost every gridiron headquarters this fall.

The slump in the kicking market is so serious, in fact, that followers of the game are at a loss to explain the reason. Plunging backs and sturdy linemen seem comparatively easy to find, but the men who can drop kick and punt far and accurately are as scarce as Bulgarians in a Turkish prayer meeting.

Lonny Stagg, the well known athletic director of the University of Chicago, believes he has solved the problem for future years, but his plan will not aid him this season.

He is said to have suggested founding a school for kickers, the members ust practice all the year round, indoors in bad weather and outdoors when the elements permit.

Princeton, like Yale and Harvard, has lost its star booter by graduation, and in the west and middle west the same condition exists in many quarters. Harvard, while seriously feeling the loss of the great Sam Felton, has several fair punters to take his place.

No one has been developed at Princeton who could do the excellent kicking that De Witt performed last year. At first the dearth of booting talent wasn't considered important. The coaches busied themselves with the line and the candidates for quarter, and the absence of capable kickers wasn't noticed. But a big shock was forthcoming when the coaches tried nearly a half dozen at booting the ball, and each failed to kick for any creditable distance.

Thoroughly alarmed, the coaches decided to allow Hobey Baker to do the punting for the team, but the Tiger captain so far has been below the Princeton standard. Against Bucknell Baker was outkicked five and ten yards on every exchange, and only wonderful work from the ends gave Princton a slight advantage in this department. This sort of gaining cannot be expected from stronger teams possessing a first class punter.

While weak at punting, Baker numerous times has displayed fine ability at drop kicking. His two goals against Yale last year were from difficult angles, and in other games he has dropped the ball over the bar from almost the edge of the gridiron. At shooting field goals Hobey can probably hold his own with any one in the game, except the ubiquitous Brickley of Harvard, but at punting he falls down lamentably.

In considering the recent work of Yale one is likely to forget that there is a youth named Pumpelly, who is yet to be heard from in the back field. He has been in the hospital. It was this boy who kicked that famous field goal against Princeton which tied the score last year with two other "pony backs." Pumpelly also put a real drive into the Yale attack against Harvard and carried the ball to within striking distance of the Crimson goal, only to lose the chance for a drop kick by the fall of time.

Craig Redmon, the 292 pound Chicago guard, whose excessive weight seems to be the only bar to his rapid progress as a lineman, showed more signs of speed than at any time this season and may help to solve the "sub" puzzle. Redmon has become more solid since the start of the season and now gets away with good tackles without injuring his opponent.

DARTMOUTH IS PROUD OF THESE TWO MEN

If you want to be in right with a Dartmouth man just mention Curtis and Whitney—they are the best football players in that college, and if it were not for them the "green" would never have chased the Princeton "Tiger" off the field.

Curtis and Whitney are backs, and they stand a mighty fine chance of making the all-collegiate team. They have got speed and strength. If you doubt my word ask a member of the Princeton football team.

MAKE MONEY WITH POULTRY

AMERICAN POULTRY is a magazine devoted entirely to helping earnest men and women make a financial success of poultry raising. Its staff of writers is composed entirely of those who have made a practical, instead of theoretical, success of poultry farming, and who are glad to pass on the results of their hard earned experience to AMERICAN POULTRY readers.

There are many pit-falls in the path of the novice which may be entirely avoided by those who will follow the teachings set forth in this magazine. It fully explains how to make a start, how to construct houses, coops, and other devices, how to get a large egg yield, how to cure and prevent disease, how to exhibit, how to get the top price for eggs, how to use incubators and hundreds of other points which everyone wishes to know. It explains the famous secret system through which poultrymen have become rich and afterwards sold for hundreds of dollars.

AMERICAN POULTRY is a large, handsomely illustrated, monthly journal, well printed on fine paper, and should be found on file in the home of every poultry lover. No beginner in the poultry business should think of being without it. It will save him many times the small subscription price. The advanced poultryman will also find it of great value; the articles being varied in their scope.

SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of AMERICAN POULTRY is 50c per year, but in order to introduce it to several thousand new readers, we will, for a short time, give a large 200 page poultry book, which is a complete guide in the poultry business, absolutely free to everyone sending 50c for a yearly subscription or $1.00 for a three year subscription to AMERICAN POULTRY. A trial six months' subscription (without book) will be sent for 25c. Never has so much been offered for so small a sum. Advantage of this offer should be taken at once.

EXPOSES FAKES OF STOKES' MEN

Lying Advertisement of G. O. P. Managers Bared by Democratic Nominee.

DECEIVING THE VOTER

Last Hour Attempt of Republican Bureau to Fool the People Denounced By James F. Fielder, Candidate for Governor.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Nov. 3.—Gov. Fielder and his party are touring Salem county today, his first stop being at Norman. In his speech he went immediately into the advertisements Stokes' managers have put out, charging the closing down of industries on account of the tariff.

The Governor said in part: "I see that Mr. Stokes, notwithstanding his statement of a few days ago that National issues were not involved in this campaign and his refusal to discuss National issues when challenged to do so by Congressman Glass now at the eleventh hour tries to inject those issues into the campaign. In Saturday evening's papers and in todays' papers there appears advertisements by Mr. Stokes' Campaign Committee alleging that the tariff is prostrating American industries. In order to give the statement the color of truth, the advertisement purports to give the names of several plants, namely, the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, the Camden shipyards, the Camden Iron Works and the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works, on which large numbers of men are alleged to have been laid off the week before last. I have had all these statements investigated by thoroughly reliable men and find that there is not a vestige of truth in any of them, the statements that the new tariff has affected or is affecting business, either in the concerns mentioned or any other concerns, is without any foundation whatever. It is not true that the Baldwin Locomotive Works laid off a large number of men nor is it true that the Camden Shipyards or Camden Iron Works have discharged a large number of men. The fact is and this statement is supporter by the affidavits of reputable citizens of Camden and members of the Board of Trade that the Camden Shipyards and Camden Iron Works up to three weeks ago ran only a day force and that three weeks ago a night force was put on in addition and it is running night and day to its full capacity. The same is true of the Camden Shipyards. It is running its night force and day force continually.

W. L. Saunders, president of the Ingersoll-Rand Works, another of the companies which the Republican machine advertisement refer to, states under his signature that the statement of Mr. Stokes' Campaign Committee in Saturday's papers that three hundred men were laid off last week and 300 more men would be laid off next week on account of the Democratic tariff, is absolutely without any foundation whatever, and that their business will not be affected by the tariff. The Stokes advertisement also claims that 8,000 men were discharged in Buffalo as a result of the low tariff.

Authentic information obtained from the editor of the Buffalo Times says that this statement has absolutely no basis and is devoid of truth that no men have been laid off in Buffalo on account of the tariff. The same advertisements stated that men were being laid off by the railroads. This statement is made out of the same cloth as the other statements.

"I was informed yesterday by A. E Ruffer, assistant superintendent of the Erie Terminals, that more cars are being moved in their yards at the present time than at this time last year and the business of their New Jersey divisions showed an increase. The same is true of the Lehigh Valley and the other railroad terminals, which show an increase in the business of the railroads of this State. I call the attention of the people of the State to this eleventh-hour attempt to fool the voters by making misrepresentations that the tariff has affected business. You will note in the Stokes advertisement that the claim that men were laid off in the plants mentioned the week ending October 25, it is conclusive evidence to everybody that the statement is false, because if this were the fact they would not have waited from October 25 until the day before election to give the news to the public. But it seems to me affect which ought to put the earmark of fraud upon this advertisement of the Stokes committee is that neither in Camden nor in Phillipsburg, the two places in this State where the advertisement stated that men had been laid off, the Camden Shipyards and Iron Works and the Phillipsburg Ingersoll-Randall Works, they did not dare to publish the advertisement in any of the papers in those cities, while it is published in the papers

PERSONAL INCIDENT IN LIFE OF COLBY

Story Told by His Brother Shows How Progressive Spirit Benefits Health.

Howard A. Colby, of this city, says that when a frail youth, his brother, Everett Colby, the Progressive nominee for Governor, became imbued with the progressive spirit and in telling the following tale he shows how that spirit has made him a robust champion for the people's rights:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

When I listened to the speech, the other evening, of our Progressive candidate for Governor, and saw him so full of the real Spirit of Life and Power for good it recalled to my mind a time in his boyhood career when he was so frail and delicate that we all thought he would never be anything but a fit candidate for the undertaker, but the progressive spirit of activity pulled him through as it has always done.

As a youngster he did not wax strong like the other boys in the neighborhood, and eventually it was deemed necessary to have a consultation of physicians. I remember it perfectly. They stripped and stood him upon a chair, he was so thin that his little ribs resembled a window shutter, and when I realize that today an X-ray would hardly penetrate to them, I am more and more convinced that this progressive movement and thought in politics must be very good for the health. You will find it hard to discover a sick progressive thinker. It has been proven that it takes more than a .44 bullet to kill a real one. But to return to my brother. After the examination we were informed that he had a serious heart trouble and would have to be very careful for the rest of his life not to do anything violent.

Strict orders had been given that he must not play baseball, lawn tennis or any game where he would be obliged to run. I remember how forlorn it was to see this now husky scrapper sitting on the side lines wistfully watching us boys play ball. Fortunately, however, this was not to last long as the spirit of progress got to work just about this time. One day when he could no longer stand looking at us he asked if I would not let him pitch a few balls at me. I had been told that this was one of the things I must be sure to see that he did not do; but as boys, we figured it out that he might just as well be a "Dead Rabbit" as to sit around limp on a stump all the time, so we went behind a building on the school playground and tossed the ball back and forth. I remember what a great relief it was to my boyish mind that instead of falling dead, a healthy color came into his cheeks which had not been there in many months. He kept this practice up increasing the length of time daily until he could "hammer them in" better than any of the boys. From then on the progressive courage has been continually at work.

Shortly after this he became the regular pitcher on the school nine, and a little later we see our candidate, who was told that he should never do anything violent, captain of his University football team.

What's the answer? Be a progressive and don't listen to people who tell you what you cannot do. Only pay attention to those who tell you what you can do to bring life and health and cheer to all humanity.

HOWARD A. COLBY.

REV. FRANK HIGGINS TO MAKE AN ADDRESS HERE

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Federation off Women's Missionary Societies, a union meeting will be held at the First M. E. church on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 18, at 3 o'clock, when Rev. Frank Higgins, the "Sky Pilot of the Northwest," will make the address. Mr. Higgins is known and loved by the woodsmen from the Adirondacks to Puget's Sound. He is a "man's man, every inch of him" and tells a wonderfully interesting story of the life and work among the lumber-jacks, of whom there are 30,000 in Minnesota alone.

MISS FLYNN BRIDE OF JAS. J. CARROLL

Ceremony at Immaculate Conception Church Somerville Yesterday.

Somerville, Nov. 3.—Miss Kathryn Beatrice Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Flynn, of North Branch, and James J. Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carroll, of Deal Beach, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Somerville, by Rev. Richard Ryan. The attendants were Miss Bessie G. Flynn, sister of the bride, and John Carroll, Jr., brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of King blue chiffon broadcloth and wore a hat to match. The bridesmaid also wore a suit of blue with a black hat.

After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left on the 7:36 train from North Branch for an extended trip through the New England States. They will reside at Deal Beach, where Mr. Carroll is engaged in business. The bride received a large collection of gifts and a check for a large sum from the bride's father.

DR. SAUNDERS NAILS CAMPAIGN CANARD

Republican "Calamity Howling" Advertisement False Statements.

Among the usual crop of eleventh hour campaign canards, the most glaring fake appears today and one for which the Republican State Committee is responsible. In a big display political advertisement appearing in many papers it is alleged that the new Democratic tariff law is prostrating American industries and to bolster up that assertion a list of great industries in this State and nearby, the allegation being made that they have been forced to discharge hundreds of workingmen during the last few weeks.

Prominent mention is given to the Ingersoll-Rand Company, it being stated in the Stokes advertisement that three hundred employes were last week laid off by the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works in Phillipsburg, N. J., This week 300 others will be laid off and the first 300 wll take their places in the works. Six hundred men are thus placed on half time.

Dr. William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, is much incensed over the statement as to his concern and he has asked this paper to deny the Stokes campaign canard for him. "The report that our company has or intends to lay off any workingmen because of the new tariff is a lie made out of whole cloth," said Dr. Saunders. He added that he considered it outrageous to misrepresent conditions at a big manufacturing plant to make political capital and deceive the voter.

STEPHEN HAFF NOMINEE FOR COMMON COUNCIL

Stephen Haff was born in this city 34 years ago; he was educated in the public schools and later engaged in business in New York, commuting from Plainfield, which has always been his home. Five years ago he organized the well known Ritz corporation, of which he is vice president and manager. Under his management this business has developed into one of the most active and flourishing enterprises in Plainfield. Mr. Haff's experience as a local business man makes him a valuable asset as a candidate for the Common Council.

ELECTION RESULTS.

THE DAILY PRESS WILL NOT PUBLISH AN ELECTION EXTRA ON WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The next regular edition will appear at the usual time Wednesday afternoon. It has been found after repeated efforts that it is impossible to present a satisfactory or correct analysis of the vote, and following the example of practically every evening paper in New Jersey, the Press will confine itself to giving a complete and accurate analysis on Wednesday afternoon.

Stereopticon results will be thrown on the screen in front of the Press office as rapidly as the election news is received over our leased wire. Prompt service will be given over the telephone to all inquiries. Call Plainfield 1300 and all question that it is possible to answer will be answered.

MISS MILLAR IS CHARMING BRIDE

Daughter of Alexander Millar Becomes the Wife of Franklin T. Towle.

200 SEE CEREMONY

Miss Bessie Millar Maid of Honor—Lieut. Charles Steese, U. S. A., Best Man—Coupe to Reside in Boston.

Miss Jeanie Louise Millar, daughter of Alexander Millar, of Madison avenue, and Franklin Thompson Towle, of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Towle, of Dochester, Mass., were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's father in the presence of about two hundred guests, including relatives and friends from this city and distant points. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with duchess and rose point lace and she carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and gardenias. The maid of honor, Miss Bessie Fairfield Millar, sister of the bride, wore a white gown with touches of pale pink, and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Marion E. Towle, of Boston, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mildred Gomes, of Westfield, were gowned in pink crepe charmeuse with overskirts of lace and they carried pink roses.

The best man was Lieut. Charles Stees, of Fort Hancock, N. Y., and the ushers were Frank Baker, Elmer Atwood and Alexander Ellis, of Boston, and Harold H. Millar, of this city, brother of the bride.

The ceremony was performed in the large reception room, where the color scheme was green and white. The dining-room was decorated in pink, while in the hall there was a pleasing arrangement of autumn leaves and pale pink chrysanthemums. The wedding march was played by Austin's Orchestra, as the bridal party proceeded to the reception room, and the orchestra also furnished delightful music for the reception which followed.

The decorations by Stanley were effective and pleasing. In the reception room there were palms, and white chrysanthemums, while in the dining-room there were pink flowers with a large center-piece and in the hall, where the musicians were seated, palms and cut flowers were banked in an attractive manner. Throughout the house there was a profusion of southern smilax.

The bride was the recipient of a large collection of beautiful gifts of value and use, which were greatly admired by the guests during the evening. After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Towle will reside in Boston. Mrs. Towle has been prominent here among the younger society set and she has also been greatly interested in the work of the Congregational church, of which she is a member.

Mr. Towle is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and he has been connected with the New England Fire Insurance Bureau. His family is well known and prominent in Boston and vicinity.

EPISCOPAL WOMEN TO MEET.

The fall meeting of the Upper Division of the New Jersey Branch of the Women's Auxiliary, Episcopal church, will be held in St. John's church, Somerville, on Wednesday, and a large representation from the local churches is anticipated. The meeting will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and a feature will be an address by Rev. Dr. A. C. Brown, a returned missionary from Brazil.

A New York Hebrew spellbinder will speak tonight at a Democratic mass meeting for Hebrews to be held at 523-7 West Third steeet. He will speak in his native tongue.

DEMEZA SHOULD GET A LARGE MAJORITY

Friends of Republican-Progressive Nominee Predict Easy Victory for Him.

Friends of William G. DeMeza say that he will repeat his performance of primary nomination day and will sweep the city for the judgeship at the general election tomorrow. John P. Owens, on the Democratic ticket, is his opponent for the office. It seems safe to predict, these forecasters say, that DeMeza will be returned by an overwhelming majority.

As he went before the people in the primary campaign, Judge DeMeza now points again to his record in office as conscientious, impartial and for the best interests of the community.

DeMeza was born in Plainfield and educated in the public schools here. He was admitted to the bar fourteen years ago and gave special attention to criminal practise. He has seen much of life and has a good knowledge of human nature, which is of value in dispensing justice in the police court. He is held in high esteem among his fellow townsmen.

HOW THE HOLIDAY IS TO BE OBSERVED

Stores Will Be Open But Banks Will Be Closed—No Local Newspapers.

Election day will not be generally observed by the merchants of Plainfield. All the dry goods stores and many other shops will be open all day. It being a legal holiday the postoffice will be open until 10 o'clock in the morning, and there will be the usual morning delivery. All the banks will be closed. Holiday hours will be observed at the Painfield Public Library and Reading Room. There will be no local newspapers issued.

The active season will close at the Plainfield Country and Park Golf Club, tomorrow. At the former club there will be a cross-country competition in the morning only, and at the Park Golf Club there will be play for the holiday cup and other special events. However, the courses will be kept open as long as the weather is favorable.

Two gridiron games have been scheduled by local managers, Plainfield High School playing Perth Amboy High School on Parker Field and the Holy Cross eleven lining up against the Trojan A. C., of Elizabeth, on Cricket Field. Both contests will be played in the afternoon.

MRS. DUNAVAN DEAD, HAD LONG BEEN ILL

Wife of Louis M. Dunavan Succumbs to Pulmonary Trouble.

Mrs. Louis M. Dunavan, of West Fourth street, died of pulmonary troubles last night following a long illness. Before her marriage she was Miss Mary Elizabeth Moser, and was the daughter of Mrs. Louise Barber, of Somerville, where she lived until ten years ago. For twelve years she was employed in the office of Justice James J. Bergen, at Somerville.

Mrs. Dunavan was an active member of Trinity Reformed church and greatly interested in the work of the Sunday-school and the Home department. She married to Mr. Dunavan at Somerville ten years ago by Rev. Dr. Cranmer, of that place. She is survived by her husband, a mother, Mrs. Louise Barber and a sister, Mrs. James A. Martin, of this city.

The funeral service will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home of David S. Dunavan, 333 East Front street. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will officiate. The burial will be at Somerville on Wednesday.

ARRESTED FOR INTOXICATION.

James Murtegh, 29 years old, of 186 Grove street, who resisted arrest Saturday night at the hands of Marshal L. Pope on charges of being disorderly and intoxicated, received a suspended sentence of $5 fine, and Charles Drew, of Westfield, who was found helplessly drunk by Marshal Herman and arrested, was fined $5, when arraigned this morning before Recorder Gano in the borough court.

NO PAPER TOMORROW.

The Daily Press will not be issued tomorrow, Election Day. It will appear at the regular hour on Wednesday.

CHAIRMAN CARROLL ASKS 'SQUARE DEAL'

Republican City Chairman Attacks Progressive Position.

The following communication from John J. Carroll, City Republican Commitee chairman, is self-explanatory:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

If there be any one thing which the American people demand it is a "square deal" and if there be any one thing which they despise, it is the crime of hypocrisy.

For years we have heard the cry against so-called bosses; we have heard again and again the cry against the so-called boss ridden conventions, and the demand for some method whereby the voters could express their choice for candidates for various offices. All this protest finally resulted in the adoption of the present open primary law, which enables every one entitled to vote to go to the polls and name his choice for candidates, whom the people are to elect at the following general election.

On September 23 this year there was a primary election at which the candidates to be elected on November 4 were chosen. There were three tickets in the field, the Democratic, the Progressive and the Republican. The Democratic and the Republican tickets had the names of their choice for candidates for the various offices to be filled, printed in full. The Progressive ticket had only two names for local candidates printed, the rest of the places being left blank so that any members of that party could write in the name of his choice for candidates.

In almost every case the Progressives wrote in the names of the candidates already printed on the Republican tickets, thus showing that they found the candidates on the Republican tickets best fitted and qualified for the various offices to be filled on Election Day. In no case did they nominate on their ticket a man named on the Democratic ticket, thereby indicating as plainly as it could possibly be done, that they did not consider any Democratic candidate fit or qualified to fill the office for which he was nominated on the Democratic ticket.

This was the best exemplification of the splendid opportunities afforded by the open primary law we have had, and yet in spite of this the self-constituted bosses of the Progressive party in secret conference decided to reduplate the nominations of their own party, by deciding to call upon the members of the Progressive party to support at the polls, certain candidates on the Democratic ticket, not one of whom they saw fit to nominate at the primary election.

I think in all justice and fairness it is the duty of every Republican and every Progressive to stand by the men they nominated, and thus vindicate the principles of the open primary and to file such a protest against the outrageous attack upon the open primary by the self-constituted bosses of the Progressive party, that no one will ever again attempt to nullify the efficacy of its principles.

EDITORIALS.

George W. V. Moy is a candidate for the Assembly. He is running as a Progressive nominee.

Moy's record as mayor of Plainfield is fresh in the public mind. He was honest, he was courageous and he was "safe and sane"—that is, he was so far as the best interests of all the people were concerned. This was far from the truth if one would judge him from the standpoint he would be judged by a boss, a political crook, a favor-seeker or a special-interests agent and it will be far from the truth so far as they would say if he is elected an Assemblyman.

Put Moy in the Legislature and you will put an honest, courageous and right-thinking man there. He will look out for the interests of Mr. Taxpayer and Mr. Common People. Your common enemies, Mr. Special Interests and Mr. Political Boss, won't be able to cajole him, won't be able to bribe him, won't be able to swerve him from his duty as your servant and your friend.

Vote for Moy tomorrow and thereby indirectly vote for yourself as a taxpayer and honest citizen.

And while we are about it, let us mention another worthy candidate. He is George L. Babcock.

Mr. Babcock was born rich but in himself he furnishes a notable instance where the victim of predatory wealth is a doer of good and is an ideal citizen. He is democratic by nature and has shown by his life that he has the interests of his fellow men at heart. Riches has not spoiled George Babcock; riches has aided him in serving his fellow men.

George Babcock "made good" when in the Assembly—he is not an untried quality. He will "make good again." Vote for Babcock—he's on the Republican ticket.

DEMOCRATS FIRED THEIR FINAL SHOT

Fielder, Standard Bearer, and Others Wind up Democratic Campaign Here.

TUTTLE MAKES PLEA

Hamill and Silzer Also Heard—Mayor Stewart Presides—Large Crowd at Party's Mass Meeting.

A Democratic victory throughout the State at the polls tomorrow was predicted at a mass meeting held Saturday night in Columbus Club auditorium by James F. Fielder, candidate for Governor; Congressman W. E. Tuttle, of Union county; Congressman James F. Hamill, of Hudson county; Prosecutor George Silzer, of Somerset county; Mayor Stewart and Assembly and local candidates. Over 650 people applauded the utterances of the speakers.

With a voice that was at times husky as the result of the strenuous campaign, Governor Fielder said, "We are going to win. Efforts to deceive the people by the injection of false issues apart from those of the campaign have failed entirely. The Democratic party has served the people well and the voters know it. They have realized that during the years of G. O. P. control of this State, and this country, many promises have been made but very few kept. But the pledges made by Woodrow Wilson's party during the three years' administration in this State and seven months in the United States, have been fulfilled as quickly as laws can be placed on the statute books and this loyalty to the common good of the people, is sure to result in success and hearty approval by the citizens when they cast their ballots on November 4.

"I have absolute confidence in the people. Since I have been holding public office I have never done anything that has not been for the betterment of the State. If I am defeated on Election Day, the satisfaction that is mine in the fact that I have faithfully discharged the obligations imposed upon me would compensate me for that disappointment. I have conducted a fair and honorable campaign and have only attacked my opponents when such methods were necessary to defend my manhood, good name, and public official record. There are some who would like to see me vanquished at the polls and thus hand a 'slap' to Woodrow Wilson. But if you see in me a man who is capable of being the chief executive of this State, I hope you will make earnest efforts to and make use of your franchise to send these secret opponents of our good President down to defeat." In concluding his address Mr. Fielder made a plea to the voters to elect the Democratic Assembly candidates.

Congressman Tuttle spoke of the tariff law and said the people would find out, in time, that it was the best tariff that this nation has ever had. He also paid a stirling tribute to Senator Martine, saying that no Senator is working harder for his State and country than the Plainfield man.

Congressman Hamill also touched on the tariff and in issuing a warning to the people not to be misled by G. O. P. critics and financiers, who predict panic, calamity and other preposterous conditions for the country if the new law is kept in effect. He said that the Democrats by wise legislation, are attempting to wipe out the privileged class in the nation, substituting equally, equat opportunity for all.

"People who know former Governor Stokes," said Silzer when opening his address, "must be amused as I am, at the claims he is now making, that of being a champion of the people's rights." Assembly candidates Dobbins, Griffin and Leonard and Mayor Stewart, who presided, each made short speeches asking the men to vote a "straight" Democratic ticket.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JACOB BECKMAN HELD

The funeral service of Jacob Beckman was held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the late home on Fairview avenue, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mr. Beckman was an active member, officiated. He read the Scriptures, offered prayer and made a brief address of eulogy. There were many beautiful floral tributes from the New York Produce Exchange, Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., relatives and friends. The burial took place yesterday in the North Plainfield cemetery and the pallbearers were George Dunham and Robert Gow, of this city; Thomas Walsh and Edward T. Hand, of Scotch Plains.

RAILROAD BRAKEMAN IS IN THE HOSPITAL

Thomas Ferris, a Lehigh Valley railroad brakeman, whose home is in Easton, Pa., was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital from South Plainfield, early this morning, suffering from severe scalp wounds and general contusions, the result of falling from the top of a freight car. He was given prompt attention and at noon today it was said that his condition was not serious. Ferris was running over the tops of the cars in the performance of his duty when the accident occurred.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE GIVEN BY MISS SIMMONS

Miss Dorothy Simmons entertained a number of her friends at a Hallowe'en party in her home on Watchung avenue, Saturday night, twenty of her schoolmates attending the affair. The costumes worn by the guests presented many novelties and were unique and original in design. The interior of the house was appropriately decorated with yellow and black, Hallowe'en colors prevailing.

Numerous games characteristic of gatherings of this nature were played and dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Miss Griffin and Miss Ethel Loiselle. Those present were the Misses Elsie Stevens, Edith Lowry, Dorothy Stelle, Celia Cottrell, Dorothy Simmons, Mary Simmons, Beatrice Cottrell, Elizabeth Martin, Constance Vesey, Ruth Voorhees, Ethel Loiselle and and Miss Griffin, and John Cottrell, William Morrell, Daniel F. McNamee, David Fitch, Edward Rider, Harold Williams, Curtis Dall, Harold Tomlinson and David Blanchard.

FREEHOLDER GEORGE KIRCH SANGUINE OF OUTCOME

"I am confident that the citizens of the borough will recognize that I have been earnest and successful in securing many county improvements in North Plainfield and will give me their hearty support at the polls tomorrow, regardless of their party beliefs or political affiliations," said Freeholder George Kirch to a reporter this morning, when asked if he felt sure of re-election as a member of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders. "I certainly think I will be elected," the popular freeholder said, "and if successful I will continue to perform the duties of my position in the same honest way as I have during my past term, giving the property owners and other citizens my untiring efforts and using every influence I can muster, to secure for them improvements and good representation."

Mr. Kirch is a Democrat and although the borough is acceded to be strongly Republican, he polled a large number of votes in his home municipality as well as among the outlying districts, when running for county office the first time.

WILL GUARD AGAINST ANY ILLEGAL VOTING

Warnings that all violators of the election laws will be severely and promptly dealt with and that the authorities must exercise unusual caution to insure an honest vote at the polls tomorrow have been sent to Police Chief Patrick Kiely by Prosecutor Alfred Stein, of Union county, acting under instructions from Acting Governor Leon Taylor. At least one patrolman must be detailed at each polling place, the communication reads and further stated that a detailed report of all offenses must be made to the prosecutor's office immediately.

That more precautions to have an honest election will be made this year than in the past seems assured by the insistentcy of the State and county officials, who have heard of reports from alarmists that an army of floaters will invade the large cities of the State. To thwart these miscreants the leaders of both parties have issued warnings to the voters telling them to cast their ballots early, to prevent anyone from using their names.

FOR COLORED G. O. P.

Fred Moore, former U. S. minister to Liberia, and Hamilton J. Travis, of Newark, will be the chief speakers at a colored Republican mass meeting to be held tonight at Reform Hall.

SUBSCRIPTION DANCE.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE BY NORMAN MOUNTAIN

The Hartridge School has engaged Miss Dora Keen, daughter of Dr. Keen, a noted Philadelphia surgeon, who has gained wide renown as a mountain climber, to give one of her illustrated lectures of adventure at the school auditorium Thursday afternoon, November 13. The subject will be "The Ascent of Mt. Blackburn," and the pictures to be used are those taken by Miss Keen on the perilous trip. The illustrations will graphically depict the dangers of mountain climbing as well as the beauty of mountainous countries.

Miss Keen says her lecture tours are the outgrowth of an informal discourse she gave at the Hartridge School five years ago, after her successful ascent of the Matterhorn. Since then she has acquired world-wide fame by her daring and adventurous experiences in Alaska. No woman before her has ever made attempts to climb mountains in the Arctic regions and the stories of her persistency in the face of obstacles that taunted five of the men in her party on one expedition is thrilling.

Tickets for the lectures may be obtained at the Hartridge School.

TEPPER'S SAY. If It's Values You Seek, Read On

In these turbulent days of commercial upheaval it behooves every one, more especially a prospective purchaser, to exercise extraordinary vigilance before making such purchase, weigh carefully every claim, every statement made whether it is consistent with facts, or is its intent merely to attract for the time being.

Take into consideration the purchasing power of our four wide awake stores, then draw your own comparison. Judge everyone's values by the merits of each individual item offered and not by extravagant valuations.

Makes Hard Work Easy!

DUSTING, cleaning and polishing hardwood floors is hard, back-breaking work. An almost never ending task and seldom satisfactory the old way. But it is easy, quick and satisfactory the new way—using the O-Cedar Polish Mop. With it you can spend a few minutes doing what it now takes you almost half a day. You simply pass the O-Cedar Polish Mop over the floor and every particle of dust and dirt is taken up and held. The floor is given a hard, durable, lasting polish and finish.

O-Cedar Polish Mop

is also used for the dusting and cleaning of the tops of high furniture, between the banisters of the stairs and is so made that you can get to the far corner under the bed, beneath the radiator and other hard-to-get-at places. It cuts house work in half. Don't put up with the old-fashioned hard way when you can get an O-Cedar Polish Mop for only $1.50.

MISS EDNA F. GOULD BECOMES MRS. MARTIN

Miss Edna F. Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, of Roselle Park, and Charles B. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Martin, of this city, were quietly married Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the parsonage of the Temple Baptist church by Rev. Evarts C. Conover. The couple was attended by Miss Gertrude H. Gould, a sister of the bride, and Oliver Ulmer, of this city. After a short trip the bride and bridegroom will reside on Berckman street. Mr. Martin is employed by the New Jersey Central.

FISH ADDRESSES JAMES F. FIELDER

Mayor Harwood Fish, of Roselle, a Progressive nominee for the Assembly, has sent the following letter to James F. Fielder, the Democratic Gubernatorial nominee:

As one who has always had a high regard for you personally and faith in your consistency, the letter from you published in Friday's papers was somewhat of a shock. In that letter you ask for a Legislature in accord with you who will stand for progressive policies and add that you know that Messrs. Griffin, Leonard and Dobbins, the Democratic Assembly candidates in Union county, can be depended on. How can you know that, when one of these men in last winter's session of the Legislature violated the platform on which he was elected and proved recreant to the trust imposed in him by the people in the matter of jury reform. Both you and Governor Wilson found that Assemblyman Griffin could not be depended upon to uphold your hands on that great issue, but he deserted you and the Democratic platform and went over, bag and baggage, to Jim Nugent, the boss of Essex county, whom you have found it necessary to read out of the Democratic party. Is it not just as necessary to read out of the Democratic party the Assemblymen who deserted you on this great question and proved that they could not be trusted? I have seen Assemblyman Griffin, of Union county, in close conversation with the boss of Essex county while the fight for jury reform was at its hottest, when he should have been in his seat in the house supporting the plank in the Democratic platform on which he was elected. Why did he defy his party, the people who trusted him, and the great leaders of his party on this question? Echo answers Why? Is it consistent for you to request the voters of Union county to again trust one who they found last year could not be trusted?

Is it consistent for you to give your O. K. to Mr. Dobbins, another one of the Democratic candidates, who although sworn to uphold the law as city attorney of Rahway, permits to walk at large the ex-treasurer of that city who stole $26,000 of public funds and who in doing so places the power of money above that of justice and right? The bonding company refunded the stolen money, but that did not wipe out the crime or set an example to those who might be tempted to do likewise.

Simply another case of letting the big thief with a pull go free while the little thief who steals to provide himself with necessities is sent to jail. Can you trust a man in the Assembly who takes that view of public duty?

Common report had it in Trenton last winter that the only Democratic Assemblyman from Union county who stood by you in the matter of jury reform, did so because he was looking for a Federal job. I don't know whether this is true or not, but I do know that Assemblyman Leonard was presented with a solid gold watch by the saloon interests of this State for introducing a bill for them in the Legislature and was a guest of honor at their State convention. And I do know that if I am elected to the Assembly I will get no gold watches presented to me for like services. And I do know that in one case he opposed good legislation because a friend of his might lose a position if such legislation was passed. And I do know that he opposed civil service principles and that the whole Democratic Assembly delegation from Union county refused to let the people of New Jersey decide for themselves whether they wanted Woman's Suffrage or not. If these men properly represent the Democratic party then there is a crying need for the Progressive party.

The Progressive Assembly candidates in Union county, as a matter of belief and principle, stand for all the great progressive measures put on the statute books of New Jersey by Governor Wilson and yourself and can be much better trusted to defend them from all attacks than can the Democratic candidates in Union county. That being the case, why should you not place party principles above mere party expediency and ask the voters of Union county to elect the Progressive party candidates to the Assembly and thus give you men that you can depend upon at all times and under all circumstances?

TO THE VOTER.

Look out for the campaign lies to appear in newspapers tonight and tomorrow morning. Some editors accept the stories in good faith, others are unscrupulous enough not to care about the truth. The Daily Press shows up today one fake advertisement for which Stokes backers are responsible. Watch out for more fakes.

1840—Capture of Acre by the allied fleet under Admiral Stopford.
1852—Junius Brutus Booth, noted actor, died. Born May 1, 1796.
1856—The British bombarded Canton and destroyed the Chinese fleet.
1868—Gen. U. S. Grant elected President of the United States.
1903—Panama proclaimed its independence of Colombia.
1912—Turkey appealed to the Powers to intervene in the Balkan war.

Plainfield, N. J., November 3, 1913.

VOTE RIGHT.

Everett Colby, the Progressive, has spoken here.

James F. Fielder, the Democrat, has had his say.

Edward C. Stokes, the Republican, has made his address.

You have heard what they have considered fit to deliver unto you as to their principles, performances and promises.

This knowledge you have gained by personal attendance at their meetings, as was you duty as a citizen, or by reading the reports in the public press.

As a free citizen possessed with the franchise to name your own public servants, it becomes your duty tomorrow to make legal register of your preference for the high office of Governor of New Jersey.

Moreover, it is your high privilege and bounden duty to pronounce your choice for members of the Assembly and for members of the county board of freeholders in addition to local offices.

Don't be a "rubber stamp," don't be a "political poll parrot"—be a MAN.

Colby, Stokes, Fielder—choose you—which shall it be? Let your own judgment answer.

From away down in your heart, repeat to yourself what your own honest opinion is as to Fielder. Then ask yourself the same question—and answer it—as to Stokes. Finally, resolve your judgment as to Colby. Then vote.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

As tomorrow will be Election Day, the Daily Press will not be issued. It will appear at the regular time on Wednesday afternoon, with accurate and complete results of the election from the gubernatorial contest down to the municipal fights and particular attention will be given the returns in Union and Somerset counties and Plainfield and North Plainfield.

As already explained in these columns, there will be no early morning special election edition. The returns are bound to be even much slower than usual because of the excellent ballot permitting of a great degree of independence in voting, which necessarily will prolong the work of the district boards. In addition, the indications seem to be that the Gubernatorial contest will be a close one.

Following its custom, however, the returns as quickly as received will be flashed by stereopticon election night, and the public is invited to take advantage of this method of getting the early news.

We don't care a fig for party labels when it comes to municipal government. Therefore we put our O. K on Howard Lapsley, a candidate for councilman-at-large.

The Daily Press, as usual, will be the only paper in this section containing complete, accurate and satisfactory election returns.

A vote for Colby is a vote for government by and of the people with progressivism and honesty as its underlying principles.

The Hon. Edward Casper Stokes deserves congratulation for his engaging and energetic canvass. He has covered the administration Democrats with gooseflesh.—New York Sun.

Where did he get all the gooseflesh? They didn't serve it at that "quiet little dinner" which was "not for publication."

Both the Republicans and the Democrats are claiming Union county, but just wait and see the vote polled by the Progressives.

The industrial edition of the Daily Press, shortly to be issued, will be a credit to this newspaper and to the community.

If you stand for good, clean and progressive government cast your ballot for G. W. V. Moy for the Assembly.

It will be all over and it will be "I told you so" on Wednesday morning.

George L. Babcock, for the Assembly, has the right ring.

It may be "Recall" for "McCall" in New York tomorrow.

William G. DeMeza—he will win in a walk.

"Clay and Claybrook"—sounds goods to us!

Do It For Plainfield!

Worth Looking At.

A man who was something of a gourmet ordered a dinner for himself and his party which, from the menu, should have been very palatable, but apparently it was not so. Course succeeded course, and toward the end of the meal the host could restrain himself no longer. He called up the waiter and expostulated. "I ordered a good dinner, and we have waited patiently for some satisfactory dish. The soup was a failure, the fish was a disappointment, the entree uneatable, and I am sorry to tell you that during the whole dinner there has been nothing worth looking at." The waiter looked troubled for an instant, and then, brightening up, said, "If you wait a moment, sir, I will bring you the bill."—Chicago News.

Servants In Bogota.

The domestic problem is reduced to a minimum in Bogota. Good domestics are plentiful and cheap. Five to ten dollars a month is high pay. In the houses of the well to do the servants are well treated and lead happy lives. They have ample quarters of their own, centering round their own patio, and enough of the old patriarchal regime survives to make them really a part of the family.—"Colombia."

Method In Her Singing.

The Caller—Who is that singing? The Hostess—That's our new maid. She always sings at her work. The Caller—What a happy disposition! Mercy, how loud she sings! The Hostess—Yes. When she sings loud she's breaking something.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An editor who started about twenty years ago with only 55 cents is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, good habits, strict attention to business and the fact that an uncle died and left him $99,999.—Editor and Publisher.

MISS FANNIE PAULOFF BRIDE OF MR. TRAUBER

Miss Fannie Pauloff and Samuel Trauber were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shrager, on Madison avenue, by Rabbi Davidson, last night, many friends of the couple from this city, New York and Brooklyn attending the affair. Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held, vocal and instrumental music being the features.

The program consisted of vocal solos by Miss Helen Kline and Leo Berse and violin selections by Benjamin Berse. The couple will live at 761 West Third street.

PERSONAL.

Miss Nettie Bauersachs, of Grandview avenue, and teacher in the Watchung School, the borough, who underwent an operation recently, is improving nicely. Miss Gertrude R. Conover, of Jackson avenue, is substituting for Miss Bauersachs.

Mrs. D. R. Conover and daughters, the Misses Mabel and Idabel Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough, spent Sunday with relatives in Brooklyn.

THOMAS DUFFY BURIED.

Funeral services for Thomas Duffy, of South Plainfield, who died Friday following a short illness, were held this morning at the Sacred Heart church, that town, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Father Baldwin, of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, was the celebrant and Rev. Fathers Miller and Paoli, of the same edifice, were deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, this city. South Plainfield Court, I. O. F., held services preceding the church rites, at his late home. Many floral pieces were sent by friends and relatives, among these being two tributes from the employes of the Spicer Manufacturing Co. The pall bearers were John Geary, William Hamilton, P. J. McDonough, John Connors, William Riley and John F. Horan.

LITTLE ONE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Joseph Murdock, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murdock, who died Saturday night, was held this afternoon from his parent's home, 436 West Second street. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF A POPULAR COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cohen, of Brooklyn, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lillian Cohen, to Jacob Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams, of Grove street, last night, at a reception held at the home of the bride-to-be, 230 Seventeenth street, Brooklyn. Only the immediate members of both families and a few relatives were present at the event.

Besides the members of the Abrams family, among those from this city who attended the event are Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Block, Mrs. Samuel Block, Mrs. Rose Cowen. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Rosenbaum, Morris Abrams, Henry, Harry, Samuel, Louis, Michael, James and Robert Cohen, all of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lapinsky and Mrs. S. B. Kessner, of New York city, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hollander, of New Brunswick.

No date for the wedding has been arranged.

MUNICIPAL CLERKS TO BE PRESENT AT HEARING

The township and borough clerks of Somerset county have been notified to be present on Thursday, Nov. 13, at the hearing to be held in the North Plainfield Council rooms, on that borough's appeal to the State Board of Equalization of Taxes, for a reduction in ratables.

At this hearing Major Carl Lentz will represent the appellant. It is thought that the Somerset County Board of Taxation will also have counsel.

AMERICAN LEAGUE FIELDING FASTER IN 1913 THAN 1912

That the fielding in the American League was faster in 1913 than it was in 1912 is evidenced by the fact that last season the clubs of the junior organization made sixty-four more double plays than they did during the preceding campaign, the figures for the two years being, respectively, 876 and 812. The Cleveland Naps again carried off the honors in manufacturing two-ply retirements, they being credited with 128 dual slaughters as against 125 in 1912. The Browns contributed 127 double plays, the Nationals 117, the White Elephants 111, the Tigers 110, the White Sox 108, the Yankees 96 and the Red Sox 79. The team that showed the greatest increase in double plays over the previous season was Washington, Griff's Climbers producing 27 more double demises in 1913 than they did in 1912. The Nationals equalled an American League record by doubling up the Highlanders five times on September 26, Joe Boehling being on the rubber for the District of Columbia team. Twice the Griffmites made four double plays behind Walter Johnson, the shut-out and strike-out king of 1913, who received a Chalmers car for being the player most valuable to his team in the American League. The dates they did this were June 10 and July 13, the teams they played against being Detroit and Cleveland. On three other occasions the Naps rapped into a quartette of dual murders, the teams that assissinated them being St. Louis, on July 2, and New York, on July 18 and 25.

The American Leaguer of 1913 who took part in the greatest number of double plays was Arnold Gandil, Washington's first baseman. He cut into 89, thus equalling the mark of Jack McInnis, the 1912 leader. McInnis forced his way into 85 dual slaughters last season, Johnson, of Cleveland, was in 80; Weaver, of Chicago, in 73; Chase, of Chicago, in 70; Pratt, of St. Louis, in 66; Bush, of Detroit, in 63; Barry, of Philadelphia, in 63; McBride, of Washington, in 62; Collins, of Philadelphia, in 59; Chapman, of Cleveland, in 59; Lejole, of Cleveland, in 59; Engle, of Boston, in 56, and Gainer, of Detroit, in 56.

The players who took the initiative oftenest in double plays were Bush, of Detroit, and Chapman, of Cleveland. Each shortstop started 30. Eddit Collins, of the White Elephants, made the first move in 28, and Jack Barry, another of Mack's Mastodons, inaugurated 28.

Two unassisted double plays were made by outfielders, the men who turned this seldom trick being Graney, of Cleveland, against St. Louis, on June 1, and Oldring, of Philadelphia, against Cleveland, on September 16.

The fastest infielding team of 1913 in the American League, positions on it being won by the men who participated in the greatest number of double plays, would have Eddie Cicotte and Ray Schalk as its battery, "Chic" Gandil, Derrill Pratt, Frank Baker and George Weaver in the infield, and "Birdie" Cree, Bert Shotten and either Harry Hooper or Joe Jackson in the outfield. The figures below show the number of double plays they started and helped in:

	Start.	Help.	Tot.
Cicotte, p., Chicago	9	0	9
Gandil, 1b., Wash.	8	81	89
Pratt, 2b., St. Louis	18	44	62
Baker, 3b., Phila.	15	7	22
Weaver, ss., Chi.	20	53	73
Cree, lf., N. Y.	6	0	6
Shotten, cf., St. L.	13	0	13
Hooper, rf., Boston, or Jackson, Clev.	7	0	7

AJAX WILL TACKLE WOODBRIDGE FIVE

Strong Athletic Association Quintet to Play Here Next Saturday Night.

Woodbridge will be the opponents of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax on the association court here next Saturday night in the second game of the season. The Woodbridge athletes have been cleaning up on everything in Middlesex and are anxious to trim the Ajax on their invasion of Union this week.

Last year the Y. M. C. A. defeated a team of Woodbridge Parish House players by a two-point margin but this year have taken on the Woodbridge Athletic Association eleven, a team stronger and faster than their fellow townsmen.

LOCAL BOY IN VICTORY.

Roger Mellick, of this city, played center for the Hill School when the latter eleven defeated the Harvard Freshman aggregation by a score of 19 to 12 in a hard fought battle Saturday afternoon. Trick plays and forward passes were used effectively by the winners but a keen northwest wind blew across the field and resulted in many fumbles.

ELECTION DAY HUNT.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold a run tomorrow morning, meeting the hounds at Dog Tavern at 9:30 o'clock. The chase will include a stop at the Baltusrol Golf Club, where a hunt breakfast will be served.

NEW LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.

Sir Rufus Isaacs the First Jew to Hold That Exalted Position.

Sir Rufus Isaacs, the recently appointed lord chief justice of England, has had a remarkable career and is the first Jew to hold that exalted position. His success in politics has been scarcely less than that of the famous Disraeli, Queen Victoria's favorite premier. He is fifty-three years old and has been attorney general since 1910.

The son of a Jewish merchant in the city of London, he began life as a business man and failed. He was "hammered" on the Stock Exchange, then studied law. At the age of thirty-eight he was named queen's counsel, his income from his practice at that time amounting to more than $100,000 a year. His new position is for life and carries with it a salary of $40,000 annually and the offer of a peerage.

In 1904 Sir Rufus was returned to parliament as a Liberal. In 1909 he was made solicitor general, and from that office he was promoted to attorney general. As attorney general he conducted the official inquiry into the Titanic disaster. In 1911 he was created privy councilor and made knight commander of the Victorian order.

Sir Rufus' wife was a Miss Edith Cohen of New York, whose father moved to England after making a fortune in America.

The appointment of Sir Rufus to the lord chief justiceship will cause much heartburning among his political opponents, who have sought to make the most of his indiscretions in the purchasing of Marconi stock for speculative purposes. Although the commission of inquiry into the so called Marconi scandal absolved the attorney general of the charge of corruption by a vote of 8 to 6, it was thought by many that his purchase of 10,000 shares of stock in the American Marconi company at a time when negotiations were on foot for a government contract with the English Marconi company was highly improper for a cabinet minister and disqualified him for the headship of the judicial bench, which, according to precedent, was his right as leader of the bar.

Among the celebrated law cases undertaken by Sir Rufus Isaacs was the prosecution of Whittaker Wright, the financier, who was extradited from America. He was also counsel for the Countess of Yarmouth, who was Miss Alice Thaw of Pittsburgh, in her suit for annulment of marriage to the Earl of Yarmouth, now Marquis of Hertford. Richard Croker retained Sir Rufus upon several occasions, notably in the libel action against certain newspapers for statements respecting Mr. Croker's career on the turf and as Tammany boss in New York.

CONTEST OVER LIBERTY BELL

Many Oppose the Plan of Sending It to the Panama Exposition.

Strenuous opposition to sending the famous Liberty bell to the Panama exposition in 1915 has developed in Philadelphia. Meetings of local patriotic societies have been held, and petitions have been presented to the city council asking that body to vote against the transportation of the historic relic to San Francisco. Petitions are also being circulated in all parts of the country.

On the other hand, Mayor Blankenburg of Philadelphia favors sending the bell to the exposition. The argument advanced that the bell is a national relic has met with his approval. The opposition to this is based on the contention that there is danger the historic relic will be destroyed or endangered in the long trip. The people who desire to exhibit the old bell at the exposition have promised their utmost in caring for the bell both in transit and while it is on exhibition.

MISCHIEVOUS BOYS GET SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Five boys ranging in ages from 12 to 16 years were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged with throwing stones and breaking windows. Mrs. Susan Orlacks was the complainant against Patsey and Michael Long, of 830 George street, and William Schubert, also of George street. Nathan Sckovetch, of 507 West Third street, charged Fred Haffmeister, of 248 Jackson avenue, and John Perrine, of 273 Jackson avenue, with the same offence. The court suspended sentence in each case. The defendants were arrested by Patrolman O'Keefe.

HARRY S. SANDERSON'S BROTHER-IN-LAW DEAD

Captain Truman S. Post, aged 73 years, brother-in-law of Harry S. Sanderson, of this city, died Saturday night at his home in Washington, following a long illness with complications. He was a Civil War veteran, having enlisted twice during the war, and he was provost marshal in Texas during the reconstruction period.

Captain Post was the first man to shake hands with Lincoln following his nomination for the Presidency at the Chicago convention. After the war he took a position in the United States Treasury Department at Washington, where he remained until recently. He leaves a wife, son and daughter and several grandchildren. He was an uncle to Charles W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 27.

JUST because the president of the company, who was a peculiarly irascible person at times, undertook one afternoon to make me a door-mat for an undeserved tirade of oral mud, I quit.

That was some eight or ten years ago, and I was working as a stenographer in the office of a big label-printing concern. I couldn't very well afford to lose my job, but I figured that I couldn't afford, either, to lose my independence and self-respect.

So, without any preparation or notice, I found myself jobless. What to do? A friend advised me that night to put a little Want Ad. in one of my home town's newspapers. I did. As near as I can remember now, it read something like this:

> WANTED—By a competent, experienced STENOGRAPHER, a position in the office of a firm where faithful attention to duty and the ability to do neat, ABSOLUTELY ACCURATE work will merit promotion. Address———, Blank Office.

The ad. cost me half a dollar or so. But—I got half a dozen answers. And I landed a job in the office of a flour concern at $3 more per week than I had been earning.

Which simply goes to prove, in a way, what I have always believed—that the people who say advertising doesn't pay don't know what they are talking about.

If you are a good stenographer, and if you are out of a job, don't worry. The demand for really good stenographers exceeds the supply. If you are an above-the-average amanuensis, if you are a good speller, if you punctuate properly, if you are versed in good business English, if you are something more than an automaton, if you can think, plan, act, and not merely follow stenographic notes in a machine-like way, the business world is looking for you, anxious for you, waiting for your services.

How can you get into touch with that business world? Through the Classified columns—the Want Ads. Hundreds of business men read the Classified columns each day—men who are always on the lookout for efficient clerical assistance.

The right position is waiting for you. Get into touch with it.

Five Dollars' Worth of Convenience.

Many of us would not hesitate to spend five dollars for some sort of frivolity—it might be an unneeded hat or it might be a new book, according to our personal tastes. Why not spend five dollars for some of the new and interesting kitchen conveniences? Five dollars spent in this way would surely bring comfort and pleasure to the cook for days, even years, to come.

Here is a suggestive list of kitchen conveniences which can be bought for five dollars.

A List.

Casserole, unglazed, big enough for chops, pot roast, a jointed fowl or a stew of any kind, 59 cents.

Wire rack to put under pie or broad tins in the oven to keep them from burning on the bottom, 9 cents.

Potato baker—a strip of tin with six spikes to hold potatoes that can be easily handled without burning fingers, 9 cents.

Small double boiler, tin bottom part, granite top part, just right for making custards and sauces of all sorts, 59 cents.

Quart milk can, covered, in which milk, soup, custard, lemonade or other liquid can be cleanly kept in small space, 37 cents.

Vegetable strainer, to put in sink, in which spinach, potatoes, squash, and all sorts of hot vegetables can be drained, 20 cents.

Glass butter jar, tightly covered, in which butter can be kept free from taint in the refrigerator or pantry, 39 cents.

Crown mould for jellies of all sorts, in which may delightful desserts can be made, 49 cents.

Spoon rest, of aluminum, that clamps on side of saucepan, in which spoon may be laid when not in use, 9 cents.

Crockery pastry roller, which keeps cool and can be used for rich paste, 49 cents.

Glass spoon, for measuring anything that would stain silver—for instance, made mustard or vinegar, 5 cents.

Small funnel, for filling oil and vinegar cruets, and bottles with small mouths, 5 cents.

Aluminum tea ball, with which a single cup of tea can quickly and easily be made in the kitchen, 11 cents.

Ladle rack, to hang against the wall near the stove with hooks containing a ladle, a perforated ladle, a perforated spoon, a plain basting spoon, a skimmer and another big spoon, $1.49. Total cost, $4.99.

This is just a suggestive list. Any housewife could have a delightful morning, armed with five dollars, shopping in the kitchen-furnishing department of a well-equipped store.

Some Cookery Suggestions

HALLOWEEN CANDIES.

SIMPLE candies that the little folks may eat without injury to the digestion are the best kind for Halloween parties.

A great deal of fun may be imparted to the festivities by making the candies on the chafing dish. Taffies made in a kettle on the range may be pulled by the youthful guests.

Some suggestions for simple Halloween candies follow:

A Fruit Confection.

Cream Dates.—Wipe dates clean and take out the stones; beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add confectioner's sugar till like cream; flavor with vanilla, fill the dates, press together and roll in sugar. Walnut creams can be made in the same way, putting the cream between two meats.

Popcorn Balls.—Boil three-quarters of a cupful of sugar and one pint of molasses until the mixture is brittle when dropped in water, then pour over it popped corn and mix thoroughly. Press together into balls and place on a buttered plate to cool. A Halloween "fortune" should be placed in each.

A Simple Sweetmeat.

Cream Walnuts.—Take one pound of white sugar, half a teacupful of water, put on the range and boil until it threads—that is, until it falls from the spoon in threads—flavor well with vanilla, remove from the fire and stir until white and creamy. When cool enough to handle, roll into balls, press walnut halves into the sides and drop into granulated sugar, shaking violently for a second or two.

A Delicate Candy.

Peanut Fudge.—Take two cupfuls of granulated sugar, two tablespoonfuls each of peanut butter, cream or condensed milk, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Dissolve sugar and peanut butter in cream, boil to a thread, add vanilla when nearly done. Beat to a cream and drop on oiled paper. If it gets hard while dropping heat over boiling water.

Nut Caramels.—Take one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of golden sirup, one-half cupful of milk and one tablespoonful of butter. Put in a saucepan and boil until a firm ball will form between the fingers when tested in cold water. Take from the fire and add one teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of chopped nut meats. Turn into a buttered pan and cut into small squares. Then dip into melted chocolate.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—When the Birds Take Their Vacations.

The Birds Fly South.

TWO tired heads were laid on daddy's shoulder. It had been a busy day for Jack and Evelyn, and now they were almost ready for bed.

"Oh, hey for dreamland!" daddy joked. "It won't be long now until the sandman is scattering sand into your eyes. Well, well, even busy days must close and pleasant summers come to an end.

"Out there on the tree by the window Mrs. Robin was just singing me a goodby song. It seems she is going away from us.

"Little boys and girls have their vacations in the summer when they go away from home to some nice place for an outing.

"The little birds do quite the opposite. They take their vacations in the winter. It is then that they go away from home.

"The robin family has a right to feel that yon apple tree is their home, for this is the third season Mrs. Robin has brought up a family there.

"When it is dark she will go off with her husband to join a lot of other robins who are going south. One old robin who has made the trip so often that he can be depended on not to get lost has been chosen as leader.

"When all is ready he will give the order, and all his bird companions will rise in the air with him.

"They will turn their heads southward and fly all night. When morning comes they all alight and get their breakfast. All day they will fly about, feeding, and when night comes they will start on their journey again. Sometimes they are many days on the trip. Sometimes they do not go very far.

"But these bird travelers never set up households where they go. They seem to feel that they are only visitors. They sing and frolic among the trees just as if they were enjoying a glorious outing.

"Along toward spring you might notice them grow restless. They gather in chattering groups. Some night hundreds of them will meet in a lonely place, so that the trees will seem to be covered. Then a bird general will fly into the air and lead them northward for many days until they reach their home neighborhood.

"Some morning when we awake we will see them peering about last year's nest or chattering with one another as if talking over the journey.

"I couldn't quite make out all Mrs. Robin was saying, but I have no doubt she was saying 'Thank you' for the crumbs which you provided last spring when food was scarce on her return from the south. No doubt she wishes to remind you that she may need them next spring. Dear little Mrs. Robin, how can any one be such an ogre as to care for robin pie? Let us hope she may come safely home to us, our little feathered friend."

PICKING STRAWBERRIES NOW IN THE BOROUGH

Henry Weiss, of Regent street, North Plainfield, yesterday picked a couple of quarts of ripe strawberries from his garden. The fruit is of a choice variety and unusually sweet. A few days ago Silas Winans, of Watchung, picked ripe starwberries on his farm.

BROTHER MET DEATH ON RAILROAD TRACKS

Miss Elizabeth S. Ives, soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, was called to Hastings, Minn., Saturday night, by a telegram informing her that her brother, F. Raymond Ives of New York, had been killed. He had been in Hastings for several days and was struck by a train and killed while attempting to cross a high trestle. No particulars of the fatal mishap have been received.

MME. GADSKI WILL NOT APPEAR HERE ON NOV. 20

Proctor & Sanderson, who had booked Mme. Gadski and Walter Damrosch's Symphony Orchestra for a concert at the Plainfield theatre on November 20, has cancelled the engagement in deference to the wishes of the Plainfield Musical Club, which has announced a concert at the theatre on December 2 by Mme. Alda, and Mme. Gadski and the orchestra will appear here at a later date.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON ZURICH CONVENTION

All persons interested in Sunday-school work are invited to hear Mrs. Lucie E. Rising at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock tonight. She will describe her recent trip to Zurich, Switzerland and the meetings of the World's Sunday-school Convention. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon and glimpses of Europe, Egypt and The Holy Land and Asia Minor will be included. It is hoped that a large number will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn of the big convention. No offering will be received.

THE TOUCH OF DRAPERY ON GROWN-UP GOWNS MARKS JUNIOR MODES AS WELL

As long as materials are so supple and clinging, their very touch suggestive of folds and drapings, draped gowns and wraps will continue modish.

For the woman whose dress allowance is somewhat limited it is wise to choose a dark, soft silk for the luncheon or afternoon tea frock. It may be worn much oftener than a light shade and will be found generally more satisfactory. Moire, silk poplin, one of the soft taffetas or charmeuse are all suitable, and many of the soft drapey wool stuffs make up most attractively.

A crow-blue taffetas with a self figure was used to develop 7979. The wide girdle of a lighter blue affords an effective contrast, and the gathered guimpe of figured tulle is practical, as it is a simple matter to replace it when soiled.

There is just a touch of drapery on each side of the skirt, and the blouse is a peasant design closing in the back.

This model may be copied in size 36 with 5½ yards of 36 inch taffetas and ½ yard of tulle.

The "dress-up" frock of the little miss has its bit of drapery, too, as may be seen in 7996. An albatross or bright silk with a touch of colored embroidery at the belt and on the cuffs could be used with this design with excellent results. For size 10 it requires 2⅛ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 7979—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7996—sizes 6 to 12.
Each pattern is 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Inexpensive, Useful and Acceptable Gifts for the Housekeeper.

Practical gifts are always acceptable to the housekeeper, and especially appreciated are those which have been made by a friend.

These covers for asbestos tablemats should be scalloped in white on linen. After the tops have been transferred, take a plain piece of linen and baste it to the back of the cover, extending from one end of the cover, to the centre. The other half must be in two pieces, held together by the scalloped edge. The corners of the flaps are left loose, so that they may be lifted when the asbestos mat is put into the pocket which is formed by the first half. When the backs have been basted securely, so that they will be held in place by scalloping, they are ready for embroidering.

Pattern number 14657 includes seven covers in five different sizes. One cover 11¾ by 17 ¼ inches, one cover 8¾ by 13¼ inches, two covers, each 8½ by 11½ inches, two covers, each 6¾ by 9¼ inches, and one cover 5¾ by 8 ¼ inches, requiring asbestos mats 10 by 16 inches, 7 by 12 inches, 7 by 10 inches, 5 by 8½ inches, and 4½ by 7 inches respectively.

This pattern will be supplied to readers for fifteen cents.

TWO BIG A JOB FOR TWO BITS

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

INAUGURAL CLASH AN AJAX VICTORY

Y. M. C. A. Players Defeated North Plainfield High School in Close Game.

PLENTY OF THRILLS

Final Score Was 36 to 20—Every Man Conspicuous in His Respective Department—Borough Quintet Outweighed.

Entrusted with the task of ushering in the 1913-14 basketball season on the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night, representatives of the association and the North Plainfield High School completed the curtain raising stunt with the highest efficiency, making the inaugural combat a spicy and exceptionally speedy exhibition of the popular court game. While the final score favored the Ajax by a margin of 36 to 20, these figures fall far short of being indicative of the closeness with which the battle was waged.

Drawing the first blood of the season by virtue of a well directed field goal attempt, after two minutes of play, the boroughites aroused the ire of their rivals who soon evened up matters. From this point until the final chirp of the referee's whistle the battle was characteristic of previous contests between these rivals, one team monopolizing the lead while the second held on with bulldog tenacity. It fell to the lot of the Y. M. C. A. players to take the role of pace setters and they acted the part endangered at every curve by the threatening attack of the Canadians.

After the Ajax flashed a six-point lead in the middle of the initial half, the teams scored point for point and the slightest advantage rung up by means of a brilliant spurt in the early stages of the contest gave the Ajax their victory.

Divergent from the old style of basketball with its brilliant exhibitions of individualism, this combat was ideal from the spectator's point of view and some idea of the speedy teamwork engaged in by both teams can be gleaned from the fact that nearly every player got a share of the field goals credited to his team. Those who failed in netting field goals were prominent as game wardens, preventing their opponents from bagging sensational strings of two point shots, and it was due largely to the excellent guarding of the quartet entrusted with this duty that the score did not soar into figures above the half century mark. Glover, Brynairski, Burner and Abrams played air-tight games and held their opponents in check at all times.

Two men, introduced to basketball of this calibre for the first time Saturday night, were the stars of the contest, Harry Moulton reaping a harvest of field goals for the Ajax, while Ronald Conroy registered a quartet for his teammates. Gavett, another new man, was conspicuous in the goal getting with six of the two point variety to his credit, while besides forming the bulwark of the Y. M. C. A. team's defensive work, Brynairski piled up a half dozen points, two from the field and two from the penalty mark. Van Mater and Love also played good games for the N. P. H. S. five.

HOPE TROUNCES VISITING FIVE

Chapelites Administered a Severe Drubbing to the Mystic A .C. Quintet.

THIRTY-FOUR GOALS

Locals Are Accurate Shooters and Show Up Well In Passing—Visitors Were Weak In Every Department.

Disappointed at the last moment by the team that was originally scheduled to open the basketball season on the Hope Chapel court, Manager George Leighs was forced to book an inferior combination for the inaugural game Saturday night and as a result the chapelites had an easy time walloping an aggregation dubbing itself the "Mystic A. C." by an overwhelming count of 71 to 19. While the name of the team claimed a resting place in Elizabeth from where it was heralded as a speedy combination, no less than four Plainfield and North Plainfield faces appeared in the lineup, the opposing parties being Gage, Trotter, Boylan and Nash. Boylan was the only "ringer" who showed up particularly strong and his contribution was limited to a trio of field goals, more than any of his teammates could garner.

Crippled by the absence of Allen Snyder, the Hope contingent entered the fray with a rush and soon had the opposition completely bewildered by their flashy attack, piling up points at will and passing the ball almost without interruption during the entire contest. Gus Snyder, by way of variation from his guard duties, piled up fifteen goals, hanging up somewhat of a record for an opening tilt and his points alone were more than enough to vanquish the opposing forces.

Tommy Heron, Jim Doig and Johnny Heron were also conspicuous in the field goal garnering, while Varnes and Prestinck helped along the visitors' cause materially with their scoring ability.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—How far should the foul line be placed from the boundary line of the court in basketball? In the case of a tie what is the rule for the play off?—C. F. H.

Answer—The penalty mark should be placed fifteen feet from a point in the boundary line directly under the basket. In the case of a tie the game should be resumed without intermission until two points are made by one of the teams, these points to be scored on foul or field goals.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the third wedding anniversary called?—S. A. P.

Answer—It is sometimes referred to as the leather wedding.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In what way and to whom should I apply for the release of a boy who enlisted under age and without the consent of his parents?—H. J. K.

Answer—If the boy was under eighteen and enlisted in the navy he must have presented fraudulent credentials as all applicants under age are required to have the written consent of their parents, or guardians. In such a case the boy could be withdrawn from the service by paying the government the amount expended on his account. Application should be made to the Secretary of the Navy.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the successor to Frank Leslie's Popular Magazine — S. O. J.

Answer—It is now the American Magazine.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is a peddler?—B. D.

Answer—Strictly speaking he is a human being in most cases but I presume you want the term defined. A peddler, as defined in the city ordinance, is a person who goes from house to house offering things for sale and delivering them immediately.

P. H. S. WALLOPED BY RAHWAY ELEVEN

Home Gridiron Warriors Outweighed and Outplayed the Plainfielders.

Playing against a team that outweighed them twenty pounds to a man, the P. H. S. boys once more went down to defeat by the score of 47 to 0 at Rahway, Saturday afternoon. Although outweighed the local boys fought hard until the final whistle blew, even though it seemed impossible to keep Rahway from crossing Plainfield's goal line.

Plainfield won the toss and received the kick off. After gaining one first down they were forced to kick and Rahway received the ball in centre field. Rahway started off with a shift formation, the whole line going to the right, and with splendid interference, A. Armstrong carried the ball for thirty yards on the first play. This formation was used almost the entire game. After a few shorter runs, Schweitzer carried the ball over for a touchdown, but failed to kick the goal. P. H. S. again received but were forced to kick without gaining the necessary ground. R. H. S. again made big gains off tackle and around end. Just before the whistle blew, E. Armstrong carried the ball over for the second touchdown in the first quarter.

In the second quarter the locals took a strong brace, but were unable to keep the speedy Armstrong from crossing their goal line. He was tackled hard just as he crossed the line and fumbled the ball but was able to pull himself free and fall on it for a touchdown. He kicked the goal.

In the third quarter, Brooks scored twice. After his first touchdown P. H. S. received the kick-off and after running the ball to their forty-yard line, tried a forward pass which Brooks intercepted and carried for a touchdown. Schweitzer kicked the goal.

In the fourth quarter, Schweitzer and E. Armstrong each scored a touchdown, Armstrong kicking the goals.

The local boys fought hard during the entire game. In the second period Sminck was tackled hard and while falling one of the Rahway men fell on him, pushing his left shoulder against the ground, spraining it. He had to retire from the game. Greene took Sminck's place.

O. H. FLEMING WINS SWEEPSTAKES EVENT

The only event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, was a sweepstakes, which was won by Owen H. Fleming with a net score of 75. While a number entered, only a limited number of cards were returned as follows:

Owen H. Fleming, 92, 17—75; W. M. Aling, 94, 18—76; H. E. Eaton, 94, 16—78; W. Lester Glenney, 84, 5—79; Dudley H. Barrows, 85, 5—80.

PARK GOLFERS PLAY FOR PRESIDENT'S CUP

The weekly competition for the President's cup was the only event at the Park Golf Club, Saturday. While a large number of golfers engaged in the play only five posted their score as follows:

Clarence J. Hand, 109, 27—82; Royle T. Phillips, 101, 15—86; Fred Hillman, 123, 35—88; W. H. Nischwitz, 99, 10—89; Charles B. Morse, 106, 11—95. The active season will close at the club tomorrow with special events.

SIX-DAY BIKE RACE.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 3.—The first six-day bicycle race of the season was inaugurated in the Boston Arena this afternoon, when ten of the best balanced teams ever entered in a similar contest in this section began the grind that will continue ten hours a day until next Saturday night. All of the contestants are veterans of the six-day racing game. The Australian contingent is an unusually large one, including Jackie Clarke, Paddy Hehir and half a dozen others. Among the well known American riders who will strive to bring home the bacon are Champion Joe Fogler, Eddie Root, Jimmy Moran, Iver Lawson, Fred Hill and Elmer Collins.

OVERTIME CONTEST WON BY WATCHUNG

Visiting Quintet Put up a Stubborn Fight and Rang Extra Goal of Game.

Although it was booked as the preliminary attraction on the Hope Chapel court Saturday night, the Hope Chapel second team—Watchung A. C. clash was by far the most interesting of the two contests staged at that rendezvous, from a spectator's point of view at least, and after an over-time period of seven minutes the visitors rang the extra field goal that brought them victory by a count of 25 to 23. During the entire contest the playing was nip and tuck and the boroughites played the Chapelites to a standstill on the latter's home court. There was little to choose between the rival aggregations and their goal shooting was about on a par.

The closeness with which the encounter was waged made the guarding unusually tight and the forwards had to resort to sensationalism in order to get anything in that line. Schott, as a foul shooter, was the whole show for the home basketeers, his collection of eleven throws from the fifteen foot mark keeping his team in the running at all times. Bohl, for Hope Chapel, and Bodin, for the visitors, each rang up a quartet of field goals.

When time was called at the conclusion of the ready periods of play, the score stood a 23 to 23 tie and further play was ordered to decide the battle, Underhill ringing the overtime field goal that meant victory after seven minutes of gruelling play.

ERIE TEAM WAS TOO SLOW FOR LOCALS

Holy Cross Smeared the Visitors by the Score of 53 to 0.

In keeping with the reputation established by the road they represent, the Erie Field Club football eleven arrived in sections three-quarters of an hour apart Saturday afternoon to engage in their scheduled struggle with the Holy Cross eleven and proved to be the most inferior cast that has appeared on a local gridiron in many moons. Holy Cross smashed all speed records for the Erie, however, and appearing like a miniature cyclone to their rivals, soon rang up a count of 53 to 0.

Never was the local's line in danger and time after time the red and white outfit secured the ball and starting a march down the field that was seldom interrupted. Many sensational runs were pulled up by the locals and Coyle and Manning got started on sprints that looked like sure touchdowns only to trip over a swelling on the surface of mother earth and fall in their own tracks unmolested. L. C. Smith, a former Alis star, appeared as a "ringer" in the Erie F. C. cast and was the only man that did any playing for the opposing forces. He displayed some genuine old-fashioned football and was a terror to the borough eleven.

DALL HUMBLED AN UNDEFEATED STAR

Rutgers College Racquet Wielder Trimmed by a P. H. S. Man.

LOCALS WIN TOURNEY

Red and Blue Players Opposed the Best In the Middlebush Country Club on the Bound Brook Court, Saturday Afternoon.

Playing against a rival team such as seldom opposes schoolboy racquet wielders, Curtis Dall and Carter Goodrich, Plainfield High School color bearers, trimmed two stellar performers floating the colors of the Middlebush Country Club on the latter's court in Bound Brook Saturday afternoon outshining and outplaying their speedy rivals at every turn. Opposing Dall in the singles competition was W. C. Wells, a prominent Rutgers College player, and after some gruelling games the Plainfielder did the inevitable and trimmed his rival in straight sets with scores of 9—7, 6—3. This was the only contest in the whole season's schedule that the collegian was forced to lower his flag to an opponent.

Opposing "Bush" Byer, of the Home club, was Carter Goodrich, who two weeks ago when paired with Dall won the doubles' championship of the Plainfield High School, and after putting up a stubborn battle the Queen City tennis star was defeated by counts of 6—4, and 7—5. In both of the matches, however, Goodrich was the aggressor but his opponent held more in reserve and when the final test came he flashed the slashing drives that brought him victory.

Joining forces for the doubles competition Wells and Byer matched their prowess against that of Goodrich and Dall and the Plainfielders, following their sensational team play in the Plainfield High School tournament, sprang a big surprise, playing so well together that the home players were completely bewildered by the speedy attack and had to yield to a straight set defeat by scores of 6—2 and 7—5.

WATCHUNG HUNT ENJOY EIGHTEEN MILE CHASE

Twelve couples of hounds of the Watchung Hunt Club led a field of riders Saturday over about eighteen miles of the most picturesque hunting country in New Jersey, the country being so open that the hounds could be seen for many miles and they ran as if a blanket could be spread over the pack. The meeting place was at the clubhouse, the hounds being cast in nearby. They started toward New Market, where the first check was made on the Endicott estate.

The hounds were cast in again on the Clark farm, where the jumping is rather difficult and there one could see from the road both hounds and horses jumping over the fences. Then the chase led on to the Dunbar farm over numerous farms, checking on the Tappen estate on the New Brunswick road.

The folowing were noticed in the field: R. C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, J. J. O'Donohue, Stuart Hollis, Miss Marjorie Brown, Beverley Brown, H. A. Bourne, R. H. Towner, Mrs. W. S. Brown, Miss Margaret Dana, Miss Gertrude Noe, H. L. Finch, F. D. Finch, Miss Doane and Huntsman Harrison.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN LIE SWIFTLY NAILED!

USUAL TARIFF ROORBACK SPRUNG ON ELECTION EVE BY STOKES MANAGERS

Newark Call alleged Straw Vote has earmarks of deliberate effort to bolster up Board of Guardians lost cause. Now fighting once more for second place.

Certain and ignominous defeat makes the Old Gang desperate.

Railroads and Corporations making bold attempt to elect their "Dummy," Stokes.

Another evidence of the fact the advertisement is a campaign roorback is that Mr. Stokes has during the last week been claiming, in answer to the challenge of Congressman Glass to discuss national issues, that national issues were in no way involved in this campaign. Now, on the eve of election, when they know that a discussion of national issues cannot be had and their misrepresentations in regard to them answered, they attempt to inject those issues into the campaign.

The old trick of the Republican machine in every campaign is to intimidate the working man with a threat of loss of employment or reduction of wages, but the workingman cannot any longer be fooled.

The Stokes advertisement that men are being lail off on account of the tariff, is a bold and reckless untruth, made at the eleventh hour, when the Republican machine thought that it would be impossible to answer it and expose it. A convincing evidence of its falsity is the fact that if men were laid off last week in any of the places named, the Stokes Campaign Committee would have advertised it far and wide, instead of confining it to Essex and Passaic counties, and would not have waited to spring it at the last moment as a campaign roorback. It is significant that they did not publish the lies in the cities whose industries they are libeling for political advantage.

LIE NO. 1—The new Democratic Tariff Law is already prostrating American industries, shutting down factories, reducing wages and driving men out of employment.

THE TRUTH—Not an American industry has closed down. There isn't a single instance where wages have been reduced. It is impossible to learn of anybody anywhere being driven out of employment.

LIE NO. 2—The Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia last week laid off 1,600 men.

THE TRUTH—A careful inquiry in Philadelphia fails to locate any person having knowledge of 1,600 men being laid off.

LIE NO. 3—The Camden Ship Yards has discharged 3,000 men. Another well known Camden plant has discharged 2,000 men.

THE TRUTH—The Camden shipyards, are running full time, with both day and night shifts. No men have been discharged. The Republican Campaign Committee did not dare publish this lie in the newspapers in Camden, whose industries it was libeling for political effect.

LIE NO. 4—In all the big freight terminals of New Jersey there has been a decided falling off in the number of locomotives and men employed as compared with one year ago.

THE TRUTH—This is a fabrication out of whole cloth, manufactured in the Republican headquarters, without a scintilla of foundation in fact.

LIE NO. 5—The Camden Iron Works are partly closed down.

THE TRUTH—The Camden Iron Works are running full capacity, with both day and night shifts. No employes are laid off and none contemplated. This lie also failed to appear in the Camden papers.

In the newspapers of last Saturday there appeared an advertisement published by the Stokes Campaign Committee, which said that the Camden Iron Works are partly closed down on account of the new tariff law.

This absolutely false. The facts are the very opposite. The truth is that the Camden Iron Works, up to three weeks ago, employed only its day force, but it then put on a night force, and it is now working not only its full day force, but a night force as well, and is running night and day to its full capacity.

The same advertisement stated that the Camden Ship Yards discharged three thousand men last week. This is also false. No men have been discharged in that plant. The fact is that the Camden Ship Yards are now working both their day force and their night force.

The same advertisement said that three hundred employes were laid off last week by the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works of Phillipsburg, N. J. Mr. W. L. Saunders of Plainfield, the chairman of the Board of Directors of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works, makes the following statement for publication:

"The statement appearing in the political advertisements of the Republican party in Saturday's papers, that in the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works at Phillispburg 300 men were laid off last week, and 300 more will be laid off next week on account of the Democratic tariff, is absolutely without any foundation. We employ 2,000 men, our business is good and has not been affected, and will not be affected by the new tariff."

Mr. Thomas J. Maloney, president of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company, located in Jersey City, employing 5,000 persons, makes the following statement:

"Our business for the month of October, 1913, was the heaviest in the history of our company, which has been in business more than thirty years. The statement that the new tariff is affecting business adversely is not true. Reports coming to me from all over the country show that not only in our line but in every other line business is increasing and the prospects are highly encouraging."

Governor Fielder, who during the last three weeks of his campaign has visited the vast manufacturing plants of the State, including the glass factories in South Jersey; the silk mills of Passaic county; the Singer Manufacturing Company at Elizabeth; Worthington Pump Plant at Harrison reports from these concerns that business was active and that they were at full time and employing their full force of men.

LIE NO. 6—Three hundred employes were last week laid off by the Ingersoll-Rand Drill and Tool Works in Phillipsburg, N. J. This week 300 others will be laid off and the first 300 will take their places in the works. Six hundred men are thus placed on half time.

THE TRUTH—W. L. Saunders, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Ingersol-Rand Drill and Tool Works in Phillipsburg says elsewhere on this page that the statement is false and without foundation. As in the case of Camden, the Republican Campaign Committee did not dare to publish this libel in the Phillipsburg newspapers.

LIE NO. 7—In Buffalo, N. Y., 8,000 men lost their positions last week as a direct result of the Low Tariff.

THE TRUTH—A statement from former Democratic National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, editor of the Buffalo Times, says careful inquiry reports a few employes temporarily let out by one automobile industry as is their custom at this season of the year.

LIE NO. 8—The Trenton Pottery workers after a struggle for two weeks for higher wages, found they could not get the increase because of the Low Tariff. They now fear a cut in wages for the same reason. The Star Porcelain Company of Trenton has laid off 130 men.

THE TRUTH—This is a particularly abominable lie, as it carries on its face the certainty of it being the pure imaginings of a political campaign committee in dire straits. Careful inquiry in Trenton fails to reveal a single fact on which to base this fabrication.

LIE NO. 9—An official of a New Jersey Railroad says he has had more applications for employment in the last four weeks than in the preceding six years.

THE TRUTH—Here is also a lie on its face, as Mr. Stokes' committee would be only too glad to name the railroad official if any such existed and certainly the railroads have no reason to withhold from Candidate Stokes anything that would aid in his election.

Great Singer Sewing Machine Plant from 45% Protection to Free List is Unaffected

L. T. Russell editor of the Elizabeth Evening Times, when asked what effect the tariff had had on manufacturing industries in general in Elizabeth, and especially the great Singer Sewing Machine Co. employing nearly 8,000 persons, which has heretofore enjoyed a tariff of 45 per cent., but is now on the free list, replied: We naturally expect the evil effects, if any, to come quickly, and the benefits necessarily await a complete adjustment to new conditions. We are surprised, therefore, to find no evil effects and many beneficial ones.

"My best answer, however, is the following quotation from my Republican contemporary, which, when it went out to find campaign thunder for the Republican Campaign Committee, was compelled to content itself with the following:

Singer Plant Not Affected

"The fact that sewing machines have been placed upon the free list is expected to have an important bearing upon the business of the Singer Manufacturing Company, which has its great plant, employing about 8,000 in this city. For the past several days it has been reported that, owing to the change caused by the revision of the tariff, work has been slack at the local factory, and that a number of men have been laid off. A statement was given out by one of the officials in which he denied that there had been a large lay-off, and added that none was anticipated. He admitted that some employes had been laid off, but it was the usual thing for the Singer Company to lay off some of their employes nearly every week because of the work in their particular department becoming slack temporarily or because of overproduction."

Benefits Art Company

"H. H. Haines, secretary-treasurer of the Campbell Art Company, 1144 Elizabeth Avenue, declared that the company will be benefitted considerably by the new tariff because of the lower duties on paper, which the concern uses more than anything else in the manufacture of its art products. At the same time, the tariff on art productions by the photo gelatin process, which is that used by the company, has not been reduced. 'With the duty on the paper we use reduced about five per cent. on an average and no change made in the tariff on the manufactured product,' said Mr. Haines, 'we ought to increase our market materially.' The company already has begun to import paper, and if prosperity continues under the Wilson tariff, it may result in an enlargement of the plant."

Condition the Same

"A W. Machlet, superintendent of the American Gas Furnace Company, Spring and Lafayette streets stated that the new tariff will not affect his company."

Aids Piano Business

"George L. Hirtzel, Jr., manager of the Steger Piano Company's salesroom in this city, declares that the tariff will have little or no effect on the piano industry in this country. Mr. Hirtzel went on to say that there was no greater evidence in support of his statement than the fact that the Steger Manufacturing Company has just made plans for increasing its output of pianos from 105 to 130 a day. That shows that business must have bright prospects, said the manager."

Meats Lower

"The dealers are sanguine that the price of meats will be reduced in price as soon as big importations of cattle from Canada and South America begin to arrive. It will take from three to six months for the market to adjust itself to the new conditions created by the Democratic tariff. Beef and lamb are now retailing at from two to six cents a pound cheaper than they were three or four monthe ago and this reduction probably was made by the wholesalers in anticipation of the new tariff, said a prominent meat dealer."

No Marked Effect

"In regard to the new tariff, as far as I can at present determine, there will be no marked effect either for or against the various lines of work which we are now manufacturing, said Fredereick Conlin, president of the Samuel L. Moore and Sons Corporation."—From the Elizabeth Daily Journal, Standpat Republican.

Mr. Stokes' committee fails to explain that tariff burdens formerly exacted of laborer & consumer for support of government have been lifted from their shoulders through income tax to those with incomes of $4,000 and more

PRIEST SUGGESTS PLAINFIELD PLAN

Elizabeth Clergyman Favors Adoption of Local Code of Excise Laws.

ENDORSED BY OTHERS

Monsignor Mackel Wants City-wide Reform in the Union County Seat and Contends That the Queen City Regulations Are Near Perfection.

Following a personal investigation of the excise conditions existing in Plainfield, Monsignor Charles H. Mackel, D. D., rector of St. Patrick's church in Elizabeth, has written to Excise Commissioner William J. Dunn asking him to bring about an introduction into Elizabeth of the Queen City's plan of issuing licenses. It is understood that other members of the commission have received similar appeals from various other Elizabeth citizens who have inquired into the conditions prevalent here and action will probably be taken on the plan immediately.

A license fee of $1,200 for retail and $1,000 for wholesale is the present leviation in Plainfield while in the Union county seat $500 is the rate in both instances. The local saloons are limited in number and the strictest possible regulations are kept over the dealers. No saloon keeper is allowed to open his place before six o'clock in the morning and he must close up by eleven o'clock at night; he is prohibited from selling to minors under a severe penalty for the violation of this rule, all saloons are closed on Sundays, legal holidays and a half a day on New Years and the places are under strict supervision of the health authorities. Unlike in many other places, the proprietors of the Plainfield saloons are a set of respected citizens and are in hearty accord with the stringent measures invoked by the city fathers.

In his letter Monsignor Mackel requests Commissioner Dunn to introduce a city wide reform that will do something for the people of the downtown districts as well as those in the business centers. Besides communication with the Excise Commissioner the clergyman has conferred with the mayor and other city officials in the hope of bringing about immediate changes and has advocated the reforms in his Sunday sermons. Prominent citizens in Elizabeth have been aroused to action over his public announcements and a revolution in the laws restricting liquor traffic in Elizabeth is looked forward to.

His letter to Mr. Dunn follows in part:

"I took the liberty to request you to render a great service. This service is that you will do your best to introduce into Elizabeth the same rate for liquor licenses that now exists in our neighbor city of Plainfield.

"If we had the Plainfield plan here in this city, there would not be so many liquor stores within the limits of St. Patrick's parish. You have it in your power to remedy the sad conditions which now afflict a great mass of our people in Elizabeth. I appeal to you and Messrs. Devine, Cummings and Kane to introduce the Plainfield plan into this city.

"People tell me that you four gentlemen can do this service for the people of Elizabeth if you wish to do so. Will you kindly promise me that you will take up this matter and introduce the Plainfield plan into this city at once?

"Do not refuse me this favor. Why should you or Mr. Devine or Mr. Cummings or Mr. Kane refuse to render this great service to the people of this city? I hope you will send me a few lines promising to introduce the Plainfield plan at once."

MRS. L. M. DUNAVAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Louis M. Dunavan, of West Fourth street, was held at the home of her brother-in-law, David S. Dunavan, on East Fourth street, at 8 o'clock, last night, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including a number of members of Trinity Reformed church, where Mrs. Dunavan was for some time actively engaged in the work. There were many floral tributes. The burial took place this morning in Somerville.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

John Moran, of 727 West Fourth street, who was arrested several days ago following a fistic argument with Harry Goldstein, a Fourth street line trolley car conductor, was released on a suspended sentence when arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza.

ELECTED TO ASSEMBLY.

TWO DEMOCRATS GET IN COUNCIL

Claybrook and Martin Furnish the Surprise at Election in This City.

STOKES' CLOSE SHAVE

Fielder Makes Extraordinary Run—Cose Wins for Councilman-at-large by Twenty-five Votes—Other Results.

Two surprises marked the results of the election in Plainfield, Claybrook, Democrat, being elected as a councilman-at-large, defeating Stutsman Republican, by seven votes, and Theodore A. Martin, Democrat, as a candidate for councilman in the First ward, winning out over Alfred Prudhon, Republican, by nine votes.

Another remarkable result was found in the gubernatorial contest, Fielder, Democrat, coming within 223 votes of the total polled by Stokes, Republican. It was only a few years publican. It was only a few years ago that the Republican nominees could usually roll up a plurality of anywhere from 1,200 to 2,000.

DeMeza, Republican and Progressive, fairly walked away with the city judgeship plum, outing Owens by 1,475 plurality.

Babcock, Evans and Martin, all Republicans, were high men in the Assembly contest with Babcock leading.

For freeholder, Doane, Republican and Progressive, and Wilbur, Republican, won out over Callahan and Endress, Democrats. Doane polled a heavy vote.

In the ward councilmanic contests, Clay, Republican, for re-election, had little opposition from Ivins, Democrat, in the Second ward, and Hylan, Republican, easily defeated Haff, Democrat. Graves, Republican and Progressive, defeated Coyle, Democrat in the Fourth ward.

The vote polled in the gubernatorial contest follows: Stokes, 1,358; Fielder, 1,135, and Colby, 508.

A margin of 705 votes was given in favor of jury reform.

THEY WILL RETIRE AFTER LONG SERVICE

Gloak, Randolph and Others Leave Common Council on January 1.

The Common Council for 1914, as is in the case of the present body, will have two Democratic members, Richard A. Claybrook, elected as at large, who succeeds Charles C. Randolph, and Theodore Martin, ward nominee, who succeeds William L. Gloak in the First ward. Mr. Gloak will retire after many years of service, during which he has been at times a member of all the committees.

The new members will be Theodore Martin, who succeeds W. L. Gloak; Charles C. Graves, who succeeds Patrick J. Reville; Thomas F. Hylan, who succeeds Frederick E. Mygatt; Richard A. Claybrook, who succeeds C. C.Randolph, another veteran member; John H. Cose, who succeeds Fred Endress, who is completing his first team, and Juan A. Babcock, who succeeds W. W. Wilson.

The new body will be comprised of the following: George S. Clay, Francis J. Blatz, Theodore Martin, Cornelius vanHerwerden, John H. Cose, Thomas F. Hylan, Leighton Calkins, A. D. Edgar, Richard A. Claybrook, Charles C. Graves and Juan A. Babcock.

CLAYBROOK A WINNER THANKS THE VOTERS

R. A. Claybrook, a winning Democratic nominee for Councilman-at-large, issued the following statement today:

"I cannot find words to express my appreciation of the splendid vote of confidence given me by the men of Plainfield. I shall put forward my very best efforts to serve the whole people of this city, regardless of party, creed or color.

"I also wish to express my highest appreciation of the splendid work of the Daily Press in my behalf, and its hearty co-operation and support in this campaign which I am pleased to say has been a clean one throughout. I attribute my success at the polls to the support given me by the Daily Press, both in its news and editorial columns."

Native of Somerville, Aged Sixty-three Years—Wife and Two Sons Survive Him—Had Been Ill For Three months.

William H. Brokaw, aged 63 years, one of the best known builders in this city and vicinity, died suddenly of heart trouble at his home, 661 West Front street, Monday night. He had been ill for the past three months and recently had suffered from severe attacks of the heart. It was during an acute attack that he passed away.

Mr. Brokaw was born at Somerville, but had lived in this city the greater part of his life. For thirty-three years he was engaged in the building business in Plainfield and during that time had erected many fine dwellings in both the city and borough. On account of his health he was obliged to retire a few years ago.

Mr. Brokaw was a member of Trinity Reformed church, being a regular attendant, and also Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., joining the lodge shortly after its institution. There survives a wife, two sons, Clarence and Morris Brokaw; a brother, Eugene Brokaw, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Smith, the last two named of Bound Brook.

The funeral was held at the late home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, officiated, and the burial was in Hillside cemetery.

TO CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson to Give Dance to Mark Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, of Hillside avenue, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Friday, November 14, and in the evening a reception and dance will be given at the Hartridge Auditorium. About five hundred invitations have been issued for the celebration.

The affair will be given by Orville T. Waring, Orville G. Waring, Edward J. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fairbanks Reynolds, of Orange; Captain and Mrs. Chauncey Benton Humphrey, of Governors Island, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, of this city.

The reception will be held from 9 to 11 o'clock and there will be dancing from 11 o'clock on. Mr. and Mrs. Timpson were married in Grace church twenty-five years ago November 14, the late Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, then rector, performing the ceremony, Mrs. Timpson being Miss Waring, the eldest daughter of Orville T. Waring, of Park avenue.

NORTH PLAINFIELD TWP. IS LOYAL TO SEBRING

North Plainfield Township paid Charles P. Sebring, Republican nominee for sheriff, a fine compliment at yesterday's election, when he received 83 votes against 23 for Hamilton, Democrat, and 11 for Todd, Progressive; Hammond, Republican, for Assembly, received 54, while Beekman, Democrat, received 31. Hughes, Progressive, who lives in the township, got 33 votes. Stokes carried the township by 2 majority over Fielder. The result follows:

Governor—Fielder, D., 47; Stokes, R., 49; Colby, P., 21.

Assemblym—Beekman, D., 31; Hammond, R., 54; Hughes, P., 33.

Sheriff—Hamilton, D., 23; Sebring, R., 83; Todd, P., 11.

3 MUNICIPALITIES SIGN A CONTRACT

Dunellen, North Plainfield and This City Make Joint Sewer Disposal Agreement.

Prior to the November meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, the members met with the Mayors and Councils of North Plainfield and Dunellen and officially signed the agreement for the joint sanitary trunk sewer, this being the last step prior to the actual purchasing of the Darling farm, where it is proposed to locate the sewage disposal works.

The acquisition of the Darling farm by the three municipalities will probably be by condemnation proceedings and steps in that direction are expected soon. It is also expected that residents of Piscataway township will not allow the municipalities to locate the disposal works within its territory, but it is not believed that the courts will go contrary to the decision of the State Board of Health which allowed the municipalities to proceed as they have been doing for several months after filing plans and specifications.

STOKES A LOSER IN THE BOROUGH

Sebring, Republican, for Sheriff, Gets Big Vote in North Plainfield.

Fielder carried North Plainfield. His plurality was 42. Beekman, for the Assembly, was another Democratic winner in the borough, as was also Bellis for county clerk.

A rousing big plurality was given Sebring, Republican, for sheriff in his home town.

Clark, Republican, for re-election to the mayoralty, was unopposed. This was true as to Brown, Republican, for collector, and Kirch, Democrat, for freeholder.

Milne and Tingley, both Republicans, had no opposition for the Council.

Jury reform was an easy winner.

JACOB A. RIIS HEARD AT WOMAN'S CLUB

"Woman's Share in Our Modern Day," the Subject of Distinguished Man.

"Woman's Share in Our Modern Day" was the subject of an interesting lecture given by Jacob A. Riis before the Monday Afternoon Club, at the Hartridge Auditorium, Monday afternoon. The well-known social worker spoke before the largest gathering of women in the history of the club.

Mr. Riis at the outset told his audience that probably contrary to its expectation he was not going to discuss woman's suffrage, but added that his wife was an enthusiastic suffragist. However, he had always told his wife that to the men who won the country belong the votes.

Mr. Riis told of the great work women have done in the past, referring to Florence Nightingale, who organized a splendid field hospital system in the Crimean War and was the founder of the Red Cross; Frances Willard, who spent her life in the case of temperance; Jane Addams, who fought the forces of ignorance; Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who did so much for Kalamazoo, Mich.

Referring to Mrs. Crane, Mr. Riis said that she pressed into service women's clubs and called upon them to look after the "forgotten people," and he urged that this kind of work should be done by women's clubs, for if they did not have a definite work they would soon cease to exist.

LOCAL RESULTS

Complete tabulated returns of the election in Plainfield and North Plainfield will be found on page seven.

MITCHELL WINS

Mitchell, Fusion, buried his opponent, McCall, Tammany, in a landslide in the mayoralty contest in New York. For particulars see page 7.

FIELDER'S PLURALITY 30,000; THE LEGISLATURE DEMOCRATIC

Successful Nominee's Majority Soars---Stokes Carries Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Gloucester, Mercer, Ocean and Passaic---Colby's Total Vote Over 40,000---Smith-Nugent Machine in Essex Knife's Party's Candidates.

JAMES FAIRMAN FIELDER.

James Fairman Fielder was chosen Governor of New Jersey yesterday by a majority estimated at 30,695.

A Democratic majority in the Senate and House of Assembly is assured.

Everett Colby, candidate of the Progressive party has polled an estimated total of 50,000 votes in the State.

Fielder and the Democratic ticket carried Union county. In his home county, Hudson, he has a plurailty of over 25,000.

Mr. Fielder's success was brought about in spite of the fact that he was knifed, just as had been predicted by the Smith-Nugent machine in Essex county. In that county many organization men stung to the quick by Fielder's continued attacks on Smith and Nugent, voted for Stokes. In Hudson county the Record organization in the Progressive party evidently voted for Fielder so as to make sure of defeating Stokes. Colby polled 11,428 in Essex county.

The Colby vote in Union county was 3,201.

The pluralities in the State, partly unofficial returns and partly estimated, were as follows:

	Stokes.	Fielder.
Atlantic	3,920	.....
Bergen	.....	2,000
Burlington	751	.....
Camden	3,655	.....
Cape May	202	.....

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF TRINITY COMMANDERY

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K.T., of this city, held its annual inspection on Monday night, the sir knights being inspected by Eminent Sir Robert H. Ingersoll, of Atlantic City, grand captain of the grand commandery of New Jersey. He was accompanied by other grand commandery officers, and fraters from the Newark, Orange and Lambertville commanderies.

Among the visiting grand officers were Rt. Eminent Past Grand Commander Warren P. Dobbs, of Hoboken, who is senior past grand commander of the State; Past Grand Commander John P. Contrell, of Newark; Judge Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, deputy grand commander, who took an active part in the inspection, and Sir Otto O. Stillman, of New Brunswick.

After the inspection there were several brief addresses by the visiting officers in which Trinity Commandery was highly complimented for its fine work. The sir knights have been drilling for the inspection for some time and have reached a high state of perfection. A banquet followed, covers being laid for about one hundred.

DUNHAM-GELWICKS.

Mrs. A. S. Jeffrey, of Jersey City, formerly of this city and daughter of Bethune Dunham, announces the marriage of her sister, Miss Ethel Merea Dunham, to Charles Lester Gelwicks, of Mechanicsburg, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Malcolm L. McPhail, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, at his home, 1004 Bidwell street, at 12 o'clock on Monday. VACCINATION WILL BE MADE MANDATORY

Board of Education Provides That Order Will Only Apply to New Pupils.

The Plainfield Board of Education at its November meeting, Monday night, decided that on and after September 1 next, no new pupils will be admitted to the public schools of the city unless they have been vaccinated. The pupils now in the schools who have not been vaccinated will not be interferred with, but the above action will be strictly adhered to by the Board. In cases where children are not physically fit to be vaccinated it will be required that they present themselves to the school medical examiners to obtain an excuse.

The following schedule of school terms was adopted by the Board: Present term to end December 19; winter term to begin January 5 and end April 9; spring term to begin April 20 and end June 18; fall term to begin September 8 and end December 23.

Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, reported that the evening school now has an enrollment of 200 pupils, nine teachers are employed and the work is being carried along enthusiastically. He also reported that he had given permission to have a library sub-station at the Washington School, the same to be open one night a week.

The Board received a communication from J. Fred MacDonald, representing the owners, offering the Netherwood Hotel property for school purposes in that section of the city. It was decided, however, that the building could not be made over to meet the requirements of the State Board of Education without a great deal of expense, in fact more than would be required to build a new school and the proposition was rejected. The plan seemed to meet the approval of many residents of the Netherwood section, but it is said that the expense would make it inadvisable to acquire the property.

STYLE—RELIABILITY

Clothing and Covering

When our prehistoric ancestors first draped themselves in shaggy skins, they wern't wearing clothing—"covering" is the best term you could give it.

We have advanced to the stage where we demand clothing that does more than cover us; we want our garb to look better than the other fellows.

The suits we are offering you for Winter Wear are made of heavier material than the ones we sold in July—which satisfies the "covering" clause.

As to "looking better," we want to say right here, that we never yet had garments in our store that were cut, styled, mannered and constructed as these Fall Suits and Overcoats are.

IN PLAINFIELD.

The Evidence Is Supplied By Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Plainfield what can it be?

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 1009 South Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "There was a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and various other remedies but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store. They made a lasting cure. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I have been for the past five years."

Makes Hard Work Easy!

DUSTING, cleaning and polishing hardwood floors is hard, back-breaking work. An almost never ending task and seldom satisfactory the old way. But it is easy, quick and satisfactory the new way—using the O-Cedar Polish Mop. With it you can spend a few minutes doing what it now takes you almost half a day. You simply pass the O-Cedar Polish Mop over the floor and every particle of dust and dirt is taken up and held. The floor is given a hard, durable, lasting polish and finish.

O-Cedar Polish Mop

is also used for the dusting and cleaning of the tops of high furniture between the banisters of the stairs and is so made that you can get to the far corner under the bed, beneath the radiator and other hard-to-get-at places.

It cuts house work in half.

Don't put up with the old-fashioned hard way when you can get an O-Cedar Polish Mop for only $1.50.

WILSON WINS.

The eyes of the Nation were focused on New Jersey yesterday. Woodrow Wilson's political theories and practises were on trial. James F. Fielder as the Democratic party's candidate for Governor was really Wilson's candidate and the test of Wilson's popularity was made in that candidacy.

Fielder, as the party standard bearer, won an easy victory. His plurality was a comfortable one, yes, a flattering one. Among the Republican strongholds he captured was our own, Union, county. His victory here was no greater than it was in other sections of the State. It was decisive.

And it was Wilson's triumph no less than Fielder's. In fact it was really Wilson's own victory and it conclusively proved that the great mass of the people in his own State approve of Woodrow Wilson's course not solely as chief executive of New Jersey but in his higher sphere as President of the United States.

There were other substantial evidences of approval. Virginia, a Democratic State, gave that party's nominees rousing big majorities. Considerably more significant and effective was the rest in Massachusetts. There, with nine candidates listed, the Democratic nominee for Governor was a victor. In New York the President lent "aid and comfort" to the Fusion ticket against Tammany the corrupt Democratic machine, and Fusion won a great victory.

The verdicts must be most encouraging to the President.

The people of this community are a mighty intelligent lot and they appreciated the fact that in Claybrook they were offered an ideal candidate for the Common Council. Claybrook will prove a valuable man, for like Clay, who returns from the Second ward, he is big and broad in his ideas.

On the floor of the United States Senate, Senator Cummins questioned the accuracy of the Daily Press report of his speech where in he assailed the President. Over 300 people in his audience on that occasion heard his denunciation and it was the topic of conversation among politicians the next day.

When a member of the police force in uniform acts as a ticket taker and ticket seller at a public dance hall, it is high time that the Police Board take some action. Patrolman Martin should be brought up before that body on charges. Will the Board see to it?

Now that the election is over and we know who will compose our next Common Council let's all join in a prayer that the city's solons get to work and give use a municipal system for the collection and disposal of garbage.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will be a representative Plainfielder. The average man in Plainfield is far above the average man in New Jersey and the contributing editor is one of Plainfield's average men.

Senator Cummins' bitter attack on President Wilson, made in that borough, acted as a boomerang for North Plainfield recorded its verdict for the President's candidate for Governor.

Since the Progressive party came into being, neither Plainfield nor North Plainfield can be classed as a Republican municipality. They are both debatable.

The New York Sun, the only newspaper in New York supporting McCall, admitted this morning that the people have no use for grafters and crooks.

Stokes can now get to work on his U. S. Senatorial boom.

Mitchell's the man who gave the mit to Murphy.

And they wouldn't put the O. K. in Stokes.

"In Union (county) there is strength."

Lest we forget, "I told you so."

Old Somerset was heard from.

What saith Jim Martine?

Do It for Plainfield.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

On Monday morning, November 3, the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A. held its regular monthly meeting, and heard most encouraging reports from the different departments. During the past month there have been 700 callers at the office, and 330 people have made use of the building outside of the regular association activities. There have been 12 committee meetings with an attendance in total of 115, and an attendance of 237 in educational classes, 260 at socials, and 214 at club meetings.

The Kitchi Kimiwan Camp Fire girls had charge of serving the Monday night supper this week, under the direction of Miss Mertie Fedderman, Miss Gertrude Mair, Miss Margaret Hawkins and Miss Ellen Doughty.

Four new classes are beginning this week, three of which are free to the members. They are the Glee Club on Monday night, the English class on Wednesday night, the Fireside Reading Club on Friday nights, and the Arts and Crafts class. The last class might be called the Christmas Gift class, as the course in six lessons is planned to come before Christmas in order that the work done may be used as gifts. Miss Serrell teaches this class, and the work of the class is most attractive.

The new English class is adapted for those girls who left school before their education was far advanced, and who wish to become more conversant with good form in English, with spelling, and with letter writing. The class will be in charge of Miss Mary Wells.

Miss Ariadne Gilbert will begin her course of reading in romantic poetry on Friday evening. Around the open fire the members gather for this club, and the sociability and good reading make it most attractive. This club is open to members only.

The Sigma Gamma Club had a picnic on Election Day on the Passaic River, and the girls of the Jonoro Club held one at the chimney on Watchung Mountains.

William D. Murray will speak on "Prayer" at the vesper service on Sunday afternoon. This vesper service is usually the first Sunday in the month, but in November is held on the second Sunday that it may be the first meeting in the Week of Prayer, which is to be celebrated all over the world by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. W. Patterson Campbell will be the soloist, and tea will be served at 5 o'clock.

YOUNGEST VOTE.

An incident on election day in the borough was the voting of Wilbur L. Bird, the four-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bird, of Mountain avenue, who is popularly known as "Billy." The little chap took the ballot which his father was about to cast, and deposited it for him in the box, thus recording probably the vote of the youngest person in the State for Fielder.

JUNIOR ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

The Public Recreation Committee is planning for the first public appearance of the junior municipal orchestra in a concert that will be given in the Washington School auditorium, Thursday night, November 13. A well-known soloist will be engaged for the occasion and the public in general is invited to attend.

Fleets of the World Will Form Armada At Canal Celebration

ANCHORED in Hampton Roads early in 1915 will be the greatest international fleet ever gathered in American waters. It will assemble in response to the invitation of the United States government to celebrate the completion of the Panama canal by making a voyage through the new waterway.

The exact number of vessels which will lie in the famous roastead is not yet known to the officers of the navy department, but according to information received at the state department, through which the invitations were issued, almost every nation in the world will be represented. Some of the nations with great navies may be represented by squadrons of four or more vessels, others by only one or two, and some of the countries practically without navies, including vessels of the first class, will be represented only in the personnel of their legations and commissions to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

The exact date of the rendezvous probably will be announced within the next two months. The formal invitation of the United States was dispatched to all the diplomatic officers of the United States abroad Sept. 17 last by Secretary Bryan. It recites the fact that in the navy appropriation act of 1911 the president is authorized and requested in extending his invitation to foreign nations to participate in the exposition also to invite their representatives and their fleets to assemble at Hampton Roads, Va., and from thence go to the city of Washington, there to be formally welcomed by the president. It is expected that a great international fleet of at least a hundred foreign ships will gather in response to this invitation. The president will go to

REAR ADMIRAL CHARLES E. CLARK, U. S. N., RETIRED, WHO WILL HEAD THE PROCESSION IN THE OREGON.

THE OREGON AS SHE APPEARED JUST AFTER HER FAMOUS TRIP.

Hampton Roads to review the assembled fleets as they start on their voyage to San Francisco.

Our diplomatic officers were instructed that in communicating this invitation they should "express the pleasure which the president would feel should they decide to accept it by appointing representatives and by sending as many of their national war vessels as they may deem proper to assemble at Hampton Roads."

The international fleet will probably be under command of an American vice admiral, in all likelihood Cameron McR. Winslow, for it is expected that congress, which has authorized the assembly, will make provision for this new grade rather than have the American commander outranked by some foreign naval officer.

The ceremonies at Hampton Roads and the time required for a trip to Washington by the foreign guests will consume about a week or ten days, and then, headed by the American fleet, the great armada will take its way southward for Colon. It will be led by the stanch old Oregon, with Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, U. S. N., retired, in command. As Captain Clark, he brought the Oregon around the Horn during the Spanish-American war. The ship steamed 13,800 miles to reach Key West from San Francisco. Had the canal then been in existence the distance would have been reduced to 4,500 miles. The selection of Admiral Clark to lead the parade with his old ship has struck a responsive chord throughout the navy.

It is estimated that about four days will be required to pass the fleet through the locks and the canal and about twice that length of time will suffice to replenish the coal bunkers and oil tanks of the vessels before they resume their cruise to San Francisco.

Altogether it is intended to make the complete voyage from Hampton Roads to the Golden Gate in forty-two days, which will include a stop of a day or two at some convenient harbor or roadstead on the Pacific coast, probably Magdalena bay, for additional fuel and supplies.

At San Francisco there will be elaborate ceremonies conducted under the auspices of the management of the exposition, and when these have concluded the great fleet will break up and the different squadrons start for their respective home ports.

*Re-elected.

Colby's Vote Very Light.

The feature of the election was the light vote cast for Everett Colby, the Progressive candidate. Colby's vote probably will not exceed 40,000 as compared with 145,410 received a year ago by Roosevelt for president.

Fielder's vote in the returns at hand is running slightly below that received by Woodrow Wilson a year ago, which was 178,289.

Estimates from Hudson county, Fielder's home county, show that Fielder has carried it by 20,000; that he will have 3,000 in Monmouth, 1,500 in Middlesex and 1,000 in Union.

Stokes has apparently carried Essex county, the home of Colby, and also the home of former Senator James Smith, Jr., and former Democratic State Chairman Nugent, whom Fielder on the stump accused of working against him.

In Paterson, Demarest, the Socialist candidate for mayor, has polled a heavy vote, and it is very probable that he will be second in the final count to Fordyce (Rep.), who appears to be elected by about 840. This is one of the results of the great silk strike of last winter and spring. The Democrats renominated Mayor McBride who headed the city government during the strike. The Socialists made a vigorous campaign against him.

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, voted at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Varick street, between Bright and York streets. He arrived at the Grove street subway station a few minutes after 1 o'clock and rode in an automobile with his former law partner, George Cutley, and his brother, William Tumulty, to the polls. His vote was 79. After calling on his parents in Monmouth street he took a train that departed from New York at 3 o'clock for Washington.

Wilson Is Delighted.

President Wilson, who returned to Washington at 9:30 o'clock last night after voting at Princeton, sat in his office until nearly midnight receiving election returns. Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, and Rudolph Forster, executive clerk, were the only persons who saw him at that time. They carried to him press bulletins and telegrams from political and professional friends, and he showed delight at the Democratic victories in Massachusetts, Maryland, New York and New Jersey.

The president's interest appeared to be centered in the returns from his own state. At 11:30 o'clock he received a telegram from the state house in Trenton saying that Fielder was elected by about 16,000 plurality. This seemed to satisfy the president, and he went over to the White House with the intention of going to bed.

Representative Doremus of Michigan, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, went to the executive offices at 10 o'clock, but remained in Secretary Tumulty's room. None of the members of the cabinet saw the president during the evening. Secretary Bryan got the election returns by telephone at his home.

Syracuse Elects Progressive.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Louis Will, Progressive, was elected mayor of Syracuse. The vote: Will, 9,847; James E. Dolan (Dem.), 9,458; Eugene J. Mack (Rep.), 9,151.

BAPTIST CHOIR ORGANIZES.

The choir of the Temple Baptist church has organized by electing the following officers: President, Frank Stewart; vice-president, Clarence B. LaRue; secretary, William H. Conger; treasurer, Miss Christina Viebrock. Rehearsals will be held every Friday night. William A. Conger, organist, will direct the choir. Mrs. C. B. LaRue will be assistant organist and choir director.

COMMERCE MEETING.

The November meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, when matters looking to the development of many problems for the betterment of the city will be discussed.

DEMOCRATS WON IN UNION COUNTY

Fielder's Plurality 2,437 and the Assembly Ticket Also is Victorious.

Union county gave Fielder, the Democratic nominee, an approximate plurality of 2,437 over Stokes, the Republican candidate in the Gubernatorial contest, although Union is generally a Republican stronghold.

It also gave a decision in favor of the three Democratic nominees for the Assembly, Dobbins, Griffin and Leonard winning out. Major William B. Martin, formerly captain of Co. K, of Plainfield, was high man on the Republican Assembly ticket with George L. Babcock, of Plainfield, in second place.

Leonard barely escaped defeat, the figures showing that he received about 10 plurality. Later returns may count him out.

As to the Progressive Assembly nominees, former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, made a remarkable run leading his colleagues by over 500.

The tabulated returns will be found elsewhere.

JURY REFORM WINS IN STATE ELECTION

Trenton, Nov. 5.—While the exact figures will not be available until tomorrow, it is certain that the jury reform referendum was carried at the general election in this State yesterday.

Union and most of the other counties gave substantial pluralities for the proposition although in some "machine" localities the plan was defeated.

The jury reform idea was originated by President Wilson when he was Governor and Fielder, the successful Gubernatorial nominee at yesterday's election, strongly favored it.

PERSONAL.

Rev. William S. McCoy, rector of Holy Cross church, is spending the week at Rochester, N. Y. He will return on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dobbins and daughters, the Misses Elsie and Dell Dobbins, of Caldwell, Essex county, spent yesterday with relatives in this city.

Master William Haulenbeck, of this city, left yesterday for Los Angeles, Cal. He will make the trip alone. His brother, Owen, will join him in a few months, where he will make his home with his sister, Mrs. Ben. Newbeck.

James Rollason, who has been employed as chief inspector at the plant of the Spicer Universal Joint Company, left for England last week, where he will make his home in the future near the place of his birth.

PLANS FREE CITY FOR CANAL ZONE

W. D. Boyce Foresees Metropolis on Isthmus.

WOULD BE A FREE PORT.

Chicago Publisher Asserts Income of City From Docks, Tolls, Taxes, Rents, Leases, Etc., Would at Least Pay Interest on Capital Now Invested. Would Develop Trade.

"There is no reason why the canal zone cannot be made into a city of 500,000 people in twenty years and produce sufficient municipal income to pay the interest on at least the original capital invested by the United States from dockage, tolls, taxes, rents, leases, etc."

This suggestion was made by W. D. Boyce, a Chicago publisher, in an address before the southern commercial congress in Mobile, Ala. Explaining his idea, Mr. Boyce continued:

"We have 286,720 acres inside the canal zone. Already many millions of dollars have been spent to make the canal zone sanitary and a desirable place to live in the year around. Nearly all of this will be a complete loss unless we build a great city there. In one way a great commercial and manufacturing city can be built along the whole canal, from one end to the other, with docks everywhere.

"The way to build a big metropolis on the canal zone is no experiment, no wild theory. It has been successfully worked out and proved by Germany and England and a number of smaller countries.

Free City and Free Port.

"The way to build a big city at the central point between North and South America, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the far east and the far west, is to make the canal zone into a free city and free port. By that I mean free from import or export duties into and out from the canal zone. This will not affect the primary question of tolls for passing through the canal.

"If created a free port and protected through international treaty so it could not be affected through changes in our administration or home policies merchants and manufacturers from all over the world would build factories and warehouses and establish branches and agencies at this world center for quick distribution, delivery and sale. In fact, it would become an immense world's department store where everything for the use of all people of all nations could be found. It would become the greatest transshipping port in the world.

"The definition of a free port is: A harbor where the ships of all nations may enter on paying a moderate toll and load and unload. The free ports constitute great depots where goods are stored without paying duty. These goods may be reshipped free of duty. The intention of having free ports is to stimulate and facilitate exchange and trade.

"A free city is a city or zone where there is no import or export duty of any kind on goods bought, sold or consumed.

A Paramount Necessity.

"The reason why I have brought up this question is because I believe it the paramount one in the development of our commercial relationship with South America. If a free zone is created at Panama, South American merchants will also establish branches and agencies there to facilitate trade."

Mr. Boyce directed attention to the growth of Hamburg, Copenhagen, Hongkong, Punta Arenas and other free ports and in particular to the success which had attended British free ports in promoting commercial interests. He asserted that by following their example the United States could secure and retain the trade of South America in full.

ELIOT EXTOLS POVERTY.

Is a Safer Moral Condition Than Inordinate Wealth, He Says.

That poverty is preferable to inordinate wealth as a safe moral condition, and that low wages are not responsible for immorality, are some of the conclusions reached by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, as published in the current number of the Harvard Theological Review. In his article, which is entitled "The Churches and Social Sentiment," Dr. Eliot says:

"One declaration as to what churches must stand for exhibits a strong tendency to attribute the moral evils in the community to poverty. One reads frequently in the public prints that the cause of prostitution is the failure of employers to pay young women what is called a 'living wage.' Must the churches stand for that doctrine? It seems to me a demoralizing and degrading doctrine in all its implications. To my thinking, poverty is a far safer moral condition than inordinate wealth."

WILSON AND FIELDER.

Election of Fielder Regarded Victory For Administration.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

President Wilson took a personal interest in the New Jersey election. James F. Fielder succeeded him as governor when he was elected president, and Fielder's candidacy was openly advocated by the president.

SEBRING ELECTED IN SOMERSET CO.

North Plainfield Republican is Chosen Sheriff—Fielder Carried the County.

Most important locally so far as Somerset county is concerned was attached to the welfare of Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield, Republican nominee for county clerk, and the figures at hand show that Sebring won by 55 votes.

Fielder, Democratic, won the gubernatorial contest by a margin of 197 votes. Beekman, Democratic, was successful for the Assembly.

Anderson, Republican, for county clerk, was re-elected, burying his Democratic opponent, Bellis. Anderson's plurality was 1,222.

The tabulated complete returns for Somerset county will be found elsewhere in this issue.

PLANS FOR REFORMED HEBREW CONGREGATION

Arrangements have been made by a number of prominent and influential Hebrews for a conference to be held tonight, at which time there will be discussed plans for organizing a Reformed Jewish congregation. The matter has been under consideration for some time and it was finally decided to call a meeting. The leaders in the movement believe that there are a sufficient number of Jewish people here to form a strong organization.

If such a plan is decided upon a public meeting will be held to be addressed by several prominent Reformed Jews of New York and later on steps will be taken toward the erection of a temple in this city.

There are a large number of Jewish people in the city, it is said, who favor the organization of a Reformed congregation, believing in the idea of adjusting themselves to present day conditions and giving up strict conformance to the old Jewish customs. By doing this it is the opinion that a strong and influential church can be built up and maintained.

NINE BATTLE SHIPS OFF FOR MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE REVIEWED BY MR. ROOSEVELT AFTER AN INSPECTION

Standing on top of the chart house of the Dolphin, anchored near the tail of the horseshoe between the Virginia Capes, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, reviewed nine battle ships of the Atlantic fleet, in command of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, as they steamed out of the roads on a cruise to Mediterranean ports.

It was one of the finest naval spectacles since the steaming of the fleet on its world cruise in December, 1907. The Wyoming, flagship of the commander in chief, headed the line, and then followed the Arkansas, the Utah, the Florida, the Delaware, the Kansas, the Vermont, the Ohio and the Connecticut. At the end of the line came the sturdy naval tug Sonoma.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MISS FITZGERALD HELD

Funeral services for Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, who died Saturday at her home in Clinton place, were held yesterday morning at St. Mary's church, where Rev. B. M. Bogan, celebrated a solemn high mass of requiem. Rev. Father Sciolo was deacon and Rev. Father Hogan acted as sub-deacon. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

The pallbearers were members of the Young Women's Sodality of St. Mary's church, to which Miss Fitzgerald belonged, as follows: Misses Sarah Kenney, Margaret Townley, Helen Casey, Elizabeth Fitzgerald, May Boyle, Emma Sullivan, Katherine Powers and Mary Kennedy. Miss Fitzgerald was also a member of the Women's Auxiliary, A. O. H. Among the many floral tributes was one from this society.

Mrs. F. P. Todd, of Watchung avenue, yesterday, entertained members of the Tuesday Afternoon Card Club. After the play, refreshments were served.

RESULTS IN SOMERVILLE

The Somerville candidates for offices in that city as elected yesterday are: Mayor, William V. Steele; councilmen; J. Barras and Alexander B. Cline, and constable, John Layton and Isaac L. Shepherd. In each case there was no opposing candidates.

For Freeholder, Edward Brown, R., polled 412 votes and James H. Bolton, running as an Independent, secured 284. Richard H. Layton, D., got 233, and Charles A. Houston, P., polled 102.

The figures for county officers will be found in the Somerset county table in another column.

ASKS MEDITATION.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Paris, Nov. 4.—The French Foreign Office was asked informally today by the Mexican Foreign Office if it was disposed to mediate between the United States and Mexico. The French Government has taken the attitude that it will do nothing until further advised as to the policy of the United States toward Mexico and then do nothing which might be unwelcome.

GERMANY HEARS POLICY.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Berlin, Nov. 4.—Ambassador Gerard received a long despatch today from Washington for presentation to the German Foreign Office explaining the step the United States has taken and is about to take for the settlement of the Mexican situation.

COMMON COUNCIL HAS BUSY SESSION

Ordinance for Madison Avenue Widening Among Important Matters.

TO BUY NOTT ENGINE

A Curb Line Established on West Eighth Street—Written Consents for House Connection With the Sewer.

Ordinances providing for the widening of Madison avenue, from West Front street to the railroad bridge, the establishment of a curb line on West Eighth street, between Plainfield avenue and Spooner avenue, and the regulation of the use of the sanitary sewers by compelling written consents to make house connections which shall be of iron and not tile, and a resolution instructing Corporation Counsel Reed to prepare a form of agreement for the purchase of a Nott automobile fire engine according to specifications were some of the more important matters considered at the November meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. Public hearings will be given on the ordinances Monday night, December 1.

The West End Heights Company, of which W. L. Smalley is the head, petitioned the Council to determine officially the width of Park avenue at Fifth street, where a new building is being erected. There is a difference of a few inches between two surveys. The matter was referred.

A public hearing was granted in the matter of the proposed extension of Spooner avenue, but no one appeared to speak for or against the improvement. Upon the recommendation of Councilman P. J. Reville the petition of Rev. Warner E. L. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's church, for an extra light near the church was granted.

Assignments of certificates of sale in the case of Mary M. Estabrook and Garret Hegeman, trustee, in tax matters were made and in the case of Walter Longman, Jr., the matter was referred to the corporation counsel.

Robert C. Woodhouse, representing the Nott Fire Engine Company, in a communication renewed his proposition to the city, offering to furnish a 700 gallon capacity engine, four cylinders, according to specifications for the sum of $7,850. This was referred to the fire and building committee.

Communications were received from residents of Randolph road for lights, from Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen asking that the public dog pound be painted and from Dr. Charles G. Davis, which was accompanied by a picture of the free dental clinic at the hospital, inviting the members to inspect the clinic.

G. W. Booth, representing the National Board of Fire Underwriters, presented an official report of the recent auto fire engine test in this city in which he advised the city against purchasing the Saurer engine as it did not meet specifications.

Resolutions offered by Councilman C. C. Randolph authorized the transfer of $2,000 from the general to the fire fund, and that the money representing damages in excess of benefits in the matter of widening and extending Sycamore and Kensington avenues, be given to Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed to be tendered to the property-owners that he may secure the release on the same. These resolutions were adopted.

Upon motion of Councilman P. J. Reville C. C. Burke's petition for a light on Ravine road, and another petition for a light on Cottage place, near Richmond street, were granted. The Council adjourned to meet Nov. 10.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 27.

JUST because the president of the company, who was a peculiarly irascible person at times, undertook one afternoon to make me a door-mat for an undeserved tirade of oral mud, I quit.

That was some eight or ten years ago, and I was working as a stenographer in the office of a big label-printing concern. I couldn't very well afford to lose my job, but I figured that I couldn't afford, either, to lose my independence and self-respect.

So, without any preparation or notice, I found myself jobless. What to do? A friend advised me that night to put a little Want Ad. in one of my home town's newspapers. I did. As near as I can remember now, it read something like this:

> WANTED—By a competent, experienced STENOGRAPHER, a position in the office of a firm where faithful attention to duty and the ability to do neat, ABSOLUTELY ACCURATE work will merit promotion. Address———, Blank Office.

The ad. cost me half a dollar or so. But—I got half a dozen answers. And I landed a job in the office of a flour concern at $3 more per week than I had been earning.

Which simply goes to prove, in a way, what I have always believed—that the people who say advertising doesn't pay don't know what they are talking about.

If you are a good stenographer, and if you are out of a job, don't worry. The demand for really good stenographers exceeds the supply. If you are an above-the-average amanuensis, if you are a good speller, if you punctuate properly, if you are versed in good business English, if you are something more than an automaton, if you can think, plan, act, and not merely follow stenographic notes in a machine-like way, the business world is looking for you, anxious for you, waiting for your services.

How can you get into touch with that business world? Through the Classified columns—the Want Ads. Hundreds of business men read the Classified columns each day—men who are always on the lookout for efficient clerical assistance.

The right position is waiting for you. Get into touch with it.

MITCHEL SWEEP IN NEW YORK

Tammany Swamped by Fusion Ticket.

SULZER ASSEMBLYMAN

Deposed Governor Elected In Sixth District.

BIG GAIN FOR REPUBLICANS

Indications Are That Democrats Have Lost Control of Legislature.

New York, Nov. 5.—John Purroy Mitchel rode safely into the mayoralty of New York city on an anti-Tammany wave which gave him 106,012 plurality over ex-Judge Edward E. McCall.

Fusion swept the city. Its candidates will fill all the chairs at the board of estimate meetings except that of Queens, where Borough President Connolly, independent Democrat, whom fusion did not indorse, is elected. Nobody, however, expects Tammany to get any benefit from his vote.

George McAneny is elected president of the board of aldermen, with the prospect of becoming mayor should anything happen to take Mr. Mitchel away. He wins by 50,000 plurality at least over Joseph A. Goulden, Tammany's candidate. William A. Prendergast is elected comptroller over Herman A. Metz by a plurality of about 25,000.

Marcus M. Marks is chosen borough president of Manhattan over Dr. Thomas Darlington (Tammany) by 14,000. Tammany even loses its county ticket in New York county. It had lost the board of aldermen.

Murphy Makes Statement.

Charles F. Murphy, conceding the defeat of the ticket, said:

"The result speaks for itself. Mr. Mitchel has been elected by a majority of votes. His opponents join in the wish that he may have a successful administration and hope that it will be of substantial benefit to the city."

Candidate McCall said nothing. He went to bed early after hearing the worst from his campaign manager, Joseph Johnson, and couldn't be reached by reporters.

Returns give control of the next assembly to the Republicans. Unless the figures are changed by later returns they will control this branch of the legislature by only one vote. The Democrats will have fifty-eight members as against 103 in the present assembly. There will be sixteen Progressives, where there are only five at present.

Sulzer a Big Factor.

Feeling against the Democratic organization, largely on account of the impeachment of William Sulzer under the whip of the Democratic bosses, it is clearly indicated by the dispatches from up state sections, was responsible for the loss of the assembly to the Democrats.

This feeling found its vent in districts where men who had voted for the impeachment of Mr. Sulzer had been renominated. Seventy-one assemblymen, eight of these Republicans, voted to impeach Mr. Sulzer. Of these forty-nine had been placed in nomination again. Only in the strong Tammany districts in Manhattan and the Kings were they successful in defeating their Republican and Progressive rivals.

In nearly every up state district where an assemblyman who had voted for the impeachment resolution was running for re-election he went down in a general slaughter, which in many instances included the entire county ticket.

The direct primary sentiment revived by the Sulzer campaign last spring was reflected very strongly in the assembly elections. It is safe to say that a majority of the 150 members of the next assembly will favor a state wide primaries bill, regardless of party.

Progressives a Big Help.

In Buffalo the Progressives aided in what came near being a clean sweep of all the Democratic assembly candidates. In the last assembly Erie county had eight Democrats and one Republican. At the election all except two Democratic organization candidates for the lower house went down in defeat. Yet the result there could not be called a Republican victory, for in all except two of the districts which the Democrats lost candidates who had the indorsement of the Progressive party were elected.

The result in Erie county puts an end to Tammany's sway in that section of the state and establishes firmly in his leadership of the Democratic organization Henry P. Burgard, who defeated William H. Fitzpatrick, Tammany Leader Murphy's lieutenant in Erie, at the primaries last September.

Onondaga, at one time so strongly Republican, will send to the assembly next year two organization Democrats and one organization Republican. In all but two of the five districts in Monroe county the Republican candidates won over Democrats, running with Progressive indorsement.

ELECTION A WILSON VICTORY

Backed Lee, Walsh and Fielder.

PROGRESSIVES STRONG

Democrats Win Outside of New York State.

MARYLAND WITH PRESIDENT

Massachusetts Result Probably Means Retirement of Gov. Foss From Politics.

New York, Nov. 5.—The Democrats still hold the nation. The predictions of a reaction have been unfulfilled. Blair Lee has carried Maryland, and Walsh has carried Massachusetts, the latter by the sweeping majority of 60,000. Fielder, President Wilson's candidate, has carried New Jersey by a fair plurality.

But in New York state a severe rebuke has been administered to the Murphyized Democracy that took control of the state when Governor Hughes gave way to Governor Dix. Smashing blows have been delivered to the Democracy everywhere up state, and where Democracy is strongest, the blows have been hardest.

In the minor elections, such as those for mayor, the Democrats have generally been successful. For instance, Newton D. Baker, the Tom Johnson mayor of Cleveland, is re-elected over his Republican opponent. Davis, and Indianapolis has elected a Democratic mayor, Joseph E. Bell, by 9,000 majority over a Progressive, who leads the Republican vote by 400.

The Progressives are not down and out, as was so freely predicted. They have not made much of a showing in New York state, but they have shown in many others that they are not negligible quantities.

The main things which stand out from the election lessons are the continued confidence in the Democratic party in every state outside of New York and its utter smash in this state.

Fight in Massachusetts.

The fight in Massachusetts was four cornered, with Walsh running as the Democrat, Gardner as the Republican, Bird as the Progressive and Governor Foss as an independent. Walsh's majority is, as said before, about 60,000. The Republican and Progressive are running neck and neck, and Foss is out of sight. His vote is inconsiderable.

In Maryland Blair Lee's election was just as much of a personal triumph for President Wilson as was the election of Governor Fielder in New Jersey. Mr. Wilson sent Secretary Bryan into Maryland to advocate the election of Lee to the senate. The cry was raised that Bryan was inconsistent in advocating the election of a man who had advocated personal liberty in excise matters, whereas in Nebraska he had bolted the nomination of Jim Dahlman because Dahlman was a "personal liberty" man. Bryan's retort was that in Nebraska it was a state matter, but that Lee was a candidate for a national office.

—There's not a dull, nor an unimportant ad in today's paper. There's not one that may safely be overlooked by any great number of the paper's readers.

BLAIR LEE.

Elected by Direct Vote United States Senator From Maryland.

In Maryland, Blair Lee, in whose contest for the United States senate the administration in Washington took a keen interest, has been elected by something like 10,000.

The attempt to discredit Wilson and Bryan failed, and Lee was elected by a handsome majority.

A similar situation was presented in New Jersey. Fielder was the representative of the Wilson Democracy. Last spring the president of the United States felt impelled to go into New Jersey to urge the passage of certain reform bills in which he was interested. The gang felt so sure of its power that it dared to insult the president to his face. The result is seen in the election of the president's candidate.

Returns Are Impressive.

So much for the three states outside New York where the voters have had a chance to elect state officers. But in New York, where Murphy and Tammany have ruled ever since Dix became governor, there is a terrible defeat for the Democratic party. The Republican candidates for court of appeals, Hiscock and Werner, have carried the state by a majority approximating 30,000.

The individual overturns are impressive. For instance, Monroe county last year gave 1,100 majority, and this year it gave 7,000. All over the state there seemed to be a disposition to soak Murphy.

Westchester county, which last year gave the Democratic candidates pluralities in the neighborhood of 3,000, gives the Republican candidates this year pluralities of about 3,200. Suffolk is another county which has shifted from Democratic to Republican in the court of appeals vote.

The Democrats carried Buffalo, electing Fuhrmann for mayor again. The Progressives carried Syracuse, electing Louis Will as mayor. Albany revolted against "Packy" McCabe, Murphy's man, and elected a Republican mayor, J. W. Stevens.

The old machine won out in Philadelphia, electing the Republican organization candidate for district attorney.

While Mr. Wilson's biggest victory may appear to be in New Jersey, his most important triumph was in Maryland, where his motives were ridiculed and where his sending of Mr. Bryan as his personal representative to urge the election of Blair Lee was made a matter of common criticism. He has elected a man of the kind he wanted from Maryland to the United States senate, using Bryan as his means of doing it.

Foss' Defeat Impressive.

The Massachusetts result probably means the retirement of Governor Foss from politics. He left the Republican party to accept a Democratic nomination, became the Massachusetts Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1912, then coquetted with the Republicans, bolted the president's policy, ran independently for governor and has now received one of the smallest votes cast in Massachusetts for anybody since the last time Benjamin F. Butler ran.

Indications were that the Democratic party had lost most of the lower branch of the New York legislature.

Returns of eighty-eight of the fifty assembly districts in the state showed the election of fifty-six Republicans, twenty-eight Democrats and three Progressives, with one in doubt. Nine of the successful Democrats and eight of the Republicans were indorsed by the Progressives.

One of the spectacular features of the state election was the triumph of former Governor William Sulzer, who, running on the Progressive ticket in the Sixth district, was sent back to Albany.

Fusion Mayor In Auburn.

Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Charles W. Brister, Republican and Progressive, was elected mayor of Auburn by 235 over the present mayor, Thomas H. O'Neill.

Republican In Watertown.

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Isaac R. Breen, Republican, was elected mayor of Watertown by a plurality of 462 over Kieff, Democrat.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Miss Clara Hahn has enrolled in the High School as a freshman.

The Misses Amelia and Margaret Brizzie, members of the sophomore and freshman classes, respectively, who have been detained at their home owing to the illness of their sister, returned to school this morning.

Richard Underhill, '13, is taking a post-graduate course in the High School. Until recently he was employed in the Pond Tool Works. He will take the commercial course.

Since September there have been five new scholars registered in the High School making the total 178. Two of these are post-graduates, two freshmen and one sophomore.

Principal Earley announced that he wanted more entries for the composition contest or the prize would not be awarded. The topic is "International Conciliation." He has only received ten names and would like to have about twenty-five.

FUNERAL OF MRS. McDONOUGH.

The funera lof Mrs. Peter McDonough was held at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Mary's R. C. church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and many beautiful floral tributes. Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, pastor of the church, conducted the service. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the pall bearers were Thomas McCormick, William McCarthy, James Kain, John Hurley, Richard Burke and Jeremiah Cash.

HALVES SHORTENED

Final Score 42 to 0—Time Limit Only Thing That Prevented Locals From Piling up a Record Score—Many Long Runs.

Playing the second half, which lasted but ten minutes, in the dark, the Plainfield High School football team ran up a score of 42 to 0 against Perth Amboy High School, yesterday afternoon. The game was a farce from the beginning, the local boys being held but once for a loss. The game was played in two halves, the first one being twenty minutes and the second one ten instead of four quarters, it being shortened on account of darkness. In the second half Smith, right end, was started off by making a touchdown on the first play, a run around left end.

Perth Amboy won the toss and received the kick off and ran it back to their own forty-yard line. On the first play Perth Amboy tried a forward pass, which landed in Peacock's hands and he ran with a clear field for a touchdown. This took the heart out of the visitors and they were practically at Plainfield's mercy throughout the rest of the game.

Only once were they within scoring distance and this was when a kick slipped through Greene's hands, on Plainfield's twenty-five yard line, and an Amboy player fell on it.

The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD.		PERTH AMBOY.
Mann		Alex
DuBois	Left Tackle	Hardiman

BASEBALL NOTES

Bill Phillips, manager of the Indianapolis Federal League Champions, has been re-engaged as pilot for next season.

It is said that Danny Hoffman, the old Philadelphia player, will purchase the Bridgeport Eastern Association Club in the near future.

Fred Lake, Detroit scout and former Boston manager, has taken a twenty-days option on the New Bedford team, of the New England League.

Chicago Winter League experts have it doped out that Chappell, Fournier and Collins will compose the White Sox outfield next season.

Manager Bill Clymer, of the Buffalo Club, who also owns the Wilkes-Barre team in the New York State League, is anxious to dispose of his Wilkes-Barre holdings.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Captain Hoge, of the Army eleven, and Gilchrist, the Navy leader, both play end.

Wagner, Pittsburgh's star football player, is not related to Honus Wagner, the Pirate shortstop.

The Harvard eleven has been extremely fortunate this season in so far as injuries to players are concerned.

Wilson, of the Yale squad, who was first tried at quarter, is making a brilliant showing as a running back.

Eddie Hart and "Doc" Hillebrand are working overtime at Princeton trying to bolster up the Tiger rushline for the Harvard game.

In beating both Michigan and Wisconsin the Michigan Aggies have shown the best football in the Middle West so far this season.

Dartmouth is in great condition for its game with Pennsylvania. The Green is out to duplicate its grand work at Princeton in the coming battle with the Quakers.

In recognition of the great battle Washington and Jefferson put up against Yale, Capt. Ketcham gave them the football used by the two teams in their recent game.

Charley Brickley, the great Harvard punter, is a bad punisher of shoe leather. It is not an uncommon thing for Charley to use two pairs of shoes in a single game, and then toss them aside forever after the contest.

Captain Henry, of Brown, received a shaking up in the Gilt Edge train accident at Westerly, Conn., recently. Henry had been on the football injured list and his experience on the "choo-choo" didn't help his injured leg a bit.

LOCAL TEAMS TO OPPOSE BATTIN HIGH COURT TEAM

Manager George Horre, of the Battin High School team, is compiling his basketball schedule for the coming season and among others, has contests arranged with Plainfield, North Plainfield and Somerville High Schools. Indications are that the Battin School will be represented by one of the strongest aggregations that ever sported the colors of that institution. Last season the Y. M. C. A. Ajax opened the season on the Battin court and defeated the Elizabeth schoolboys after a close, hard battle.

The probable line-up will be Becker and Powers, forwards; Bloch, centre, and Simpson and Laurie, guards. Manager Horre has booked games with the following schools: Woodbridge H. S., Bayonne H. S., Kearny H. S., Jersey City H. S., Hasbrouck Institute, Somerville H. S., Morristown H. S., LaSalle Prep., North Plainfield H. S. and East Side H. S., while series have been arranged with Rahway H. S., Plainfield H. S., Central H. S. and St. Benedict's Prep., of Newark.

AJAX RECOGNIZED AS Y. M. C. A. TEAM

Association Board of Directors Decides to Elevate Team to the First Team Rank.

In consideration of the calibre of basketball put up by the Y. M. C. A. Ajax in the game against the North Plainfield High School contingent, Saturday night and the relative strength of the aggregation when compared with any other quintet sporting the association colors, the Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors, at a meeting held Monday night, in the association parlors, decided to recognize the Ajax as the official first team and hereafter that team will represent the association on the courts.

Although previous to this time, the members of the aggregation have all been members of the association the team was considered a "clique" in some instances and many thought the players were minors. During the four years the Ajax have been in existence the improvement has been so rapid that the players are now considered formidable enough to take the floor against all association teams and the schedule will include games with the Belleville, Elizabeth, Trenton and Newark Y. M. C. A. first teams and many other fast independent teams in the State.

In accordance with the change new uniforms will be supplied and the team will appear in the new regalia for the first time next Saturday night in the game against the Woodbridge Athletic Association five. Those who are eligible as first team members and who are now playing regularly with the outfit are Brynairski, Gavett, Moulton, Glover, Buckle and McNamee.

MISS COLTON HAS LOW SCORE IN GOLF TOURNEY

The women's golf tournament was continued at the Plainfield Country Club, Monday, when a number of players engaged in the competition. The play will be concluded tomorrow, when the women having the best and second best net scores will receive prizes awarded by Elliot T. Barrows. Thus far Miss Ethel Colton has returned the lowest net scores. These cards were returned on Monday:

Miss Ethel Colton, 58, 25-33; Mrs. W. L. Righter, 63, 25-38; Miss Helen Harman, 62, 23-39; Mrs. A. M. Collens, 65, 25-40; Miss Eva Brown, 72, 25-47.

P. H. S. MANAGER HAS MANY BASKETBALL GAMES BOOKED

Manager John Cottrell, of the Plainfield High School basketball team, is completing his schedule of games for the coming season and has already booked contests with such teams as the North Plainfield, Yonkers, Nutley, Dickinson, Woodbridge, Passaic, Morristown, Somerville, Princeton and New Brunswick High Schools.

While a majority of the contests are booked for the home court, a number of long trips have also been scheduled, notably the ones to Yonkers, Morristown and Princeton. The details of the Interscholastic Basketball League have not yet been completed but the three managers will decide on their definite schedule during the next couple of weeks.

VERSATILE 'RUS' BEATTY WILL CHANGE HIS STYLE OF THROWING

BEATTY WILL USE LEFT HAND IN SHOT PUT.

R. L. BEATTY OF COLUMBIA.

Russell Lawrence Beatty, formerly of this city, is the object of much interest in athletic circles just at the present time because of the announcement made by collegiate authorities concerning the injury he sustained in the 1912 collegiate games. In throwing the sixteen-pound shot on that occasion the burly weight-thrower injured his right shoulder and since that time the member has given him considerable trouble. In order to do any work with the iron ball it has become necessary for him to change his method of throwing entirely and he is now attempting to perfect his record breaking heave with the left shoulder as the pusher.

Beatty, who was known as Lawrence while a student at Leal's School in this city, began an eventful athletic career while a member of the local private school and Plainfield Y. M. C. A. During his boyhood days he was an active member of the Y. M. C. A. taking an interest in every department of the association work especially shot-putting. George L. Listman, now of Montclair, who was physicial director of the Y. M. C. A. at that time, was the first to notice the big fellow's ability and under his careful coaching Beatty developed in a way that amazed his fellow athletes.

One incident is particularly well-remembered by his friends and this happened shortly after he took up the sport in the association "gym" while he was practicing one afternoon. His throws had been particularly strong during the whole practice and was trying out a new style under Listman's direction. Getting the exact poise he was trying to perfect he threw the ball from the extreme northwest corner of the gymnasium to the radiator on the opposite side, the ball landing on a water pipe and snapping it in such a way as to flood the association gymnasium with six inches of water. This throw not only smashed the water pipe but it also obliterated all previous records for the Y. M. C. A. and placed Beatty on a pedestal for the first time in his life.

This big heave brought Beatty before the public and shortly after the throw Listman entered him in several metropolitan meets where he took one prize after another floating the colors of the Leal School and the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Following his graduation from Leals where he was awarded the Yale Cup for efficiency in athletics, scholarship and leadership he entered Cornell but shortly afterwards shifted his studies to the Columbia University. He was elected captain of the blue and white track team last spring and is serving as leader at the present time. He was selected as an American representative to the Olympic games but found it impossible to compete because of the strenuous objection his parents offer to athletic competition.

Beatty has taken numerous laurels in collegiate athletics, in the jumps as well as in the weight throws, and was considered a sure winner of the shot put events this year. Whether or not his injury will handicap him depends on his success as a left-handed putter and if he perfects this side arm throw he will have to exert himself to the limit in order to beat Whitney, of Cornell, who is a close rival.

N. P. H. S. ALUMNI TEAMS WILL MEET PRESENT FIVES

Friday evening at Saengerbund Hall there will be two basketball games between the North Plainfield High School boys' and girls' teams and their respective alumnis. Both of the graduate managers will put out an exceedingly strong team that will make the school quintets go some. Clara Smith, '13, and Percy Bailey, '11, are managing their respective teams and expect to have some players from way back on the floor.

The four teams will lineup as follows: Girls', N. P. H. S.—Marjorie Burtis and Lillian Spencer, forwards; Lucy Douglas, centre; Elsie Debele and Bertha Keller, guards; Alumni—Nettie Steiner and Helen George, forwards; Mildred McAuliffe, centre; Clara Smith and Marion Mair, guards. Boys', N. P. H. S.—Van Mater and Love, forwards; Dunning, centre; Burner and Abrams, guards. Alumni—P. Bailey and Pierson Bailey, forwards; Smith, centre; Townley and J. Abrams.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOLS MAY ENTER LEAGUE

Applications Received From Four Institutions at Yesterday's Meeting.

Applications from the Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield and New Brunswick High Schools have been received by officers of the Union County Athletic League asking for admittance into the organization immediately. Although the New Brunswick schoolboys are not in Union county they are making preparations to launch teams in the league and it looks as though the Middlesex institution would be admitted to the circuit.

The next meeting of the league will be held the first part of next month and the applications will be acted upon at that time. A meeting was held yesterday and following a favorable vote of the officers it was decided to tender them an invitation to have representatives present at the meeting next month.

With such schools as Battin High School, Rahway High School, Roselle High School, Cranford High School, Westfield High School, Plainfield High School, North Plainfield High School and New Brunswick High School enrolled, the Union County Athletic League becomes something more than a county body and one which should be numbered among the strongest in the State. Everyone of the schools mentioned is represented annually by strong teams in practically every line of recognized amateur sport.

WATCHUNG HUNTSMEN HAD A STIFF CHASE

Fast Galloping and Good Fencing Features of Election Day Run.

Fast galloping and stiff fencing marked the Election Day run of the Watchung Hunt Club. The hounds were met at Dog Tavern by about thirty riders. They were first cast in on the Glaser farm and on picking up the scent they at once set a fast pace in the direction of Fanwood, taking the riders over several private estates and farms on which there were four-rail fences aplenty.

One of these brought H. A. Bourne to grief, but fortunately he was unhurt and was soon up with the hounds again. They were checked for the first time on the Hadley farm. The hounds were again taken up and cast in on the Scudder farm for the second line.

In crossing the Robert Nelson estate where fences were stiff, Stuart Hollis, of New York, and Samuel D. French, of Westfield, fell. Neither one was injured. The hounds were checked at Goodman's Crossing on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. The hounds were again cast in on the Stiles farm shortly after noon.

Among those noticed in the field were R. C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, J. J. O'Donohue, Miss Marjorie Dana, Mrs. W. S. Brown, Stuart Hollis, H. A. Bourne, Miss Gertrude Noe, H. L. Finch, R. H. Towner, Miss Marjorie Brown, S. D. French and Huntsman Harrison.

The club will hold a run on Saturday afternoon, meeting the hounds at 2 o'clock at Meeker Inn, Union.

Directions for operating this Money-Saving, Time-Saving, Health-Saving and Labor-Saving Machine:

THE OLD WAY

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

MISS DELIA M'LAUGHLIN NOW MRS. FRED F. SMITH

Somerville, Nov. 5.—The marriage of Miss Delia C. McLaughlin, of Somerville, formerly of Roscommon, Ireland, and Fred F. Smith, of Raritan, took place at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, at Somerville, this afternoon. Richard Ryan officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss May McLaughlin, sister of the bride, and the best man was Joseph Smith, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a traveling suit of blue chiffon broadcloth, with white hat trimmed with plumes, and she carried bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore a brown broadcloth suit and white hat, and carried Killarney roses. The ushers were Joseph A. Sweeney and Frank A. Cook, both of Raritan. The bridal chorus was rendered by Miss Mary M. Brutcher, cousin of the bridegroom, accompanied by Mrs. John B. Mottley sister of the bridegroom.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a gold lavellier, and the bridegroom presented his best man with a gold watch fob with the emblem of the Knights of Columbus. Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Dunellen, where the bridegroom has a newly-furnished home in waiting.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Blanche Sloan, the flying ring aerialist, is the only sister of former Jockey Tod Sloan.

Charles E. Evans, partner of "Old Hoss" Hoey in "A Parlor Match," is again in vaudeville.

The new play by Rachel Crothers, which the Shuberts will produce, is entitled "The Awakening."

Joseph E. Howard plans to make a production of a musical skit by Addison Burkhardt and Charles W. Collins.

Nat C. Goodwin and his latest wife, Margaret Moreland, are credited with yearnings to return to the stage.

"Ben Hur" and Hedwig Reicher will be among the theatrical attractions in San Francisco at the Panama Exposition.

"Excuse Me" will be staged in Paris and Guitry, the famous actor, is to play the negro porter. "The Sho-Gun" is also to be given in Paris.

A new play on the woman question is to be produced by Cohan and Harris late this month. It is by George Middleton and is called "Nowadays."

Mizzie Hajos, with Wallace McCutcheon and a company of twenty four, is to appear in vaudeville in a one-act opera called "Queen Anne."

Lucille La Verne is to establish a stock company in South Bend, Ind., with the system of visiting stars. Carroll Daly will be general stage director.

William Collier is to join W. H. Crane in a joint starring tour of "The Henrietta." Mr. Collier will play Bertie the Lamb, which role Stuart Robson made famous.

Sothern and Marlowe, on account of the twelve weeks which they will devote to California and the Northwest this year, will curtail the length of their engagements elsewhere.

Basil Dean, who recently resigned his post as general manager of the Liverpool Repertory theatre, has joined Sir Herbert Tree's staff in London as reader and literary adviser.

Mary Shaw is to appear in a new play by Butler Davenport shortly in New York. In the cast will be Consuelo Bailey, Beverly Sitgreaves, Joseph Kilgour, Ben Johnson and several others.

Klaw and Erlanger have recently obtained the American rights to the film of the "Life of Richard Wagner," which was recently produced in Munich with success and has been going the rounds of other European cities.

Robert Hilliard, who is playing in "The Argyle Case," has succeeded in perfecting the "ronophone," a device for reproducing the voice as it comes over the dictaphone. When the device is completed it will be used in the play.

Edna May is to return to the stage in vaudeville, a long season having been arranged for her in this country. She will give the famous "Follow On" song of the Salvation Army girl in "The Belle of New York," and several other new songs.

MRS. CHARLOTTE L. ODELL.

Mrs. Charlotte Lowerre Odell, widow of Jacob S. Odell, died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Louis A. Loew, 53 Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, after a long illness. She had been a resident of the borough for some time. The funeral will be held at the late home, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. MacGregor, of New York city, will officiate. The burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

BY FRANCES LAURIN

Irish Economy.

The most important lesson Irish housewives have ever taught the rest of us is the value of potatoes in the daily diet. Potatoes need no special plea, however. Everything else in our daily diet has its ups and downs. First we are told that white bread has little nutritive value, then we are warned against a too meaty diet and soaring prices of beef and mutton rubs the warning in; then bacteriologists caution us against the dangers lurking in milk; eggs suddenly grow scarce and we have an eggless diet; a prominent woman's college declares butter a useless article of food and we contemplate a butterless existence; fresh fruits are said to harbor cholera germs and fish may be filled with ptomaines, we hear. But potatoes continue unchanged and we go on and probably shall go on eating potatoes once or twice or even three times a day.

Who ever heard of a potato being too dear to buy, or who ever heard of potatoes accused of harboring harmful germs? As a matter of fact only recently an authoritative dietician has come forward with an especially enthusiastic account of their high food value.

Of course, potatoes did not originate in Ireland, but for some reason the Irish became their staunchest advocates and it is to the housewives of the Emerald Isle that we must look for the most toothsome way of cooking and serving them.

Some Irish Recipes.

Mash four or five good-sized potatoes and mix in a lump of butter. Butter a baking pan and fill it with three or five alternate layers each of mashed potatoes and bread crumbs. Beat up an egg with a little milk, salt and pepper and add. Bake for about twenty minutes.

Potato puffs begin with mashed potatoes seasoned with butter, and mixed with half a cupful and one, or two, beaten eggs. The mixture should be beaten very light. Have a pan of deep fat at a good frying temperature and drop the mixture into the fat and brown a light brown.

Another dish that the Hibernian housewife can teach us to make is the far-famed Irish stew, of which potatoes are a part. It can be made either of beef or of mutton.

A favorite stew is made of mutton chops—shoulder chops are much less expensive than loin or rib chops, and answer the purpose. They should be put in a saucepan with a few tablespoonfuls of hot drippings, some cubed raw potatoes, sliced raw turnip and sliced raw onion, flavored with salt and pepper. When the chops are seered add two cupfuls of boiling water, cover the saucepan and allow it to cook slowly, say for three-quarters of an hour. Have a heaping tablespoonful of flour, mixed smooth in half a cupful of milk. Remove the chops, keep them hot, and thicken the gravy with the flour and milk, allowing it to boil for five minutes. Pour over the chops and serve as a stew.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

RECENT ADDRESSES ON CURRENT TOPICS.

It has been the writer's privilege to hear recently in Plainfield some very stirring addresses on Current Topics, and dealing as they did with present day problems, these addresses could not help bearing in a manner on Woman Suffrage.

Judge Osborn, in opening his able and earnest address at the Public Library on Oct. 27, spoke of his three years' experience in the Senate. During those three years, he said, he had learned that you can interest men in business but to obtain an interest in moral issues you must turn to the women.

Jacob Riis, in addressing the Monday Afternoon Club on November 3, said that, before he was converted to Woman Suffrage, he thought that those who bore arms for their country were the ones to determine its policy. He came later to the conclusion that the fighting we do for our country has changed its character. The modern fight is to improve the home and women—the co-partners in the home should properly share in this fight.

His topic was "Woman's Share in Our Modern Day" and he mentioned some women "who had slain dragons of ignorance and indifference," notably Florence Nightingale, Dorothy Dix, Frances Willard, Jane Addams, Ella Flagg Young and Caroline Bartlett Crane. These women, by the way, were all of them suffragists. Jacob Riis did not minimize the power that even voteless women have to create public opinion, and, as purchasers, to control evil conditions by refusing to buy the product of sweat shops. But we suffragists want not only the power to create public opinion, but the power to put into office the men who will pay due attention to public opinion.

If women had a vote in New Jersey the recall of Mayor Gill and of Judge Weller would be a warning to those inclined to neglect the public will in certain moral issues. In case any one is unfamiliar with the recall of those two gentlemen I shall venture to place their story here as it was told by Mary Brennan.

THE STORY OF MAYOR GILL AND JUDGE WELLER.

"For years preceding 1911, Seattle had been a 'wide-open' town, the paradise of the human riff-raff, from Bathhouse John's in Chicago to the Barbary Coast in 'Frisco, because there was a legally set-apart, legally protected restricted district. Within this district anarchy reigned—a series of assaults, thefts and murders in addition to the regular business. Some of this leaked out; the newspapers could not suppress it all. A crisis came when a high school boy was approached by a gambling tout near one of the select residential districts and told of a 'good little game' down at the 'Northern Club.' The boy went, lost a good deal of his money, and, in appealing to one of his teachers to help him out with his father, the true situation came to light.

"The decent men of Seattle were aroused to their duty. They started a 'Recall petition,' and worked hard against the strong opposition of big business and big vice. This was in September, 1910. In November, 1910, the amendment giving votes to women passed. The newly-enfranchised voters at once rolled up their sleeves and got to work getting signatures. The Recall election was held and 'Hi' Gill defeated by George W. Dilling by 3,000 votes. Ex-Mayor Gill's remark on learning the result is a part of Seattle history. 'Damn the women' is not elegant, but it is forceful.

The case of Judge Weller in San Francisco is along similar lines. A little girl was lured to a park near the Golden Gate and assaulted. A man and his wife, passing in a wagon, heard moans. On the insistance of the woman, they investigated, and found the girl tied up. They took her home and, when the news leaked out, a small mothers' club determined on action. Alone, without influence or money, they fought this good fight for justice and the protection of the children. The man was arrested, and held in $1,000 bail. He appealed, and, the first judge being absent on a vacation, the case was heard by Judge Weller, who reduced the bail to $100. The man skipped. Then it was that the mother spirit burst all bonds and entered into the fight with vice to the death. They started the Recall on Judge Weller. He scoffed at the idea. What could a pitiable little handful of women do to this all-powerful police judge? for he had been letting such men off on easy bail for years. He forgot the greatness of the mother heart when aroused by the danger of little children; he forgot the vote which so recently had made these women his political equals. He was power-mad. Again, as in Seattle, the good men came to the women's aid, and, shoulder to shoulder, they fought for truth and virtue, and—won!"

IDA H. RILEY.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING RABBITS.

RABBITS when available for the table are so cheap that they cut down the meat bill. They may be cooked in a great many ways, and if well flavored they are appetizing as well as easily digested.

Boiled With a Cereal.

Rabbit and Rice.—Take a young rabbit, a half pound of rice, two onions, a bay leaf, a few peppercorns, butter, pepper and salt and a little whole ginger. Prepare and wash the rabbit in salted water. Wash rice, slice finely a little ginger and put the whole, except about two ounces butter, into a stewpan. Cover with water, bring to the boil; then simmer very gently for one hour, taking care the rice does not stick and burn. Remove bay leaf, ginger and peppercorns, add butter, stir and serve with a little finely chopped parsley and yolk of egg for garnish.

Rabbit and Ham Mold.—Take a rabbit, a pound of bacon, some pork, a pound of breadcrumbs and thyme, parsley and seasoning. Clean, wash and simmer the rabbit until the flesh will leave the bone; then pass it with the bacon through a mincing machine. Bind it together with breadcrumbs and herbs with the beaten egg and press into a stone jar. Cover with paper and steam until done.

A Nice Game Pie.

Rabbit Pie.—Take a young rabbit, half a pound of bacon fat, a small onion, a half teaspoonful each of thyme and chopped parsley, half a pint of veal stock, seasoning and puff paste. Clean and wash the rabbit, wipe it on a clean cloth and fry slightly in a little dripping. Mince the onion, slice bacon and cut into finger lengths. Line a large pie dish with pastry, lay in rabbit and bacon alternately, sprinkling in a little seasoning and herbs also. Pour in stock and cover with a fairly thick pastry top and bake.

Casserole of Rabbit.—Take a nice young rabbit, a half pound of bacon, a large onion, a bunch of thyme, some parsley and a bay leaf, a quarter of a pound of mushrooms and seasoning. Wash the rabbit in warm water with a large piece of salt to free it from blood and dry each piece on a clean cloth; then dip each in flour. Cut the bacon up small and fry lightly, add the onion cut very thin and fry each piece of rabbit in the bacon fat. Put all into the casserole and add mushrooms, herbs, seasoning and a pint of hot water. Bring it to the boil; then reduce the heat and simmer one hour. Test rabbit to see if it is quite tender; then remove herbs and serve in casserole.

The Elf Dropped the Jar.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Fairy Queen's Jar of Preserved Sunshine.

THE fields and roadsides were flaming with goldenrod. Jack and Evelyn had come home laden with great bunches of it, which their mother placed in great bowls on the porch and in the sitting room.

"Can you tell us a story about the goldenrod?" the children asked as they hung around daddy's chair.

"Perhaps I can," he smiled. "Settle down now till I think. All the flowers, I've heard, used to belong to the fairies. They loved them and took care of them.

"Well, once in the time that never was on land or sea Queen Mab, who, you know, is said to have been one of the greatest of fairy queens, was going to have a grand celebration.

"You see all the prettiest flowers open in the springtime, and as this was late in the year the fairies could find few nice ones with which to decorate the big outdoor ballroom in which they were all to dance in the moonlight while the feast was being spread on little toadstool tables.

"There was one meddlesome little elf who was always prying into everything. One day he was peering around in the pantry in the hollow tree where the good things for the feast were kept when he noticed a curious jar. He hadn't time to take off the lid and try it, as he would have liked to do, when he heard the flutter of wings. He knew some of the fairies were coming and he would be caught and scolded if he stayed. So he tucked the gold jar under his cloak and skipped out.

"He flew off, saying to himself, 'Oh, well, the jar will never be missed; there are so many good things in there!'

"The naughty elf found a quiet place in the woods and perched on the top of a tall plant while he took the lid off the jar. It did not come off very easily, and when he did get it off old Mr. Owl, who lived on top of one of the neighboring trees and had been watching him, cried, 'Hoot, hoot; here's the thief!'

"The little elf was so startled that he dropped the jar, and as it upset and fell all the preserved sunshine spilled over the plant, and the flower, instead of being dull green, was changed to a beautiful gold.

"And when the other fairies came rushing up there sat the naughty elf on top of a great plumy golden plant that made them open their eyes and exclaim 'Oh!' and 'Ah!' in admiration. They had never seen anything like it before.

"They put it into a pot and carried it off to the ballroom, where Queen Mab admired it and said to put it right beside her throne, and as she couldn't think of any better name she called it goldenrod. And if you don't believe this ask the first fairy you meet."

GAYEST OF PLAIDS AND TARTANS APPROVED BY DAME FASHION THIS FALL

The continuous cry is for "something new," "something different," so we have plaids this season combined with plain stuffs for frocks and suits. Ofttimes the entire suit is of plaid with plain trimmings; then, again, the jacket is plain and skirt of plaid or a smart little plaid blouse accompanies a plain skirt. Touches of the brighter of these plaids afford extremely smart trimmings for plain dark suits and dresses.

Typical tartans are used, blue and green being one of the favorite combinations. Velour checks are smart also, and there are numerous fetching black and white combinations. Two of the most striking of Poiret's tailored models were checked—one, a black and white, had the edges bound with beige leather; the other, a checked green and yellow, was banded and trimmed with green cloth.

Blue and green kismet plaid with trimming bands and vest of Russian green cloth would be charming for 7991-7992. The blouse shows a long, plain, set-in sleeve. The peg-top skirt is distinguished by the smart cuff hem and the yoke effect.

To copy this design in size 36 it needs 2½ yards of 36 inch material with ⅝ yard of contrasting material for 7991; 7992 requires for size 24 3½ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 7991—sizes 34 to 44.
No. 7992—sizes 22 to 32.
Each pattern is 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Individual Place Doilies.

The table never looks so attractive as it does when the luncheon doilies are used, revealing the highly polished surface in contrast to the "snowy" white pieces of linen.

This grape doilie is to be used in a luncheon-set as a place doilie. The plate doilies, bread and butter plate and tumbler doilies are combined in one instead of having the separate pieces at each place. This design may be used with grape centrepiece, number 14317, which is thirty-six inches in diameter, to form a set.

The individual grape doily shown here is thirteen and one-half by fifteen inches and may be embroidered in white or colors on heavy round thread linen. The leaves may be developed in long and short stitch, bensington stitch or outline and seed stitch and the grapes in solid work or eyelets.

This design is exceptionally easy to embroider and is very effective for the small amount of work and time required.

Pattern number 14650 contains transfers for stamping two doilies which will be supplied to readers for fifteen cents.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Fiske O'Hara has the most delightful role he has ever portrayed in the character of Neil Powers, the hero of "In Old Dublin." The dashing young marine architect who designs a yacht that wins an international event, thwarts the machinations of two rascally plotters and sings his way into the heart of an Irish-American heiress, is one of those romantic personages who might have stepped out of the pages of one of Lever's novels. Ireland might be called the motherland of yachting, for the sport began there in the 18th century, and the tight little isle has ever since held a prominent place in aquatic events. The great race scene, which Augustus Pitou introduces in the play, although merely incidental to the love story that forms the principal theme, is nevertheless important in the fact that it portrays life in the world's greatest yachting centre of a century ago, Dublin. All the quaint characters seen at such events are introduced in the final scene and contribute not a little to the comedy and fun. This play will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night, November 10.

"TAXATION IN NO. PLAINFIELD."

The Parent-Teacher Association of the North Plainfield High School will hold a special meeting at the Somerset School, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time Charles M. Dolliver, clerk of the borough, will speak on "Taxation in North Plainfield." All mothers who have not yet joined the association are especially urged to attend this meeting.

Beautiful New Dresses in a Great Sale

The Season's Foremost Models in Silk, Chiffon Velvet and Serge; Appropriate for All Occasions; Made to Sell for $20.00, $22.50 and $25.00; Special at This Low Price of..... $15

The reason for this very unusual sale lies in the fact that the manufacturer, regarded as one of New York's foremost makers of women's garments, wanted to make a quick disposal of the entire balance of his season's stock, representing exactly 512 garments. Knowing the reputation of this house for great sales and for the quick dispersal of large quantities, he turned to us with the firm belief that it needed only the right price to effect the sale of the entire lot of 512 garments. In less than twenty minutes the deal was made, with the result that we can now offer in this extraordinary sale at $15.00 stunning dresses that were never intended to sell for less than $20.00, $22.50 and $25.00.

The timeliness of this event, the cleverness and high character of the garments, the splendid savings afforded, all combined with the fact that dresses, such as these, are now in greatest demand, make this event stand out beyond a doubt as the season's greatest sale of dresses. Full range of sizes from the 16-year old miss up to 44 inch bust, affording an opportunity to every woman to take advantage of this most remarkable dress selling opportunity.

"CRISES"

A sermon by

REV. A. E. WILSON,

Pastor All Souls' Unitarian Church.

He defined a crisis as such a critical condition of affairs that the next moment or next step decides many things for us and may make or mar our life. History is full of such moments for men and nations. Our own lives have them when we are the battle-ground between good and evil. We find them in business, politics, religion; in our physical, moral and spiritual life.

Referring to industrial and financial crises of the past, the speaker said their causes could be found in man's selfishness, or in his unwillingness to understand his and others' true position here on earth, or in a false political economy which extols wealth, power, greatness, instead of brotherhood, love, service. We may expect more of such crises until we learn to take this diviner view and study the needs of all humanity and its future, and live as one family under a divine parentage.

Of the two crises of nation-wide importance today, he spoke as follows: The crisis in the New York political situation is a moral one. The present system, or its control, has debauched and degraded men and women. It has blunted the consciences of those who have been caught in its maelstrom of graft and wickedness. It has killed ideals of private virtue and public service. It draws so-called "big business" into its whirlpool.

Next Tuesday this crises will be anxiously watched by millions of people and upon the verdict of that day will depend in no small degree the morals of this nation. In such a crisis shall we stand by idly and do nothing? Let us look once more into the purpose of our being here, and see that only honorable, upright, conscientious service for the public welfare, is the character that will stand the test of man or God.

Next Tuesday's vote on the side of law and righteousness is only a beginning. The real reform must take place within each heart and every endeavor be made to practise daily the call of conscience and of Christ to seek first for the kingdom of God.

There is a crisis today in Mexican affairs, that unfortunately involves this country. It is the result of long years of ancient Spanish ideals instead of modern Anglo-Saxon ruling in that land. Mexico today is experiencing the meeting of cyclonic disturbances in those currents that are 20th century democratic and 16th century monarchic.

She stands indicted before the world for her barbaric conditions and practices and her ruler condemned for his mediaeval ideals and conduct. Let us hope that in their hour of its crisis we shall not be obliged to go there to help; but if we do, may it be to put this land in the class with true republics. If go we must, let it be to "bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, the opening of the prison to them that are bound, and to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

HERE AND THERE.

An article in The New York Herald of Sunday describing the lives of well-known crooks and telling how many of them have reformed and have since become honest and upright citizens, relates the following interesting incident concerning a bank robbery in this city a number of years ago:

"Plainfield has just cause to remember a visit paid to it by Killoran. Accompanied by 'Patsy' Flannigan and 'Sid' Yennie, Killoran went to the First National Bank of the pretty little suburban city, and while he engaged the clerks in close conversation Flannigan procured $22,000 and all three fled. Captured shortly thereafter, Killoran escaped from jail and fled to Europe. In his flight he met with an accident which cost him a leg, and there for a while he had to resort to a crutch he had previously used as a blind. With an artificial limb he again became as active as ever."

SHOT AFFLICTED HORSE.

Dr. Loeblin, a veterinary surgeon in the employ of the State Board of Health, and Randolph Chandler, the local health officer, went to the farm of Louis Clark in Glenside Park, Friday afternoon and shot a horse that was found to be suffering from glanders. The local health department requested the State veterinary to make an examination and when he diagnosed the case as glanders the owner of the condemned equine ordered it destroyed.

GIRLS ON LONG HIKE.

Starting at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, ten members of the Camp Fire Club of the North Plainfield High School took an all day hike to the Passaic River. The party was under the direction of Miss Eva Terry, who is the guardian, and she led them over the dugway hill and over to Stirling. At noon they stopped along the river and ate lunch and had a few club ceremonies. The party returned home shortly before supper.

Hammond's

Handy Atlas of the World

Is a most complete work in compact size, printed this year, from new plates

EXACT SIZE OF THE HANDY ATLAS IS 6x8 INCHES

CONTAINS 90 BEAUTIFULLY COLORED MAP PLATES

An absolutely reliable, up-to-date work, containing a NEW SERIES OF MAPS, printed IN COLORS; superior in construction to, and more complete in detail than any other of similar size and price.

It contains a separate RAILROAD MAP OF EACH STATE AND TERRITORY; maps of each of our insular possessions, and of every other portion of the globe, printed in colors from new plates. In the maps of our states and territories and of the provinces of Canada, RAILROADS ARE NAMED, and stations are shown, in a very complete manner. These, and all other details, are brought down to as recent date as in any of the more expensive atlases.

Alphabetically arranged lists of cities give the LATEST POPULATION STATISTICS.

1910 CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Giving new population figures of all States, Territories and the Principal Cities. Also the latest population figures of foreign countries and cities.

AMONG THE MANY INSTRUCTIVE AND ATTRACTIVE FEATURES OF THIS NEW WORK ARE THE FOLLOWING SPECIAL MAPS AND DIAGRAMS:

THE COMMERCIAL LANGUAGES OF THE WORLD—Showing, in separate colors, the languages common to the commerce of each country.

STATE ORGANIZATIONS—Showing, in colors, the form of government of each country and colony.

TIMBER SUPPLY OF THE WORLD—Showing, in color, the principal and minor sources of supply.

THE WORLD ON THE EQUIVALENT PROJECTION—On this map all areas appear in their true proportion.

ARTIC REGIONS—Showing the route of all explorers, including the recent expedition of Peary. The newly chartered coast of northeast Greenland, as determined by the Mylius Erichsen expedition, is shown.

ANTARTIC REGIONS—Showing the routes of all explorers, including the expeditions of Scott and Shackleton.

OUR ISLANDS IN THE PACIFIC—Showing islands prominently, with cables, steamship routes, etc.

PANAMA CANAL—Showing the latest revised plans of construction, with cross section and profile.

PAMOS MOSAICS

TRADE MARK PAMOS CRAFT

For Home Circle Pleasure

Here is something that will bring no end of pleasure into your home circle. Pamos Mosaics are a delightful pastime for everybody. Old and young become at once deeply interested. The further they go, the keener the interest becomes.

Pamos Mosaics appeal strongly to that instinct we all have to "make something." When they are finished, they are objects of real artistic merit. There is not a room which will not be improved by a few Pamos Mosaics on the mantel-shelf or wall.

A New Kind of Easy Art Work

Beautiful results are accomplished by the Pamos-Crafter. These results are accomplished in the easiest way imaginable. Pamos makes artists of us all. Absolutely no artistic ability is necessary to produce perfect results with Pamos. There is nothing to draw, nothing to trace, nothing to color. Scissors and paste are all you need. The construction of Pamos Mosaics is so simple and so easy that you marvel at the results accomplished.

Pamos Crafting is just starting in this community and it is going to be one of the most widely spread popular pastimes that we have ever known. You, who pride yourself upon keeping up to date, be a Pamos pioneer. Be the one to introduce it into your social set as a parlor amusement or a party pastime and see what a hit you will make with it.

The Children

THE LITTLE ONES go simply wild over Pamos. Even the little child of six or seven can accomplish great things with Pamos. It gives them many an hour's delight. It develops their eye for color and artistic design. It teaches many a valuable lesson. It is one of the greatest home amusements for children ever invented. Pamos will make your little ones happy. MACRORIE'S CASE IS UP ON APPEAL

Argument to Be Heard in Supreme Court at Trenton Now in Session.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD

When Newark Conference Meets on March 18 Convicted Pastor Will Be Tried Again on the Same Charges.

Among several cases of interest listed for argument in the November term of the Supreme Court, which began at Trenton, yesterday, is that of Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the former pastor of the Mt. Horeb, Springdale and Martinsville M. E. churches, who, through his counsel, has sued out a writ of error which brings the case to the Supreme Court.

MacRorie was found guilty in the Union county courts following a trial in which he was charged with intimacy with Miss Edith Nelson, 19 years old, a choir member of his congregation. He was indicted by the Grand Jury and after his conviction at the trial was sentenced to a minimum jail term. From this sentence and conviction he is now appealing.

When the annual session of the Newark Conference is held in Halsey Street M. E. church, Newark, March 18, MacRorie will be called upon to face another trial. This action has been determined upon because the conference, or at least some of the members, believe that following the former pastor' conviction in a civil court, the conference should have another chance to set itself right regarding the previous action when MacRorie was really acquitted. At the time he was suspended from further pastoral duties.

KING'S DAUGHTERS UNION PROSPEROUS

Some Encouraging Reports Submitted at Its Semi-Annual Meeting.

Encouraging reports for the past six months were presented at the semi-annual meeting of the City Union of The King's Daughters held this morning in the parish house of Grace church. Mrs. Charles A. Reed, the president, directed the business of the meeting, the first part of which was chiefly routine consisting of the reports of the treasurer and other officers.

Mrs. Emma L. Bird, matron of The Day Nursery, gave an excellent report showing that during the past six months 2,643 children had been cared for. These represent seventy families. Four new children were received the past month. A majority of the children are brought to the nursery at 7 o'clock in the morning, remaining there until 6:30 o'clock at night, when the mothers return from work. Mrs. Bird also stated that the two socials a month, one for the colored people and one for white people are proving a success and will be continued this winter.

The report of Miss Lovell for the nursing bureau, was also an excellent one, giving the members an idea of the wide scope of this department and the good accomplished in giving aid to the sick. A letter was received from Dayton, Ohio, seeking aid. It was reported that the linen closet is in need of replenishing and it is hoped that assistance will be forthcoming.

Mrs. Emerson E. Parvin, of the Benevolent Band, presented her resignation as a trustee and corresponding secretary and Mrs. Lamar VanSyckel was chosen to fill the position for the next month. A report of the recent reception and donation party at the Nursery was received.

It having been found that the constitution in some respects is not designed to meet some of the present day needs, it was amended.

CHORAL CLASS GROWING.

Several new members joined the Kornlimo Choral Class on Tuesday evening, at which time some new work was taken up for rehearsal. The acquaintanceship meeting held after rehearsal was enjoyed. A buffet supper was served. The rooms were decorated with the class colors, yellow and white.

T. HARDING IMPROVES.

Thomas Harding, of John street, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday for an infected left foot caused by blood-poisoning, which set in after he had accidentally stepped on a rusty nail. The operation was successful and undoubtedly he will be fully recovered in a few weeks.

KING'S DAUGHTERS PLANS A CABARET

Cafe Chantante to Be Held at Park Club Tuesday Night, November 11.

The Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters has completed arrangements for a cafe chantante to be given at the Park Club, Tuesday night, November 11, and it promises to be one of the most successful affairs ever given by the circle.

Among those who will take part in the cabaret performance are Rosewell Rolston, Harry McGee, Donald McGee, Charles Titsworth, Miss Eunice Watson, Miss Butler, Miss Elizabeth McGee, Mrs. A. M. Abbott, Mrs. Charles Titsworth, Mr. Brinkerhoff, Mr. Bliss.

Mrs. William R. Faber will have charge of the sale of cigars and cigarettes; Mrs. L. D. Albin, the refreshments, the waitresses being the members of Silver Cross Circle, while another group of attractive young women will sell flowers and candy. Mrs. Alson M. Abbott, Mrs. Harry McGee and Mrs. Charles Titsworth are in charge of the program, while Mrs. Francis DuBois is general chairman of the entertainment committee. Mrs. Wilbur Rogers is chairman of the decorating committee, and is making elaborate preparations for transforming the Park Club into an attractive French atmosphere. Mrs. Alexander Milne is president of the circle.

The Silver Cross Circle has planned a great deal of work for the winter and it is hoped that the support given the entertainment will be generous.

ACQUAINTANCE PARTY TO BE HELD TONIGHT

High School Parent-Teacher Association Will Provide the Entertainment.

The High School Library will tonight house an "Acquaintance Party" when the Parent-Teacher Association will strive to bring about a better acquaintance between the teachers and the parents of pupils in that school. A general invitation has been extended to those who have children in the High School to attend the meeting, and it is expected that there will be a large audience. Assisting Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, president of the High School Parent-Teachers' Association and the officers of that organization in receiving will be President of the Board of Education and Mrs. Tyler, Supervising Principal and Mrs. H. M. Maxson and Principal and Mrs. Lindsay Best.

The various teachers throughout the school will be in their class rooms at 8 o'clock where they will be glad to consult with parents about the work of their children, and after that all will be invited to gather in the Library, where a program of music by the Philomeno Quartet and readings by Miss Adelaide Parker Jackson will be given, after which there will be refreshments. It is hoped that there will be a large gathering of local parents who are interested in the work of the High School, and who may wish to see the efficient way in which that work of the splendid educational institution is conducted.

NEW CONTRALTO SOLOIST AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Miss Leontine De Ahna, a member of the faculty of the Institute of Musical Art, of New York, has been engaged as contralto soloist for the First Baptist church. She sang at both services last Sunday, the offertory number being a solo, and she made a favorable impression. Miss DeAhna is a vocal instructor having been successful. She is a native of Berlin and a sister-in-law of Richard Strauss, the well-known composer. She will succeed Mrs. Annabelle Dickey, who was obliged to give up singing on account of illness.

HALF-YEARLY MEETING OF SOCIETY OF FRIENDS

The Shrewsbury and Plainfield Half-Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends will be held at the meeting house on Watchung avenue, Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. A meeting under the care of the advancement committee will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Young Friends' Association will have charge of the evening meeting at 7:45 o'clock, when Miss Mabel H. Vail will give a further account of her trip in Europe in the summer of 1912 as a guest of the Plainfield Daily Press. Her talk will be illustrated.

ENJOY DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB

Several Hundred Are Present at Opening Function for the Season.

CLUBHOUSE DECORATED

Wives of Governors Compose Reception Committee—Mrs. William H. Rogers Chairman of Reception Committee.

The opening reception and dance, marking the resumption of social activities, was held at the Park Club last night and proved to be a delightful affair. Nearly three hundred members and friends of the club were present to enjoy the pleasing form of entertainment provided by the general committee, of which Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers is the chairman. The clubhouse was elaborately decorated by Henry Johnson, the steward, there being a profusion of willow branches and evergreens placed about the stage and the gallery.

The wives of the governors of the club acted as a reception committee, comprising Mrs. Francis L. Sill, Mrs. George L. Babcock, Mrs. H. M. Fisher, Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell, Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. William H. Williams, Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers and Mrs. William Barlow. The refreshments, which were in charge of Mrs. Frank Whitney French, were served during the evening.

The music for dancing was furnished by Muller's Orchestra and was one of the features. The program was an especially popular one and many encores were given. The dancing continued until an early hour this morning. From now on there will be numerous social functions at the club, making the season a very busy one for the members.

IMPROMPTU PARTY FOR BORO SCHOOL STUDENTS

About fifteen members of the High School and their friends held an impromptu party at the home of Miss Edna Green, of Grandview avenue, Tuesday night. The evening was spent in playing games and many original features were introduced. Refreshments were served by the hostess' mother.

Those who were present are Edna Green, Ann Hull, Marjorie Burtis, Amelia Brizzie, Margaret Brizzie, Edith Dalley, Margaret Ewart, Roy Love, Ashley Burner, Ralph Smalley, Duclos Van Mater, Franklin Lowe, Hoyt Tomkinson, John Hull, Lester Chandler and Elmer French.

NEW CHURCH BODY.

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church has been disbanded and in its place a Christian Endeavor Society has been organized. The first meeting of the new organization will be held Sunday night at 6:50 o'clock and a little later arrangements will be made to complete the organization by electing officers and appointing committees. Several years ago there was an Endeavor Society in this church, but a Young People's Society succeeded it and now it has been thought best to make another change.

LOOKED SUSPICIOUS.

Arrested at 3 o'clock this morning by Patrolman O'Sullivan as a suspicious person, John Holtig, of 271 Jackson avenue, was released this morning, following his arraignment before City Judge DeMeza. He could not give a reasonable account of his presence at the unseemly hour in Netherwood avenue and his record was investigated. Nothing could be revealed to warrant his further detention. According to the police he carried a bag with him and had $90 in bills in a handkerchief tied around his leg at the knee.

A KITCHEN SHOWER.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garner, of 842 Richmond street, were tendered a surprise kitchen shower Monday night. Among those present were Mrs. Annie Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williams, Mrs. F. D. Tildon, Mrs. Susie Brown, Mrs. Sarah Pryear, Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, Mrs. D. Summer, Mrs. Nancy Smith, Miss Mary Neil and Washington Neil. Mr. Garner is scoutmaster of Troop No. 7, Boy Scouts, of Bethel chapel.

CHURCH CELEBRATION.

The celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of the Calvary Baptist church will begin tonight, when an oration by the Rev. M. W. Vaughn, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, will feature the program. The choir of the latter church will also render selections. The deacons of the church will be in charge of the event.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS FOR PRAYER WEEK

The Local Y. W. C. A. to Begin Annual Observance Next Week.

The World's Week of Prayer under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association will open on Sunday. The announcement says that "It is proof of the reality of the Christian fellowship which is today uniting the different people of the world by the closest of bonds." From November 9-15 the young women of forty different nations will unite together daily in thanksgiving and prayer for each others work. Many Christian people will doubtless wish to share the responsibility and blessings of this world's prayer. All women and girls are invited to attend the following meetings of the local association: Sunday afternoon, 4 p. m., leader W. D. Murray; topic, "Prayer." V. Patterson Campbell will be the soloist.

Reception for foreign delegates, Thursday evening, November 13, 8 o'clock, to be addressed by Miss Gertrude MacArthur, of New York, who will speak on "Association Work in Japan and India."

GERM THEORY OF DISEASE A PHYSICIAN'S SUBJECT

Dr. L. G. Newman, of Westfield, gave an instructive talk on the "Germ Theory of Disease," at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant School, yesterday afternoon. He recalled to mind that most diseases are germ diseases and that the best way to fight these germs is by keeping in the best physical condition so that the white corpuscles of the blood may be strong enough to fight and destroy the disease germs. After the address of Dr. Newman and the transaction of routine business there was a social hour.

COMMUNION FOR MEN.

The executive committee of the Men's Club of Grace church has issued a call for a corporate communion for members of the club and men of the parish on Thanksgiving Day at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. The rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, hopes that all of the congregation will make a special effort to be present on that occasion. After the service breakfast will be served to all men in the parish house.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Edward Connors of Bayonne, and John Peters, of Lebanon, returning late last night from a celebration in New York city, alighted from the train at the North Avenue station and were arrested by Patrolman Kelly on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct. When arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza, they were released on suspended sentence.

CALLS OUT TROOPS.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Indianapolis, In., Nov. 6.—Governor Ralston has ordered the entire State Militia to this city to cope with the street car strikers. Martial law will be declared by the Governor. All the troops, about 2,000 in number, including three battery companies, are expected to be in the city late today.

Y. M. H. A. DANCE.

Invitations have been issued for a reception and dance to be held Thanksgiving night in the Columbus Club auditorium by the members of the Y. M. H. A. The affair promises to be an auspicious one and the committee on arrangements is making extensive plans to make the evening an enjoyable one.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS.

There will be a public installation of the officers of Jehudah-Halevi, Camp No. 57, Order Sons of Zion, in Knights of Pythias Hall, Stillman building, Sunday night. Dr. Isaac J. Bluestone, of New York, will install the officers, after which there will be a banquet.

FINAL REHEARSAL.

The final rehearsal of the Junior Municipal Orchestra preceding the musical recital it will give Thursday, November 13, at the Washington School, will be held tonight at the Franklin School.

AT GRACE CHURCH.

Udo Gossweiler, of East Orange, 'cellist, will assist in the 11 o'clock service at Grace church, Sunday morning.

SEBRING ELECTED BY BUT 10 VOTES

North Plainfielder, G. O. P. Shievalty Nominee in Somerset, is a Winner.

Complete returns for Somerset county filed at the County Clerk's office in Somerville show that Sebring, Republican, of North Plainfield, has been elected sheriff by a plurality of 10 ballots over Hamilton, his Democratic rival.

Although it was announced in last night's Daily Press that Mr. Sebring had won by 55 votes, the official returns show that several discrepancies had been made at the county clerk's office in taking down the returns over the telephone. It was also rumored about the city and borough this morning that a tie existed. The vote now stands: Sebring, R., 2,842; Hamilton, D., 2,832.

It was announced yesterday that the vote for shrievalty honors stood 2,822 for Sebring and 2,769 for Hamilton, as shown in the county table compiled by this paper. Later it was discovered that Hamilton had 81 ballots to his credit on the official reports, whereas he had only been given 18. This made a difference of 63 votes and placed him in the lead with a vote of 2,832. A mistake was then revealed on the unofficial returns giving Sebring 10 more votes, thus establishing a tie. It was when the official returns of Bernards township came in that Sebring was declared the winner. Telephonic reports credited Sebring with 379 votes, whereas the official returns showed that 389 ballots had been cast in his favor. These additional votes places the borough candidate in the lead by ten.

Had a tie existed an odd situation would have developed. According to the New Jersey election law one of the coroners of the county assumes the position of high sheriff in case of a tie vote for the regular candidates. There are three coroners in the county; two of these are physicians and one an undertaker.

CRISIS NOW REACHED ON CURRENCY MEASURE

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—Senator Simmons had a half hour conference with President Wilson at the White House this morning and urged the calling of a Democratic caucus to pass the Currency Bill. Mr. Simmons told the President that the Democrats of the Senate could not and would not stand for a currency bill which has failed to receive the support of the majority of the Democratic members of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. It was pointed out that the bill as no wbeing drafted in the committee had the support of the Republicans and not more than two of the Democrats.

SAFETY GASOLENE CAN SHOWN AS A SUCCESS

For the purpose of proving the practicability and usefulness of the McNutt Company's safety gasoline can, representatives of the firm conducted a demonstration in the rear of fire headquarters yesterday afternoon, which was witnessed by a large number of those interested in the invention.

The test proved conclusively the claims made for it by the manufacturer and the various methods of testing the can all showed its usefulness.

The safety appliance is on sale at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

ADVERTISING CLUB FOR BUSINESS MEN

Committee Appointed to Interest Merchants in the Movement.

With the idea of forming a merchants' advertising club a number of business men met last night in the Frost building to discuss preliminary plans. It was the concensus of the meeting that since the Plainfield Merchants' Association was merged with a number of civic organizations, nothing of especial value to the merchants and business men of the city has been accomplished by the new bodies, and the time was ripe to get the sentiment of all the business men of the town on the subject.

At last night's meeting J. J. Varley was chosen as a temporary chairman, and Leslie R. Fort as temporary secretary, but nothing was done toward permanent organization until a greater number of the business men had been consulted about the project. It was decided to appoint a committee of five to see those who were members of the old Merchants' Association, and also any new merchants who have recently come to town, in order to get a definite idea as to the possible strength of such a new body.

This committee consists of Allan F. Davis, Herman Schwed, M. C. Van Arsdale, Samuel Rothberg and Jacob A. Fass. After getting the sentiment of others in town, this committee will call a meeting of all who may be interested to be held some time within the next couple of weeks.

RECEPTION AND TEA GIVEN FOR SISTERS

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Williams, Jr., Entertain Elaborately.

Mrs. Lewis A. Williams, Jr., of 908 West Eighth street, gave a reception and tea yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock for her sisters, Mrs. Charles Loomis Dana, Jr., and Mrs. George C. R. Grandy. There were about one hundred guests present during the afternoon. The home was attractively decorated with flowers and greens.

Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Dana and Mrs. Grandy were assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. B. Nash, Miss Dorothy Fleming, Miss Verna McCutcheon, of Washington, Conn.; Miss Elizabeth McGee, Mrs. Harry L. McGee and Mrs. H. E. Butler. Mrs. Edward T. Willson and Miss Agnes Howland, the latter of New York, poured in the dining-room. Following the tea about thirty guests remained for supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Grandy will leave on Saturday for their round-the-world tour. They will go from New York to Southampton. They will spend the winter in Egypt and before returning home a year hence will circle the globe. The couple were recently married at Washington, Conn., Mrs. Grandy being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCutcheon, formerly of this city.

JUDGE DEMEZA PLEASED OVER HIS GREAT VOTE

"I feel deeply the vote of confidence given me at Tuesday's election," said City Judge William G. DeMeza, who polled a tremendous plurality for re-election. "I believe it means that the people generally are of the opinion that I am trying to conduct my office as they would have it. In thanking the voters, I renew my promise to act impartially and for the best interests of the community."

PASTOR OFFENDS RAINY DAY CLUB

Rev. Dr. Giles' Remarks Resented by Jersey Women at Club's Annual Breakfast.

MEANT A COMPLIMENT

Their Dress Chaste Because Fifteen Years Behind Fashions—Rev. Dr. Eaton Scores French Gowns Worn by American Women.

Rev. Dr. Warren Giles, who is well-known here where he has preached in Trinity Reformed church on several occasions, raised a small riot at the annual breakfast of the Rainy Day Club in the Hotel Astor, New York, yesterday, when he dared to say that the women of New Jersey are the most chastely garbed seen on the streets today, because they are fifteen years behind the times.

Some of the women present, including Mrs. Brice Collard, of Jersey City; Miss Sarah Estabrook, of Rahway, and Mrs. A. E. Allbright, of Roselle, arose to their feet and shook their heads and hands at Dr. Giles in a vehement manner.

"It seems I have made a horrible blunder," said Dr. Giles, "and I beg the chairman to appoint an escort to protect me on my way out."

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of this city, who is pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, declared that "the matter lies in your own hands. If you put aside these indecent French fashions and insist upon getting sensible clothes you will get them. If four hundred of you, for instance, should go to a store and should refuse to buy such frocks as are now offered for sale, the merchants would cease importing them."

REFORMED JEWISH CHURCH MOVEMENT

Prominent Hebrews Plan to Organize a Congregation in Plainfield.

Plans for organizing a Reformed Jewish congregation were discussed at a meeting of prominent and influential Hebrews held in the office of William Newcorn, last night. There were about twenty at the meeting and a majority expressed themselves in favor of such a move, believing that the time is now ripe for forming a congregation.

William Newcorn was made temporary chairman, Samuel Rothberg secretary, while Herman Schwed, Max Tepper, Emanuel Schloss and Herman Schuldenfrei were appointed as a membership committee. They will make a canvass of the city with a view to ascertaining how many would be willing to become identified with a Reformed congregation.

If the plans are carried out, it is proposed to hold public meetings and invite prominent New York Hebrews to speak, and later on to build a temple in this city. Among the younger Jewish residents there appears to be a strong sentiment in favor of forming a congregation here whereby the old Jewish customs can be changed to meet present day conditions.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR WILLIAM H. BROKAW HELD

The funeral service of William H. Brokaw was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the late home on West Front street, being largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mr. Brokaw was a member, officiated. There were many floral tributes, including a set piece from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers, members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 441, I. O. O. F., were Elias H. Bird, Henry Nischwitz, Nathan Pennington, Peter Doeringer, Henry Liefke and Louis Williams.

MR. AND MRS. DETWILLER GIVE CHARMING COTILLION

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Detwiller, of East Seventh street, gave a charming cotillion at their home, last evening for a few Plainfield and out-of-town friends to the number of about forty. The home was tastefully decorated for the affair and the orchestral music was a feature. The program was a popular one and during an intermission refreshments were served.

Florette, the "Physical Culture Girl," offers a novelty act, exhibiting the great strength of a woman.

STYLE—RELIABILITY

Clothing and Covering

When our prehistoric ancestors first draped themselves in shaggy skins, they wern't wearing clothing—"covering" is the best term you could give it.

We have advanced to the stage where we demand clothing that does more than cover us; we want our garb to look better than the other fellows.

The suits we are offering you for Winter Wear are made of heavier material than the ones we sold in July—which satisfies the "covering" clause.

As to "looking better," we want to say right here, that we never yet had garments in our store that were cut, styled, mannered and constructed as these Fall Suits and Overcoats are.

HOLLAND PLANNING A BIG UNDERTAKING

Amsterdam, Nov. 6.—The Government Commission appointed several years ago to investigate the feasibility, probable cost, and other matters relating to the proposition of reclaiming the land at present covered by the Zuiderzee, a large body of water connected with the sea and covering about 200,000 hectares, has just submitted an interesting and voluminous report, thoroughly covering every phase and detail of the stupendous plan. It appears that the fisheries in the waters of the Zuiderzee, once famous for the enormous quantities of herrings and other salt water fish caught there, have not been very profitable in recent years. It is estimated that the total value of the fish caught in the Zuiderzee does not now exceed 2,000,000 florins a year, while by the cultivation of the reclaimed land now covered by salt water 70,000,000 florins a year could be realized. The commission estimates that the cost of the work, including indemnities, etc., would not exceed 189 florins and that the work could be completed in about 30 years.

CHINAMAN WILL HANG FOR KILLING ANOTHER

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6.—After a legal fight extending over a period of five years, Lem Woon, alias Lum Suey, a Chinese who was convicted of murdering Lee Tai Hoy on March 7, 1908, during a tong war, will be hanged a week from today, unless Governor West should see fit for some reason to grant a reprieve. Lem Woon was originally tried in the summer of 1908 and Circuit Judge Bronaugh sentenced him to hang on November 20, of that year. The condemned man's lawyers appealed first to the State Supreme Court and from that to the United States Supreme Court, basing their appeal upon the fact that the defendant was tried on an information after the Legislature had provided for indictments, but before the law became effective. The conviction was upheld in both higher courts and it is believed that the legal resources of the defence are exhausted. At the county jail everything is put in readiness for the execution and it is not believed that the Governor will interfere with the execution of the sentence.

WHIRLING BODIES

They Invariably Tend to Point to the Pole Star.

SCIENCE AND SPINNING A TOP.

That the Earth Revolves on Its Axis May Be Proved by a Simple Experiment With the Gyrostat—Phenomena of Rapidly Revolving Objects.

Spinning a top is not always child's play, although it has generally been regarded as a juvenile sport. Once in England top whipping was practically ordered by law. There was a huge top formerly provided in every village to be whipped in frosty weather that the peasants might be kept warm by the exercise and out of mischief while they could not work. Shakespeare in "Twelfth Night" says, "His brains turn like a parish top." Ben Jonson in "New Inn" writes, "He spins like a parish top," and Beaumont and Fletcher have "dances like a town top and reels and hobbles." Evelyn, the diarist, speaking of the uses of willow wood, says that it was ordered that "the great town tops should be made thereof."

Of late years, however, science has taken a hand in spinning tops with fruitful results. From spinning tops we can learn many interesting and valuable things. For example, we can prove that the earth revolves on its axis and calculate at what speed.

The phenomena of spinning bodies are extremely interesting. If you throw your hat into the air, but without spinning it, it will fall perhaps on one side, perhaps on the other, but if you give it a spinning motion before sending it into the air it will always come down the same side down as it went up. The same thing is true of coins and in fact of all objects spun in this manner. A knife, if merely thrown into the air, may come down at any angle, but if held point down and sent spinning into the air it will on falling stick its point into the floor invariably.

Other bodies acquire rigidity when spun rapidly. Thus a piece of chain if placed on a wheel and made to revolve rapidly will form a perfect circle and if thrown off the wheel suddenly will roll across the table or the floor just like a solid hoop until its speed is diminished, when it will fall into a huddled mass.

It is a strange fact that spinning bodies always tend to point to the north star—the pole star. Gently, but firmly, they seem to tug at their moorings in an effort to assume the angle that will point them in that direction. Once they have attained it they do not vary.

If, now, you want to prove the rotation of the earth by means of a spinning top you can do so as follows: Provide yourself with a gyrostat capable of being driven by electricity so that it can run for twenty-four hours or more without stopping. Set this going and point it to the north or pole star. It will soon assume that direction. Now, as the axis of the top is pointed in a certain direction (say the north wall of the room) and stays there, without ever moving, this will be a guide to you to check off your observations. And as you watch you will notice that in six hours' time the top will point to the west and six hours later to the south, six hours later to the east, and at the conclusion of the twenty-four hours it will have completed the circle and will again be pointing due north. It will have completed the circuit of the four walls of the room.

What does this mean? It means that the room has revolved round the top, but as the room is fixed to the solid earth it implies that the whole earth has revolved round the top, which alone remained stationary. Consequently we have proved by this means that the earth has turned once round on its axis, and that it does so turn, and that the heavens remain still and stationary.

Many interesting astronomical discoveries have been made by the aid of spinning tops, and the facts obtained by their study have been applied to the rotation of heavenly bodies, the earth included, and the "wabble" of its axis has been calculated by this means. In many ways, therefore, the spinning top is a valuable scientific instrument. —Hereward Carrington in New York World.

Effect of a Dream.

"The happiest dream I can recall," said a successful business man, "was one I had ten years ago. In it I was with my good mother again, seated in the old home church. She placed her hand on my head and whispered, 'Son, I am proud of you.' That little statement has kept me out of wrongdoing more than all the sermons I have ever heard and, I think, has made me a better man."—Philadelphia Record.

As Values Are Judged.

"Great Scott, woman! Are you trying to ruin me?"

"Why, Henry! You don't even know what I paid for the gown."

"I know that any gown that looks as bad as that one costs more than I can afford to pay."—Life.

Quite Correct.

TWO GIRLS INJURED AS AUTO ON NIGHT RIDE HITS FENCE

Trenton, Nov. 6.—Miss Helen Swan, sixteen, was badly injured and Miss Susie Schaefer, nineteen, was less seriously hurt Tuesday night, while on an auto ride. George C. Hurley, twenty-one, of Belmar, and Bryan Coome, twenty-five, of Allentown, Pa., are under arrest at the Second District Police Station. An automobile belonging to Mrs. A. H. Worthington is a complete wreck in a field near Dutch Neck, a short distance from Princeton.

At St. Francis' Hospital, this city, yesterday it was stated Miss Swan was suffering from concussion of the brain, a broken leg, fractured nose, many contusions and lacerations of the face and head. Her condition is critical.

Miss Schaefer received bruises about the head and face. The two young men escaped injury.

According to the authorities, one of the young men, who was visiting at the Worthington home, took the automobile without permission and he and his companion invited the girls for a ride. The machine, it is said, was going rapidly around a curve when it skidded and ran into a field, striking a fence and pole.

WORLD'S PURITY CONGRESS.

Nearly two thousand delegates, representing leading religious, educational, social, civic and reform bodies in nearly all parts of the world and including official representatives of the governments of the United States and of Canada and of many governments in Europe and in other sections of the globe, will assemble in Minneapolis, Minn., tomorrow when the opening session of the Seventh International Purity Congress will be called to order by B. S. Steadwell, of La Crosse, Wis., the president of the World's Purity Federation. The congress will remain in session until and including next Wednesday, Nov. 12, and in addition to the general sessions to be held in the Westminster Presbyterian church there will be special and departmental meetings at the Auditorium, a short distance from the church.

At a gathering which was held in La Crosse, Wis., on Oct. 17-19, 1905, the National Purity Federation was organized for the suppression of white slavery and public vice, the promotion of a high and single standard of morals for men and women, the safe and sane instruction of youth in sex hygiene, and in furtherance of such economic, civic and moral reforms as will conserve the highest character and life of individuals as well as of nations. As the international character of the work undertaken was realized, the name of the organization was later changed to the World's Purity Federation and the movement begun in La Crosse met with cordial support and sympathy in all civilized countries of the world. B. S. Steadwell, the original organizer of the movement, who was elected president of the National Purity Federation when it was founded in 1905, was retained as president of the World's Purity Federation and is supported by a large staff of co-workers, vice-presidents and members of the advisory board.

Among the distinguished delegates who will address the congress upon various topics under consideration are Dr. Neshava Deva Shastri, an educator and reformer of India; the Rev. T. A. Moore, of Toronto, one of the vice-presidents of the federation; Governor Eberhart, of Minnesota; C. M. Sheldon, of Topeka, Kan., author of "In His Steps;" Rev. Theodore Hanson, of Topeka, Kan.; Stanley W. Finch, of Baltimore, special commissioner of the Federal department for the suppression of the white slave traffic; Rabbi Rudolph Coffee, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Arthur Burrage Farwell, of Chicago, president of the Law and Order League of that city; United States Senator William S. Kenyon, of Iowa; W. W. Byers, formerly speaker of the house and attorney general of owa; Rev. Charles W. Gordon and Dr. James L. Gordon, two noted reformers, of Winnipeg, Man.; Flint Crozier, delegate from the Philippine Islands; Reginald Wright Kauffman, of Cloughton, England, and many other men and women of national or international prominence in the field of reform.

Special addresses will be delivered by other distinguished workers, including Ng Poon Chow, of Canton, China, one of the greatest and most brilliant scholars and reformers of that country; Mrs. Catherine Booth-Clibborn, daughter of the late General William Booth of the Salvation Army; Virginia Brooks, of Chicago, known as the modern Joan of Arc; Mrs. Florence Kelly, of New York, general secretary of the National Consumers' League and Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, the first appointed and most widely known policewoman of America.

EMPRESS EUGENIE'S TOMB.

In view of the disquieting reports concerning the condition of Empress Eugenie, the widow of Napoleon III, who is said to be failing rapidly, public attention is attracted to the fact that the former empress has prepared for herself one of the most remarkable and magnificent tombs in England if not in the world, where, in the fulness of time, she will rest by the side of her distinguished husband and her only son, the Prince Imperial, whose death in the wilds of Africa has so greatly saddened her life. The mausoleum is connected with the Benedictine Abbey church at Farnborough, where the ex-Empress has her magnificent estate. On either side of the high altar of the mausoleum are granite sarcophagi containing the remains of Napoleon III. and the Prince Imperial. Behind the altar is a small door leading into the monastery and over this the Empress had an arcosolium constructed, in the crypt of which the sarcophagus containing the remains of the Empress will rest.

BRUNETTES AND BLONDES.

Eminent scientists are declaring that brunettes can stand more than blondes, and that persons of the blonde type can not stand the heat or stress of life as well as their darker sisters and brothers. A London physician says that the blonde can not exist in a very moist climate and needs open spaces. In crowded environments it is the brunette that survives. To even up matters, the clerk of the Los Angeles District court declares that after careful study he finds that brunettes in nearly every instance are the reason why men leave home, and that only five per cent. of the "affinities" under his observation have been blondes.

Not only in Plainfield but in the county as a whole, rormer Mayor George W. V. Moy led his colleagues on the Progressive assembly ticket. The county totals also reveal the fact that he fell but some three hundred votes behind Colby.

Five members of the West End Civic Association, which is only a year old, were entered in the Councilmanic race and four of them were elected.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP TO BE ENDEAVORER SLOGAN

The Elizabeth Christian Endeavor Union and Epworth Leagues have arranged to rally to be held tomorrow evening in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, in the interests of civic righteousness. The principal speaker will be Daniel A. Poling, one of the foremost leaders in Christian Endeavor work in Ohio. There will be other prominent speakers from within and out of Union county, and all of the societies throughout the county have been invited to attend the rally.

Music will be an important feature. This meeting will inaugurate a movement which has been started by the United Society of Endeavor, together with a large number of other religious and civic bodies. It is proposed to have the Sunday before July 4 made "Good Citizenship Day," to be generally observed throughout the entire country. The movement was given impetus at Los Angeles in July at the International Convention of Christian Endeavorers. Paterson has arranged to hold a similar rally for Thursday evening next along the same lines.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH

The financial statement of Grace church for the past year shows the income from pew rents, regular and special offerings to be $12,363, and the expenses including salaries and labor, choir and organ, light, insurance, Bishop and diocese expenses, interest, repairs, etc., to be $12,172, leaving a surplus of $191 for the year. These figures represent the income and expenses for parish purposes only and is considered most gratifying.

The money raised for extra parochial purposes, in addition to the above includes $1,820 for general mission; $1,820 for poor relief; various purposes in 1913.* $880 and $388, making a total of $3,088 outside of the parish.

According to the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the duplex envelope system has proved its great valus, and the open weekly collection has yielded about the same income as before the system of envelopes was inaugurated. The annual report of the parish will be published later.

FOR SHORTER SERVICES AT GRACE P. E. CHURCH

During the past month, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, has made some change in the order of services for Sunday mornings. The purpose is not intended as the exercise of any new fad, but an endeavor to meet the spiritual needs of the congregation as immediately as possible and to bring the length of each service within appreciable limits.

The rector states that there is a prevailing feeling that the services might be shorter, and this is not to be regarded as a reaction against due and reasonable worship, but a demand that the form of worship may be within the limits of human ability. "It was not intended by the compilers, says the rector, "that every office in the prayer book should be linked together and said as a whole; and human endurance cannot stand it. Each office is distinct in itself, and we should find some opportunity of making these offices a little more elastic and less stereotyped. At present the Epistle and Gospel are heard three Sundays in the month. The communion office is used twice a month, the litany is said once a month and morning prayer twice a month. We want to meet the needs of the people and the rector will be glad to hear their comments."

ZIMMERMAN PROSPERS.

H. B. Zimmerman, formerly of Somerset place, North Plainfield, is visiting friends in the borough today, having come from his home in Lakeland, Fla., where he has lived for the past four years. He will return to the South on Monday. Mr. Zimmerman has prospered since leaving the borough, having obtained control of a large cement manufacturing industry in the southern State.

WIVES BID FOR HUSBAND CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

Elizabeth, Nov. 6.—One thousand dollars against $350 is bid for a husband in this city. Wife No. 1 values John Koral at $1,000, while wife No. 2, whom it is said Koral married last month, thinks he is worth but $350. The first Mrs. Koral, who came here from Rochester after hearing of his alleged marriage to Mary Poswajlio, of First street, had her husband arrested on a charge of bigamy and the case was before Judge Mahon in the police court yesterday.

Before the case was called the two wives met in the City Hall corridor and, it is alleged, wife No. 1 offered wife No. 2 $1,000 if she would go away and let her take Koral away with her. Mary Poswajlio Koral did not want to part with her husband, and it is said, offered the other woman $350 if she would be missing when the case was called. No agreement could be reached, so John Koral had to face the charge of bigamy. He pleaded ignorance of the law and was held by Judge Mahon in default of $1,000 bail, to await the action of the Grand Jury.

IN DISTRICT COURT.

Decision was reserved in a suit tried this morning in the District Court in which William H. Randall, of North Plainfield, was the defendant, and the Capitol Food Co., Inc., of Tiffin, Ohio, the plaintiff, which sued for an alleged bill of goods due, amounting to $40. District Court Judge Isaac Runyon, of Somerset county, presided in the absence of Judge Walter H. Hetfield, Sr. The defense contended that the goods were purchased on a verbal agreement to the effect that the articles were not to be paid for by the defendant until sold by him.

CARD CLUB MET.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. George, of West Eighth street, entertained the card club, of which they are members, at their home, last evening. There were four tables and after the play refreshments were served. Prizes were awarded the winner at each table.

The favorite singing actor, Fiske O'Hra, in the romantic Irish play, "In Old Dublin," at Plainfield Theatre Monday Night.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Mrs. Lena Bus, of South Second street, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. The magistrate suspended sentence. The defendant was represented by Samuel S. Swackhamer of Swackhamer & Bird.

FAKED PAINTINGS.

Imitations and Forgeries of the Works of Old Masters.

SHARP TRICKS OF THE TRADE.

Specialists Who Are Real Artists In Showing Antique Effects—The Split Panel Deception and an Ingenious Swindling Scheme That Failed.

In addition to a considerable mass of historical information concerning methods employed in producing pictorial works of art, M. Moreau-Vauthier's "Technique of Painting" presents much new and interesting matter concerning devices of imitation picture faking—"truquage," as the French art world calls it—and systematic, deliberate, skillful forgery that have in recent years rendered extra hazardous the purchase of any picture by a recognized master who has joined the great majority.

Many of these tricks require great skill and knowledge—enough, in all seeming, to enable the forgers to become recognized artists of the first class.

If an old canvas can be found—and there are many thousands in Europe—the production of a Titian or Correggio or Veronese is easy. The worthless picture is painted over or cleared off or—the latest fashion—provided with a new canvas face on which a fine forgery has been painted.

Varnish tinted with bitumen gives appearance of age; licorice juice, ashes steeped in water and lampblack are used to imitate the dirt of time. There are specialists in fly stains, clumsy retouching designed to emphasize age by contrast, and in signatures—a select class, these latter, who call themselves monogramists.

They know the manner of each great painter, the way he signed his pictures and the place and color used. Sometimes the name is cunningly concealed under a layer of dirt or paint, so that the buyer of this particular "old master" may have the pleasure of discovering it for himself.

The author gives the names of several painters who find a ready road to wealth in multiplying for foreign markets the Rousseaus, Diazs, Corots, Daubigneys and Courbets and the like, without which no home of luxury is deemed complete.

Unfinished studies by famous artists sold after death at some official vendue bear the regular sale stamp, a priceless token of authenticity, wherefore the clever forger makes the dimly suggested picture a finished composition, which carries on its back an indisputable certificate of genuineness.

Still more adroit is the trick played after the Fromentin sale, where one of these art harpies bought the painter's "Arab Falconer," painted on a wooden panel. The panel was sawed through edgeways, giving the forger a genuine Fromentin without the sale stamp and a black panel bearing the sale stamp. Result, two "genuine" Arab Falconers, sold far apart, with no way at hand to disprove the imitation.

Sometimes, it is pointed out, the novelty of the trick employed works its own defeat, as in the case of a Florentine dealer who sold a rare old painting to a French collector. He offered to send it to the buyer's hotel and asked him to write his name and address on the back of the panel in order to remove all doubt. This was done, but then the collector changed his mind and carried the picture off despite the dealer's protestations.

When the traveler got home he took the picture out of its frame to clean it. He found that he had brought away two pictures. The first, which he had bought, concealed a copy, on the back of which he had signed his name.

This was almost perfect rascality. If the collector had had the picture sent to his hotel he would have received the copy. If he had protested that it was not the picture he bought he would have been shown his own signature on the back of the panel.

The Italian government prohibits the exportation of native art works except by permission that is very hard to get. But the collectors and the owners of old family pictures find no difficulty in evading this. They order copies, put them in place of the originals and secretly send the latter out of the country. Thus a genuine old Italian master is one of the easiest things to acquire in the realm of high priced art.

Advertising Pays 100 Per Cent.

A Kansas man lost a five dollar bill and advertised for it. In a day or two a man appeared in his office, saying that he had seen the advertisement, and handed him the bill. In a few days the Kansas man was going through his "other" clothes and found the original bill which he thought he had lost. Notwithstanding the fact that the events in this story may sound suspicious, the lesson is obvious.—Kansas City Star.

Its President Impeached, Junior Republic Repeats the Sulzer Case

JUNIOR republics seem to have their troubles as well as senior ones. Following in the wake of the impeachment and removal of the executive of New York state comes that of the impeachment and removal of the president of the George Junior republic at Annapolis Junction, Md. This community is one of eight federated in the National Association of Junior Republics, whose influence extends throughout the United States.

In view of the Albany impeachment, the proceedings at Annapolis Junction are of more than ordinary interest. The president of the republic grafted on a government contract and therefore was considered a traitor to his trust. The young citizens put him on trial. His fall soon followed, and his disgrace was complete. He is now starting at the bottom of the ladder, hoping to win back the respect of his fellow citizens.

A new jail has just been constructed at the Annapolis Junction Republic. The jailer has the unique distinction of working on his own jail as a convict. As jailer he is profiting by his past experience. The chief of police is also an ex-inmate, having served a term for swindling the Republic bank. Since his release he has been foreman of the grand jury, besides being appointed to his present office. There have been no efforts to defraud the bank since he has been in office.

Recently the junior republic idea has been applied to outside communities. Junior municipalities are in process of organization in two small cities—Ithaca and Cortland, N. Y.—on either side of the original community. The other day thirty-three boys and girls between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one registered in the Ithaca town hall and later voted on the adoption of a charter, which had been drawn up during the summer by a committee of six girls and one boy appointed at a mass meeting held last June. Every clause of the charter was unanimously carried except the one extending the franchise to girls, which, however, was carried by a two-thirds majority. Had the girls not voted it would have been lost by only two votes.

The first junior republic was established in 1895 near Freeville, N. Y., by W. R. George as a method of reform in the treatment of dependent and deliquent children. The organization is that of a minature republic, with a constitution and machinery based on that of the United States. School is held and all sorts of trades and occupations are taught, such as farming, carpentry, printing, dressmaking, domestic service and cookery. The entrance age is from twelve to eighteen years.

Interested by the self government theories evolved by Mr. George, the educational departments of European nations have sent investigators to this country. Within the past few months representatives from Denmark, Germany and Switzerland have visited the self government schools in New York city. Twenty-five are now on a self governing basis, and the pupil officers have formed a self government league for the exchange of ideas. The committee which has this branch of the work in charge is in active communication with 163 schools throughout the country in which the George Junior idea is employed in some form or other.

The Pianola Grand

Prices, $1350 to $2350

Terms, if desired. Allowance on other instruments.

To possess a Grand Pianoforte of one of the world's three foremost makes—the only makes of such exceptional quality as to command international recognition and require manufactories in both Europe and America:—

To have this Pianoforte in the most approved modern design, in the richest and most beautiful casewood and so extraordinarily fine in tone and action that from the pianist's standpoint, it will far transcend any other instrument obtainable:—

And, above all, to have this beautiful Pianoforte present a second method of playing—THE PIANOLA METHOD—by which any music-lover may play any musical composition ever written, with a degree of correct musical artistry and feeling that will win praise from even the most critical musicians:—

These are the advantages offered the purchaser of one of the three models of The Pianola Grand—

The World's Greatest Musical Instrument

You are cordially invited to visit Aeolian Hall and inspect the display of Pianola Grands, now on exhibition.

These superb instruments represent the pianoforte in its highest state of development. They are Grand pianos of conventional type—for hand-playing—and in addition they contain The Aeolian Company's celebrated action for playing with music-rolls.

The names of the three pianofortes used in building The Pianola Grand are too well-known to need emphasis. No pianofortes of the present day approach them in quality or prestige.

The possession of The Pianola adds so enormously to the home, both in furnishing entertainment of the most desirable character and as a means of acquiring music-culture, that it is now in universal use. This use is not only sanctioned by leading authorities on music and musical education, but is most emphatically recommended.

The Pianola Grand, may be obtained only in The Steinway, The Weber and the Steck models.

The Upright Pianola only in The Steinway, Weber, Steck, Wheelock, Stuyvesant and Stroud models. Prices in Uprights range from $550. upwards. Easy monthly payments if wished.

The Pianola is on Sale, in New York, only at Aeolian Hall

POPPY FIELDS OF PERSIA.

Tapping the Plants to Gather the Pearl Like Drops of Juice.

Round about Shiraz, as far as Ispahan, southward to the country of the date palm, a great deal of opium is grown, and several thousand chests are shipped from Shiraz to China and various other large centers of the trade every season. The collecting of the opium juice begins in June, when, the flowers having faded and the leaves fallen, the poppy heads are ready to be bled. When the sun stands low on the western horizon the men with the tools start their work, making one or two incisions in the fleshy green skin of the heads on the side toward the setting sun. During the cool night hours the brown, strong smelling viscous juice oozes out and collects in pearl-like drops on the surface of the seed vessel.

Before the rising sun gains sufficient power to dry or crystallize the sticky substance the gathering is in full swing. Stepping carefully from plant to plant, the men gather the opium on the broad blades of their crescent shaped collecting knives, which have an upturned back about an inch high to prevent the juice from dropping off. As soon as a knife is full it is handed to the owner of the field or his foreman, who stands among the collectors to see that none of the precious drops are hidden away by the workers to increase their daily wages. As soon as the morning work is over the fields are deserted until the afternoon, when new incisions have to be made. Each plant is tapped twice, and a large poppy head gives from twenty to thirty grains of opium.—Christian Herald.

LOOKS LIKE A SEA OF ICE.

Curious Lake of Soda in the Wilds of East Africa.

Lake Magadi, in British East Africa, is famous for its vast deposits of soda. Until recently few people have seen its shores, for it lies in the midst of a barren and waterless district, but the railway that was started a few years ago by an English company opens the way for travelers to this curious natural phenomenon. A recent visitor describes it in the London Field:

Ordinarily it looks as if it had frozen and as if snow had then fallen upon it, partially thawed and frozen again. The temperature gives the lie to this appearance of roughened ice, for the heat is extreme and at midday almost unbearable. The soda burns the feet even through a boot, and the sharp, projecting spikes, which resemble hoar frost, will pierce any except the thickest sole. After the rains there is a layer of water over the greater part of the lake, which turns a lovely pink color. By moonlight the scene is weirdly beautiful.

The lake contains at least 200,000,000 tons of crystalline substance, composed almost equally of carbonate and bicarbonate of soda. Surface and underground streams of saturated soda liquor continually feed it. The present supply of soda is enormous, and as fast as it is removed a new surface, formed from the "mother liquid" beneath, replaces it. Natives have collected soda from the same spot year after year without making the slightest difference in the abundance of the supply.

Upsetting the Salt Cup.

In some parts of the world, particularly in Germany, it is still believed that the upsetting of the saltcellar is the direct act of Satan—"the peace disturber." And the habit of trying to avert any catastrophe which may happen by tossing a little of the salt over the shoulder is due to the belief that by so doing one hits the invisible Satan in the eye, which temporarily, at least, prevents his doing further mischief.

Their Attachment.

"Do animals possess the sentiment of affection?" asked the school teacher of the little girl.

"Yeth, ma'am; almost always."

"Good," said the teacher, "and now," turning to a little boy, "tell me what animal has the greatest natural fondness for man."

The small boy considered carefully and finally answered, "Woman."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Birds and Cyclones.

It has been suggested that birds habitually make use of storms in traveling from one part of their range to another. It is pointed out that if a bird cannot find a shelter it must be more comfortable on the wing than on the ground during a storm, because in the fiercest gale it flies in a moving medium, like a swimmer in a strongly flowing river.—Harper's Weekly.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 28.

A SMILE is nature's beef, wine and iron. So let's all have one today. Perhaps the little bit of reprint below will help. It is taken from a back number of "Fame," a sprightly little advertising publication, and the man who wrote it signed himself merely "D. H. T."

"One small typographical error is often responsible for quite a startling and undesirable effect.

For instance, this from a tasty ad. in an Iowa paper: "Blank's shoes are accepted as the standard of shoe excellence by many swell dressers. They cost more, but we hate them." "Hate" was written "have" of course, in the copy.

Or this from a Chicago daily: "In the Oxford season the careful dresser is particularly exacting as to her nose." Just an "n" instead of an "h," that's all.

Or this, also from Chicago: "Our white doods have created a positive commotion among the ladies."

Or this, which appeared in a Kansas paper: "Buy now while the assortment is dull"—intended beyond question for "full."

Or this, the effect of a misplaced comma: "Extremes of fashion meet when a man wears a blank hat upon his head a pair of also blank shoes upon his feet."

Or this, from a low-grade magazine of large circulation: "Use —— soap, the world's pest." Anyone can guess what was meant.

Or any of these. Correct them to suit yourself:

"Fastidiou slivers stick to —— Ham and Bacon."

"Take a course in physical training at —— —— and get stung." (A rank error).

"Have us make your old carpets into beautiful rags."

"Boys, for a good bat go to ——'s drug store." (This caused great merriment in a certain "dry" town in Iowa).

"Blank's condensed milk makes a fiend of every one who tries it."

Now let's stop smiling long enough to realize, in all seriousness, one important fact. That fact is this: YOU CAN'T MAKE A MISTAKE IF YOU USE THE CLASSIFIED COLUMNS OF THIS NEWSPAPER FOR ADVERTISING YOUR WANTS

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The attraction booked for presentation at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night, November 10, is that delightful incarnation of Irish romance, Fiske O'Hara. This year he brings with him a new play from the pen of Augustus Pitou, entitled: "In Old Dublin." The principal character in the story is Neil Powers, a young marine architect. The latter designs a yacht for a Dublin banker, Martin Ferguson, whose daughter, Irene, has a soft spot in her heart for Neil. Before the yacht is half completed Ferguson cancels the order at the dictation of his wife, who has been told that the entry of the yacht against royal boats would be fatal to her social aspirations. Another patron fortunately steps in, the yacht is completed and wins the race. More important still, Neil wins the hand of his new patron's ward. Manager Augustus Pitou, Jr., promises that the scenic effects and costumes will exceed in magnificence anything yet seen here in Irish drama.

MISS ELIZABETH DAVISON BRIDE OF RUSSELL MERSHON

New Brunswick, Nov. 6.—Miss Elizabeth Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ancil M. Davison and Russell Mershon, son of Mrs. D. C. Mershon, of Prospect Plains, were married yesterday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. E. Curry, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the parlor of the Davison home, near Cranbury. Arthur L. Burroughs, of Cranbury, played the wedding march.

Mrs. Ancil Davison, Jr., was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Emma Davison, of Hightstown, and Miss Elizabeth Robinson, of Bound Brook. Ancil Davison, Jr., a brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ushers were Raymond C. Stonaker, of Hightstown, and Asa T. Davison, another brother of the bride. Following a wedding dinner and reception the couple departed on an extended wedding tour. A reception to Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Davison, Jr., was coupled with that given the bride and groom.

ACCUSE PRINCETON SUSPECT AN INTERCOLLEGIATE THIEF

Princeton, Nov. 6.—Further disclosures allege that William Rapp, held on a charge of robbing rooms of students in Princeton, is an "intercollegian burglar," and has operated at Pennsylvania and Columbia in addition to Princeton. Four Penn. students, it is said, identified as many suit cases as belonging to them Tuesday in Trenton. Two Columbia undergraduates said clothing Rapp had in his possession belonged to them. The police are holding two trunks in Jersey City from the checks which Rapp had on him when caught. One of these is said to belong to a Columbia man.

RUTGERS MEN ENTER FRUIT JUDGING TEST AT CAPITAL

New Brunswick, Nov. 6.—A team of students from Rutgers has entered the judging contest to be held in connection with the biennial meeting in Washington, D. C., November 17-22, by the American Pomological Society, or the fruit society of America.

The society has offered prizes for the judging of fruit by college teams, consisting of three men each. Besides Rutgers, teams have entered from the University of Missouri, Cornell, Pennsylvania State College, University of West Virginia, Massachusetts Agricultural College and Iowa.

The Rutgers team will be picked from the men in the senior class who have elected horticulture. The students will be required to determine whether the varieties judged are true to name, as well as to score the fruit for its size, color and freedom from blemishes. Specimens of more than one variety will be placed upon some of the plates to deceive the students and make the contest more difficult.

DUCKS AND DEER ARE PLENTIFUL

Wild Waterfowl Shooting Lures Many Local Gunners to the Lower Delaware.

SOME GOOD REPORTS

Feathered Game and Rabbits Appear To Be More Plentiful Than Last Year—Upland Hunters Will Have Their Inning Nov. 10.

The gunning season for ducks and deer is now opened and the crack of rifles echoed throughout the marsh lands along the lower Delaware and the woods of South Jersey. The season for deer is very short this year, it being lawful to kill them only during the first five days of November.

The following extract from the report of the State Game Commissioner shows how few the chances are of a hunter bringing down a buck deer in the wood.

"There was actually killed in this State during the year 171 deer. Shooting of deer was legal on five Wednesdays in November, 1911, during which time 141 bucks were legally killed and brought from the woods by hunters, as against 127 in 1910. The counties in which the deer legally taken were killed are as follows: Cumberland, 32; Atlantic, 31; Warren, 17; Ocean, 15; Cape May, 15; Burlington, 14; Sussex, 10; Bergen, 5; Morris, 1; Salem, 1. Total, 141. In addition to these 141 deer, 28 deer were found dead in the woods outside of the season and 2 deer were killed on the railroad.

In hunting for deer, it is unlawful to use any rifle or firearm of any kind of a smaller calibre than 12-gauge, or to use, a missile larger than buckshot, or to hunt at night, or to hunt with dogs. Only one deer a year may be taken by a gunner, and only those may be taken that have horns visible above the hair.

Wild water fowl shooting lures the greatest number of sportsmen out, and there was a lively cannonade on the lower Delaware River and bay, and the salt water bays along the Jersey Coast. The new federal laws fixes the season for migratry birds in this State from November 1 to February 1.

Ducks are reported plentiful on the above waters, and will increase in number as winter approaches. Uncle Sam is appointing wardens to look after his birds, and the "boys" will do well to keep within the bag limit.

Upland game hunters will have their innings beginning November 10, when the season opens for pheasant, quail, squirrels, rabbits, wild turkey and partridges. Feathered game and rabbits appear to be more plentiful than last year, and this is no doubt due to the extreme mildness of last winter, which enabled the game to find plenty of food and prevented their numbers being diminished through lack of proper shelter, etc.

Very good reports also come from the northern counties of this State, where native grouse and pheasants are said to be more numerous than for several years. The State Game Commissioners have put out quite a number of ringneck and Mongolian pheasants and Hungarian partridges. Many sportsmen declare that better results will be gained by stocking with the ringneck rather than the Mongolian pheasants as very few of the latter variety have been seen since they were released.

DIES OF FOOTBALL INJURIES.

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 6.—Injuries received in a football game caused the death yesterday of William McCartney, aged fifteen, a High School student. He was hurt in a game last Saturday. At the hospital it was found that his skull was fractured in three places.

R. T. PHILLIPS GETS THE OAKMONT CUP

Park Golf Club's Committee Decides Against Clarence J. Hand.

Royle T. Phillips has been awarded the Oakmont cup which was offered by Louis K. Hyde for competition at the Park Golf Club, during the season. The play began for this trophy early in May, but complications arose later on which brought the competition to an abrupt ending in mid-season.

According to the conditions any two members of the club could play for the trophy any time it suited their convenience during the summer, and the player scoring the greatest percentage of wins was to receive the prize.

What complicated matters and finally compelled the golf committee to decide the question was that Clarence J. Hand, one of the contestants, scored seventeen wins for the trophy within five days. Some of these wins, it is said, were the result of foursome matches and for each player defeated a win was counted.

The golf committee at its meeting recently finally decided to throw out all matches played after June 3, allowing the matches played during one month to count. It was then learned that Mr. Phillips was the only contestant who had complied with the conditions and was entitled to the cup. He had played eleven matches and won ten, and he was presented with the trophy.

Mr. Phillips does not intend keeping the cup, he says, but next season will put it up for competition on conditions similar to those of the Oakmont cup. He did not want to accept the prize this year on the basis of the award, but the golf committee insisted.

SOMERVILLE CANCELS GAME.

Pennington, Nov. 6.—Late Tuesday afternoon while at practice, the Pennington second team received word from Somerville that the game scheduled for Saturday with the High School had to be cancelled. The Pennington boys were in fine shape for the game and victory was certain for them. However, this will not discourage them, for they play the 'varsity today in preparation for Bordentown M. I. Saturday. Coach Aultman is giving them many new plays for today's game and they expect to score on the 'varsity.

JERSEY CITY ELKS ANNEX TWO GAMES

Out-bowl New Yorkers in a League Match on the Latter's Drives.

In an Elks League bowling match on the alleys of the New York Elks last night, the Jersey City quintet succeeded in capturing two games out of three. The visitors started poorly with a total of 819 and lost by seventy-two pins. They came back with scores of 931 and 921, respectively, in the last two games and won handily, New York having 875 in each game. Corydon rolled 227 for the visitors, and Wright was there for 211. Russell handed in 201. The veteran Charley Starr did well for the home team with marks of 214 and 210. Here are all the scores:

TENNIS CHAMPION BRIDE.

Shrewsbury, Conn., Nov. 6.—In the presence of a notable gathering of guests that filled Christ church this morning, Miss Serita Van Vliet, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Robert Campbell Van Vliet, became the bride of Lieut. David P. Wood, Sixteenth Infantry, U. S. A. The bride is a noted tennis player and is the present holder of the woman's championship of California. After a honeymoon in New York the bridal couple will go west to Fort McDowell, where Lieut. Wood is stationed.

IS THIS THE WAY SUFFRAGETTES WOULD ELECT A PRESIDENT.

For the 'steenth time the members of the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team got together again yesterday afternoon to complete the irksome duties of electing a basketball captain for the present season but once more the jury could not agree and had to be dismissed to ballot again this afternoon. Yesterday's meeting was a repetition of the many previous sessions, wrangling and debating figuring prominently in the routine of work.

The two eligibles, Miss Elsie Debele and Miss Marjorie Burtis, are reluctant to take the coveted honors from the other, and despite the fact that both are equally as desirous of reaping the honor neither is willing to go on the stump and campaign for a victory. Party feeling has nothing to do with the suffragette basketball election and the maidens, unlike several Gubernatorial candidates during the recent campaign, have thus far failed to call each other grafters and prevaricators.

Miss Debele is a junior, while Miss Burtis is a sophomore, and thus by right of class succession to the throne, Miss Debele is really the entitled holder of the handle. Miss Burtis, however, earned a right to be recognized through her wonderful playing on the borough court last season and has just as many supporters tooting her trumpet as has Miss Debele.

If the problem cannot be solved this afternoon it might be well to follow the precedent set by a classteam last week in the North Plainfield High School, when two captains were elected to serve as pilots of the same team. Whether or not Miss Debele and Miss Burtis could work together as leaders is a thing that only can be brought out by actual practice for it is a well-known fact that both have ideas of their own in running a basketball squad.

TWO GAMES AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Another double basketball bill has been arranged by Hope Chapel managers for next Saturday night and two fast games will be played on the Hope court. The first team will line-up against the Eagle Five of Elizabeth and the second squad will tackle the North Plainfield High School sophomore class team of the interclass league.

ALBIN CARLSTROM IN GREAT DEMAND

Plainfield Shortstop Wanted by Boston Red Sox and Montreal Club.

The probability of another Plainfield Pet playing baseball in the International League next season was advanced yesterday, when it was learned that "Kitty" Bransfield, manager of the Montreal Club, had declared through the columns of a Worcester, Mass., paper that he had secured Albin Carlstrom, the Elizabeth boy who played shortstop for the Pets the latter part of last season, from the Boston Red Sox. Carlstrom has not been notified of the deal and it is likely that Bransfield has received nothing more than a promise of first chance on securing the services of the local player should he fail to fill the bill when Bill Carrigan takes his squad to Hot Springs late in February.

Carlstrom's play at first base for the Lawrence, New England League club, during the past summer was of a high order. Shifted from shortstop to first base, he took to his new position in a manner which must have been highly pleasing to Patsy Donovan, the Boston scout, who was the first to see in Al material for a great first sacker. Not only did Carlstrom play first base in style, pulling the most difficult plays without any show of exertion, but he also did great work with the willow, hitting above the .300 mark during the greater part of the season.

One of the biggest tasks Manager Carrigan faces in his new job is securing a first baseman who will fit in with the rest of his infield and several Down East experts have declared that Carlstrom is the man for the position. "Carl" has been tried out by the Sox twice before, but both times he went back to the minors. His work in the short field during his stay with Boston last spring was smooth and efficient, but Jake Stahl, deposed Red Sox leader, knew that he was slipping back and when he found Albie needed only a little schooling to make good at the get-away bag, he sent him back to his old tutor in Lawrence for another round of seasoning. To all appearances Carlstrom has arrived and Manager Kitty may have to search elsewhere for a first sacker.

MANY QUESTIONS WILL BE SOLVED

American League Officials Opened Their Annual Meeting in Chicago Today.

DEMANDS OF PLAYERS

Baseball Fraternity Claiming to Represent 80 Per Cent. of Players, Has Come Forth with a List of Twenty Demands.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 6.—With reports of all the baseball clubs in the circuit present, the annual meeting of the American League began here today. While the gathering of the club owners and managers is primarily to wind up the affairs of the season just closed, several other matters of importance are scheduled for discussion. Chief of these, it is understood, are the demands of the players' fraternity and reforms in connection with the world's series in future.

The Baseball Players' Fraternity, claiming to represent 80 per cent. of the major league players and also a large percentage of the players in the leading minor leagues, has come forth with a list of twenty demands accompanied by the intimation that unless the demands are complied with or a satisfactory compromise agreed upon the club owners are likely to meet with serious obstacles in signing up their players for next season.

The abolition of the reserve clause in all contracts is the principal demand of the players' fraternity. Next in importance is the demand that "when a player is transferred he shall be transferred subject to all of the terms of his contract." In effect, this means that when a major league club releases a player to a minor league club, the minor organization must pay the player the same salary his major league contract called for during the season.

Opinions expressed by some of the American League magnates before they went into session behind closed doors today indicated that they did not expect to take any formal action on the players' demands at the present meeting. The probabilities are that the entire matter will be turned over to President Ban Johnson to settle according to the dictates of his own judgment.

It is considered probable that both the American and National leagues will endeavor, at the start, to ignore the Players' Fraternity and its demands. In interviews and informal statements the club owners already have made it plain that they are disinclined to treat with the fraternity through its president and spokesman, "Dave" Fultz. Their objection to Fultz, they would make it appear, is based on the ground that he is no longer an active player and in consequence is without standing in the game. But in reality the mere mention of the name of Fultz to a club owner has been like waving a red flag in the face of a bull, ever since David organized the fraternity and succeeding in rounding up enough players to make the organization a formidable one so long as the members hold together.

The players are not likely to get all that they ask of the club owners, and probably they do not expect it. But it is safe to say that if they persist in their demands and withold their signatures from the 1914 contracts they will obtain a number of important concessions in the way of a compromise agreement.

THE GREAT DEFENCE THAT MAY BRING DARTMOUTH THE COLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Above is given an illustration of the wonderful defensive power of the Dartmouth line. It will be noticed that the Green players have gone through their opponents' line and are about to block a kick. It is difficult enough for the average kicker to get away a good punt in any circumstance, but when surrounded by a lot of speedy players it becomes an almost impossible feat. The above picture was taken in the Dartmouth-Princeton game and is of especial interest because it illustrates one of the strongest features of a team that has an excellent chance for the championship.

Directions for operating this Money-Saving, Time-Saving, Health-Saving and Labor-Saving Machine:

THE OLD WAY

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

"MAC" SAYS

A local baseball player who has a tendency to take on additional avoirdupois during the winter months, has taken up golf as a means of keeping in condition for the summer pastime. He left yesterday for Excelsior Springs where he intends to remain ten days. It is an even bet that he will be able to cover the nine holes on the links at that place in ten days.

The worst is yet to come—the opening of the Interscholastic Basketball League with the return to the tri-cornered idea.

We have a slight suspicion, however, that those Leal School boys will make their public school rivals hustle this winter.

Neither Plainfield or North Plainfield has a sufficient amount of good material to warrant any boasting.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the Dexters. This is the appeal made to Perth Amboy followers of the gridiron game.

Woodbridge athletes who are scheduled to meet the Y. M. C. A. team in the association hall Saturday night write that they will come to Plainfield in the afternoon to root for the Dexters. The more the merrier.

Scanning the lineups of a certain local football eleven we note that in football there are fake kicks, fake forward passes, fake series plays, fake punts and also some FAKE AMATEURS.

Baseball is like football in some respects—there is also a lot of fake kicking in the National Pastime.

Officials in Perth Amboy took steps to prevent the downfall of the Perth Amboy High School eleven at the hands of Plainfield High School last Saturday from reaching the ears of the public and particularly those of the Dexter crew. Wonder if the jolt handed out by the red and the blue will have any effect on Amboy stock?

Local followers of the pigskin are counting on witnessing that Army-Navy game on the Polo Grounds, and according to Jack Foster, secretary of the Polo Grounds ticket commission, the Queen City will be well represented.

Those who ever hope to witness an Army-Navy fracas better see the one this year for there is a good chance of the contest being played somewhere in Mexico next year.

As matters now stand Fielder has crossed the goal lines of the Republican and Progressive parties and has yet to be scored on.

Borrowing a phrase from Louis XIV., Captain Bill Peacock proudly exclaims—"The Plainfield High School team—it is I."

If the red and blue had ten more of those birds sporting peacock feathers it would have a real football team.

Frank Dunning, the man of all work in the North Plainfield High School, appears to be having his troubles as coach and leader of a crew of feminine basketball tossers who refuse to agree to disagree on the captain question.

Leave it to Dunning to tame the maidens, however, he has accomplished many things much harder than this one. Besides being a good coach he is also a connoissuer of German cheese, a good judge of French poodles, an authority on Italian ravioli and hopes some day to be able to make a Spanish omelette.

The basketball enthusiast who has sent a query to this paper asking why more basketball players are not injured by cracking their heads against the walls in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium has not taken into consideration the resisting power of the average player's dome.

It has been stated that a local football manager is dickering with a number of foreigners residing in remote districts of Plainfield to have them take out their jimsullivantion papers so that they can play football without marring the unblemished records of certain "amateurs" on the eleven.

Judging from the way Bill Peacock rips up the opposing team's line and kicks goals North Plainfield High School supporters find it possible to view with resignation the absence of the pigskin game in the boro institution and the possibility of an encounter on the gridiron with the red and blue.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADS IN 'COMEBACK' ACT

Will Tackle Present Day Players on Saengerbund Court Tomorrow Night.

As a feature basketball card in Saengerbund Hall tomorrow night, the managers of the boys' and girls' basketball teams of the North Plainfield High School have gotten together and arranged for the appearance of two Alumni teams, one composed of basket cagers of the fair sex and the other of the male variety. Although not composed of the choicest material available in Alumni circles, the girls' team, according to the lineup announced, appears to be sufficiently strong to make the present-day players extend themselves to the limit in order to keep in the running against their "has-was" rivals.

Miss Clara Smith is piloting the destinies of the feminine quintet and has as her accomplices several good players who have made themselves famous in the days of yore on the red and black courts. The team is considerably heavier than the 1913-14 outfit and this handicap will be a difficult one for the present team to overcome in its fight for supremacy honors. The staging of a feminine Alumni game is a new feature in Borough High School athletics but if properly supervised and the picking of a representative team is regulated as it should be the innovation ought to prove popular.

The boys' annual game with their graduate rivals has become a permanent fixture in the North Plainfield High School schedule of games and although it is booked rather early this season the school team is optimistic regarding the outcome. Like the feminine aggregation the male quintet representing the graduates, considerably outweighs its rival but the schoolboys may be able to overcome this impediment as they did against the Y. M. C. A. last Saturday night, when outweighed by about the same proportion.

The teams will take the floor as follows:

Girls:

N. P. H. S.	ALUMNI.
Marjorie Burtis ..... forward	Nettie Steiner
Lillian Spencer ..... forward	Helen George
Lucy Douglas .... centre	Mildred McAuliffe
Elsie Debele ..... guard	Clara Smith
Bertha Keller ..... guard	Marion Mair

Boys:

N. P. H. S.	ALUMNI.
Van Mater ..... forward	Percy Bailey
Love ..... forward	Pierson Bailey
Dunning ..... centre	Smith
Burner ..... guard	Townley
Abrams ..... guard	J. Abrams

WOODBRIDGE BASKETBALL TEAM TO ROOT FOR DEXTERS

A letter received from the manager of the Woodbridge Athletic Association basketball team which plays the local Y. M. C. A. on the association court Saturday night states that the Woodbridge athletes will come to Plainfield early in the afternoon to root for the Dexter football eleven in its game with Holy Cross on Cricket Field.

The Woodbridge manager promises to have the best material in that section on hand here Saturday and the visiting quintet will be accompanied by a large delegation of rooters.

P. H. S. COURT PRACTICE.

Basketball was opened in the Plainfield High School gymnasium this afternoon and for the first time this season a practice was held. Owing to the football season and the fact that many of the basketball players also take part in the gridiron game, no boys' practice will be held until the completion of the pigskin schedule, but the girls' team will drill regularly after this afternoon. A large squad reported for the initial tryout and the local High School will probably be represented by an unusually speedy feminine aggregation.

UNCLE SAM AIDS THE ROADMAKERS

Gives Advice on How to Build Right Kind of Roads.

LABORATORY TESTS MADE.

Model Highway Built in Sections Made of Different Materials Helps Determine Exact Value of Each Under Certain Traffic Conditions—Millions of Dollars Wasted in the Past.

So far has the government advanced in the problems connected with road construction that efforts are being made to teach the country that the expenditure of large sums of money on certain types of roads may result almost in a total waste. A road built of materials which would be ideal in one locality may not serve the purpose at all elsewhere, and the money expended may bring scarcely any result in reducing the cost of hauling.

In order to aid farmers who want to build their own roads and to assist various committees that desire to improve their roads near by, the office of public roads of the department of agriculture at Washington has employed experts to test all materials and study their usefulness on roads subjected to certain traffic conditions.

In Advisory Capacity.

The office of public roads is acting in an advisory capacity to many states and counties, giving a most practical form of national aid. On roads where there is a very hard traffic it has been found that certain kinds of materials are better than others, and that, while one kind of binder may not serve the purpose at all, another kind is ideal and preserves the road indefinitely.

Millions of dollars doubtless have been wasted in the past because of the absence of scientific knowledge which is now being obtained. There is no longer any excuse for any community building the wrong kind of road, it is declared, as the office of public roads stands ready to furnish any information that may be desired as to the course that should be pursued.

In discussing the new scientific movement in road improvement Director Logan Waller Page of the office of public roads says:

"There are two ways in which the engineer may avail himself of the information necessary to a proper selection of road material. The first and only certain one is to make an actual service test on the material under observation and under the same conditions of traffic and climate to which the proposed road will be subjected.

Method Usually Impractical.

"This method, however, is impractical except in certain rare instances, due to the lapse of time which must elapse before definite results can be obtained. The second method is by means of short time laboratory tests to approximate as nearly as possible the destructive agencies to which the material will be subjected on a road, supplementing the knowledge thus gained by a study of the results already obtained in practice on material of a similar nature."

The office of public roads constantly uses both methods. At Chevy Chase, near Washington, a model road has been built in sections made of different materials, while in the laboratory of the office tests are constantly being made with scientific accuracy to determine the exact value of certain materials under certain traffic conditions.

WOODEN SHOES COMING IN.

Will Cost 60 to 75 Cents a Pair and Last Two Years.

Wooden shoes may yet become the vogue in the United States, for the United States forest service has ascertained that the industry of manufacturing such footgear has "reached considerable proportions." The shoes cost from 60 to 75 cents a pair and are good for two years.

They are worn by those who have to work in cold or wet places, such as tanneries, breweries and livery stables, and by workmen in steel mills and glass factories, who must walk on hot grates or floors. Farmers, too, are classed among the users. Beechwood is used in the manufacture of shoes.

FARM LEGISLATION NEXT.

Senator Gore Predicts Early Consideration of Rural Credits.

Assurance that legislation intended to better the condition of the American farmer would be considered by congress immediately after the currency bill is disposed of was given by Senator Gore of Oklahoma in an address before the international dry farming congress at Tulsa, Okla.

The senator declared that as a result of the recent investigation of rural credits in Europe a plan would be devised whereby money with which to finance cropping operations would be loaned to the farmer at 4 per cent interest.

LYNDHURST RESIDENT DIES TWO HOURS AFTER VOTING

Lyndhurst, Nov. 6.—Two hours after he had cast his vote, Michael Woods, seventy years old, died at his home from heart disease.

Mr. Woods had been suffering from the malady for several months. He went to the polls with his son, Town Clerk John F. Woods, who was chosen freeholder. At 4 o'clock Mr. Woods was in good spirits. At 5:30 o'clock he complained of intense pain. Before a physician arrived he died. Besides the widow and son, a daughter, Miss Mary Woods, survives him.

Mr. Woods was a foreman in the Lackawanna shops for several years.

EDITOR OF INDEPENDENT, 78, DECIDES TO STOP WORKING

When a man's seventy-eight years old it's about time he retired from routine professional or business life, according to Dr. William Hayes Ward, of Newark, who has just resigned as editor of The Independent after serving in that capacity for forty-five years. Dr. Ward no longer will go to the office of The Independent regularly, but will remain a contributing editor, writing from time to time as the notion appeals to him.

Within a few months, Dr. Ward with his sisters, Miss Susan Hayes Ward and Miss Hetta Hayes Ward, will move from this city to South Berwick, Me., where they have a beautiful summer home, and where Dr. Ward was born. The homestead of the Ward family in Newark is now for sale. Dr. Ward, who is in good health, will spend most of his time wandering over his estate, and "turning farmer."

From 1868 to 1870 Dr. Ward was associate editor of The Independent; from 1870 to 1896 superintending editor, and since then editor-in-chief. He was well known for his archeological research and writings. He was director of the Wolfe expedition to Babylonia in 1885. In 1900 he wrote a book describing the cylinders and other seals in the library of J. Pierpont Morgan. He also has written "The Seal Cylinders of Western Asia," and other works on Oriental antiquities.

PROHIBITION IN ARKANSAS SEEMS ASSURED ON JAN. 1.

Supreme Court Decision Knocking Out Referendum Ends Long Fight.

Whether the liquor interests of Arkansas can or will deem it profitable to go further than they have in resisting the operation of Arkansas' stringent anti-liquor law, which will become effective Jan. 1, remains to be determined by their attorneys and leaders, according to advices from Little Rock, Ark. The recent decision of the supreme court of the state has proved a severe blow to the liquor men, and it now looks as though about all the saloons in the remaining "wet" counties of the state must go out of business at midnight Dec. 31.

The last legislature enacted a bill which makes it necessary for a person to present to the county court a petition signed by a majority of the white voters in his county asking that he be issued a liquor license. Even should the negroes have been made eligible by the legislature to have signed the petitions the effect would have been virtually prohibition; but, the negro vote eliminated, the liquor people realized that they could not meet the requirements.

The liquor interests at once, after the import of the bill was realized, following its passage on Feb. 17 last, began to circulate petitions under the Arkansas constitutional amendment No. 10, providing for the initiative and referendum, and secured 12,155 names, 4,000 in excess of the legal requirements, to have the law voted on by the people. Since the legislature, anticipating such a move, had attached the "emergency clause" to the act, which under the amendment precludes the referendum in cases where the legislature may deem an emergency exists, Secretary of State Earl Hodges refused to call an election when the referendum petition was presented to him.

It was the mandamus proceedings brought to attempt to force him to call such an election that the supreme court passed on, sustaining the views of the lower court, the legislature, the attorney general and the secretary of state at the same time.

"RUSTLING" DYING OUT.

New Form of Cattle Stealing Developed in the Northwest.

Alleged stock rustlers to the number of thirty-two were arrested in Montana during the quarter ended Sept. 30, according to reports of stock inspectors made to D. W. Raymond, secretary of the state board of stock commissioners. During the quarter ten stock rustlers were convicted, and at the end of the quarter there were seventeen cases pending.

"There has been less stealing this year than in any previous year since I have been connected with the office," said Mr. Raymond. "There is practically no tampering with brands any more. This method of rustling belonged to the days of the open range. Now we have to contend with the slaughter of cattle for beef. There is more of this going on than was the case ten years ago, but the aggregate thefts are considerably reduced.

"With the coming of the dry farmers to Montana and the bigger demand in the state for beef there has been a great deal more killing of cattle on the ranges. Oftentimes the hides are burned and the meat taken to town and sold. The owner of the slaughtered animal simply knows his animal has disappeared, and sometimes he finds the dead ashes of a fire on the range where that animal grazed. But this is not evidence."

School Ban on Chestnuts.

Children in the schools of Great Barrington, Mass., have been warned against eating chestnuts, as the nuts appear to have been poisoned this year by chestnut blight. Several children have been made ill lately, and every case has been traced to eating chestnuts.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Economy and Patriotism.

The patriotic thing for American women to do is to be economical. Economists say that we have no future unless we are economical. We are a country of wonderful resources, but we are wasting our resources, and using them extravagantly. If we go on at the present rate we will exhaust them.

Economy is not to be despised. The woman who would not think it worth her while to prevent the throwing away of a quart of milk, for instance, which has turned sour, would pay high tribute to the genius of the man who ran his business in such a way that petty wastes were stopped, that by-products were advantageously used, or that more efficient methods of production were perfected. The home economics seem small and insignificant. They are. But if each housewife would save waste, the results will be startling. The equivalent of a quart of milk saved each day in each kitchen in the land would mount up to a huge total.

Ceaseless care is the only way to prevent waste in the home. The care can be much more exercised if a regular, business routine is established. Accounts of some sort are essential, though they need be only approximate. A routine for each day's work helps to save strength, which in the end is money. Education, too helps. No up-to-date business man is content to go on from year to year running his business in the way his father before him ran it. He educates himself by keeping abreast of all modern expansion and improvement in his particular line.

Housewives should do the same thing. They should interest themselves in their work to the extent of keeping abreast of modern methods and up-to-date improvements.

Tolstoi's Opinion.

The great Russian novelist, Tolstoi, wrote in a letter to his thrifty wife:

"Every conscious and willing reduction in expenditure in our family by 5 rubles a month is worth more than acquiring 50,000 rubles."

His philosophy on this subject applies in America as well as in Russia.

Every conscious and willing reduction shows that woman is taking a real and enthusiastic interest in the work she has chosen; that she is fitting herself to be a real factor in the economic life of the nation.

The economical housewife is the truly patriotic housewife.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Herbert Parker.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The attention of all mothers, teachers and anyone interested in the welfare of children is called to the meeting of The Mothers' Congress at New Brunswick, N. J., November 14 and 15.

The Mothers' Association and all the Plainfield and North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Associations are planning to send large delegations of women. The program, which is most excellent, will consist of the following:

General topic of all sessions will be, "The Training of the Future Citizens in the Home and in the School." On Friday afternoon and evening addresses will be made by Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Congress of Mothers, on "The Mission of Parents;" Miss Myra Winchester, of National Kindergarten Association, on "The Foundation of Principles for Good Citizenship As Laid In the Kindergarten;" James S. Heberling, superintendent of Carter Junior Republic, on "Training the Future Citizen In the Home." "Training the Future Citizen in the School" by speaker to be announced.

Saturday morning, reports of standing committees and all clubs; Saturday afternoon, addresses by Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, honorary president New Jersey Congress of Mothers; Lewis T. Carris, assistant Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, on "Vocational Education," followed by formal discussion, participated in by county superintendents, principals and teachers of schools of the State.

Officers, delegates and individual members of the State Congress will be entertained and names should be sent to the chairman of the credential committee, Mrs. Arthur J. Collins, Moorestown, N. J., before November 8. Visitors desiring accommodations should make personal application to Hotel Klein, New Brunswick, N. J.

An open air exhibition and donation tea will be held Friday, November 7, at the school, Muhlenberg place, from 3 to 5 o'clock. All persons interested in the physical welfare of the children that are given the opportunity to attend this new healthful school are cordially invited to attend the exhibition. Donations of all kinds of dry groceries will be gladly received.

The Mothers of Plainfield will again welcome the opportunity to attend the Janet Richards lectures which opened with the first one this afternoon and will continue on alternate Thursdays from now until the latter part of March. There will be ten lectures in the course and these will embrace all current topics of the day not only in our own but other countries as well. The price of the lectures is a dollar for a single lecture or five dollars and fifty cents for a course ticket, which is transferable, and the lectures will all be given at the Hartridge Auditorium.

The High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold an acquaintance party this evening (Thursday, November 6) in the library of the High School building. Teachers will confer with parents in the various class rooms. Miss Adelaide Parker Jackson and the Philomela Quartet will entertain the members with recitations and music. The program will be interspersed with intermissions for sociability and the inspection of literature. Refreshments will be served.

The North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association held a reception this afternoon in the kindergarten room of the Somerset School. The members were met by the reception committee and a social hour followed. Then an interesting talk was given by Charles M. Dolliver, after which the entertainment committee, assisted by the young women of the senior class of the Borough High School, served refreshments.

The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Alexander Milne, chairman; Mrs. Frank French, Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Hooker, Miss Robley, Miss Tantum, Miss Dietmar, Miss Van Arsdale and Miss Dwight. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. M. H. Ewart, chairman; Mrs. Allen Laing, Mrs. Herman Schwed, Mrs. C. H. Avery, Miss Terry, Miss Spencer and Miss Edna French.

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

HERE THE UBIQUITOUS BUTTERFLY COMPLETES A SASH

One of the daintiest, most feminine of trimmings now favored is the butterfly. Of lace or ribbon it nods from the chic tailored hat; of sequins and net it completes the evening coiffure or trims the gown. In making a sash the temptation is very great to have a butterfly bow in front or back, as the new ribbons and silks with their bright Oriental hues are perfectly suited to butterflies.

An afternoon frock displaying the utmost simplicity and demureness in its long, straight lines is shown in 7620. The skirt has three broad tucks near the feet, each headed with several smaller tucks. These effectively break the lines of the skirt and serve as trimming. A surplice closing makes the blouse attractive, and here the tucks are again used as a finish.

Flowered silk crepon is the material, showing a bright flower on an old blue ground. The sash is of crepe de Chine.

This design may be copied in size 36 with six yards of thirty-six inch material.

Another design attractive in its simplicity is shown in 7711. The blouse is slightly draped, and there is an underblouse of net. Black satin trimmed with the tiny lace frilling and a butterfly sash was used in the illustration.

Size 36 requires for this model four and three-fourths yards of thirty-six inch material.

No. 7620—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7711—sizes 34 to 42.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Crosses for a Set of Altar Linens.

These designs are for embroidering a complete set of altar linens for use in the ritualistic churches. The crosses can be applied to various other purposes for either secular or ecclesiastical embroideries.

The grape design, three and one-half inches, like the Paten Veil. The cross should be outlines, and the wheat developed in heavily padded solid work.

There are four crosses, four and one-half inches, like the large six-inch cross. These are for the fair linen cloth, and the two plainer crosses, four and one-half and three and one-half inches square the Sacramental Veil and Corporal.

The two small crosses, two and one-half inches square are for the pall and purificator. The larger one being used on the pall. These crosses as well as those on the fair linen cloth, Sacremental Veil and Corporal, should be developed in heavily padded solid work and outline.

Pattern number 14547, includes eleven crosses in the pattern, and will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for fifteen cents.

COOKING LATE TOMATOES.

If green tomatoes are available in the late fall put them away wrapped in paper and ripen them in the sun when needed. In this way fresh tomatoes may be had for the table long after they are out of season. These tomatoes are not very sweet, but they are firm and nice.

Tempting Dishes.

Panned Tomatoes.—Take smooth tomatoes of medium size, cut into thick crosswise slices. Dip in flour, sprinkle with salt and fry in half butter and half lard. Dish up on a hot platter and pour into the pan a cup of new milk; stir until lightly browned and slightly thickened. Pour upon the hot tomatoes and garnish with parsley.

Tomatoes and Spaghetti.—Break one cupful of spaghetti into two inch pieces. Boil until tender in salted water, stirring often. When soft place in buttered baking dish, pour over it one-half can tomatoes, four tablespoonfuls sugar, a teaspoonful salt, pepper and bits of butter. Then add a thin layer of fine cracker crumbs. Bake in moderate oven until brown.

Quartered Tomatoes.—Take firm, medium sized tomatoes with very smooth skins. Peel and empty them and then fill with chopped vegetables thickened by means of a mayonnaise with jelly. Place on ice for half an hour; then cut the tomatoes into regular quarters.

A Culinary Novelty.

Tomatoes and Celery.—Put some celery stalks in a mortar and pound. Remove to stewpan and add two teaspoonfuls of salt and three pints of cold water. Bring slowly to the boiling point and let simmer one hour. Cut fat salt pork in small pieces and fry out. There should be two tablespoonfuls of pork fat. Add one onion peeled and thinly sliced, one small carrot scraped and sliced, one-half teaspoonful of thyme, two cloves, one teaspoonful of peppercorns, two sprigs of parsley and a bit of bay leaf. Cook, stirring constantly; then add two cupfuls of canned tomatoes, a tablespoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Combine mixtures. Melt one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly the hot mixture. Cover and let simmer an hour. Rub through a sieve and add two tablespoonfuls of butter bit by bit.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Teddy Bear Was Much Too Particular.

Teddy Jumped Up Growling.

DADDY had been reading in the newspaper. It told there a wonderful story of a man who had discovered a way to shut out all the unpleasant noises from a room where any one wished to work or needed quiet.

"I don't know just how he does it," daddy told Jack and Evelyn. "It sounds like a fairy story, doesn't it? You have only to press a button and the noises are all shut out. It certainly would have been a fine machine for Teddy Bear to have in his den.

"Teddy was a young bear, and he hadn't learned many things that it would have been very useful for him to know. When fall came, like all his brother and cousin bears, he became very hungry and ate and ate until he grew very fat.

"Then Teddy Bear fixed his den—the cave where he sleeps, you know—so that it would be snug and comfortable for the winter.

"Teddy was beginning to feel very sleepy. When he felt that he really could not get on without a nap he crawled into the little opening and curled up where it was dark and warm. Teddy intended to take a long nap and not wake up until next spring, when the ice and snow would be gone and the weather would be quite comfortable again.

"Now it happened that a lot of hunters had come into those woods, and their guns began to go 'Crick, crack!' as guns do when they shoot.

"Teddy sat up straighter still. 'I wish they'd stop their old noise,' he growled. 'I can't get to sleep with all that row going on out there.'

"But the hunters didn't stop. What did they care about Teddy Bear and his old nap. Nothing at all, my dears; nothing at all.

"If Teddy had been a sensible bear and remembered the wise advice Mother Bear had given him in his cub days he would have just kept quiet until the hunters and their guns and dogs passed by.

"But Teddy wasn't a wise bear. He jumped up, growling, and went to the door of his den. Then he poked out through the bushes to tell the hunters and the dogs what he thought about them. They saw him first, however, and crack went a gun. The bullet hit Teddy Bear just between the eyes, and he never knew anything more. He just rolled over, and that was the end of him.

"The hunter man who shot him took him home, and his children had bear meat and a nice warm rug, which was all very well for them, but I do think Teddy Bear would have been better off if he hadn't paid any attention to the noise and gone right to sleep again as fast as ever he could."

WOMEN OF ILLINOIS WILL TALK POLITICS

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 6.—Unusual enthusiasm characterized the proceedings today at the opening of the forty-fifth annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association by State President Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout. It is the first annual gathering since the great victory of the Illinois suffragists last spring, when the State Legislature granted to them the right to vote on all but State tickets, and it is quite natural that the delegates representing the woman suffrage organizations of the State should feel elated over their success. Yet, a spirit of seriousness seemed to pervade the gathering and the president and the other speakers were loudly applauded when they sought to impress upon the delegates the necessity to perfect the political organization of the women of Illinois and to teach them more fully the responsibilities of the newly gained franchise and the best use to make of this right.

The convention will remain in session three days and the programs for the daily sessions, general as well as departmental, include addresses by a number of noted men and women closely identified with the suffrage movement, among them Governor Dunne, of Illinois; Miss Jane Addams, Dr. Lucy Waite, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Treadwell, Mrs. George W. Plummer, Mrs. Florence Bennett Peterson, Catherine Waugh McCulloch and a number of others.

SIXTY YRS. WED, THEY CELEBRATE

Dinner Followed by Reception Given in Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Clawson's Honor.

GUESTS OF CHILDREN

Both Born In New Market Where They Married—Prominent in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church—Are Highly Respected.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clawson, of Park avenue, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding, yesterday, when at noon they were guests of honor at an anniversary dinner given by their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson. At that time a picture of the group was taken. Only the immediate relatives were at the dinner.

The celebration was continued last night when a reception was given for the couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa F. Randolph, on Central avenue, which is also their home. At that time a large number of friends extended congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Clawson are both natives of New Market and they were married there November 6, 1853, by Rev. Halsey Baker, then pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, but who in later years removed to this city. Mr. Baker attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clawson.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Clawson was Miss Henrietta K. Titsworth, being a member of one of the oldest families settling in Piscataway township. After marriage the couple lived on the Maltby farm near Lincoln, which at one time was the country home of the late John F. Dryden. Mr. and Mrs. Clawson removed to Farina, Ill., in 1868, where Mr. Clawson with others opened a tract of land along the line of the Illinois Central Railroad. He was also engaged in mercantile business until 1876.

The couple then returned to Dunellen, where Mr. Clawson engaged in business until 1882, when he and his wife removed to Plainfield. For many years Mr. Clawson conducted a grocery store at West Second street and Madison avenue, retiring in January last. By the union there were three children, Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, Dr. Frank T. Clawson and Mrs. Asa F. Randolph. Mrs. Clawson has a sister, Mrs. Amanda Tomlinson, of this city, mother of Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, of Elizabeth, and two brothers, Martin D. Titsworth, of Adams Center, N. Y., and Wood Titsworth, of this city. Mr. Clawson has one brother, Lewis T. Clawson, of Bethlehem, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Clawson are practically the same age, he being eighty-two years old on Wednesday and Mrs. Clawson being one week his junior.

Throughout their life the couple have been identified with the Seventh-day Baptist church, being regular attendants at the services. They both are in excellent health.

SEBRING TAKES OFFICE ON TUESDAY MORNING

Charles P. Sebring, the Republican winner in the Somerset county shrievalty contest, will be sworn in office on Tuesday. His salary will be but $2,500 and out of that he will have to pay clerical hire and traveling expenses.

"My golley, it made me feel good to see how my friends stood by me," said Mr. Sebring today. "I want to thank all of them and in this I include those fine Democrats and Progressives who cast their ballots in my favor."

CIVIC ASS'N CELEBRATION OVER MEMBERS' VICTORY

The regular monthly meeting of the West End Civic Association, to be held in the Washington School auditorium on Monday night, will include a reception to four of the members who were elected to the Common Council on Tuesday. These are John H. Cose, R. A. Claybrook, Thomas S. Hylan and Charles C. Graves. Another member of the association, David L. Coleman, was also a councilmanc candidate, but was listed among the defeated.

The executive committee of the association has prepared an informal program which will comprise selections by Squier's orchestra, vocal solos and addresses by the officers. An invitation is extended all interested and it is believed the resulting attendance will be large.

STEWARD RESIGNS AT THE POOR FARM

Henry Hummer Notifies Piscataway Township of His Desire to Quit.

The resignation of Henry Hummer, steward of the Piscataway Township Poor Farm, has been sent to the Township Committee, and will be acted upon at the next meeting of that body. Mr. Hummer's health has been failing for some time, and only recently he underwent an operation for a cataract on one of his eyes.

The steward has been in charge of the farm, which comprises 110 acres, for a long term of years, coming to the place from Millstone. He is popular throughout the township, and although the farm, as a paying investment for the township, has received considerable criticism, the steward is not held to blame.

Action by the Piscataway Township Taxpayers' Association, relative to abandoning the Poor Farm, will be taken at the next meeting of the Taxpayers' Association next Tuesday.

ACQUAINTANCE PARTY WAS QUITE PROFITABLE

Parents and Teachers Got Together for Mutual Help and Enjoyed the Evening.

Under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Plainfield High School, an "Acquaintance Party" was held at the school, last night, the purpose being to afford an opportunity for the mothers of pupils in the High School to become acquainted with the teachers and each other. It also gave the parents a chance to confer with the teachers regarding the work of the children, especially in their studies which is sure to be of mutual help and benefit.

The teachers were in their various rooms, and as the parents arrived they were directed to the particular teacher they wished to see. Later in the evening all gathered in the library where there was a social time with a short program comprising phonograph selections by S. B. Howe, Jr., and a reading by Miss Addie Parker Jackson, which were enjoyed.

There was a brief business session, Mrs. G. Stuart Simons being in charge. The treasurer reported a small balance, and it was voted to appropriate $5 toward the "penny luncheon" work of the Bryant School it being explained by some of the members that such help is needed. It was stated that this work is growing beyond expectations, the luncheons proving popular.

W. H. P. Veysey, representing the Public Recreation Committee, briefly explained what has already been accomplished by that committee, speaking especially of the work of the junior and senior municipal orchestras. All those present who had not previously done so were urged to join the association.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Best, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Simons and other officers of the association acted as a reception committee, while Mrs. W. H. P. Veysey was in charge of the entertainment and Mrs. H. R. Moyer was in charge of the refreshments, coffee and sandwiches being served after the entertainment.

WILL ATTEND MEETING.

John Stringham, of New York, an uncle of Norman Stringham, of this city, will attend the half-yearly meeting of the Shrewsbury-Plainfield Society of Friends to be held here tomorrow, and at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning, Miss Mary Travilla, of West Chester, Pa., a prominent Friend, will be present and is expected to speak. The meeting tomorrow afternoon will be under the auspices of the advancement committee and in the evening the young Friends will be in charge.

CARD CLUB MEETS.

The Avondale Card Club was entertained last night by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Logan, of Sycamore avenue, when the full membership enjoyed "500." For the women, Mrs. John Gray was awarded first honors, while George Leland captured the men's honors by a narrow margin, using clever championship methods to defeat his opponents. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of play and a general social time was enjoyed.

NURSING BUREAU AND ITS PURPOSE

Miss Lovell Gives Interesting Information About Important Charity Effort.

IT MEANS MUCH HERE

Four Nurses Have Wide Range of Work and the Needs of the Bureau Are Urgent—Salient Facts of Her Report.

Miss Helen Lovell, of the City Nursing Bureau, in which the City Union of The Kings' Daughters takes an important part, presented an interesting report at the semi-annual meeting of the King's Daughters' Union yesterday. She set forth that the bureau is not a new charity, but a combination of old ones. There used to be a King's Daughters' nurse and a tuberculosis nurse. A life insurance company wanted to extend its nursing service and the public schools wanted a nurse. It was finally decided to combine all this work under one head.

Miss Lovell states that while four nurses can hardly cover all the prescribed territory, they come nearer doing so when they work together. The bureau is merely a central office for daily reports, where telephone calls are received and where there is a nurses' closet for supplies. The office is open every week day from 8:30 until 5 o'clock, and on Saturday mornings, afternoons, Sundays holidays and evenings, the doctors know where they can find the nurse for emergency calls.

When the bureau was started two years ago it was thought it could be maintained without appealing for outside financial help. The various allied interests were to contribute towards its support, but it was a hard problem to face and this year there is not enough money coming in to carry on the work.

The city does not pay for the calls made to city cases, and pays only fifty cents on Saturdays for going to the Industrial Home. There is no city nurse there and the money collected from patients does not pay for bandages and carfares. The King's Daughters had to cut down its contribution one-half, North Plainfield could not continue the work and the Board of Education does not pay during the summer months. On the other hand the work is larger and expenses heavier, demanding more service in the schools and in other ways. It was found that a nurse to attend to her work properly would have to be on duty twelve hours a day, every day in the week.

The report describes in detail many personal cases of need and tells what has been done for relief. In September and October there was not enough money to pay salaries, and when funds were asked for the appeal was met by those who are already giving largely to charity. The sum of $600 is needed for this year's work and after making every effort, $112 has been raised.

ICE MAN'S NOVEL WAY OF STOPPING RUNAWAY

William England, of Westervelt avenue, a driver employed by the Independent Ice Company, stopped a runaway on West Fourth street, this morning in a manner as highly effective as it was original. The horse belonged to Beppo Codrini, an Italian fish dealer, and dashed off while the owner was making a sale at Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. Before going 100 feet, a rear wheel of the wagon was wrenched off in the trolley track and a box containing several hundred pounds of fish did a flip-flop into the gutter, scattering the contents galley west.

The frightened horse continued up Fourth street despite the efforts of a dozen men to stop it, and finally hove in sight of England at Stebbins place. He realized the runaway was making such headway that ordinary methods of obstruction would fail so decided on something else. He accordingly grabbed the long pike pole off the side of his wagon which has a curved hook at the end. He held this in readiness and as the careering horse went leaping by, deftly inserted the hook in its bridle. England was dragged off his feet and pulled along for fifty yards but retained his grip until help arrived.

The runaway suffered no harm but Cardini had to quit business for the day for lack of supplies and will have to get a new wagon before resuming his trade.

LEONARD WANTS TO BE SPEAKER

Re-elected Union County Democratic Assemblyman Covets High Honor.

Stisfied that he is one of the three Democratic Assemblymen elected in Union county, although the vote is close as between himself and Major William B. Martin, the high man on the Republican ticket, Assemblyman William A. Leonard, yesterday, declared that he would make a fight for Speaker of the House.

Leonard is assured the backing of many of his colleagues of last session of the Legislature, and it is not unlikely that he will be backed up by Governor-elect Fielder and other Wilson men, whose support will count heavily.

When asked if he would seek the speakership, Mr. Leonard declared he was in the race. "I am going after the speakership," he said. "I have assurances of support from many sources and believe that I can get the votes. I am going to put up a fight."

It is alleged by Democrats in touch with the situation in the State that only an Assemblyman of a progressive stripe, who was consistent in voting with the recognized Wilson and Fielder men in the last session of the Legislature, stands a chance of being chosen speaker. None of the Essex men known to be lined up with the Nugent contingent in that county will stand a chance, according to the prevailing sentiment among the Democratic leaders. Fielder's election evidently means a session-long fight in the Legislature between the Essex county machine men and the Fielder forces in the Legislature. Fielder is not expected to show the Essex crowd any quarter. On the contrary, it is expected that Nugent and his henchmen will be rebuked for the overthrow of the Governor-elect in Essex.

50 MEN DISCHARGED AT SAURER WORKS

Work is Slack and Conditions May Call for a Reorganization of the Concern.

Adopting what is believed to be a policy of retrenchment, the International Motor Company has laid off about fifty employes this week. Some of these men are known as "producers" and others as "non-producers." Some were employed in the mechanical departments, while others were in the offices.

It is semi-officially stated that just at present work is a little slack at the plant, but the company is confident that it will become brisk in a short time. Wherever any over-lapping in help has been found the force has been reduced. There is now some dissention on the part of minority stockholders, as previously told in the Daily Press and an opinion has been expressed that there is likely to be a reorganization of the company in the near future.

HOME RULE FOR ERIN ASSURED SEEMS TO BE ASSURED

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

London, Nov. 7.—The prediction that Home Rule would be assured in Ireland before the summer of 1914 was made here today following announcement of the Parliamentary program in the session beginning February 3. The Home Rule bill will be the first taken up when Parliament convenes and the Government is positive of having it enacted by May 9.

AIR-BRAKES STOP DERAILED COALER

Long String of Cars is Brought to Sudden Halt With No Great Loss.

CREW ESCAPED INJURY

Rumors of Serious Injuries to Engineer and Brakemen Disapproved by the Men Themselves—Train Was Traveling 30 Miles An Hour.

Traveling at a speed estimated by the engineer to have been thirty miles an hour a west bound coal train was brought to an abrupt halt near Park avenue at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon when the fourth car of the train became derailed. When the derailed car left the tracks the automatic snapping of the air-pipe set the air brakes and the train was brought to a standstill within 200 feet of where the accident occurred.

The heavy car left the track about ten feet east of the frog in the outside track and swung with a crash against the steel partition in the bridge over Park avenue. Had the car swerved the opposite direction a number of the cars would have been pitched head-long into the street below and the accident might have resulted in an unprecedented catastrophe at this point where many were passing at the time.

So heavy was the contract between the car and steel girder that the bunker of the car was ripped from its moorings and a prominent mark left on the hard steel of the bridge. The automatic application of the air-brakes forced the cars to sandwich together and a loud crash resulted which drew many people to the scene of the accident. For a time it was feared the men in the engine's cabin and one of the brakemen had sustained serious injury but it was later learned that all escaped with a severe shaking up.

After leaving the rails the car was dragged over the ties and track bed for a distance of 200 feet tearing large chunks out of the hard pine ties and digging a long, deep furrow over the area it traveled. A wreck crew was hastily organized among the railroad employes and after a half hour's delay the car was pulled back on the track by means of steel wedges and put on the siding near the Boice-Runyon building.

In speaking of the accident to a Daily Press reporter shortly after it happened, a railroad official dispatched to the scene to supervise the disposal of the wrecked coaler, said that he considered the fact that none was injured as little more than miraculous. Under similar circumstances the whole train of cars have been known to pile up in telescope fashion when the train was stopped as suddenly as this one was and seldom does a train crew escape with a shaking up when cars traveling thirty miles an hour are stopped in the space of 200 feet.

The wrecked car was the only one of wooden construction in the train and was one of the most recently built. Markings on the coaler showed that it had been turned out from the Elizabethport shops this month and was probably taken from the shops this morning. The entire drawhead was torn out and the car will have to be entirely remodeled.

DOLLIVER ADDRESSES SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Borough Clerk Speaks Before Parents and Teachers in Borough.

Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver addressed a meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association, yesterday afternoon, in the kindergarten of the Somerset School. Following the discourse refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. Alexander Milne, chairman; Mrs. Frank French, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Hooker, Miss Robley, Miss Tantum, Miss Dietmar, Miss Van Arsdale and Miss Dwight.

The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. M. H. Ewart, chairman; Mrs. Allen Laing, Mrs. Herman Schwed, Mrs. C. H. Avery, Miss Terry, Miss Spencer and Miss Edna French. They were assisted by the girls of the senior High School class.

MISS RICHARDS DIDN'T REFER TO MEXICO

But Lecturer on World's Politics Dwells on Troubles in Europe and Asia.

Contrary to expectations, Miss Janet Richards, who gave her first lecture of the season at the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon, had practically nothing to say on the Mexican situation. It was thought that possibly she might bring some interesting facts on that timely subject.

The speaker paid a fine compliment to Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President, who she said as "the first lady of the land" was well received in Washington, quite largely because of her genuine democratic manner and her desire to be no different from other American women. Whenever she desired to become identified with any movement or society, it was her rule to ask for the privilege, instead of expecting as the wife of the President that she would be requested to do these things.

Miss Richards turned her attention to the apparently helpless condition of the Balkans. She declared that the Albania is the bone of contention. According to a missionary, whom the speaker met, the Albanians are generous, chivalrous and the treatment they are receiving is horrible. He brought home in a new way the horrors of the war. Army officers who know this are trying to advise the President to avoid war. Translations from Turkish papers were read to show that Turkey is willing to make all sacrifice and may take Servia into partnership.

The speaker reviewed at some length the long session of the United States Senate. Referring to the President, she said that he has been trying to drive the reactionary and non-progressive as a team which is like trying to drive a zebra and Indian pony. Miss Richards explained the income tax, briefly reviewed some of the important points of the new tariff and the currency law, which she said she would talk about at greater length later "if her intellect is spared."

Miss Richards touched on the civil strife in China, where she said the President is giving a new sort of revolution in the arrests named yesterday in the newspapers. That there should be bloodshed to settle differences which might be settled by the ballot, was deeply deplored.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Charles Gregory, of Mt. Bethel, was tendered a birthday surprise party. The evening was spent playing games and the Misses Edna Smith and Hazel Gregory rendered vocal and instrumental selections. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Sacks, Mr. and Mrs. William Gregory, Mrs. Grace Crosby and the Misses Florence Haye, Ida May Cooper, Edna Smith, Bertha Wood, Katherine Pabst, Grace Horton, Hazel Gregory, Antoinette Conroy, Reith Conroy, Margaret Trapp, Blanche Crabb and Lillian Crabb; Charles Gregory, Andrew Haye, George Whittman, Peter Cooper, Kenneth Newton, E. Coddington, Roy Gregory and Fred Lang.

Y. M. C. A. TAKES TITLE TO LAND

Site for New Structure Acquired and Campaign for Bldg. Fund to Begin.

LEADER IS ENGAGED

Charles S. Ward to Direct Campaign For Voluntary Subscriptions—Some Facts Amout Proposed Headquarters.

The Young Men's Christian Association took title today to the property on the southwest corner of Sycamore and East Fifth streets. The lot was purchased from the estate of Warren Ackerman. On it, the association will erect a modern, four-story, fire-proof building with a capacity of 1,500 and with dormitory accommodations for 75 men.

The purchase of this site and the planning an up-to-date equipment for a larger membership is the result of four years' careful consideration of the needs of Plainfield's young men and boys by the association's Board of Directors. During that time advice has been sought from association leaders in all parts of the country who are familiar with the construction and management of modern buildings. The leading association architects have also been employed to study the problem. All these experts have strongly advised a new building as an absolute necessity if the Plainfield association is to claim its opportunities for service.

A city-wide campaign for the funds needed for this great civic enterprise will be launched directly following the New York campaign for $4,000,000 for the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of that city. The raising of this great fund in New York, the largest ever sought in a two weeks' campaign, will begin on Monday, November 10, under the direction of Charles S. Ward, secretary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America, and the originator of the short-term campaign for funds for benevolent objects. Mr. Ward has been secured to direct the Plainfield movement.

In securing Charles S. Ward to direct its campaign, the local association has selected the most experienced and successful director of such efforts in the world. Mr. Ward has raised over $20,000,000 for the associations of America and Europe in the last eight years and in the eighty campaigns he has conducted he has never had a failure. Conspicuous among these have been Philadelphia, $1,000,000; Chicago, $1,000,000; Toronto, $800,000; Rochester, $750,000; London, $500,000; Cleveland, $540,000; Boston, $515,000; Winnipeg, $360,000; Camden, N. J., $250,000; Charleston, S. C., $180,000. Successful campaigns have been conducted by him in many cities of the size of Plainfield, including Pittsfield, Mass., $175,000; Newton, Mass., $156,000; Moline, Ill., $140,000; Newcastle, Penn., $110,000; Hamilton, Ohio, $160,000.

UNION CO. PRISONERS AFFLICTED BY BERI-BERI

Elizabeth, Nov. 7.—Sheriff William H. Wright presented to the Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday a report sent to him by the Union County Medical Society following its investigation and examination of prsoners in the county jail who have been ill with a strange disease which baffled the authorities.

According to the report of the medical society, the disease is what is called "Beri-beri," and is caused by the eating of polished rice which is covered with what is known as "pericase." The disease is also aggravated by sedentary habits, but is declared not to be contagious.

The freeholders took steps at once to have the prisoners provided with the proper kind of rice and efforts will also be made to keep them employed more than heretofore.

Director Cady warned the board that the bridge account is about exhausted and urged the committee on bridges not to plan for any more work this year than is absolutely necessary.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from the State Trust Company for today is as follows: 9 a. m., 48 degrees; 11 a. m., 50 degrees; 1 p. m., 54 degrees.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

The series of services in celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of the organization of the congregation of the Calvary Baptist church were begun last night when Rev. M. W. Vaughan, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, delivered a historical sketch of the church. The choir of Mt. Olive rendered a musical program. The celebration will continue tonight when Rev. C. F. Wilcher, of Newark, will be the principal speaker. The program will be in charge of the missionary and Sunday-school departments. On Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Daniel Y. Campbell, will preach in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. E. B. Crawley, of Asbury Park, will speak. The choir of the Shiloh church will sing. The Lord's Supper will be observed in the evening and the celebration will culminate Monday night, with a banquet.

The congregation was organized in 1897 and the first pastor was Rev. Mr. Gipson, who died several years ago in Pittsburg. He was succeeded by Rev. Scott Wallace, who died while pastor in 1905. During the latter's pastorate the present edifice was erected. Rev. G. W. Bailey, of this city, followed Mr. Wallace and in Feb. 1913 the present pastor took charge.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Eugene Dietzgen & Company, of New York city, have presented the High School with a fine framed sectional diagram of a transit. This is the second present of this kind. It has been hung in the trigonometry room.

Owing to the fact that there was no school last Tuesday, Principal Earley did not have a speaker this morning.

The members of the senior English class held a very interesting debate during class period yesterday. The resolution was that Edmund Burke, famous Irish writer and orator, was disloyal to England at the time of the American Revolution. Both sides were very well presented and the refuting was very exciting. For the affirmative, Ralph Smalley, Lester Chandler and Gibson Fairman were the chief speakers, while the points that Lucile Ewart, Attwood Giddings and Estes Small brought out practically gave their side the verdict. At the end Miss Ray, the teacher, gave the verdict in favor of the negatives.

The monthly report cards were given out this morning. The same rule for exemption from examinations as last year will again be enforced, that of having 85 per cent. average for a half year.

Charles Moraller, a member of the eighth grade, received a bad cut in the nose while turning in the machine shop yesterday. He had just started to work when the wood slipped out of place and hit him in the bridge of the nose.

By request of the management of the girls' basketball team, Paul Collier, the boys' coach, looked over the female squad yesterday and gave a few suggestions.

The date for the junior mock trial, that is now in preparation, is set for December 5. It is under the direction of Miss Ray.

Miss Terry, teacher of history, took thirty-one members of her ancient history class to New York yesterday afternoon. Most of the time was spent at the Metropolitan Museum of Natural History, in going over the old Egyptian and Grecian relics that are of interest to the pupils in their present study of the early times. The party also visited other places of interest, including the Art Museum. Those who took the trip are Dorothy Lee, Mildren Smith, Mary Connett, Grave DeNise, Esther Kellog, Helen Ryno, Hester Stebbins, Mary Ayers, Madeline Blair, Margaret Smith, Frances Avery, Clara Mobus, Bertha Debele, Marguerite Barkelew, Elsie Wyckoff, Marion Chandler, Robert Pasch, Robert Daley, Grant Boos, LeRoy Force, Alfred Willett, Walter Romain, William Seidell, Kenneth Lowrie, Andrew McDonough, Bertha Bodine, William Carson, Walter Thomas, Daniel Denney, Carol Hughes and Lucy Hughes.

Edmund Kenney, who was salutatorian of the class of 1912 and now a freshman in Penn State College, received the highest mark in physics for the first month in the entire freshman class. It numbers about 250.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stillman entertained a few of the High School pupils and teachers at their home last evening. Mr. Stillman, who is the manual training teacher, showed his guests the way to do basketry with reeds and the evening was spent in making mats and fancy baskets. After the work refreshments were served by Mr. Stillman. Those who were present are Miss Agnes Boxold, Miss Margaret Spiedel, Lucy Douglas, Lillian Spencer, Dorothy Martin, Elsie Debele and Uaura Stillman.

Principal Earley has a few prospective speakers for next Friday. Mayor Clark will probably be the man to address the High School pupils.

With official announcement of the arrangements it became known that the wedding of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Mr. Francis B. Sayre, in the White House on Tuesday, November 25, will reflect the serious interests in life of the President's daughter and her fiance. The ceremony will bring together the diplomatic representatives of foreign Powers and their wives, and will be thoroughly and brilliantly representative of official and residential society. The members of the wedding party have been chosen from among the associates of Miss Wilson and Mr. Sayre in the philanthropic and social service to which they have devoted their youthful energies.

In the historic East Room, where Miss Nellie Grant was married to Algernon F. Sartoris, of England, and where Miss Alice Roosevelt made her début and became the bride of Representative Nicholas Longworth, the ceremony will be performed. The arrangements for this, the thirteenth wedding in the history of the White House, were perfected when Mr. Sayre left for New York after a four days' stay at the White House.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, the eldest daughter of the family, will be her sister's chief attendant. The bridesmaids will be Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest member of the Wilson family; Miss Mary G. White, of Baltimore, a classmate of Miss Jessie Wilson at Goucher College, Baltimore; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott, daughter of Professor William R. Scott, of Princeton, N. J., a neighbor since the bride's early girlhood, and Miss Marjorie Brown, daughter of Colonel E. T. Brown, of Atlanta, Ga. Miss Brown is a second cousin on the maternal side.

It is with a measure of personal pride that this store acknowledges its close relations with Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes.

No store could possibly devote a greater degree of effort than ours to the securing of fine merchandise for your service.

In selecting Stein-Bloch garments we have laid aside every consideration save that of making our stock the most select that capital and experience can assemble.

You will find a half-hour spent here extremely profitable in discovering the style tendencies as they are so faultlessly illustrated in Stein-Bloch garments.

The Seal of Confidence

Every man knows of one certain clothier in his vicinity whose store expresses a higher level of merchandise ideals than every other. Always back of this kind of store stands the fine intelligence of a mercantile idealist. The frequency with which this merchant proves to be the retailer of

would be truly remarkable but for these facts: Nothing but perfection will satisfy good dressers who discriminate in clothes values; nothing but perfection satisfies these better merchants; nothing but perfection satisfies the makers of Stein-Bloch garments. And so the Stein-Bloch label, signifying "Fifty Nine Years Of Knowing How," has come to be known among the makers and the retailers and the wearers of Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes as an emblem of trust.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST DEACONS ORDINATION

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, will not occupy his pulpit tomorrow morning, being called to New York, where he will assist in the ordination service of two deacons in the denominational church there. Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, a deacon of the local church, will also have a part in that service. The New York church has extended an invitation to friends here to attend the service which begins at 11 o'clock. There will also be baptism.

Rev. Arthur E. Main, a former pastor here, will preach the ordination sermon, and Rev. W. C. Whitford, professor of Hebrew in Alfred Theological Seminary, a brother of one of the candidates, will make the consecration prayer. Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardiner, editor of the Sobbath Recorder, will preach at the Plainfield church tomorrow. At the session of the Sabbath-school, Miss Helen Lovell, chairman of the Nursing Bureau of the Charity Organization Society, will speak of that work.

—In "learning to buy" the adreading housewife does not seek mere price-concessions. These are sought, of course; but they must apply to goods that would be value at "regular" prices.

FIRST PRESBYTERIANS ENJOYED A LUNCHEON

The luncheon which was held at the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society was a success. About ninety persons were served and the society netted about $50. The affair was in charge of a committee of twenty members of the society, directed by Mrs. J. M. Bettman, the president.

The tables were attractively decorated with flowers and smilax. After the luncheon, the women enjoyed a social hour. The proceeds from the affair will be used for church purposes.

WOULD WRECK AUTO.

Charles Raybert, of East Second street, has sought the aid of Mayor Percy H. Stewart, City Judge DeMeza, Chief of Police Patrick J. Kiely and Supervising Principal of School Henry M. Maxson to run down those who yesterday afternoon pushed his runabout automobile from the curb near the school onto the Arlington avenue car tracks. According to Mr. Raybert, the Mayor informed him that the investigation would be made.

NEWPAPER ORGANS.

Not a very long while ago, some local Democrats purchased The Constitutionalist for the purpose of having a party organ in this city. Of course they were not practical newspapermen, else they would have known that party organs no longer pay. The people have long since lost any respect for a journal that is run as the mouthpiece of any party or any faction. Their undertaking proved expensive during its naturally brief career. But the experiment was an object lesson to the weekly's proprietors.

Time was when every newspaper in New York was an organ for some party or some faction. The same was true in almost every other large city and for that matter in the small communities where the weekly served the news. Now, however, political organs are very scarce and proportionately unprofitable. The reason is that the people demand that the news be faithfully, impartially and fully reported according to its real news value. The editorial column is the only section where opinions, political or otherwise, has its proper place. The editor is free to say there what he believes and the readers reserve the right to be their own judges as to its merit. This is the fixed policy of the Daily Press just as much so as it is of every rightly conducted newspaper.

Down in Nashville, Tennessee, it seems that there were also some people who did not realize this fact. There they started a newspaper with the appropriate title of "The Democrat." That organ died in about a year and is remembered for its heavy obligations. In commenting on its career, the Chattanooga Times says instructively:

"The story of this newspaper illustrates the inevitable fact that the day of the mere newspaper organ has passed. People want a newspaper that gives the news, straight, cold-blooded and uncolored to suit the interest, fancy or promotion of any one or set of men. It may say what it believes in its editorial columns and its readers may take its opinions or let them alone, according to taste, but in its statement of events and happenings and in relating what it intends the public shall regard as facts, it must print the truth; impartially and without prejudice or bias. The personal and partisan organs cannot do this, hence their failure to receive support and consideration from the reading public. The people are coming more and more to demand of the newspapers public service and not the mere exploiters of men, the promoters of special interests and the advocates of partisan or factional politics. Only when the press stands independent of all considerations, save the public weal, and can, with candor and frankness, expose the wrong whether committed by friend or foe and espouse the right, the good of all, regardless of personal or political interests or arguments, can it confidently expect financial success or impress its influence upon the community wherein it operates. The newspaper graveyard is full of skeletons because of the failure of editors and publishers to recognize this fundamental truth: There is no place in any self-respecting community for a sycophantic, slavish or partial organ, or a newspaper incapable of doing justice and affording fair play to all shades of opinion, or that fails to give to its readers the full measure of honest news, whether it helps or hurts any cause to which it may be devoted."

McCALL WAS UNFIT.

Before he lost the New York mayoralty, McCall lost his head. His intemperant utterances on the stump clearly demonstrated that he was not fitted to be the calm, conservative and sane man needed for the second most important office in this land. Instead of discussing the issues soberly, he viciously attacked the newspapers, devoting especial attention to the World. He boasted of his intention, "when elected," to muzzle the press and to start a newspaper of his own to put Pulitzer out of business. Such brainless talk made him the laughing stock of the general public and particularly of the newspaper editors and managers. Such talk was ridiculous. As an owner, editor or manager, or all three combined, he would be even less successful than our own jimsmith.

THE WORLD'S WORK.

The sovereign people of New York, freed from Tammany, owe the New York World a vote of thanks and of confidence. Preaching the doctrines of civic righteousness, the World revealed Murphy as the arch enemy of good government; Tammany as the vilest institution on the face of the earth, and McCall as a scorned puppet. To the World, more than to any other single force, is due the great triumph of Fusion, the triumph of all decent people.

Some elections were extraordinarily close. Sebring, G. O. P. nominee for sheriff in Somerset county, won by ten votes. Martin, Democratic ward nominee here, pulled through with nine plurality, and Claybrook, Democratic candidate for councilman-at-large, was a winner by seven votes.

After rendering good service, Charles L. Randolph will retire as a member of the Common Council on January 1. Randolph has been clean, progressive and always to be depended upon to do what was for the city's best interests.

The contributing editor for tomorrow's issue will be Howard A. Colby, of this city, a brother of Everett Colby.

As a forecaster, Republican State Chairman Bugbee certainly was bughouse.

And we forgot to congratulate George S. Clay. It's never too late.

Hylan should make a good councilman.

Do It For Plainfield.

REPORTS READ AT MEETING OF HEAVENLY REST GUILD

Reports read from the various committees and other important business were features of the meeting of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, yesterday afternoon. These reports showed that a number of visits had been made, orders for sewing taken, and about $45 realized on the oyster supper, held recently.

An important amendment to the constitution was introduced calling for a monthly corporate communion of the guild on the third Sunday of each month at 8 o'clock in the morning. Arrangements were made for a Christmas social and sale to be held on Tuesday, December 11, and it was also proposed to send a Christmas box of clothing to needy ones in the mission field. On Thursday, November 13, Mrs. W. S. Phelps, president of the Upper Division of the New Jersey Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will address the members of the guild on the needs of the mission work and a mission study class will probably be formed in January.

At the close of the meeting a pleasant surprise was provided for the women in the form of an oyster luncheon, which was greatly enjoyed, and which was an expression of appreciation for the self-sacrificing work of the guild.

ENTERTAINED SCHOOLMATES AT A CANDY-PULLING PARTY

Miss Amelia Brizzie entertained sixteen of her schoolmates at her home on Fairview avenue, last night. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games, dancing and pulling candy.

At a late hour refreshments were served by the hostess and her sister, Margaret. Those who were present are the Misses Amelia Brizzie, Margaret Brizie, Dorothy Brizzie, Margaret Ewart, Lucile Ewart, Marjorie Burtis, Marion Avery, Ann Hull, Edna Green, Jubilee Rowley, Franklin Lowe, Warren Townley, Roy Love, Ashley Burner, Lester Chandler, Hoyt Tomkinson, Duclos Van-Mater, John Hull, Ralph Smalley and Frank Dunning.

Mrs. C. L. ODELL'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte Lowerre Odell, widow of Jacob S. Odell, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. George W. Lowerre, of Grandview avenue. Rev. Dr. MacGregor, of New York city, officiated and the burial was in Greenwood cemetery today.

SLIGHT BARN FIRE.

A call sent in from box No. 19 last night brought the fire department to George street and Johnson avenue where a fire had been discovered in a barn owned by Dominico Parretti. The blaze was put out with a pail of water before the apparatus arrived on the scene.

ROBBERS LOOT BANK.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Robbers broke into the private bank of E. A. Dunham & Co. at Montour Falls early today and escaped with $12,000. The bank is closed.

BREAKS IN FIRE ALARM.

Taps from the fire gong sounding shortly after 6 o'clock this morning and at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, were caused by a break in the wires somewhere in the west end of town.

AUCTION BRIDGE PARTY.

There will be an informal auction bridge party at the Park Club on Monday afternoon, November 17, to which a large number of invitations have been issued.

King of Flowers.

On the score of age alone the peony should command the interest of all flower lovers. It has a history which began many hundreds of years ago. The tree peony, Paenia moutan, is a native of China. This peony, more than any other flower, has been the glory and pride of the Chinese for nearly 1,500 years and has been a subject for their painters and a theme for their poets. In China for more than 1,000 years a record has been kept of the percentage of seedlings of this peony and their characteristics. Its great beauty and fragrance made it centuries ago the favorite flower of China's emperors, and it was called Hwa Wang—king of flowers.—Suburban Life.

Just Try It.

A curiosity in arithmetic has recently been worked out by a British astronomer in answer to the question, What is the largest number that can be expressed with three digits?

The answer is 9^{9^9} (the ninety-ninth power of nine).

The figure which this represents is so big that it is awesome. If it were printed in full it would fill thirty-three volumes of 800 pages each of fine type. The first twenty-eight figures are 428,124,773,175,747,048,036,987,115,9, and the last two are 89. In between these are 369,693,070 figures.

If you don't believe it try it and see. —Saturday Evening Post.

The Unknown Quantity.

"I'll bet she will," began the rash youth.

"Don't," interrupted his older and wiser companion. "Don't bet that she will ever do anything. You can never tell what a woman will do."

"But," protested the young man, "I was going to bet that she would do the unexpected."

"Don't," repeated the elder earnestly. "Even that is no safe bet."—Judge.

The Original New Zealanders.

The original New Zealanders were known as the most ferocious cannibals and the most warlike savages. They were big, gaunt fellows, of immense muscular force and great sagacity. These savage New Zealanders, though they ate their enemies, interred their own dead, and they believed that the third day after burial the heart separated itself from the corpse and was carried to the clouds by an attendant spirit.

Unfreezable.

"Can any one name a liquid that doesn't freeze?" asked the teacher.

There was a moment's silence, says the Berliner Illustrirte Zeitung. Then an excited little voice in the rear of the room answered eagerly, "Please, teacher, hot water!"

Mario's Great Record.

Mario, the singer, who died in 1883, appeared in London, his favorite city, for thirty-two years, during which time he appeared in forty-six parts, a record which has never been approached by any other artist.

However mean your life is, meet it and live it, not shun it and call it bad names.—Thoreau.

UNION PROSECUTOR PROBES DEATH OF NEWARK WOMAN

Elizabeth, Nov. 7.—An investigation into the death of Mrs. Beatrice De Ferrie, of 597 Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, as the result of an alleged illegal operation, is to be made by Prosecutor Stein. Mrs. De Ferrie was admitted to the General Hospital, on the request of Dr. Wade, October 10. She died Wednesday night.

Prosecutor Stein was notified yesterday that a suspect is being watched who is thought to have performed the operation. A statement accusing the suspect was obtained from Mrs. De Ferrie shortly before she died. The body is being held in Martin's morgue.

PROCTOR'S MINSTREL KIDDIES.

"The Minstrel Kiddies," appearing at Proctor's this week, is by far one of the best acts offered in a long time. There are six cute and clever girls and one bright boy. They sing the latest popular songs, opening with "The Swing Song," which is cleverly arranged. Lessick-Anita & Co. offer an interesting and novel act consisting of gun juggling and balancing. James Reynolds, an up-to-the-minute monologist and singer. William McKey & Co., in the comedy dramatic sketch, "Honest John Maguire," and Florette, the physical culture girl, wonderfully formed and accomplished, completes a fine bill. The photo play features for today are "The Winning Punch," "Salvation Al" and "The Reformed Outlaw."

CABINET DISCUSSES MEXICO.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—The result of today's cabinet meeting can be expressed briefly thus: That the situation with Mexico while delicate presents features at this moment that look favorable. Reticence on the part of officials is due to unwillingness to cause the publication of matter that might upset things. No elaboration of the result of the meetings was permitted by the President. The foregoing paragraph must cover the ground for the present.

ADVOCATES INTERVENTION.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—Representative Murray, of Oklahoma, today, issued a statement to the press asserting that the United States should take possession of the governing machinery of Mexico, collect her revenue and pay off her debts and run the leaders of the warring factions from the country. This he said would necessitate entering Mexico with armed forces but it could be done without loss of life.

SOMERVILLE CANCELLED.

The game scheduled to be played in Somerville this afternoon between the Plainfield High School and Somerville High School elevens was cancelled by the latter team last night. This is the second eleventh hour cancellation for which Somerville has been responsible this week, it having called off the game with the Pennington Seminary aggregation.

A MODERN Y. M. C. A.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. has outgrown its present quarters and will abandon its fine home at East Front street and Watchung avenue as soon as it can. With that end in view, a campaign will be inaugurated to raise funds for a handsome and modern structure on the site purchased today at West Fourth and Sycamore streets. The above picture shows what a modern Y. M. C. A. building looks like. This particular building was given to the South Bend, Indiana, Y. M. C. A., by Studebaker Bros. It cost $250,000. See news story on first page for particulars about local campaign.

1913 FOOTBALL SEASON ON THE HOME STRETCH

New York, Nov. 7.—The football season, short at the best, enters on its final stage tomorrow, and within the next three Saturdays the three big games of the season will be played—Harvard vs. Yale, Yale vs. Princeton, and the Army vs. Navy. They are the biggest games, but not necessarily the most interesting, for the Pennsylvania-Cornell battle comes on Thanksgiving Day, and whatever the quality of the football in this game and the records of the teams there is always lively action and variety.

The big game tomorrow will be the Harvard-Princeton contest at Princeton. Yale will take on Brown at New Haven and Pennsylvania will have the strong Dartmouth eleven as an opponent on Franklin Field. Another attractive item on the day's menu will be the intersectional battle at Ithaca between Cornell and Michigan.

Rise of Joseph Pulitzer.

Joseph Pulitzer was born in the village of Mako, near Budapest, in Hungary, on April 10, 1847. His father was a Jew, his mother a Christian. At the age of sixteen he emigrated to the United States. He landed without friends, without money, unable to speak a word of English. He enlisted immediately in the First New York (Lincoln) cavalry regiment, a regiment chiefly composed of Germans and in which German was the prevailing tongue.

Within a year the war ended, and Pulitzer found himself, in common with hundreds of thousands of others, out of employment at a time when employment was most difficult to secure. At this time he was so poor that he was turned away from French's hotel, in New York, for the lack of 50 cents with which to pay for his bed. Twenty years later he bought French's hotel, pulled it down and erected in its place the Pulitzer building, at that time one of the largest business buildings in New York, where he housed the World.—Alleyne Ireland in Metropolitan.

In Dr. Wrench's biography of Lord Lister, the discoverer of antiseptic treatment of wounds, the author says of the great surgeon:

"He was ever gentle, courteous and firm. Trying as are the exactions and responsibilities of an important surgical post. Lister was never known to speak a sharp word to house surgeon, dresser or any one in his service. His scientific spirit and discovery attracted the curiosity of the students and young graduates of Edinburgh; his personal nobility won their hearts; his art of winning their loyalty was by inspiring enthusiasm and giving encouragement. 'Often in the middle of a trying operation,' wrote one of his pupils, 'a gentle smile bestowed on us young students when we were honestly trying to do our best as assistants was most encouraging.' Many of the students afterward confessed that their contact with Lister was the best and purest influence of their lives."

Music.

Music is a job lot of vibrations furnished to hotels and restaurants for the purpose of adding to the discomfort of the guests. Music is also used for other purposes. It comes in pianos, harps and organs and sometimes, though rarely, in human beings and phonographs. Babies often furnish music when least expected and at hours not always approved of by respectable people.

Music at one time was called a heavenly maid. But she is now mostly clothed in ragtime and is known as flossy. In short, music has run the scale from classic to classy.

Like eggs and other historic back numbers, music is now kept in cold storage and comes in reels and cans. Handmade music is gradually being superseded by the factory made article.

At one time music, singular as it may seem, was used to make music. Now it is used to make a noise.—Life

Congress Hall Restored And Rededicated; How the Work Was Done

AFTER many years of indifference and delay old Congress hall, adjoining Independence hall, at Philadelphia has been restored to the condition it was when the first congress of the United States met there, from 1790 to 1800.

Its recent rededication was graced by the presence of President Wilson, Speaker Clark and a notable gathering of national, state and municipal officials. Standing on the platform from which Washington delivered his farewell to the American people, President Wilson paid a tribute to the founders of the republic and compared their problems to the problems confronting the nation today.

From the same spot Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, also delivered a short oration, in which he paid full honors to the members of those early congresses which had sat within the walls of the historic building.

It is fitting that the old building, with its historical associations, should be put in a condition for preservation as a relic, for as one of a unique group of buildings it occupies a big niche in American history. For nearly a hundred years it had served as a courthouse and had been greatly changed internally. The earliest attempt at restoration was made in 1896, but it is generally conceded that the senate chamber as it came out of the hands of the restorers at that time did not closely resemble the room in which that sedate and august body deliberated.

Through the active interest of the wife of Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Samuel Chew and others in 1902 a committee was appointed by the Philadelphia chapter of the American Institute of Architects to make a survey of the building with a view to restoring it to the condition in which it appeared when Washington made his farewell address within its walls.

A painstaking and thorough study of the building from every angle was made and plans prepared. From that time until 1911 efforts were put forth to have the city of Philadelphia furnish funds for the work, the committee of architects offering to give their services without cost. In October of that year the city finally undertook the work, and a contract involving the expenditure of $60,000 was entered into with the architects. Their work is now completed. The architects have contributed the time involved in the holding of more than a hundred meetings and professional services for which the charges to private clients would have been at least $20,000.

It is believed that the building as it now stands represents one of the first of the important American historical relics of its character to be thoroughly restored on the principle that the essential thing is reproduction of flaws and errors as well as of the good details. The spirit of the time which it represents has been considered the vital thing. In the case of Congress hall, wherever a detail could not be authenticated it has been omitted.

The restoration called for a great deal of research and utilization of the sense which makes a detective successful. The architects had to put two and two together and draw deductions from the evidence which they secured. They read old letters, ransacked newspaper files and books and examined old insurance policies. They studied the marks uncovered when the plaster and woodwork were removed. They studied angles of stairways. As a result they believe they have made the interior look as it did when Major l'Enfant's hand left it.

During the progress of the work important details of the original building were disclosed which in the main confirmed the conclusions following the first survey, but also brought to light evidences of original construction that were at the outset matters of conjecture only. It is believed that Congress hall as now restored appears essentially as it was when occupied by congress prior to 1800.

PROGRESSIVE SHOWING PLEASING TO MR. MOY

"I feel much elated over the vote received by the Progressives at the election in Union county on Tuesday and particularly so of the very flattering vote given me," said former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, a Progressive Assembly nominee. "All fair-minded men must realize that our showing would have been much greater had it not been that many who really believe in our party voted for the Democratic candidates and especially for Fielder in order to insure the defeat of the Republican nominees from Stokes down. As Mr. Colby has said, the fight has only begun. We all feel encouraged."

A DESTITUTE FAMILY EVICTED FROM HOME

The furniture and personal belongings of Mr. and Mrs. William Manser, their 21 years old son, Philip, and year-old baby, are standing in front of the house in West Second street, where they have resided for nearly a year. The family was dispossessed yesterday afternoon by Constable John Manley, according to the police. Thomas Canter, a merchant, who lives at 126 West Fourth street, is the owner of the dwelling. This is the second time the Manser people have been put out of a house in this city because they have been behind in their rental payments. They have been practically destitute for three months, during which time they have received aid from neighbors and the Charity Organization Society.

The Overseer of the Poor in Rahway, from which city the poor family came, has been notified and will take charge of the furniture.

CONSIDER THE CAT.

The Only Animal Man Has Never Been Able to Conquer.

There is just one animal man has never conquered, never can conquer. Centuries ago every other beast became the slave of man or else fled far from human habitation. One and one only refused to flee or to submit.

The horse, the dog, the cow, the sheep, the goat, the pig—all came into camp thousands of years ago. They have ever since worked for man or fed him, or both. They have been his unquestioned and unquestioning slaves. The elephant, too, has become a servant as have other jungle lords.

The lion, the tiger, the wolf, the bear, and such other savage beasts as have not yielded service to man have slunk away in terror from the path of civilization, and are killed on sight.

But one single animal claims man's protection, shares his food and hearth, wanders at will and unmolested through human haunts, and does absolutely no work in return; obeys no orders, and does not even serve as food or clothing.

This only exception to a world of servants and of scared enemies is the domestic cat.

Think it over. The cat will not work. It will not guard your home. Its flesh and fur serve no use. Its one useful act is the catching of mice and rats. And these it slays and eats because it wants to; not to help out its owner. For example, it does not bring its captured prey to its owner to eat. Nor will it hunt rodents unless it happens to feel like doing so.

The cat won't work. It won't even learn tricks unless it happens to want to. And no one can punish or torture it into learning any trick it doesn't want to learn.

That is why there are almost no trick cats in animal shows and why the few that are there do such very simple tricks. A dog can be tortured into doing tricks. A cat can't.

When some animals became man slaves and others fled from him, the cat did neither. It simply took all the favors and advantages man had to offer, and refused to do one lick of work in exchange. Beat a dog and he will fawn on you. Beat a cat and it will attack you and then desert you. You can't conquer the cat. You can't make it work.—New York World.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 28.

A SMILE is nature's beef, wine and iron. So let's all have one today. Perhaps the little bit of reprint below will help. It is taken from a back number of "Fame," a sprightly little advertising publication, and the man who wrote it signed himself merely "D. H. T."

"One small typographical error is often responsible for quite a startling and undesirable effect.

For instance, this from a tasty ad. in an Iowa paper: "Blank's shoes are accepted as the standard of shoe excellence by many swell dressers. They cost more, but we hate them." "Hate" was written "have" of course, in the copy.

Or this from a Chicago daily: "In the Oxford season the careful dresser is particularly exacting as to her nose." Just an "n" instead of an "h," that's all.

Or this, also from Chicago: "Our white doods have created a positive commotion among the ladies."

Or this, which appeared in a Kansas paper: "Buy now while the assortment is dull"—intended beyond question for "full."

Or this, the effect of a misplaced comma: "Extremes of fashion meet when a man wears a blank hat upon his head a pair of also blank shoes upon his feet."

Or this, from a low-grade magazine of large circulation: "Use —— soap, the world's pest." Anyone can guess what was meant.

Or any of these. Correct them to suit yourself:

"Fastidiou slivers stick to —— Ham and Bacon."

"Take a course in physical training at —— —— and get stung." (A rank error).

"Have us make your old carpets into beautiful rags."

"Boys, for a good bat go to "——'s drug store." (This caused great merriment in a certain "dry" town in Iowa).

"Blank's condensed milk makes a fiend of every one who tries it."

Now let's stop smiling long enough to realize, in all seriousness, one important fact. That fact is this: YOU CAN'T MAKE A MISTAKE IF YOU USE THE CLASSIFIED COLUMNS OF THIS NEWSPAPER FOR ADVERTISING YOUR WANTS

IT'S AN ILL WIND THAT---

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

FOOTBALL TEAM HAS SUFFRAGETTE COACH.

Cincinnati, Nov. 7.—Cincinnati has come to the front with something absolutely new—a woman football coach. Mrs. Charles Burckhart, of Price Hill, is acting as chief assistant to Coach Miller, of the Price Hill eleven. Mrs. Burckhart is a lover of outdoor sports, but football is her hobby. She is an athlete, having performed on several Vassar teams. Mrs. Burckhart asked to be allowed to join the coaching staff and assist in teaching several plays used by Eastern teams. Permission was granted and she has been helping ever since.

Y. M. C. A. WILL PLAY WOODBRIDGE TEAM

Former Ajax Quintet Will Try Conclusions With Speedy Visiting Five Tomorrow.

One of the strongest independent basketball teams in the State will appear on the Y. M. C. A. court tomorrow night as opponents to the Y. M. C. A. team, formerly the Ajax, and a repetition of the great exhibition of the indoor pastime staged last Saturday night is looked forward to. Last night the Woodbridge aggregation appeared against the strong Company C basketball team, of Elizabeth, and won by a substantial margin. The army representatives are considered the best basket cagers in and about Elizabeth and in hanging up a victory at their expense the Woodbridge athletes accomplished a noteworthy feat.

Last year a team of Woodbridge players appeared against the Ajax, both in this city and in Woodbridge, and in both instances the local ballists were victors by scores with margins of two and three points respectively. This year the Woodbridge first team representatives are coming to this city and a much faster and harder game is looked forward to by the association players and their followers.

The Woodbridge players are followers of the Dexter football eleven, which appears here in the afternoon against the Holy Cross team and the basketball players expect to arrive in this city the forepart of the afternoon in order to root for their favorites on Cricket Field.

MAJOR LEAGUES SEASON TO OPEN ON APRIL 14

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, announced here that the National and American League seasons will open on April 14 next. This will not prevent the world's series from beginning on October 8. Baseball trades were rumored prior to the meeting of American League yesterday. It is understood that Commiskey, of the White Sox, and Summers, of Cleveland, are negotiating for a trade. Frank Farrell, of the New York Yankees, is here looking for a trade to strengthen his team.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is Robert Fitzsimmons a resident of Dunellen and does he own the property on which he lives?—D. S.

Answer—Yes, he sure is, and does.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is a person wearing glasses barred from taking the mail carriers' examination? If he passes and is under five feet, four inches in height, will he be appointed?—H. J. K.

Answer—A person wearing glasses is not barred, but if he is under five feet four inches in height he is barred from taking the examination.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can a negro join the navy?—N. H.

Answer—Sure.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can you give me the names and addresses of the managers of the following basketball teams: the Marathon A. C., the Holy Cross juniors and the Grace church juniors?—S. O. M.

Answer—Take notice, Mr. Managers.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Hearing that you are so smart, I want you to furnish me with the answer to the following question, "Why is a sailor in the navy called a man of war?"—B. G.

Answer—A sailor in the navy is not called a "man-of-war." It is the warship that is given this name. The joke is on you, come again.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Do letter carriers have to pay when they ride on trolley cars?—B. H.

Answer—Plainfield letter carriers do. In some cities the postoffice has an agreement with the trolley company allowing letter carriers to ride free when they have their bags, viz: Newark.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets we speak the English language here and B bets we speak the American language. Who is correct?—J. K. L.

Answer—We speak the English language.

DOUBLE COURT BILL FOR HOPE QUINTETS

Chapel Fives Scheduled to Meet Borough and Newark Representatives.

Another double bill of basketball is promised to Hope Chapel fans tomorrow night, when a pair of teams sporting the Hope colors will appear in court struggles on the Chapelites' floor. The first team is scheduled to meet the strong Eagle Five, of Newark, while the junior boys will pit their strength against the North Plainfield High School sophomore basket tossers.

Last week's game served as a practise tilt for the Chapelites and while his men were piling up a big count against the Mystic Five, Coach Martin took the opportunity to size up his players and has been able to smooth over many rough spots he saw in the team's playing during the initial set-to, which was little more than a farce, the Hope contingent winning by a substantial margin.

Allen Snyder, the mainstay of last year's team, will probably be back in the lineup tomorrow night and his appearance will materially boost the Hope stock in the second tilt of the season. Aside from Snyder the same aggregation as played the first game will do duty tomorrow night and Martin contends that this outfit is strong enough to trounce anything in this or any other nearby city.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS FINALLY AGREE TO ELECT CAPTAIN

Following the basketball practise of the North Plainfield High School girls yesterday afternoon, the members of the squad held a short meeting during which they elected Miss Elsie Debele as captain of this year's basketball team. This meeting followed a number of others called for the same purpose, the team not being able to agree on a choice.

Miss Marjorie Burtis and Miss Elsie Debele were the two eligibles for the leadership job and the latter won out by a vote of four to two. Miss Debele is a guard on the team and has had three years' experience as a player.

GOV. TENER WILL NOT LEAD NATIONAL LEAGUE

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—"Your inquiry is a surprise," declared Governor John K. Tener yesterday when asked if he would be a candidate to head the National League of Baseball Clubs. "I am in no sense a candidate for the place and do not see how I can discuss it."

The Governor, however, did not intimate that the election would displease him.

Nevertheless, in baseball circles, the report seemed to be taken quite seriously. The fact that Governor Tener was not a candidate didn't make any difference—for many figured that he might be induced to accept the position if it was offered in the right way.

President William F. Baker, of the Phillies, could not be interviewed on the subject, as he was out of the city and will not return until today.

MISS ETHEL COLTON WINS GOLF TOURNEY

Mrs. Collens Second—Women's Four-day Event at P. C. C.

The women's four-day golf tournament at the Plainfield Country Club was concluded yesterday, when Miss Ethel Colton won the first prize for returning the best net score for two rounds, and Mrs. A. M. Collens won the second prize for returning the second best net score for two rounds. The prizes were offered by Elliot T. Barrows.

Miss Colton's scores for the four days were 40-35-33-35, the two best rounds being a total of 68. Mrs. Collens returned net scores of 47-29-40-35, her two best rounds totaling 74, while Mrs. W. L. Righter, who finished third, returned scores of 47-45-38-40, her two best scores being a 78.

These scores were returned yesterday:

Miss Ethel Colton, 60, 25-35; Mrs. A. M. Collens, 60, 25-35; Mrs. W. L. Righter, 65, 25-40; Mrs. H. R. Stockton, 44, 0-44; Mrs. Benjamin Akin, 70, 25-45; Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, 71, 25-46.

Others who took part in the tournament were Miss Helen Harman, Mrs. M. J. Dumont, Miss Borrowe Miss Fleming, Mrs. W. H. Rogers and Miss King.

PATERSON MADE A CLEAN SWEEP

Triumphed Over Hoboken in all Three of the Scheduled contests Last Night.

Paterson bowlers, on their own alleys, last night, captured three games in a row from the Hoboken five and thus succeeded in tightening their hold on first place in the Elks' League. The Hobokens, who had been tied with Newark for second place, went all the way back to a tie with Elizabeth for seventh place. Paterson had a close escape in the final game of last night's match, there being a tie at the end of the regulation ten frames. The Silk City five, in an extra frame, won by twenty-five pins. The second game saw Paterson come through for a total of 947 and it won easily. The first game was closer, but Paterson, with 876, won by forty-four pins. Romary tallied 219, O'Gorman 211 and Taylor 208. In the second game Mittelsdorf, who had only tallied 141 in the first contest, rolled two frames, having a score of 26. He then retired in favor of Duffy, who had 119 in eight frames. Earle was high for the visitors with 202. The scores:

FIVE-BACK TOURNEY.

A special five-back tournament will be rolled on the alleys of the Park Club, Monday night, there being two divisions, scratch and handicap. Those who have posted their names under "scratch" are J. L. Watson, Horace M. Fisher, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, Charles A. Rice, Henry C. Krebs, E. W. Overton, A. M. Abbott and R. C. Campbell. Those who will bowl with a handicap are J. V. Beekman, Lamar VanSyckel, C. A. Campbell, J. B. Betts, J. J. Sharretts, Robert A. Suffern, F. A. Weeks and Charles B. Morse.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT.

A basketball double header is scheduled to be played on the Saengerbund Hall court tonight between the present boys' and girls' quintets and the Alumni representatives. Miss Clara Smith has gathered together an outfit of Alumni performers, while Pierson Bailey and Carlton Smith are leading the graduates' attack.

'PLAINS BASKETBALL.

Scotch Plains basketball will be ushered in tomorrow night when the Commuters' Five, of Plainfield appears on the Parish House court against the first team in the opening tilt of the 1913-14 season. The Commuters will take the floor as follows: Forwards, Maisen and Gage; center, Thompson; guards, Trotter and Generich.

ELIZABETH TOOK TWO FROM LOCALS

Fast Pinning Featured the Matches Rolled in Winner's Alleys Last Night.

After three sensational contests on the Elizabeth alleys last night the local Elks' returned to Plainfield on the minus end of a two to one count, the Betsytown pinners having taken two out of three contests rolled. The series last night was by far the most exciting and best rolled by the Queen City pinners this season and they forced the home team to the limit in every instance in order to pull out on the credit side of the ledger.

In every contest the Union county seat representatives passed the 900 mark and the Plainfielders were always close on their heels. On two occasions the visitors also passed the 900 count and in the second contest won by three pins after a spasm of sensationalism.

The Elizabeths were there for 951 as a starter, and recorded a win in the initial contest by a margin of 42 pins. The next contest was a hummer, and the Plainfields, with 936, won by three pins. The final encounter saw the Elizabeths come through for 932, and finished 39 pins ahead. Blatz did sensational pinning, having counts of 235, 206 and 201, for an average of 214. Gathman rolled 208, Nash 204 and Keller 203. Here are all the scores:

PLAINFIELD.
Blatz	206	235	201

BOWLING SCORES.

A. M. Abbott, Robert A. Suffern and J. J. Sharretts scored three, two and one points respectively in the five-back bowling tournament at the Park Club, last night. These scores were made: A. M. Abbott, 190; Robert A. Suffern, 184; J. J. Sharretts, 169; L. D. Albin, 142; J. V. Beekman, 148; Charles A. Rice, 121; S. H. Voorhees, 121; F. A. Weeks, 158; F. R. Chamberlain, 160; A. M. Morrell, 167; Dudley S. Strong, 160; L. H. Gates, 144; R. V. Carpenter, 151; Lamar VanSyckel, 164; D. H. V. Hubbard, 150.

CHALLENGE BOWLING MATCH.

Announcement is made of a "challenge" bowling match to be rolled on the alleys of the Park Club on Wednesday night, November 12, at which time a team comprising M. H. Long, Horace M. Fisher, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, and H. C. Krebs will bowl a team comprising W. H. Rogers, A. M. Abbott, Charles A. Rice and J. J. Sharretts.

TAYLOR WILL CAPTAIN K. OF C. LEAGUE TEAM

Members of the Knights of Columbus club continue to smash high water marks on their alleys and almost nightly new figures are hung up for the shutes. Last night Eddie Taylor toppled the pins for a count of 268 while his brother, George, came in as a runner-up with a score of 255. These scores are only samples of what is being done at that bowling rendezvous every night and the K. of C. organization expects to have one of the strongest teams in the State competing in the Knights of Columbus league which opens next week.

George Taylor was elected captain of the team last night and is giving his squad some hard practice in preparation for the opening league matches which will be rolled on the local alleys November 14 with the Elizabeth team as opponents.

Leipzig Battle Monument Dedicated Upon 100th Anniversary of Battle

THE monument commemorating the battle of Leipzig, fought and won by the allies on Oct. 18, 1813, against Napoleon, was unveiled by Emperor William on the hundredth anniversary of that day. The monument is in Thornberg, a suburb of Leipzig, and is a massive tower-like structure about 300 feet in height. It is built on a walled mound of earth eighty feet high, with a reservoir and fountain in front of it. The approach, which is not yet finished, will be along a covered way that completely circles the rear of the structure. The money for the monument was collected by popular subscription through patriotic societies. The work on the monument was begun in 1898.

It is natural that the Germans should lay great store upon the battle of Leipzig, for it was this battle which broke the power of Napoleon and set Germany free. The collapse of Napoleon's Russian expedition, in which he lost the greater part of his army, gave Prussia its chance, and the war of liberation commenced.

In May, 1813, Napoleon, having reconstructed his army, had 226,000 men under his command. This was far more than the Prussians, but that was all to be changed during the struggles of this stirring year. The troops of the czar of Russia and the king of Prussia, under the command of Wittgenstein, made no headway whatever against Napoleon and fought what amounted to a drawn battle at Lutzen in April. The struggle at Bautzen in May left matters very much as they were, except that the enthusiasm of the Prussian troops, now inspired by their poets to fight for the fatherland, had given them a feeling, not before present, that was unconquerable, a feeling that even the enthusiasm of Napoleon's army for a personality, its ever popular leader, could not withstand.

One more victory Napoleon was to seize from fate—that of Dresden in August. That was followed by the defeat of one of his generals, Vandamme, at Kulm. Then came the final stroke in favor of Prussia, the appointment of Blucher to the command of its army. He was in his seventy-first year, a great gambler, much given to drink, but he was a born soldier, with abundant enthusiasm, who well deserved his popular nickname of "Forward." It was the determination of Blucher and Bernadotte, Napoleon's old general and now an enemy, to march upon Leipzig, which made that city the center of the final struggle. Here a great battle took place on Oct. 16-18. The allied army—Prussians, Russians, Swedes and a few British troops—numbered 300,000 men, and Napoleon had but 150,000 to oppose. The allies were victors, although Napoleon afterward declared to one of his generals that it was due to the supply of cannon balls running low. "If I had then had 30,000 rounds I should today be the master of the world," he said.

Yet the battle of Leipzig was only half a victory in that the French army was left upon the battlefield. We all recall the picture of Napoleon with his tent pitched in the midst of his guards' bivouac, spending a wakeful night. This he did on the night of the 17th also, seizing but a few minutes' sleep, sitting upright on a peasant's chair by the bivouac fire. At an early hour in the morning of the 18th a chance shot struck the embers of the fire, scattering the crowd and waking the emperor. He continued at once to dictate orders to his secretary.

After three days' fighting the battle of Leipzig was lost and won on Oct. 18, 1813. And, although the battle was not a great victory in the way that Waterloo was, it marked the breakup of the Napoleonic regime. From thence onward the emperor had no army until his exile in Elba, and the army that he raised that was crushed at Waterloo was nothing comparable to the one that he lost at Leipzig. That battle of Leipzig gave Prussia once again its freedom and set it on the path which culminated in the Franco-Prussian war of our time and the present position of the German federation under Emperor William.

A ROMANCE OF REAL LIFE.

The Marriage of Miss Elkins to Mr. Hitt Came as a Surprise.

The recent marriage of Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of the late United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins, to William R. Hitt came as a surprise to friends of both parties. This is the culmination of a courtship the equal of which for romantic features would be hard to parallel outside the covers of a novel. The whole country is well familiar with the courtship of Mr. Hitt and his faithfulness to Miss Elkins. Even when the newspapers of this country and abroad were full of comment pertaining to the marriage of Miss Elkins to the Duke of the Abruzzi, Hitt continued his attentions to Miss Elkins with uttermost confidence.

It has been generally understood that an engagement actually existed between Miss Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi and that it was broken to the intense chagrin of the latter because of the opposition of the Italian royal family and the anomalous position in which Miss Elkins would have been placed had she become his bride without royal recognition.

NEW POSTAL ORDER ON IMPROPER ADDRESSES

Postmasters all over the United States have received letters from the postmaster-general asking them to assist in improving the service by refusing to accept improperly addressed letters. The letter asks that no mail be accepted unless it bears the name of the person it is intended for, the number, street and postoffice. It is also suggested that where letters are addressed persons in office buildings the number of the room be placed upon the envelope and also when addresses are designated by street corners the corner should be specified.

MANY EXPECTED AT OPENING OF JERSEY CITY POSTOFFICE

Jersey City, Nov. 7.—Thousands of persons from all parts of Hudson county are expected to be present at the dedication ceremonies of the new Jersey City postoffice, in the plaza before the $1,000,000 edifice in Washington street, this afternoon. Business men are decorating their stores and property in honor of the occasion.

Telegrams were received yesterday from Postmaster-General A. S. Burleson and Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo. The latter sends a message of regret because affairs of State will oblige him to remain in the capital. Postmaster-General Burleson hopes to arrive here about noon, and take part in the dedication exercises.

When the exercises commence, Governor-elect James F. Fielder, acting-Governor Leon Taylor, Mayor Haussling, of Newark; Mayor Ardolph Kline, of New York; Mayor Mark M. Fagan and Commissioners A. Harry Moore, James J. Ferris, George F. Brensinger and Frank Hague, of Jersey City; Congressman James A. Hamill, Eugene F. Kinkead and John J. Eagan, will occupy places in the reviewing stand.

REV. R. E. VALE ACCEPTS A CALL TO SOMERVILLE

DIAMOND JEWELRY

Which Was Turned Over as Security to a Bank by the Manufacturer and Importer

The facts here given are just as they were given to us by the Bank Committee.

1. A stock of high-class mounted diamond jewelry was turned over to one of the New York banks as security for a loan made in the early part of the year.

2. Heavy losses on fancy goods, carried as "side lines," and the breaking up of all gold mountings to change them into platinum, made it impossible for the manufacturing firm, which owned the the diamond jewelry, to take up the loan.

3. The bank called in a committee of importers and diamond cutters to determine the quickest method of converting the diamond jewelry into cash.

4. During the appraisment it was found that all the diamonds used were full cut diamonds; that they were imported at the old low tariff; that the mountings were figured too low to cover the expense of all-platinum work.

5. The bank committee was instructed immediately to sell the entire lot, amounting at retail value to $62,000.

6. The John Wanamaker Jewelry Store purchased it.

7. The patrons of our Jewelry Store are now to be given the benefit of this purchase, the diamond jewelry to be offered for sale at fully one-third less than current prices for the same quality of diamonds and workmanship of mountings.

8. It is needless to say, perhaps, that one-third reduction in the cost of fine diamond jewelry is an almost unheard of thing.

9. The stock consists of a fine assortment of diamond lavallieres and pendants, pearl sautoirs with all diamond ornaments, bar pins composed of diamonds and oriental pearls, fine dinner rings with calibre sapphires and diamonds, all diamond festooned necklaces, some exquisite diamond bracelets, pearl, diamond, sapphire and ruby scarf pins, diamond slides on velvet bands, diamond brooches, and other novelty pieces, such as fine sleeve links with precious stones.

10. The collection may be seen on the Broadway side of our Jewelry Store or examined at leisure in our diamond rooms.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Fiske O'Hara, the favorite Irish singing actor, will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre, Monday night, November 10. Mr. O'Hara brings with him this season a new romantic comedy, written for him by the veteran dramatist, Augustus Pitou. The name of it is, "In Old Dublin," and as one might suppose from the title, the scenes are laid in and around that romantic city of the Celts. A pretty love theme forms the base of the story and tells how one Neil Powers falls in love with and wins the pretty Irish-American girl who, unknown to him, furnishes the funds to build his Irish yacht. Hardly less interesting is the great yacht racing scene where the flying boats are skimming across Dublin Bay in the contest for a royal trophy, the Queen's Cup. However, the love interest is the primary one and the scenes between Rose Stratton and the young architect in the garret of the latter, in the beautiful garden beside the Liffey and in the clubhouse at Kingstown are said to be exquisitely and admirably drawn.

Notes—The second game of 1877 was won by Princeton (a goal kicked from touchdown taking precedence over 4 touchdowns). The game of 1882 was won by Harvard, whose goal was from the field, while Princeton's goal followed a touchdown, the former being superior to the latter.

READ A FOOTBALL GAME AND YOU'LL GET IT PAT.

Did you ever try to read a football game? If you're in the stands study the play and the players, and after awhile you will read their work as in an open book. If you're in the game read the men on the other side. Note their peculiarities. Every man has some weak point and every man has some way of showing it. That's why scouts go to the games—not to get the signals or to learn certain formations, but to read the men on the team. Once Harvard had a powerful team. Yale was known to be weak. Minot was punting for the Crimson. A Yale scout went to Cambridge to see Harvard play a minor eleven. When he returned to New Haven he said to the coaches: "Harvard can't beat us." The coaches smiled sadly. It didn't sound reasonable. "Minot always kicks to the left. He can't kick to the right." the scout said again. The coaches took the hint. They placed Philbin—the first one, not the one that played last year—in the deep field to Minot's left. In that Yale-Harvard game most of the punts went to Philbin, the best open field runner the Elis had. The game ended 0 to 0, because Yale ran back punts so well. Harvard had a team that should have won by four touchdowns. That Crimson eleven had been an open book to the scout. He read it well.

In a Cornell-Princeton game one of the Ithaca linemen warned the left end every time the Tiger signalled for an end run his way. The Princeton men thought he knew the signal. He didn't. Every time the left half was to take the ball on an end run he shifted his left foot about an inch. Princeton didn't make a gain around that end. The line man read the footwork of the back. Every time the Harvard quarter in the Bates game this fall called for a punt he stood by the centre with his hands toward the centre as though he was going to catch the ball. Sometimes he caught it and passed it to a back for a quick line plunge. Sometimes it passed between his hands and on back to the punter. When he intended to catch it he held his hands about six inches apart; when he was signalling for a punt he held them two feet apart. It was noticeable in the stands. The Bates players didn't read the quarter's work. If they had they would have known when a fake punt was coming.

Some punters keep their fingers apart when they are going to catch the ball, and together when they're not. Some punters when they are going to kick put most of their weight on one foot and when they're going to run with the ball stand with the weight evenly distributed. Many guards and tackles, when they're going to shift quickly in the line, move a foot slightly to right or left. Some backs lean a trifle the way they are going to run—not much, but enough to see, if you watch it closely. The movement of an eye will often give away a play. Read the game, and between the lines as much as you can.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES LAWRENCE

Experience the Teacher.

There is hardly a woman living who would think it clever or interesting if her husband said, sweetly, some evening when he had admitted that he was short of funds and must therefore forego her weekly allowance:

"You know, I just cannot keep the books straight, and the bookkeeper wasn't at the office this week; he's ill. And the office boy was away for the day and I just cannot manage the telephone, so I lost several deals in that way. I thought we'd get along without an allowance this week."

Yet many men forgive and condone their wives' childish plea, when dinner is not forthcoming, or when a few sardines and a bit of cheese are uninvitingly set forth on the sideboard for the evening repast.

"You know, I just cannot manage the kitchen range, and Bridget's left, and I don't know how to cook, so I thought we'd just have cosy little cold supper."

Training the Only Cure.

Such a condition will exist so long as women are not trained for the business of housewives. Of course, such training would not always be necessary, for not all women marry. But even a business woman is far, far happier if she knows how to keep house, even if her "house" be only a room in a boarding house.

Therefore it is a good plan to give every daughter of Eve a practical training in housekeeping. Give each daughter of the house the running of the house for a week at a time. Don't let her work be nominal. Give her the amount of money she may spend, and teach her how to use it. Be lenient with her failures at first. If dinner turns out an unappetizing meal, suffer the consequences smilingly, and help her to do better next day. Later on, when she has learned to manage better, hold her responsible for really good meals, economical management, and smooth running of all the machinery of the house.

The individual members may suffer a little discomfort when the housekeeping goes wrong, but the results for some future husband, or for whoever else depends on the girl's housewifely ability in later life, will be well worth while.

She herself will have learned, likewise, to manage money, whether she has it to spend for herself or for others, whether she is a housewife, or a business woman.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

"In 'Madam President,' the complications are so droll, so unexpected and so vivid that anybody who can avoid laughing must suffer from arrested indigestion. The Sphinx would crack a smile at the friskiness of Madam President. One laughed because one couldn't help it. Miss Fannie Ward looking more youthful than ever, did the best work I have ever seen her do as Madam President. She was light, very graceful and humorous. Nor was it an easy part to play. It called for incessantly exuberant spirits, snap, verve and rapidity. All of these Miss Ward showed she possessed."—Alan Dale in New York American.

"There's lot of fun in 'Madam President' and Miss Ward revealed quite the best piece of acting she has ever done. She invested the role with so much rollicking good nature, she might have won over even a Grand Jury if they had been called in to sit in judgment on the play."—Evening Sun.

CANAL AND IMMIGRATION.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—The Western Labor Immigration Conference assembled in this city today with an attendance of delegates from labor organizations in California, Oregon, Washington, Utah, Idaho and British Columbia. The chief purpose of the conference, which will continue in session over tomorrow, is to devise plans whereby the great tide of European immigration that is expected to sweep over the Pacific coast country after the opening of the Panama canal may be absorbed without demoralizing the labor market.

UNITE TO HELP NEGRO.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7.—With Governor William H. Mann and Dr. Booker T. Washington scheduled as the chief speakers, the Negro Organization Society of Virginia assembled in this city today for an important conference. The society is working to federate all negro interests that tend to promote "better schools, better health, better homes, and better farms."

Some Cookery Suggestions

Coffee.

WILD MEATS AND FOWLS.

WHEN game is available, as it is at this season, it enables the accomplished cook to display her skill as no mere roast or steak will do for unless it is done just right it is scarcely worth the eating. Almost all game is now in season, and the housewife has a wide choice.

Roasted Game.

Roast Saddle of Venison.—Take the sinews from a saddle of venison. Tie in shape and put in a roasting pan with a slice of onion and a small sliced carrot. Spread a little butter over and sprinkle with salt. Put in a quick oven for three quarters of an hour and baste often. Remove the string and lift to a hot platter. Pour in the pan half a glass of Madeira wine and half a cupful of white broth. Let boil, skim off the fat and strain gravy over the saddle. Serve with one cup of currant jelly sauce.

Roasted on a Spit.

Partridge Canapes.—Truss two tender plump young partridges, tie some thin slices of larding bacon over the breasts, and roast them on a spit before a quick fire for about twenty minutes. While cooking fry some slices of bread in butter and place them in the dripping pan to absorb the gravy that falls from the birds. When ready to serve place the toasted bread on a dish with a partridge on each one, pour a little boiling water into the dripping pan and serve the gravy in a sauce boat. Garnish with sliced lemon and watercress.

Cooking Birds.

Grilled Grouse.—Split a plump young grouse down the back and beat and skewer it into as flat a form as possible. Season with salt and pepper, place it, skin side down, in a saute pan or shallow stewpan containing a thin layer of hot liquid butter and cook it rather quickly for a few minutes, basting it almost continuously with the butter. Remove it from the stewpan, cover the surface rather thickly with fine breadcrumbs, season generously with salt and pepper and then grill it over the fire. It must be lightly brushed over with the butter used for frying at least two or three times while undergoing the final process. Piquant sauce and fried potatoes are the usual accompaniments.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Thanksgiving Land is a Jolly Place.

The Elves Made Thanksgiving Pies.

THANKSGIVING was coming around again. Jack and Evelyn had been talking about it for a long time. They thought that one Thanksgiving day a year was hardly enough.

"You'll have to go to Thanksgiving Land if you want one oftener than that," daddy advised.

"Where is Thanksgiving Land?" the children asked, and so daddy told them the following story:

"Dickie had just been tucked into bed. It was the night before Thanksgiving, and Dickie's mind was full of the next day's dinner.

"The turkey must have been very much in his mind, for presently he saw it come walking into the door, feathered and fine as it had been in the farmer's barnyard.

"'I'm going to Thanksgiving Land, Dickie,' the turkey said pleasantly. 'Wouldn't you like to go with me?'

"'Course I would,' Dickie replied. In a minute he was up and had hopped on the turkey's back. The turkey then spread its wings and flew right up the chimney with Dickie.

"When they got outside Dickie couldn't see a sign of the house. There was just a hole in the ground where the turkey had come out.

"'A fine place, isn't it?' the gobbler inquired as Dickie scrambled to the ground.

"Dickie said yes; it looked very nice. And he glanced round at the trees hung with cookies and tarts and mince and pumpkin and cranberry pies.

"'They make 'em over there in that workshop,' the turkey explained. The workshop was a huge white building, and the turkey walked right in.

"It was quite the busiest place Dickie had ever seen, for there were hundreds of little elves at work making pies. There was a very wonderful big oven, and the turkey said that bottled sunlight was used for baking.

"After they came out of the pie factory they met little elves hanging the pies up on trees, where, the turkey said, they would be kept until time to send them out for the children's Thanksgiving.

"From the pie workshop they went to the one where cake was made, and the turkey said he would take Dickie next to the place where meat was put on bones to make Thanksgiving turkeys.

"They had almost reached the door when something happened, and turkey and Thanksgiving Land vanished, and Dickie waked to find himself in his own little bed at home."

A FEW DEFT TOUCHES DISTINGUISH THE AUTUMN SUIT

It is very modish to button your cutaway coat loosely, with a single button, collar it with fur and sash or belt it with vivid silk or brocade. For those who prefer simplicity, however, the "single" button is sufficient.

Often the skirt accompanying these plain coats is tunicked, double or triple, making up in a degree for the plain coat, and often coat and skirt are of contrasting materials, as in this instance.

A smart collar and a drop-shoulder redeem this design from severity and aid in bringing out the new lines required this season. Dark blue serge is combined with a three tiered skirt of white cloth.

The skirt has a two-piece foundation, two tunic sections, and may be made with or without the smartly shaped girdle.

To make the coat (7709) in size 36 it will require 2¾ yards of 42 inch material. The skirt (8002) in size 24 requires 4⅞ yards of 42 inch material.

No. 7709—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8002—sizes 22 to 32.
Each pattern 15 cents.

Boy Scouts' Emblems for Stencil, or a Applique and Embroidery.

Nothing could be more pleasing to a boy than the Boy Scout designs which may be used as stencils or for applique and embroidery. These designs are suitable for decorating curtains, portiers, table-covers, pillows, utility boxes and couch-covers of heavy linen, crafts canvas, Russian crash Egyptian cloth, scrim or pongee.

The emblem may be developed entirely in embroidery or the fluer-de-lis may be cut from red cloth, the banner from tan cloth, and the eagle from brown cloth and appliqued, then the letters, stars and shields may be worked in solid embroidery.

These patterns may be transferred with a hot iron to stencil board than cut out with a sharp knife. Lay the stencil on the material on a board, placing between the material and board a piece of blotting paper. Fasten this securely with thumb tacks and use a very stiff bristle brush and oil paints.

If a medium of oil paint mixed with gasoline or with a preparation of turpentine one pint, acetic acid one ounce, oil of wintergreen one ounce, is used the article can be washed when soiled. The medium should be about the consistency of cream and should be rubbed well into the fabric so that no surplus paint is left on the surface.

The essential points to be remembered in stenciling are, to rub the brush almost dry before applying it to the material, and also to have a sheet of soft blottering paper always beneath the part upon which you are working. This will absorb the superfluous color and keep it from spreading.

These stencils may be used separately or to form borders, as they may be used any number of times.

Pattern nuber 14486 contains four designs. One emblem fourteen by eight inches, one large buffalo eight by ten and one-quarter inches, one small buffalo six by eight and three-eight inches, and one buffalo head four by three and one-quarter inches.

This pattern will be supplied to readers for fifteen cents.

TESTS INCLUDE $225 POSITION.

Trenton, Nov. 7.—The Civil Service Commission has announced several examinations to be held this month. Among them one test is for a place that pays $225 a month, that of assistant engineer to the Public Utility Commission. This examination will be held November 19. Candidates must be graduate engineers from a college of recognized standing or have had equivalent training, with wide experience in bridge work. The last day for filing is November 13. An examination will be held November 17 for the position of rodman in the Newark Department of Street and water. The salary is $60 a month. Applications must be filed not later than November 11. Another test is for the position of janitor in the State Normal School at Trenton, a job that pays $90 a month. This will be held November 14. Applicants must have had experience as a foreman. The last day for applications is Saturday.

The Methodist church of this place has about raised the $1,000 necessary to receive a like sum from James B. Duke toward the improvements now about completed on the chapel there. The cost of the improvements is about $1,800, and Mr. Duke promised the congregation $1,000 if they would raise a like sum. This is the second generous contribution that Mr. Duke has made to this congregation.

Westfield.

As the measure providing for a Town Planning and Art Commission was carried by only one vote at the election Tuesday, it is probable that an application will be made for a recount. The total vote on the question of adopting the provisions of the law was less than half of the total vote cast.

The Westfielders who spend their winters at Melrose, Fla., are preparing to start. Mr. and Mrs. Emory J. Whitehead will leave this week. J. S. Irving is to go in about ten days and the Pearsall family will leave after Thanksgiving. A. E. Pearsall left for Melrose last week, intending to stop for a few weeks in Virginia.

The Westfield Fire Department was called out Wednesday afternoon to put out a wood fire that had spread from a bonfire in Hillside avenue, threatening a house. The police have been notified to enforce the local ordinance forbidding bonfires.

THE FORUM.

FROM DEFEATED NOMINEE.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I wish to thank you for your kind interest and support during the campaign just closed. My only regret is that I did not give the ten hundred and eighty-three friends who cast their votes for me a better exhibition of running ability.

The Republicans rocked the boat until all but two Democrats were spilled out. However as party designation counts for less than efficiency and honesty in the handling of municipal affairs, I am sure that the new Council will act successfully toward the betterment of Plainfield.

Yours very truly,
HOWARD G. LAPSLEY.

(Had Lapsley conducted an active campaign as his running-mate, R. A. Claybrook, did, there would have been no question of his winning. He was a good candidate and only his inactivity caused his defeat.—Editors.)

—Nine-tenths of the merchants would advertise honestly and frankly, whether or not that were the best policy. But the tenth one will always be wise enough to do so whether it is a principle with him or not.

FIFTY CENTS A WEEK BUYS ANY ARTICLE

This liberal credit offer is made to convince you, as we have convinced millions of satisfied customers, that this is the only store where you can get liberal credit at lowest prices. When we offer to deliver to you any article in this advertisement on weekly payments of 50c A WEEK it is not to sell you merely a single article at a cost to you of only 50c weekly, but to thoroughly convince you of the great advantages in buying at our store.

We know that if you open an account with us for a single article, we will win your favor and patronage for all times. Every article in this advertisement is marked so low that the price at which we sell it is less than the usual manufacturer's cost. Every piece is guaranteed to be DURABLE and WELL MADE, and you will find by actual comparison that this sale will save you from ONE-THIRD TO ONE-HALF on the prices you would be compelled to pay for the identical articles elsewhere. Furthermore we give what no other furniture store in this city offers—

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

Work has been commenced on the new San Francisco Labor Temple.

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada now has over 80,000 members.

Day laborers in Bombay, India, receive an average of about 20 cents a day.

The carpenters' union in Holland has doubled its membership in the past five years.

More than six hundred thousand men are employed by the railways of the United Kingdom.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers added nearly 1,000 new members to its rolls in September.

One hundred thousand miners in Scotland have been granted a wage increase amounting to 6 cents a day.

A cable dispatch states that the policemen of London are organizing under the name of the Metropolitan Police Trade Union.

James M. Lynch, the new labor commissioner of New York, has been president of the International Typographical Union for thirteen years.

Partial census of the working women of Minneapolis and St. Paul is to be made under the direction of the State minimum wage commission to ascertain wages and home surroundings.

At its recent convention in Philadelphia the Textile Workers of America adopted a resolution demanding a uniform scale of wages for all textile workers throughout the United States.

Fifteen thousand members of the United Mine Workers of America in the eastern Ohio district have voted to continue the assessment of one dollar a month per member to aid the striking miners of Colorado.

Robert Hesketh, well known as the first vice-president of the international union of bartenders, cooks, waiters and hotel and restaurant employes, has been elected mayor of the city of Seattle.

Messrs. Gwynne and Greenall, two well known English labor leaders, have arrived in the United States to represent the British Trades Union Congress at the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Office boys in Chicago have formed a union. Their organization, which is to be called the Office Employes' Association, has been granted a charter by the American Federation of Labor and plans have been laid for the raising of funds to support the union and to increase its membership.

Two new laws, passed at the last session of the Minnesota legislature, of vital importance to the workmen and workwomen, have recently become operative. One is the workmen's compensation law, and the other is the law requiring the safeguarding of machinery and dangerous conditions of employment, as well as protection in cases of fire.

A strike of 1,500 telegraphers employed on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad has been averted by the mediators after a long conference presided over by G. W. W. Hanger, assistant commissioner of mediation and conciliation under the Newlands act. The railroads have increased the wages about 5 per cent., which means nearly $45,000 per year for the telegraphers.

DEM. CONTROL IN ELIZABETH.

Elizabeth, Nov. 7.—An analysis of the result of the City Council contests gives the Democrats full control of that body, with seventeen votes out of twenty-four. This is a larger majority than the Democrats have had in recent years. Of the seventeen, nine, and possibly ten, are said to be aligned with the Nugent wing of the party, while seven are with General D. F. Collins. This indicates, it is said, that there will be a warm contest for the presidency and other offices when the Council organizes, January 1, and it is believed that it may have a bearing on the Mayoralty fight next year.

BORO PREPARES FOR TAX FIGHT

Mayor Asks Council to Assist in Campaign Against Unfair Discrimination.

HEARING ON TUESDAY

William Urhahn Appointed to Shade Tree Commission—Petitions Presented at Council Meeting Last Night.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., at last night's meeting of the North Plainfield Council, urged the borough fathers and the citizens present to be present at the tax hearing to be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Council rooms. The Mayor said the borough had been discriminated against in the past and that the Somerset County Tax Board had not entirely fulfilled its promise and agreement to make certain refunds. "We are making this fight to the end," the executive continued, "and I want all the taxpayers that possibly can come here Thursday morning to help wage the battle against unjust taxation."

The Board of Health in a communication called the Council's attention to the poor condition of the poor house in the rear of the old fire house. The matter was referred to the proper committee for investigation. Louis Cohn of Nassau street New York, representing Elizabeth M. Becker, protested against the amount of a tax bill, claiming that his client had been forced to pay the taxes on land she did not own. Tax Collector George F. Brown explained that the amount was correct, but that a mistake had been made in writing the block number on the invoice. A petition was received from residents of Steiner place for an electric light and Councilman Cowperthwait reported that a similar petition had been granted for the installation of an electric light in Chatham place, between Chatham street and Manning avenue. He also reported that the lighting contract with the Public Service Corporation expires December 4, 1913, and a resolution was adopted authorizing the insertion of advertisements for bids for the furnishing of street light, which will be opened at the next meeting of the Council on Friday night, December 5.

William Uhrhahn was appointed a member of the Shade Tree Commission by Mayor Clark. A resolution was adopted authorizing the expenditure of $50 to have the tax maps corrected to October 31. Overseer of the Poor Becker was granted an appropriation of $150 and the Board of Health was given $300. Final payments on the Steiner and Park place macadamizing were authorized and a payment to H. C. VanEmburgh was authorized, covering work done on the West End avenue storm sewer. Recorder Gano's report showed that the police department had made 26 arrests during October and collected $123.50 in fines. Report was made on the construction of the concrete culvert in Greenbrook road. The cost to the borough is $617.96 for 375 feet of culvert. The county will pay $234 for a part of the work. $3,000 was ordered to be borrowed by note to pay current expenses.

The following building permits were granted: William J. Kitchen, house in Duer street; George Kirch, chicken coop, in Somerset street; F. R. Harris, house in Duer street, near Howard street; John D. Kirch, carpenter shop, in Somerset, near Union street; H. S. Uhler, garage, 28 Park place.

MISS LEGGETT ENGAGED TO ALBERT R. CODINGTON

Miss Bessie Alpaugh, of East Sixth street, gave a bridge party and kitchen "shower" at her home, Thursday afternoon for Miss Margaret Leggett daughter of Mrs. Charles P. Leggett, of Madison avenue, when informal announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Leggett to Albert R. Codington, son of Judge and Mrs. William R. Codington, of Sandford avenue. There were about fourteen guests, personal friends of Miss Leggett. The latter received a number of gifts of value and use. Following the "shower" and bridge refreshments were served.

HOSPITAL GOVERNOR'S MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held Monday night in the rooms of the Charity Organization Society at 8:15 o'clock. Considerable business of importance will be considered and a full attendance of the Board is desired.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company for today is as follows: 9 a. m., 53 degrees; 11 a. m., 54 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 56 degrees.

'BRITISH NIGHT' AT HOPE WAS ENJOYED

First of Series of Three Entertainments Given at West End Chapel.

The first of a series of three entertainments were given at Hope chapel, last night, under the auspices of the ways and means committee, it bein known as "British Night," the songs and recitations all being of a British character. There was a large attendance.

William Wilson, Scotch comedian, and Harry Dale, English comedian, both of Newark, were especially good in their character work and were obliged to respond to several encores. Mr. Wilson will be remembered as having appeared at the Clan Mackenzie entertainment in the Plainfield theatre.

The rest of the program was furnished by E. D. Young, who gave vocal selections and George E. Leighs who gave a number of recitations. They also were well received and responded to encores. Miss Agnes Leighs presided at the piano and helped to make the entertainment a success.

The committee in charge comprised George E. Leighs, Thomas Hendry, William Baker, Harry Keen, Charles J. Vincent and James Penny.

PLAINFIELD HEALTH DURING LAST MONTH

22 Cases Communicable Disease—Births Nearly Double Deaths in Number.

Reports showing the sanitary condition of the city during the past month were presented at the November meeting of the Board of Health, last night. It was reported that there were twenty-two cases of communicable diseases last month, as follows: Tuberculosis, 9; typhoid fever, 2; scarlet fever and diphtheria, 1 each; anterior poliomeylitis, 3; whooping-cough, 2; malaria and measles, 1 each; chicken-pox, 2.

In addition to the above there was one case of rabies found in a dog, which had bitten a Plainfield man. The dog was killed and the head sent to Trenton for examination. On receipt of a positive report, the Pasteur treatment of the patient was begun.

Toward the latter part of the month a case of glanders was found in a horse which had been driven in and about the city. The matter was carefully followed up, the horse killed and all possible precautions taken against the spread of the disease. These precautionary measures consisted of the examination of nearly fifty horses which might have become infected; the disinfection of the cab stand at the North Avenue Station and the thorough cleansing and disinfection of the drinking fountains in the city. The water supply was shut off from these fountains for the time being.

During the month seventeen rooms and six houses were disinfected. Sixteen contagious diseases cultures were examined. Two persons were arrested on the charge of committing nuisances in the alley next to The Plainfield Theatre. Until public comfort stations are established the board believes it will have such conditions to contend with.

In conjunction with an inspector in the employ of the department of labor, an inspection was made of the local bakeries. In some cases these were found to be in fairly good condition, but in others they were bad. Orders have been served upon such bakeries as have failed to comply with health rules and this matter will be followed up by the board.

A special inspection during the month to ascertain the number, location and condition of privy vaults and cesspools was completed, showing that there are very few of them on city streets through which the sewer has been laid. Notices have been sent out to abolish some of these vaults and cesspools.

There were 119 returns made to the board during October: Births, 65; still-births, 2; marriages, 18; deaths, 34. Inspections were made as follows: In connection with complaints and nuisances, 279; communicable disease, 80; general work, 490; plumbing, 143; milk, 60, a total of 1,052.

SON ASKS MORE FROM AN ESTATE

Lemuel Smith Seeks to Recover Bequest Alleged Due by Father's Will.

HEARING IN CHANCERY

He Claims He Got "Nothing Except a Couple of Hundred Dollars" When the Big Estate Was Settled.

Newark, Nov. 8.—Alleged improvident acts by which Lemuel Smith, of Plainfield, nearly a quarter of a century ago divested himself of his interest in the large estate of his father, also named Lemuel Smith, were inquired into before Advisory Master Edward M. Colie, sitting in Vice Chancellor Emery's court room here, yesterday.

The elder Lemuel Smith, who died February 16, 1889, in his will gave a "primary" legacy of $20,000 to his son, Lemuel, Jr., and his two daughters, Josephine C. Thompson, of Morristown, and Maud A. Thompson, of Morris Plains, each to take a third, and in another clause made the son and two daughters, whose husbands are brothers, his residuary legatees, with the proviso, however, that $50,000 was to be deducted from the son's share, "in lieu of that amount furnished to him" by the testator in his life time. The advances, it was held, did not affect the son's one-third interest in the primary legacy of $20,000.

The will also gave to Lemuel the testator's 350 shares of stock in the Weaver & Benjamin Cattle Company, which company owned a ranch near Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory.

On October 20, 1890, Lemuel Smith executed to the executors of his father's estate, who were John S. W. Thompson, husband of the daughter Josephine, and William F. Wilson a deed, giving to them his interest in the realty holdings of his father's estate, the realty being described by metes and bounds, and in the following January he executed a quit claim deed, divesting himself of any equity he might have in the realty in toto.

On the stand yesterday he explained that his brother-in-law induced him to execute the two deeds by representing that the execution of the conveyances would serve to safeguard his father's estate.

According to Smith's story, when the estate was settled he got "nothing except a couple of hundred dollars," which he said Mr. Wilson, John S. W. Thompson's co-executor, turned over to him out of his commissions as executor.

About the time of his father's death, Smith, to give his own words on the stand, was "as poor as a church mouse," although he had been running the ranch in which his father was the chief stockholder.

He came on to the funeral and there is an exhibit in the case showing that he was outfitted for the obsequies by John S. W. Thompson, who duly charged up against his impecunious relative under date of February 21, 1889, these four items:

Suit clothes	$18.00
Tie	1.00
Gloves	2.00
Hat	3.00
Total	$24.00

The exhibit shows that in the following months, down to and including December of that year, Smith got from the same brother-in-law other advances, aggregating $409.90.

Thompson, a thrifty soul, apparently always had a pencil handy, the exibit showing "loans" of "ten cents" made on two occasions; other "loans" of fifty cents, a number of one dollar each, one of $1.10, and others of larger amounts, the smallest aggregate advance in any one month being $10, while the largest was $93.

Thompson, it is said, claims to have advanced Smith altogether about $1,600, and it is the contention of the defense that, taking into account the $50,000 deduction from Smith's share, there was nothing coming to him when the estate came to be settled up.

According to an inventory appended to the bill of complaint as an exhibit, the estate's personalty was appraised at a total of $109,012.76. It is claimed by William Mayo Atkinson, of Elizabeth, counsel, in association with Charles C. Pilgrim, of Newark, for Smith, that the realty, consisting of large holdings between Seabright and Normandie-on-the-Sea, and upon the Highlands, at the time of the settlement had a value of upwards of $150,000.

The hearing disclosed that on one occasion, Smith, at the solicitation of Thompson, "in consideration of the payment of $8,466.66," purporting to be a "balance due" him from his father's estate, executed a general release. The sum mentioned in the release, Smith declared, he never got. He testified further that he never got his one-third share of the "primary"

HOOD PLEADS GUILTY TO ASSAULTING WIFE

Another Chapter in Martial Troubles to End When He's Sentenced Friday.

Richard Haden Hood, who was arrested on July 5, last, on a charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife, Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, appeared before Judge James C. Connolly in the Union county court at Elizabeth, yesterday, and plead guilty to the charge. Judge Connolly informed Mr. Hood that sentence would be pronounced next Friday.

This trouble, which is one of many that Mr. and Mrs. Hood have experienced, was the result of an attempt on the part of Mr. Hood to obtain some of his clothing in the Stelle avenue house. He broke into the house and Mrs. Hood alleged that he assaulted her by striking her with a telephone.

Decisions in the divorce suit instituted by Mrs. Hood against her husband and two suits which Mr. Hood brought to obtain possession of property, are still pending. Mr. Hood is a son of the late General John M. Hood, of Baltimore. His father, who was greatly honored, was president of the Western Maryland Railroad when the line was sold to the Gould interests.

COMPELLED TO DROP COUNTY PARK IDEA

Beautiful Site Offered at Reasonable Figure—Freeholders Without Power.

The Union County Board of Freeholders has received from Louis Keller, of Springfield, an elaborate plan for establishing a county park between Cranford and Springfield, to cost about $75,000, but as the board has no power to expend money for such purposes the matter has been dropped.

Mr. Keller's plan is to make use of a large tract of swampy land, which he says can be purchased for $150 an acre, and which is ideal for a lake, as well as for attractive drives, when improved.

NEW IDEAS IN SHOE REPAIRING

United States Shoe Repairing Co. Add a New Waiting Room to Their Store.

A novelty has been introduced in Plainfield by the United States Shoe Repairing Co. by opening a most attractive waiting room in connection with their store at 122 East Front street. The customer now sees only an attractive room furnished with easy chairs and a table covered with the latest newspapers and magazines. In addition there is a private waiting room for ladies. No machinery or workmen are in sight.

The most improved machinery is used and the workmanship is of the very best.

You can leave your shoes in the morning, get them again at night, have them done while you wait, or telephone 820-R and the company will call for them, repair them, and deliver them the same day.

The company has an announcement on page 5 of today's Press.

PUBLIC RECREATION.

The Public Recreation Committee at the Public Library last night discussed the work as carried on here during the past season, numerous reports being presented and plans outlined for the coming season. Miss Anna Melvin, the new supervisor, urged the co-operation of the committee in the various departments of the work. It was announced that the rehearsal of the dramatic club will be held next Thursday night in the auditorium of the Franklin school instead of in the Washington School, as has been the custom in the past.

TO INSPECT BRIDGES.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet in the borough Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and inspect the recently constructed bridges in Sycamore and Rockview avenues. The Board has invited members of the North Plainfield Council to accompany them.

WANT INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION CUP

Board of Health Makes Move for Sanitary Plan for Lord's Supper Observance.

PASTORS' AID SOUGHT

Episcopal Church Rectors Could Not Comply With Such an Order as Power is With the House of Bishops.

Steps were taken at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health, last night, to abolish the use of common communion drinking cups in the various churches of the city. It is the purpose of the Board, according to its official statement, to abolish all such common cups and with that idea in mind the secretary was directed to communicate with the pastors of the churches inquiring as to the practice observed at communion.

Many of the city churches adopted the individual communion cups some time ago, but there are a number which still adhere to the old custom. This fact was brought to the attention of the Board and it has been decided to bring about the general use of the individual cups, which are considered sanitary and less likely to spread disease. Wherever it is found that the common cups are used, the church will be requested to make a change.

The only church, it is said, that would be effected and would be unable to conform to the order of the Board is the Episcopal Church. Its laws provide for a common communion and this has been the ancient law of the creed. Only the House of Bishops is vested with power to make a change in the individual cup and it is said by authority that there would be no likelihood whatever of such a thing coming to pass.

HALF-YEAR SESSION OF FRIENDS' SOCIETY

Shrewsbury-Plainfield Meetings Are Gathered Today for a Conference.

The half-yearly meeting of the Friends' Society, which opened this morning at the old meeting house in Watchung avenue, was marked by a good attendance including many out-of-town visitors and aged members. A business meeting opened the sesion at which delegates from the Shrewsbury meeting and other places, made reports and took part in the general discussion. Among them were John Stringham, of New York; Robert Barnes, of Purchase, and Daniel Willetts, of Trenton. Miss Margaret Vail, presided and Miss Fannie Reynolds of Manasquan, acted as assistant clerk. Among those present was Phoebe C. Wright, of Sea Girt, who is 90 years old.

In the general discussion, commission form of government was advocated by several persons who spoke. That more strict laws should be made to deal with "joy-riders" was also mentioned.

The advancement committee was in charge of the meeting this afternoon which opened at 3 o'clock.

MRS. JAMES H. KNIGHT DENIES ANY WRONGDOING

Trenton, Nov. 8.—An answer to the petition for divorce of James H. Knight, of Park avenue, Plainfield, was filed today with the clerk of the Court of Chancery here today by Mrs. Knight, through Robert Newton Crane, as her solicitor. She denied that she is guilty of the offenses charged in the petition, but admits that she was in the company of Walter Kettenring, of Race street, North Plainfield, when arrested on October 9. She claims that the friendship between herself and the co-respondent, however, existed with the knowledge, permission and at solicitation of her husband.

GOES TO GERMANY.

Cornelius Buckley, a former well-known local resident, arrived in Plainfield yesterday from Virginia and spent the day with relatives and friends. He sailed this morning on the steamer, "Bremen," for Germany as one of the men in charge of Harry Payne Whitney's string of steeplechase horses to be exhibited in that country.

A KITCHEN SHOWER.

Friends of Miss Katherine Gallagher, of East Ninth street, surprised her last night by tendering her a kitchen shower in honor of her approaching marriage.

MRS. JOSIAH BROWNE INTRODUCES DAUGHTER

Society Folk Meet Miss Katharine Marcia Browne at Charming Tea.

Mrs. Josiah Browne, of 815 Kensington avenue, gave a delightful reception and tea at her home, yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, at which time she introduced her daughter, Miss Katharine Marcia Browne. There were about three hundred guests from out of town and this city.

Mrs. Browne introduced her daughter and they were assisted in receiving by the Misses Katherine Drayton, Catherine Ginna, Ruth Timpson, Eleanor Iredell, Kathryn Yates and Alice Smith, of this city; Catherine Mumford, of Brooklyn, and Marjorie Greenfield, of New York.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. Henry Clay Irons, Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, Mrs. George P. Mellick and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, the last named an aunt of Miss Browne.

The home was attractively decorated for the affair, yellow flowers being used in the dining-room. Miss Browne received a wealth of beautiful flowers from her many friends and she was showered with congratulations. Following the reception, the receiving party remained for supper after which dancing was enjoyed by the young people.

NETHERWOOD HOTEL PROPERTY'S VALUE

Heirs of Latimer Estate Claim Investment There was a Poor One.

Tax Collector William R. Townsend was a witness in the matter of the petition of Jane Reuben Adams, and other heirs of the estate of Sarah M. Latimer, of this city, for a distribution of approximately $7,000 of the estate, when the case was continued in the county courts at Elizabeth yesterday.

The estate was originally worth about $100,000. A partial distribution was made several years ago, and some of the remainder invested in a mortgage on the Netherwood Hotel property. Mr. Townsend testified regarding tax assessments against the hotel property from 1890 until the present time.

The petitioners last week charged that the investment in the mortgage was an improper one and did not comply with legal requirements. William H. Shotwell, J. Fred MacDonald and Nelson Runyon, executors of the Latimer estate, are represented in defending the action by Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, of this city, and James P. Power, of Elizabeth. William A. Coddington represents Mrs. Adams, and the heirs, children and grandchildren of Mrs. Adams' sister, are represented by George W. Anderson.

Mr. Townsend testified that the property had been assesed at $30,000 from 1890 until 1895, when the assessment was reduced to a levy on $25,000 valuation. In 1906, after various improvements to the property, the valuation was increased to $50,000 valuation, and in 1907 it advanced to $66,000, dropping to $61,000 this year. It was sold this year for unppaid taxes. It was charged that interest on the investment, amounting to $27,000, also remains unpaid.

Newton B. Smalley, J. A. Staats and DeWitt C. Ivins, of this city, were among the witnesses examined yesterday and each was of the opinion that the property was not a good investment. On the other hand the executors have produced witnesses to prove that the property is worth many times the amount of money from the Latimer estate invested in it. It is claimed that the land is worth more than that amount.

McVICKER-DEBELE.

Miss Edna Debele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Debele, of Somerset street, will be married at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Rev. Ernest E. Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Dunellen, to Charles P. McVicker, of Elizabeth. The couple will spend their honeymoon at Buffalo. They will be "at home" in their new home in Duer street, on Saturday, November 15.

MRS. PHILIP DENIZO.

Mrs. Johanna Denizo, aged twenty-six years, died yesterday at her home on Stansbery avenue, Scotch Plains. She is survived by her husband, Philip Denizo. The funeral service will be held at St. Mary's church on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be made at St. Mary's cemetery.

SISTERS OF FAIR COMMIT FRAUD?

Relatives of Mrs. Charles L. Fair Charge Conspiracy in Settling Estate.

LITIGATION RENEWED

Story of An Alleged Offspring Won a Compromise and Now Nelson Family Seeks Larger Share of Estate.

Charges that Mrs. Theresa Alice Oelrichs widow of Hermann Oelrichs, and also her deceased husband; her sister, Mrs. Virginia Fair Vanderbilt, wife of William K. Vanderbilt; and Joseph Harvey and Charles M. Neal, the two administrators of the will of Mrs. Caroline D. Fair, entered into a fraudulent cospiracy to obtain the estate left by Mrs. Fair and her husband, Charles L. Fair, were made in the Supreme Court in New York, yesterday.

They appear in an amended complaint filed in a suit brought by Edward, George and Theodore Lefler and Mabel E. Towle, the nephews and nieces of Mrs. Fair, to recover $520,000 from Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Oelrichs and the executors of the Fair will.

Mr. and Mrs. Fair were killed in an auto accident in Paris in 1902. Each had made a will in the other's favor and there was a question as to which of them was the survivor. A referee finally decided that the husband survived his wife and inherited her $7,000,000 estate. Before judgment was entered a settlement was reached with Mrs. Fair's relatives, which included her brother, William Smith, of New Market, by which they received large cash payments varying from $500,000 to $1,500,000.

The Leflers and Mabel Towle instituted a suit on June 10 last, claiming $130,000 each as their share of their aunt's estate. The amended complaint further alleges that part of the fraudulent scheme was to have the wills of Fair and his wife probated in California instead of New York, of which State it is alleged they were residents when killed. In proof of this it is set forth that Mrs. Hannah E. Nelson, mother of Mrs. Fair, was requested to go to California, which she did, and it is alleged that she was unduly influenced in making a settlement, by informing her that her daughter had an illegitimate child born to her and that under the California law this child was entitled to the entire estate. Mrs. Nelson has died since her acceptance of the settlement and the admission of the two wills to probate. The complainants set forth at great length numerous alleged fraudulent methods in settlement of the estate.

BONNIE BURN WILL GET SEWER SYSTEM

Newark Concern Awarded Contract to Make the Improvement.

The Union County Board of Freeholders has awarded to Reiley Brothers, of Newark the contract for installing a sanitary sewer system at Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, the plant to be located on the county's property. The system will be similar to Plainfield's with a septic tank, and the Imhoff plan will be incorporated.

It is believed that it can be so arranged that it will be possible to dispose of the water, after filtration, as well as the solids right on the county's farm, and thus avoid running any water in the brook.

VERDICT IS SET ASIDE; NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED

Judge Walter L. Hetfield has set aside the verdict in the case on contract of George Wiegand against Charles H. Hand, which was tried in the District Court on Thursday. The plaintiff, through his counsel R. N. Crane, brought a suit for $115 with an addition $230 for extra work, the latter amount not being allowed. The defendant, through his counsel, William Newcorn, brought a counter-suit for $230. The jury was out six mintues, returning a verdict for the plaintiff, but making no allowance for the defendant.

The case will be tried again on Wednesday, November 19.

TO MAKE ADDRESS.

Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, who has been supplying the pulpit of the Netherwood Reformed church for some time, has been engaged to make the address at the Thanksgiving exercises to be held at the Stillman School on Wednesday, November 26.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Mrs. John Calvin Gardner has fully recovered from a recent attack of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Coriell are planning a trip to California to visit their son, Abner S. Coriell, who resides in Sacramento. They will make the trip soon after the holidays and contemplate a tour of the southwest that will keep them away from home for the balance of the winter.

On Tuesday night, Nov. 11, at the Whittier School a school election will be held. The voters will be asked to authorize the expenditure of $17,000 to erect an addition to the Lincoln institution. Authorization has already been given by the school electorate for the expenditure of $6,000 for the construction of additions to the Whittier School. It is thought, however, that the project will be approved, as the Board of Education is of the opinion that with these improvements made, the school problem in the borough will be settled, for many years to come.

A large tool shed standing near the site where the Piscataway Water Co. is erecting a pumping station, in Beechwood Heights, was looted several nights ago and over $200 worth of tools stolen.

The poor and unsanitary condition of Greenbrook, in the vicinity of Gallagher's Corner, Middlesex Borough, was discussed at the last meeting of the Council of that municipality. The street committee was ordered to make an investigation and remedy the evils, if possible.

"Temperance" was the subject of this morning's services held at the Seventh-day Baptist church. Special music was rendered by the choir. Rev. Vassar, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached the sermon appropriate to the day, which is known as, "The World's Temperance Sabbath."

The Councilmanic Committees of the borough of Middlesex and township of New Market, will be held Thursday night to adjust all differences arising from the formation of the new municipality.

Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schlingeman and daughter, Mary, of New Brunswick, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Provost, of Prospect place.

Services will be held to morrow in the Presbyterian church as follows: Sunday-school at 10 a. m.; men's Bible class, at 10.15; preaching service, at 11 o'clock, sermon by Rev. C. J. Culp, subject, "Love's Victory"; Christian Endeavor, at 6:45 p. m., lead by Miss Laura Gano; evening service, at 7:30, subject, "The Open Door."

"A Winning World-View" will be the subject of Rev. William T. Boult's sermon at the Congregational church tomorrow morning. At the evening service his subject will be "Self-Married Men." The Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 6:45 p. m. in the chapel.

Holy communion will be observed at St. Paul's church at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow by Rector A. S. Phelps; Sunday-school at 9:30; morning service and sermon at 10:45; evening service at 7:30, sermon and confirmation by Rt. Rev. John Scarborough.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, in this place, there will be a reception of children into the Angel Sodality. Following the reception there will be a sermon, closing with the benediction.

Mrs. Thomas H. Brantingham, of Plainfield, was a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson M. Giles, at Harris Lane, yesterday.

Mrs. Thomas W. Apgar, of South Bound Brook, is spending a week with friends at Schooley's Mountains.

Mrs. Maude Staats, of Brooklyn, has been visiting friends in Bound Brook this week.

Mrs. J. E. Rutt, of Montclair, visited Mr. and Mrs. Morton v. Brokaw, a few days this week.

Adam Zimmerman, of South Bound Brook, and Mrs. Laura Miller Hall, of Bound Brook, were married on Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Alfred Evans. They are now on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will make their home at South Bound Brook.

Louis L. Drake, of New York city, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Alice L. Drake, of John street, this week.

Warrenville.

Miss Kathryn Reed was the recent guest of Miss Jennie Sears, of North Plainfield.

Miss Anna Black, of New York city, is the guest of Mrs. Agnes Hawkins.

Miss Black and Miss Sarah Black, of New York city, have returned to their homes after a week's visit with Mrs. Agnes Hawkins, of Mt. Horeb.

Mrs. Alfred Jennings, Miss Kathryn Reed and Milton Baker were in Martinsville on Friday.

The new flag pole for the Warrenville School arrived yesterday and it will be raised on Wednesday afternoon.

Whitehouse.

The next meeting of the Past Councilors' Association of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Somerset county will be held at Readington, Tuesday night, in Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall. A number of the State officers are expected to make addresses.

Mrs. Edward H. Moore returned to Asbury, Thursday, after a visit to her sister, Miss Iva K. Vander Voort, of Whitehouse Station.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Round Valley has elected the following officers: President, Miss Luella Haver; vice president, Miss Hattie Schomp; secretary, Miss Fannie Jacobson; treasurer, Conover Stiger, Jr.; superintendent, Mrs. William B. Haver; assistant superintendent, Mrs. John Emmons.

STYLE—RELIABILITY

Those who know will think of Rothberg's

It is with a measure of personal pride that this store acknowledges its close relations with Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes.

No store could possibly devote a greater degree of effort than ours to the securing of fine merchandise for your service.

In selecting Stein-Bloch garments we have laid aside every consideration save that of making our stock the most select that capital and experience can assemble.

You will find a half-hour spent here extremely profitable in discovering the style tendencies as they are so faultlessly illustrated in Stein-Bloch garments.

The Seal of Confidence

Every man knows of one certain clothier in his vicinity whose store expresses a higher level of merchandise ideals than every other. Always back of this kind of store stands the fine intelligence of a mercantile idealist. The frequency with which this merchant proves to be the retailer of

would be truly remarkable but for these facts: Nothing but perfection will satisfy good dressers who discriminate in clothes values; nothing but perfection satisfies these better merchants; nothing but perfection satisfies the makers of Stein-Bloch garments. And so the Stein-Bloch label, signifying "Fifty Nine Years Of Knowing How," has come to be known among the makers and the retailers and the wearers of Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes as an emblem of trust.

R. H. Macy & Co.—A Sketch

When Macy's department store opens Monday morning there will be added to the sights of New York one of unusual interest. There will hang over the entrance to the arcade in Broadway, just above Thirty-fourth Street, the first sign that was ever displayed by a department store in the United States. It is the same sign that R. H. Macy put over his little shop at Nos. 204 and 206 Sixth Avenue in 1858.

This historic sign is one of the features of the celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the removal of R. H. Macy & Co. from Fourteenth Street to its present location. Macy's not only was the first of all department stores in 1858, but it was the pioneer in the uptown movement of such vast establishments in 1902.

The history of Macy's is remarkably interesting. In 1874 L. Straus & Sons made arrangements with R. H. Macy to open in his store in Fourteenth Street a special department in the basement for their famous china, crockery and glassware. Thus, for the first time in the history of business, dry goods and home furnishings were sold under one roof. This was the origin of the department store and it is for this reason that Macy's is called the "Original Department Store."

When R. H. Macy opened the store in 1858 he established (1) fixed prices, which were unknown in New York at that time—no discounts to anyone.

(2) Odd prices—9c, 14c, etc.

(3) Absolute cash selling—no credit to anyone.

(4) Prices that were invariably lowest in the city, lower than other stores even after the haggling which invariably preceded purchasing elsewhere.

By inaugurating these principles R. H. Macy raised the whole tone of merchandising in New York. People, becoming used to be treated with such integrity and justice at Macy's demanded the same treatment elsewhere. And thus it was not long before one by one these innovations were copied—all except two of them, cash selling and the lowest in the city prices which made it possible.

When the house of R. H. Macy & Co. opened its magnificent new home at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, eleven years ago, it was the beginning of an era of commercial opulence far greater than the mind could conceive. It was the settling of the retail commercial hub of the Western World, and development followed swifter and more pretentious than ever was known in one locality.

It transformed the whole shopping centre of the city; it opened to modern methods fields that had lain dormant for years and brought on a realty metamorphosis that established fine stores in Broadway, Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue; forced the oldest inhabitants to desert their mansions before the sweeping wave of prosperity, and induced the erection of greater hotels to meet the influx of settlers for the new hives of industry.

The underlying principle of honor made R. H. Macy & Co. famous, and it was pursued with strictest fidelity by Messrs. Isidor and Nathan Straus when they took hold of the growing establishment and reared it to the wonderful position of power and prosperity it occupies to-day.

In spite of keen rivalry on all sides they bided their time. In one of their happier hours they adopted a little red star as a trademark. It was brilliant, not gaudy. It was attractive, dignified. They hitched their wagons to the star, and the crimson comets spread the tidings of trade integrity to every part of the great city. Northward, eastward, southward and westward the star of Macy's enterprise took its way. Macy's was everywhere, and Macy's meant commercial honor.

The new home of R. H. Macy & Co. is a mercantile city in itself, toward the gates of which converge the most stupendous transportation facilities in the world, all completed since the beginning of the new building. The Pennsylvania system brings through the tunnels from the west and south and nearby suburbs of New Jersey hundreds of thousands of passengers. The Long Island trains come with shoppers from as far away as Montauk Point and land them almost at the portals of Macy's great store. The shorter route of the McAdoo tunnels adds other thousands to the steady stream poured into Herald Square. The subways with residents of Brooklyn, Harlem and the Bronx, and the elevated road are crowding the district with shoppers every minute of the day. As if these were not enough, three lines of surface cars converge in front of Macy's door, while a fourth is less than a block away.

With all these contributing agencies Macy's front door became the pivotal point for the hub of the Western Retail Business World.

Macy's, destined to be one of the largest stores of its kind in the world, with as many as sixty and seventy thousand customers entering a day, singularly enough had its inception in the mind of a man who had started in life as a whaler, and had failed in business in almost every section of the United States, from the gold-suffused State of California to the north of Gloucester Bay.

With only a few dollars left, he came to New York and tempted fate once more in a little "general store" at Nos. 204 and 206 Sixth Avenue, just below Fourteenth Street. The stock consisted principally of fancy goods. That was in 1858, and Mr. Macy was then 35 years old. Past failures had not diminished his ambition, and he still possessed rugged health and indomitable energy. In his last venture his first step was to establish confidence in the honesty of his dealings, and he at once put his little business on a sound footing. He succeeded.

Four years after his entrance to the city he displayed a dormant genius by organizing a peculiar idea of odd prices, such as 29, 39, 49 and 99 cents. It took. It attracted more attention than any other innovation known to the trade. It turned the thin string of persons who first filed into his store into a jamming crowd. In one year business grew to such proportions that in 1863 he rented No. 62 West Fourteenth Street, around the corner. This was joined to the original store, forming an L shaped building, with entrances in both streets. A department of hats and millinery was introduced, and years later sections where jewelry, Vienna goods and toilet articles could be purchased were installed.

Wonderful as had been the Aladdin-like fortunes of Mr. Macy, his place in the city's mercantile history was destined to be filled by a family of master minds, father and three sons, each of whom was a genius not only as a merchant but in aiding a wonderful development of the city, of the country, of the city's health, and of philanthropic institutions, which have been the means of saving thousands of lives. Theirs was of that unusual calibre which could see when others could not, and which blazed the trail to success, fortune and an era of prosperity participated in by others less keen in the business. It foresaw which way New York was bound to develop and grow; saw a quarter of a century ahead, and eventually led the way to the Retail Hub of the Western World, with the result of establishing along Broadway and Fifth Avenue the greatest centre of shopping places in the world, offering attractions and variety that cannot be equaled even in Paris, so long flaunted as the greatest of all. It realized the future not only of business but of that other wonder of the present century, the horseless age. It saw a greater possibity even than the automobile builders themselves hoped for, and nurtured the infantile industry when the inventors were almost ready to give up in despair.

The head of this family of master minds was Lazarus Straus. He and his wife Sara lived, in a little Bavarian town along the Rhine, and there, on February 6, 1845, was born to them Isador. Three years later came Nathan, on January 31, 1848, and then Oscar S. was born, on December 23, 1850. Father, mother and three sons came to this country in 1858, and settled in Talbottom, Ga.

The boys received the nucleus of their education there. Isador later being graduated from the Washington and Lee University; Nathan coming to this city and finishing in the public schools here, while Oscar was graduated from Columbia College. Isador was anxious to enter West Point, but the civil war made this impossible. He was then 16 years old, and, with the war fever in the air, he wished to enter the Confederate army. He assisted in the organization of a company, of which he was chosen lieutenant. When he offered himself, however, he was informed that the Confederacy had not enough guns for men, and wanted no boys. The only thing remaining for him to do was to enter his father's store in the place of the clerks who had left to go to war. There he stayed for two years, when opportunity came for him to go to England as agent for an importing company undertaking certain shipbuilding contracts. He was in Europe until the end of the war.

Isador Straus being the eldest son of the brothers, was the office member from the time the partnership was formed. He was a fine type of the broad-minded, public-spirited men through whom the city always has maintained its commercial supremacy and metropolitan character. Knowing the entire alphabet of his business, quick to seize upon and improve the opportunities of the trade and strictly attentive to the duties which the exacting position imposed upon him, his equipment covered a much wider range than is comprised within the limitations of the shop. With a keen sense of the duties of a citizen and natural aptitude for the study of public questions, there was no subject affecting seriously the welfare of the community or the country which he neglected. Where the average man would find his physical and nervous energy taxed to exhaustion by the magnitude of the routine possibilities, he added to the scope of his activities and gathered fresh vigor by employing his mind in multitudinous directions.

Work was his elixir

Success, he once said, was the result of doing the right thing at the right time, and he seemed always to follow out that maxim.

Nathan Straus, three years younger, was none the less acute to the future. He was born in the same Bavarian town and received part of his education in the schools of Talbottom, Ga., and in New York City. When 27 years old he married Miss Lina Guthers and joined his father in the importation of crockery and glassware, as his older brother had done. His progress was simultaneous with that of Isador, the two of them entering the firm of R. H. Macy & Co. in 1888.

The touch of the Straus brothers was golden, and every day their tremendous business expanded. When the store was first established the fashionable residence centre of the city was below Thirty-fourth Street, and the majority of the population south of Fourteenth Street.

There were no elevated railroads then; no electric railways; no cable roads anywhere, and only one horse car line in the city, and that running down Centre Street and Fourth Avenue. Broadway, Fourteenth Street and Sixth Avenue traffic was served with omnibuses, rattling over cobblestones or wooden blocks for pavement. There was not a theatre or a club north of Twenty-fourth Street, nor a hotel of any importance north of Twenty-seventh Street. The fashionable population was established along the line of Fifth Avenue, south of Twenty-third Street, to Washington Square and around to Stuyvesant Square, on the east side. Lord & Taylor were still downtown in Grand Street; Arnold Constable & Co. in Canal Street, west of Broadway, and A. T. Stewart's was at Broadway and Chambers Street. These were Macy's chief and almost only competitors at that time.

Through all the succeeding years of establishment of other houses Macy's held its ground. They saw the city developing modern transit systems; saw some of these pass through all the stages of experiment, achievement, decline and decay; saw the growth and expansion of the dry goods, importing and wholesale trade districts northward; saw some of the stores move past Fourteenth Street, and as far north as Twenty-second Street, and observed that the residential section was beginning to crumble and fall back before the advancing columns of business and commerce.

From about 1875 and far into the '80's they witnessed the years of achievement for which New York had been struggling more than a generation, a thoroughly reliable and comprehensive rapid transit system. They welcomed the elevated road up Sixth Avenue, which opened as far as Central Park in the year 1876; within the next ten years they greeted the cable car. The two modern systems meant the bringing of all the city to the store doors. The shopping neighborhood expanded gradually until from Fourteenth Street to Twenty-Third, along Sixth and Fifth Avenues, great businesses were established. With the rapidly increasing population thousands upon thousands of persons patronized only the stores in the district, and it seemed that no matter how many stores there were they were crowded to their utmost. Another fifteen years saw the installation of the trolley car.

Then came the master stroke of mercantile genius, the Straus brothers divined, as none others, that the future city was to lie to the north; that there was bound to be a greater development than anyone had dreamed, and even as early as 1893 they quietly began looking to other fields. To their minds it was a far greater question than merely going uptown; they must choose a site that would be the centre of the city not for five years or ten, but for half a century or a century. The present store is now a monument to their acumen.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"In Old Dublin" is the title of the play that will be presented to local theatre-goers at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night, by that most popular of all singer stars, Fiske O'Hara. The play, which is from the pen of Augustus Pitou, the dramatist who furnished Scanlan and Olcott with their very best plays, is a romantic drama depicting in a vivid manner the life of the sporting gentry of Ireland back in the early part of the last century. The scenes, as the title would indicate, belong peculiarly to the land of the shamrock and the author has introduced among other exciting incidents, a yacht race for a royal trophy on Dublin Bay. Yachting had its beginning in the Emerald Isle and never was keener interest in the sport than at the period covered by Mr. Pitou's story. Mr. O'Hara introduces a number of new songs in the performance and also sings some of the old Irish melodies, in which his wonderful tenor voice is heard to fine advantage.

"SKY PILOT" TO SPEAK HERE.

Jack Higgins, known as the "Lumber Jack Sky Pilot," will speak before the Men's Club of Hope chapel, Tuesday evening, November 18. In the afternoon he will address the Federation of Women's Missionary Societies at a meeting to be held in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church.

BARN IS BURNED DOWN, BUT HORSE IS SAVED

Fire, the origin of which is still a mystery, was discovered in a barn owned by Frank Sheriffo on McCrea place at 11:30 o'clock last night and in response to a still alarm sent into headquarters Chief Doane dispatched the apparatus from the central portion of the town and the chemical from the Netherwood house. The blaze had gained considerable headway when discovered by neighbors.

Sheriffo, when he was awakened and told that his barn was afire, hastily donned his clothing and after much difficulty succeeded in rescuing his horse.

The barn and contents, consisting of an assortment of odds and ends, was entirely consumed by flames and the estimated loss is placed at $250, entirely covered by insurance.

MAN'S GREATEST DISCOVERY.

Man's greatest discovery is this—we have the power to become free from sickness and disease of every kind and to perpetuate our lives indefinitely. In the colloquialism of the day this may sound like a "tall order", but, nevertheless, there are hundreds all over the world who are teaching and demonstrating, today, that there is a mental law which, when understood and conformed to, makes us free from every inharmonous condition.

We are rapidly learning that: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he" is a statement of far greater import than has generally been thought.

Modern pyschology and the new metaphysics have demonstrated that it is a scientific fact that as a man thinketh deep down in his sub-conscious mind so will it be unto him when the law has had time to work itself out.

Space is not permitted me in this editorial to explain the method of application of this law, but here is a mental treatment, guaranteed to cure every ill that flesh is heir to. Sit for half an hour every night before retiring and mentally forgive everyone against whom we have any ill will or antipathy. If we fear or are prejudiced against even an animal, mentally ask forgiveness of it and send it thoughts of love. If we have accused anyone of injustice, or talked about them unkindly or criticized them, or gossiped about them, withdraw our words by asking them in the silence to forgive us. If we have had a falling out with friends or relatives, are at law or engaged in contention with anyone, write letters of forgiveness and withdraw all proceedings that will tend to prolong the separation. We should not go to bed any night feeling that we have an enemy in the world. We must be careful not to think a single thought or say a word that will offend; to be patient and cool under all circumstances.

We CAN do this if we are faithful to our time of meditation, and will find it better medicine for any ache or pain than has ever been tried before.

Don't ask why. Try it and enjoy the good results.

HOWARD A. COLBY.

$25,000 POOR FARM SHELTERS SIX PEOPLE

Piscataway Township's Citizens Want Present Quarters Abandoned.

There has developed in Piscataway township the feeling that the Poor Farm now supported by the township, is too great a burden, and is, in fact, a quite unnecessary burden. A $25,000 farm harbors only six inmates.

So this matter is to be taken up by the township Taxpayers' Association, at the meeting of the Association, on Tuesday evening next, the following resolution is to be introduced, advising the sale of the present farm and the purchase and maintenance of one much smaller and much less expensive, though fully capable of filling the needs of the township.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, The citizens and taxpayers of this Piscataway Township, finding the great increase in value of all landed property in the vicinity of the present Poor Farm that of its original purchase price, and owing to the great expense which the present Poor Farm now causes this township annually.

We therefore advise that an appraisement be made so that we will know the present value of this farm, and if the valuation is above the sum of $25,000 we therefore advise the sale of such property, at the best possible figure above that valuation, and when sold that $20,000 or more be used to pay off, and cancel such school bonds and other indebtedness of this township, improving school facilities and township roads, as this township will still need a Poor Farm, we advise that the sum, say $3.000 to $4,000 to be used to purchase a smaller farm, located in a more central location, where land can be purchased cheap.

We understand that there are never more than five or six paupers being cared for on an average during any year, and with a smaller farm, and honest management this township should not be under any further expense than what the salary is paid to the steward of this farm, and that the products from this farm, should pay all other expenses.

We therefore, petition your honorable committee, that you will pass such a resolution and that you issue a notice to such an effect, so that all voters and taxpayers of Piscataway Township shall be called together at some fixed date, and vote accordingly what is best to be done with this question.

(Signed.) William Osburn, Mary R. Wilson, George Belloff, Henry Belloff, Chas. P. Osburn, Peter Mansen, Henry F. Menten, Eva Beloff.

OPEN AIR SCHOOL WAS ON EXHIBITION

Many Attended Reception Held Under Auspices of Equal Suffrage League.

Many people, who have been interested in the idea of an open-air school, were gratified yesterday afternoon by seeing the school in operation, when an exhibition and donation tea were held under the management of the Open-Air School Committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League.

The regular text-book work of the classes was interrupted, but training in manual practice, basket weaving, etc., was exhibited by the teacher, Miss Beatman, and a gymnastic drill with deep-breathing exercises was led by Miss Wetherell, physical director of the Y. W. C. A. While in spite of the warm day, the visitors were able to see some of the children dressed in the "Esquimo suits" of warm blanket material that enable them to continue their studies in the open-air during the cold weather and to take their two daily periods of out-door rest on cots warmly wrapped in army blankets.

Substantial contributions of food and money were brought by those who attended, and sent by many not able to attend, but who appreciate what an Open-Air School can do for anemic children, predisposed to illness of all kinds, if given an opportunity to be out of doors without interrupting their education. Among the donations were the twenty "Esquimo suits" and boots and a nice fur coat for the teacher.

The school committee consists of Mrs. Frank Lawrence, Mrs. David Rowland, Miss Mabelle Phillips, Mrs. W. S. Tyler, Mrs. Allen Cowperthwaite, Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Mrs. E. W. Bulkley, Dr. Clara D. H. Krans, chairman. Tea was poured by Mrs. Rowland and Mrs. Tyler.

HONORS NEW YORK WRIT FOR THAW EXTRADITION

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Gov. Felker today announced his decision regarding the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. The decision is against Thaw and the requisition of the State of New York is honored. This transfers the case automatically to the United States District Court, where Thaw's writ is pending.

ELECTION OFFICERS DERELICT.

The election officers in five districts in Plainfield failed to submit reports on the jury reform referendum as required by the election law and as a result it became necessary yesterday for County Clerk James C. Calvert to send constables after the missing information.

Judge James C. Connolly announced last week that he would hold election officers strictly accountable for any delinquencies of this character and what action he will take is not known at present.

RUINED THE PAINTING.

Curious Fate of Burne-Jones' Favorite Water Color.

A very curious history is that of Burne-Jones' favorite picture, "Love Among the Ruins." The original picture was in water color and was sent to Paris by a firm of art publishers for reproduction and in that city forwarded to their photographic studios in the suburbs. The picture unhappily preceded the letter of instructions regarding it warning the photographer of the medium in which it was painted, so that immediately on its arrival it was brushed over with white of egg to bring out the colors for photographing—an excellent procedure in the case of oil pictures, harmless and very efficacious.

But, as to the Burne-Jones picture, Love was very soon among his own ruins, for every swish of the brush brought off the final touches and left a mere smeared ground. Sir Edward Burne-Jones was heartbroken at the loss of a work on which his reputation, he considered, would in great measure rest and on which he had spent many months of patient toil and the very perfection of his execution in the realization of one of the most poetic conceptions that had sprung from his fanciful imagination.

"Love Among the Ruins" was painted during the years 1870-3. In October, 1893, it was destroyed, and by the following year the oil version was finished, but was scarcely a consolation to the artist for the loss of his first and more spontaneous work.

ANIMALS IN OPERA.

Some of Them Raised Up Their Voices With Weird Effect.

Few persons realize how many animals appear in opera. By this I do not mean such animals as the tenor who played the part of Lohengrin and was told by Von Bulow that he was the knight of the swine rather than of the swan, but real bona fide animals. They extend all the way from Monteverde to Wagner.

About A. D. 1600 it was not unusual to have lions or elephants upon the operatic stage. One can never tell what these animals may improvise in their parts. I know of a case where an elephant caused a most hasty exit of the orchestra in London long ago, when the father of B. E. Woolf, the Boston critic, was conducting.*

The donkey in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" has not a speaking part, yet once that I know of he lifted up his voice and made Canio's great solo an unexpected duet. Balaam himself was not more astonished than was the tenor on that occasion.

In spite of the saying, "Thou shalt not yoke the ox and the ass together," Pierne caused these two to sing a duet in "The Children of Bethlehem." On this occasion the ass was a tenor, but I do not believe that Pierne meant any reflection upon the high voiced fraternity.—Louis C. Elson in Musical Observer.

Couldn't Be Divided.

In Felix Moscheles' "Fragments of an Autobiography" occurs the following: Mme. Schumann was wanted to play at a little musical reunion, but she did not respond. Mr. Moscheles was deputed to approach her. "Was she inclined to play?"

"Particularly disinclined," was the discouraging response.

The envoy tried again and mentioned her husband's "Carnival." "One part I particularly love, the 'March of the Davidsbundler.' If I could only hear you play just that page or two!"

This roused her. "Page or two, indeed!" she cried. "Wenn man de 'Carnaval' spielt, spielt man ihn ganz." (When one plays the "Carnaval," one must play it all.) And she played the whole.

Feyther and the Passon.

After a Saturday afternoon tramp in Cheshire, writes a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian, I stopped at a little whitewashed inn, where I heard the following rustic story. On a bench outside half a dozen farm workers, with faces and bared arms richly sunburned, were relating reminiscences of bygone times.

"Did Ah iver tell yo' about ma poor owd feyther and the passon?" asked a white whiskered sturdy veteran. "No? Well, passon meets feyther one day, an' ses 'a, 'John, Ah could find yo' a bit o' a job blowin' t' organ up at t' church o' Sundays if yo' doan't mind.' 'Aye, thankee, sir,' ses feyther. 'Ah'd be very glad, but Ah doubt Ah hevna wind enough.'"

SCHOOLBOY WINNERS

Many Swimmers Have Decided to Turn Professional — Numerous Products of the Schoolboy Ranks Have Risen to Fame in the Water.

Gilbert E. Tomlinson, the fifteen year old schoolboy from Philadelphia, who furnished the sensation of the open water season by winning the national half-mile championship and breaking the one mile American record, will bid this winter for the indoor titles.

A. F. Cady, his coach, has put him at the sprints, and while the lad seems to be primarily a distance swimmer, not able to show the necessary speed at the century, he is doing well at the furlong. However, the opposition will be formidable and the world's record is threatened, so that Tomlinson's chances are problematic.

At five hundred yards, on the other hand, he classes with the best, and he should take a lot of beating. His astonishing improvement during the summer months makes it possible that by next March, when the championships come off, he will be in line for some excellent work.

The swimming craze which struck Pittsburg about a year ago, has created such a demand for instructors and coaches that many of the leading amateurs are succumbing to the temptation of the good salaries offered and joining the professional ranks. Ralph Shinton, John Bain and Harry Blair, three of the most prolific winners in the Middle Atlantic meets, are now teaching at clubs and public baths. Their loss will be badly felt by the teams they competed with.

Dr. Raycroft, physical director at Princeton, is such a strong believer in the value of swimming that the various branches of the art of natation have now been included in the course of hygiene, at his suggestion, and among the questions asked at he last examinations were several pertaining to swimming and life saving. It is a commendable innovation.

The Public Schools Athletic League has undertaken to introduce wimming in all the elementary schools throughout the city. The aquatic sport has taken a strong grip on the youths, as can be vouched for at the annual championships, in which more than two hundred boys will take part. There is an enrollment of more than three hundred thousand students in the elementary schools.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, director of physical training in the Public Schools Athletic League, has received permission from Dr. W. R. Patterson, Assistant Commissioner of Public Works, to use the West 60th street, East 23rd street and Rutgers place baths for the boys, who will receive their instruction from a competent corps of instructors appointed by the league officials.

It might also be added, that rapid strides are being made in the art of natation among the school boys of New York city, especially the High School boys. It will only be necessary to go back to 1910 when the time for the century swim was 1 m. 10s., held by Henretti of DeWitt Clinton, and compare it with the time of 1:01 for the same distance, made by Lemcke, of Commerce. Lemcke also equalled the American record of 24 3-5 sec. in the City College Pool last winter, which time was made by Harry Hebner, of Chicago, the National backstroke champion, for 50 yards.

Another product out of the school boy ranks is Wheatley, winner of the National quarter-mile championship last summer. Wheatley has made rapid strides during the past two years. Two years ago Wheatley was only able to cover the century in about 1:08, and today he covers the same distance in 58 sec., and threatens to take some of the laurels from our present title holders.

legacy of $20,000. Years ago there was litigation in Wyoming over a $20,000 note executed by the Weaver & Benjamin Cattle Company and endorsed by Lemuel Smith, Sr., Lemuel Smith, Jr., and others of the company. About that time, Smith testified, William H. Force, father of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, went out to Wyoming to settle the affairs of the cattle company. The note, it appears, was paid by the Thompsons, and they eventually recovered a judgment for approximately $25,000 against the cattle company and succeeded in collecting the amount of the judgment. According to Mrs. Smith this was done at the expense of the cattle on the ranch, which had to be slaughtered and marketed.

Smith has been a most persistent litigant and in Mr. Atkinson he has had an equally persistent attorney. The hearing yesterday was had on a third bill of complaint. A first bill, consisting together with appended exhibits, of ninety-eight printed pages, of legal cap size, was filed in 1906, and was in due course dismissed by Vice Chancellor Stevens on the ground of "multifariousness."

In 1908 Mr. Atkinson filed a second bill of more moderate proportions, and this complaint was also dismissed. The present bill was filed in 1911. There will be a further hearing next Thursday.

OCTOBER 8TH IN HISTORY.

1674—John Milton, famous English poet, died. Born Dec. 9, 1608.

1715—Elizabeth Christinia, wife of Frederick the Great, born. Died Jan. 13, 1797.

1813—Gen. Jackson defeated the Indians in battle of Talladega.

1861—Mason and Slidell, the Confederate commissioners, taken from the steamer Trent.

1880—Sarah Bernhardt made her American debut at Booth's theatre, New York.

1895—Theodore Roosevelt elected governor of New York.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR A RELUCTANT ENGINE

Four men were trying to start a particularly sulky 40-horsepower engine of semi-racing design. The theoretic plan would have been, of course, for them to have ascertained why the engine did not start at its first pull and remedy the derangement. In practice, however, these four experts failed as a single-handed amateur probably often fails. At last the quartet boldly pushed the car some distance to the summit of a hill, and started the car and, of course, the engine as well, by gravity.

Climbing the next ascent, the driver muddled a gear change, and once more the engine stopped dead. While the party were attempting to make a bargain with the owner of a horse and cart, an outsider suggested placing 10-cent pieces between each valve and its tappet, thus attaching an emergency half-compression valve. No sooner had this been done than the handle, which had just previously caused four strong men to stand aloof, could now be revolved by a girl, and the engine started up at once. Testing being thus simplified the derangement was soon traced and remedied, then the car sped on its way.

METHOD OF MANUFACTURING SPECIAL AUTO MACHINERY

Detroit, Mich, Nov. 8—Thousands of columns have been written about how mammouth production has been accomplished in the parent plant of the Ford Motor Co., by the development of special machinery. But every time one goes through the plant they see something new. In the foundry, which is one of the most important units of the giant plant, the handling of the molten steel, has been brought to the highest point of efficiency.

In the ordinary foundry the molder makes his molds and when a "heat" is ready for "pouring," each molder takes his ladle and falls in line to secure from the cupola the molten metal for his molds. Much time is lost by the men walking between their "floors" and the metal source.

In the Ford factory the molten steel is brought to the molds in giant conveyors. In making many of the parts the pouring is done directly from the big conveyor but on some "jobs" the molders fill their ladles from the conveyor. In this way the men move but a few steps from their benches and floors.

Statistics about the giant factory of the Ford Company never lose their interest. The production for the "season of 1913," which ended Sept. 30, was 185,000 cars. During the rush season the plant turned out 1,000 cars per day. Approximately 17,000 men are employed in the parent plant, to say nothing of the additional thousands in the various assembling plants in the various large distributing points of this country, and the Canadian plant at Ford, Ont.

LONG ISLAND ROAD NOTES.

The Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America reports that good roads will be found on Long Island, using the North Shore roads via Flushing, Little Neck, Manhasset, Roslyn, Glen Cove, Oyster Bay and Cold Spring Harbor to Huntington. The North Hempstead Turnpike is also in good condition from Roslyn to Huntington.

The Jericho Turnpike between Mineola and Jericho has been terribly worn, so much so that residents of Jericho and beyond are making detours of varying lengths in order to avoid this rough stretch. One of the most popular of these is to run north from Jericho to East Norwich on the North Hempstead Turnpike. Some others prefer to run south by way of Hicksville, where the Bethpage Road and Hempstead Pike furnish good conditions to Jamaica.

Excellent roads are found through Queens County by way of Jamaica, and connect with the Merrick Road, which furnishes fairly good conditions for a run to Long Beach. This attractive resort is still retaining its popularity as a twenty-five mile dinner run from Broadway.

The Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America reports that Staten Island roads are mostly in good condition, and an afternoon can be delightfully spent in making a circuit of the island. Some quaint places and delightful scenery will be found which is realized by few Manhattanites.

High Bridge-Califon.

Under the auspices of Lahlatang Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, and Peerless Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics of High Bridge, a dance will be given in Rialto Hall tonight.

John A. Apgar has moved his family from the Halstead house to the house vacated by Walter H. Long, in Church street, High Bridge.

David W. Crater, of Califon, is in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Kuntz have moved from Woodglen to Califon.

Charles Hoffman, of Califon, is recovering from illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Flomerfelt, of Lower Valley, were recent visitors to Mrs. Flomerfelt's father John Gray, of Irvington.

William Frome and family, of Port Murray, were recent guests of Mr and Mrs. Samuel Neigh, of Califon.

D. Adrian Sutton is making improvements to his residence in East Main street, Califon. Lance & Or have the contract.

Dr. Edwin D. Trimmer has moved to his newly built bungalow in Church street, High Bridge.

Wanamaker Quick Record Service

Free Parcel Post Delivery—The New Way to Your Home

We deliver three records or more to any Post Office in 1st or 2nd zone, within 150 miles of New York.

THE PARCEL POST is a Boon to Talking Machine Users everywhere.

It supplements the WANAMAKER WAGON AND AUTOMOBILE FREE DELIVERY ROUTES by an additional distribution system, permitting our mailing Victor Records to any home within 150 miles of New York.

Send for Catalog of Records

AND THROUGH THE PARCEL POST you can receive Victor Records directly at your home—in City, Town or Country—and in special unbreakable mailing case, enabling your order to be filled completely. The limit on each package mailed will be 20 pounds.

DELIVERIES GUARANTEED QUICK AND SAFE, and any record that you may select from our latest catalog will be sent promptly on receipt of your order.

THE WANAMAKER VICTOR RECORD STOCK is so complete and extensive that thousands of customers can receive full satisfaction in placing their business with us.

ONLY NEW RECORDS AT WANAMAKER'S. Every Victor Record delivered from Wanamaker's is a brand new and unplayed disc. Each one reaches the customer's hands in the "original envelope," sealed up by us when fresh from the factory. NO LOANING OF RECORDS for either entertainments or trial purposes. Hence we do not have on our hands quantities of "played records," which, as customary with some dealers, accumulate in countless numbers for credit and exchange, and are then placed with the regular stock, to be again selected as "new records."

WE MAINTAIN A DEMONSTRATION RECORD STOCK to avoid such a procedure. All records played at the Wanamaker Store, or sent out for trial, are taken from our demonstration library, and from which no record is permitted to be sold.

VICTOR RECORDS ARE NOT EXCHANGEABLE AT WANAMAKER'S. Neither do we receive them back for credit from customers after the seal has been broken.

TO MAKE SURE that you get new records and not demonstrating discs, let Wanamaker's have your record orders.

Room at 122 East Front Street, Where We Serve You.

To the Public:

Plainfield has never seen anything like it before.

A Waiting Room fitted up with rugs, easy chairs, newspapers, periodicals. We offer a New Service that will appeal to you at once.

We want your SHOE REPAIRING.

We want it because:

We can do it better than it is done anywhere in Plainfield. We use better leather; we trim, set and finish the work better; we give more attention to essential details and we turn out an up-to-date product at a reasonable price.

We do Shoe Repairing, not Cobbling. The same machine that made your shoes, repairs them for you and we wish to assure those who never have their shoes repaired, that our "Full Sole Repair" will put a new bottom on their shoes exactly as they originally came from the factory.

Visit our attractive Waiting Room and see this work. You can leave your shoes in the morning, get them again at night, have them done while you wait or telephone "820-R," and we will call for them, repair them and deliver them the same day.

Yours for service,

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

If you want to see the most unusual play of this, or any other season, journey to the Astor theatre, where George M. Cohan's mystery farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," is being presented. Talk about your melodramatic thrills, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" will lift you right out of your seat, it's that full of them. Using the story of the same name by Earl Derr Bigger, for his foundation, young Mr. Cohan has constructed the only new thing in play writing that has been offered New Yorkers in years. There's a punch in every line of its dialogue and a volley of laughter following every punch. In producing "Seven Keys to Baldpate" Cohan has run the gamut of human emotions. The weird manner of introducing his characters, who one after another let themselves into a summer hotel that has been closed for the winter; all of them under the impression that theirs is the only key to the hostelry; the tangling of the plot, the exciting experience of the hero and the heroine in their endeavor to outwit the adventuress, the crooked mayor, the scheming railroad magnate, the blackmailer, the chief of police and an amateur detective, makes one of the most exciting evening's entertainment imaginable. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" will keep you laughing and guessing for two hours and a half and you won't be able to solve the mystery until the author gets ready to let you; which is the very end of the third act.

New Dining-Room In Hotel Claridge Has Formal Opening

More than four hundred persons attended the official opening of the new dining room of the Hotel Claridge, formerly Rector's, at Broadway and 44th St., New York, the other night, and admiration was expressed as to the artistic beauty of what was considered to be the premier dining room of New York City.

The new lessees, Messrs. Hill and Crandall, have obliterated almost everything that savored of Old Rector's, and in the process the garish dining room, which was the scene of boisterous festivities preceding New Year's and Christmas Days. Last night the lights in the massive chandeliers were subdued by coverings of a grayish cream-colored silk, which mellowed their glare and cast a soft glow over the entire dining room. The allegorical picture in the center of the ceiling has given way to black lattice work and stained glass, on which a magnificent sunset is expressed with several aeroplanes floating around.

The entire treatment of the dining room is in the French Renaissance style, a subdued gold and black. The part which interested last night's diners and will interest New Yorkers and visitors to the City more than anything else is the Lounge, which takes up the north end. The Lounge is separated from the dining room by a partition of dull polished oak and glass, its entrances draped with heavy portiers of black and gold, similar to those on the entrances and windows of the dining room.

Tables of sixteenth century Italian design stand in the center of the Lounge and on them are large Chinese vases, supporting electric bulbs screened by shades of handsome Chinese silk, the material of which Mandarin coats are made. These shades are handsomely decorated with odd Chinese designs. Here and there are writing tables, lighted in a similar way. The furniture of the Lounge is covered with Chinese brocade.

The Broadway entrance which originally divided the dining room has been done away with and has given place to a panelled window, the sides, top and bottom covered, as are the other windows, with costly Arabian lace of odd design. The furniture in the dining room is velour covered and in exquisite taste.

Lounges are arranged entirely around it. The large open fireplace on the south end still remains, but there have been added to it massive andirons of ancient design. The Lounge is typical of London and intended for after-dinner coffee or afternoon refreshments, or as a quiet retreat for those who want to read European or American periodicals.

New York diners are to be congratulated on having such artistic adjuncts as the dining room and Lounge of the Hotel Claridge, the design of which is the work of John J. Pettit, of Kirby & Pettit.

Messrs. Hill and Crandall, the new managers of the Claridge, were formerly associated with the Clarendon and Touraine in Brooklyn, the U. S. Hotel in Saratoga, The Lakewood in Lakewood, N. J., and the Allenhurst Club in Allenhurst, N. J.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 29.

WHEN I entered my favorite lunchroom yesterday at noon, I hadn't the slightest idea what I wanted to eat. The man who sat opposite me at one of the long tables was eating chicken salad. It looked good, so I ordered some of the same.

Pretty soon, two young men came in together and seated themselves at the table with my salad-eating neighbor and myself. They, too, were evidently undecided as to what they desired for lunch. Glancing my way, one of them caught sight of the salad. He nudged his friend. Then the order was given to the waiter: "Bring us two portions of chicken salad, please."

That subtle power about which so much has been written by business psychologists of late—Suggestion—had gotten in its work. Perhaps the man, who seemingly, started this little game of mimicry was himself impressed by a suggestion from another. Who knows? I have seen the same thing happen in various forms in that same lunchroom, time and again.

Suggestion, properly used, is a power. I am speaking now of conscious suggestion—advertising. Advertising, at best, is simply suggestion—the strongest form of salesmanship. There's no deep scientific theory about that statement—it's a plain fact.

A man may not be in need of a new shirt, say, or a cravat, or a hat, or an umbrella. But he sees one of these things attractively advertised somewhere. Right then and there the Power of Suggestion gets busy. And pretty soon that man's interest is aroused. Then, if the advertising man knows his business, that interest is developed into desire. Then money changes hands. What started it? Suggestion—advertising.

Nearly everybody reads the Classified columns of the newspapers. You can keep your personal or business announcement before the people of this city in those columns at small expense. Your advertisement there is a daily—a cumulative—suggestion to the great purchasing public.

Others have profited that way. Why not you?

Your Porch In Cold Weather.

Cold weather should not make your porches and verandas useless.

To be sure, everyone will admit that a veranda is most enjoyable in warm weather. In cold weather it is useful.

For Air and Exercise.

Use the veranda as much as you can in cold weather. A part of the house that is only needed for half the year is something of an extravagance. To be sure, a furnace is only needed for part of the year, and so are the fire-places. But these things do not occupy the space occupied by verandas.

If the day is very blustery and cold and windy, take exercise on the veranda. If the sun is shining, wait until it shines on the veranda. Then, dressed warmly, but not so awkwardly and heavily as you would have to dress for walking in the street, exercise by walking up and down the veranda.

If you are well bundled up, you can sit almost every winter day on the veranda. You can read, or take your afternoon nap there.

Many a baby has been kept in good health because it has had a sheltered veranda whereon to take its winter naps. Wrapped warmly the baby can be tucked securely in its carriage or crib. If the veranda is on the ground floor, a gate will make it a much safer place, even for a baby's nap. For a carriage might roll down the steps, if for some reason it should start to go; and cats and dogs of an investigative turn might wander up on the veranda and startle the baby.

Older children might be given their winter naps on a veranda, if it is secluded enough. In fact, it can be made a daytime sleeping porch if it is any other than the entrance porch at the front of the house. Such a porch would be too public and usually too noisy for comfortable napping.

For Cleaning.

A veranda is the ideal place for all sorts of cleaning. If you have gloves or finery to clean with naphtha clean it in the sunshine on the veranda. Brush your coats and skirts there. Sweep rugs there and beat and shake cushions and pillows and blankets and drapery there. Then sweep up the dust and burn it—such of it as has not blown away. You will feel much better for doing cleaning of all sorts out-of-doors and at the same time your house will be just that much fresher and cleaner.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SALADS WITH LATE FRUITS.

To give a decorative touch to the Thanksgiving feast the fruit salads are much to be commended. However, they have merits aside from their ornamental uses. At this time, fruits are available which make admirable salads and are distinctly wholesome.

Recipes for some late fruit salads are given below:

Banana Salad.—Skin the required number of bananas and cut them into thick round slices, sprinkle over with powdered sugar and vanilla and some grape juice. Let them steep in this for half an hour, and arrange neatly in a fruit dish.

With Fruit and Nuts.

Grape Salad.—Take equal parts of large purple, rose and pale green grapes. Be certain that the fruit is solid. Halve each grape and remove the seeds. Add any desired amount of either English walnut or almond meat. Halve the English walnuts. If almonds are used blanch them and leave them whole. Flavor either with orange juice, pineapple juice or a boiled dressing blended with whipped cream.

Chestnut and Orange Salad.—Cut two cupfuls of boiled chesnuts in small pieces, add two cupfuls of oranges cut in small pieces, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, add one cupful of mayonnaise. Chill and serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with a sprinkle of grated orange rind.

A Seasonable Salad.

Apple and Celery Salad.—Cut enough crisp white celery into half inch lengths to fill a coffee cup. Lay it in iced water. Pare and cut four large apples into dice, dropping them into iced water to preserve the color. Drain the celery free of water and sprinkle lightly with salt. Drain the apples well and mix lightly with the celery, together with half a cup of English walnut meats broken into rather coarse bits. Pour over all a thick mayonnaise dressing. Set on ice until ready to serve. Make the salad just before you wish to serve it, as it toughens with standing.

Fruit Salad.—Take one box gelatin and make according to directions. Take four oranges, four bananas, one can pineapple, fourteen walnuts, and when gelatin is cool add fruit and put in cool place to set. This is fine with whipped cream.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Story Of the Little Yellow Hen.

The Egg Was of Solid Gold.

DADDY was sitting quietly in his chair by the chimney corner. The fire in the grate was burning brightly, and Jack and Evelyn cuddled down to listen to daddy's story.

"Once upon a time," he began, "there lived an old man who had two sons. They lived together on a small farm.

"What the father seemed to prize most was a little yellow hen.

"Every day the little yellow hen laid a little yellow egg.

"One day the hen's master was taken very ill. Though everything was done that was possible, the doctor said that he feared he could not cure him.

"So the dying man called his sons to his bedside.

"'To you, John,' he said, speaking to the eldest, 'I give the farm. Be sober and industrious and you will never lack a living.'

"Then he spoke to his younger son: 'To you, William, I give the little yellow hen, and your fortune shall be such as you deserve. Be kind to it and never, never part with it.'

"Then the old man died. The younger son made up his mind he would start out to seek his fortune.

"So William started out with the yellow hen under his arm. When night came on he stopped at a little inn by the roadside. He was put to sleep in the hayloft, and very little attention was paid to him, for the best room in the inn was taken by the king, who was out with a hunting party.

"In the morning when the lad put his hand in his pocket to find his purse he was frightened to find it gone.

"'You rascal, you knew you had no money when you came in here. You meant to cheat me!' cried the angry landlord.

"'What's all this?' cried the king as he came into the room. And when he heard the story he asked the boy if he had nothing of value which he might give the landlord instead of money.

"'Yes,' replied William; 'here is an egg from the little yellow hen. My father used to sell these for money.'

"But the landlord laughed unpleasantly. 'Who wants a little yellow egg like that?' he cried.

"'Very well,' the king said. 'Then with the boy's permission I will keep this marvelous egg and pay him its value. It is of solid gold. Furthermore, I should like to take a lad who owns so wonderful a fowl into my service.'

"Though the king said the surly landlord did not deserve it, William paid what he owed from the money the king gave him. Then he mounted the horse one of the king's men brought for him and rode off after the king."

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF FUR AS A TRIMMING

Bolero effects are very modish again. Some of them are sleeveless, being worn with an underblouse of sheer material—others, as shown in 7714, have the drop-shoulder and a full or three-quarter length sleeve.

One has not to be told of the beauties of fur as a trimming, for nothing is richer or softer. A collar of fur framing the face is most becoming.

Fur is not only seen on the heavy dress or suit for winter street wear, but a strip outlines the decolletege of the evening gown as well, a line may be seen on the sleeves and neck of the filmy net blouse and the blouse of linen also has its bit.

A dull red velours de laine is used with 7714, collared and cuffed in black fox and having a banding of fox at the hem. The belted-in "bib" on the front of the blouse is of brightly colored embroidery. This frock shows a five gored skirt slightly draped in front and a normal waist-line.

To copy this design in size 36 it requires 5 yards of 42 inch velours de laine with ⅝ yard of embroidery.

No. 7714—sizes 34 to 42.

Each pattern 15 cents.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Mr. Riis came in a little early for his lecture before the Monday Afternoon Club and as he told us in beginning his address he spent the time in talking of Henry Ward Beecher with two of our members, and so he said he would give us what was perhaps an unpublished anecdote about Mr. Beecher. It seems that one of the sisters in the Plymouth church was in the habit of taking up a great part of the time at the Friday evening prayer meeting in talking at great length, as Mr. Riis expressed it, without saying anything. Finally Mr. Beecher felt the thing had gone on long enought, so one Friday evening he read the passage containing St. Paul's advice that women should keep silence in church, and in the course of his comments disagreed decidedly with the Apostle on that point. He sat down and immediately the garrulous sister arose and talked as usual for an unconceivably long time. As she sat down Mr. Beecher arose, and with unmistakable emphasis, remarked, "Nevertheless, I still disagree with St. Paul on the subject of women's silence in the church."

Then Mr. Riis went on to tell of his conversion to the cause of woman suffrage. The one unanswerable argument to him had been woman's inability to bear arms. But dictating the story of Gustavus Vasa's life to his wife, he was reminded that in five instances women had defended castles successfully against great odds, even resorting in one case to boiling soap suds when other ammunition failed. Well, here was, as in the case of the garrulous woman another exceptional case and Mr. Riis would have been justified in saying "Nevertheless, I believe that women, not having the power to enforce the law, should not elect the makers of the law." But no, like most who esponse the suffrage cause, he argued from individual examples instead of taking the broad view of the sex as a whole. There is no condition of life in which individuals do not rise above the limitations of their class, but this does not alter the fact that such limitations exist and must be reckoned with.

And then, quitting the subject of the suffrage, he gave us a most inspiring account of what women had done for the betterment of the world. It was noticeable that every one of these women had done their work without the vote, that one of them, at least, had accomplished marvellous results in cleaning up her own city, in the face of violent opposition on the part of the politicians. So successful were her efforts that she is kept busy doing municipal housecleaning all over the Union, and like many another woman whose abilities involve her in too many outside works, her own city—Kalamazoo—is now needing her renewed attention. And this is in Michigan, which rejected woman suffrage by an immense majority.

Another great work done by women was in New York, where 100 per cent of the foundlings consigned to Randall's Island and the care of the City Fathers (?) died annually. The women of the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor and the Charity Organization Society took up the matter, obtained permission to care for the little unfortunates, and by the eighth year of their administration reduced the percentage of deaths to eleven in place of one hundred per cent. "Then," said Mr. Riis, "politics came in and the work was stopped." But he did not tell us the result definitely. And just here, every logical person must note a concrete argument for the principle that is becoming more and more prominent that to get the best results in education, philanthropy and social betterment, politic's must be eliminated. Exceptional men and women can do such work wisely and efficiently, but they must be unhampered by party ties.

The Woman's Municipal League of Boston, as well as that of New York, has done a wonderful work according to Mr. Riis. He said in speaking of their work, "A definite plan and a thorough knowledge of a subject makes an irresistible combination."

The work of the suffrage society in Hartford, in exposing the misdoings of the Hartford Common Council in defeating the attempt of the Mayor to regulate and, as far as possible, suppress the white slave traffic, was another one of Mr. Riis' illustrations of what women could do.

Then he spoke of the work of the Russell Sage Foundation, which is spending vast sums of money in valuable research work, to say nothing of positive benefactions. Thanks to Mrs. Sage's efforts, backed by the knowledge thus procured, a bill has been passed in the New York Legislature compelling such training of midwives that no longer need the poor little babies become blind from birth when the administration of the proper application could prevent it. Miss Wald, Jane Addams, Mrs. Andersen and a host of others, including of course, Florence Nightingale, were instanced as examples of what could be done by women filled with the love of humanity.

It was noticeable that not one of these examples came from a suffrage State. Hull House (and all the kindred work in Chicago) was an established fact long before a limited suffrage was granted to the women of Illinois in defiance of the expressed will of the citizens of the State.

And then Mr. Riis, after speaking of the terrible conditions under which a large part of the garments for sale in our stores are made, joined forces with Miss Chittenden and although he used the same arguments, they came with greater force because of his avowed sympathy with the suffrage movement.

He reminded us that the remedy for this state of things was in our own hands. To us was given, in great measure, the forming of public opinion, the most potent factor in any reform—an absolutely necessary factor. "You have," he said, "a powerful weapon ready sharpened for use. You don't need the vote in order to accomplish these reforms, we have laws enough, plenty of good laws, what we need is their enforcement. In New York city alone there are eleven thousand flats where garments are made under the most dangerously unsanitary conditions, and there are ten inspectors to see that the laws are not broken. If you women refuse to buy any garment that has not the Consumers' League label, inspectors will not be necessary. Join the Consumers' League, live up to its rules, and this question will settle itself. The merchants have no use for unsalable goods. I leave this question with you: what will you do about it?"

After the lecture was over, I asked Mr. Riis whether the Trades Union label, of which Miss Chittenden had spoken, would serve the same purpose, and he said it would.

The representative of our city on the Executive Board of the Consumers' League is Miss Adams, No. 46 Grove street, and I am sure any inquiries addressed to her will receive a speedy answer. Perhaps we can form a branch organization. The fees, I believe, are only $1.00 a year, but the obligations may sometimes cause a little self-sacrifice. But, is it not worth it if, by means of the league we can help those who have no power to help themselves?

North Plainfield High School Alumni Girls Won Game in the Second Half.

GUARDING PROMINENT

Strong Defensive Work of Graduates Held Schoolgirls at Bay—Former School Stars Prove Superior During Period Played Without Lines.

Between the halves of the boy's game last night the North Plainfield High School girls basketball team met defeat in a well-played and exciting contest to their Alumni. The score was 18 to 10. For a girl's game the contest was very fast and during the first half the High School team played superior ball and came out aead in a 8 to 4 score.

Miss Marjorie Burtis was again the stellar High School performer and her three baskets in this period, with two fouls were the only points the team made during this half. For the graduates, Miss Nettie Steiner, '10, made the only field goal.

The Alumni started the second half at a fast pace and before the school girls woke up the score had been tied due to fine shots made by Helen George, '10. Her height was the main factor of her success for she could hold the ball over her head and take her time about shooting. North Plainfield failed to get a field goal in this half and the only points made were from the foul line by Miss Burtis. Miss Smith and Miss Debele were the strong guards for their respective teams.

The score:

BALL PLAYER SAM CRAWFORD TELLS OF MANY AUTO FANS

Detroit, Nov. 8.—Sam Crawford, the big right fielder of the Detroit Tigers, who is touring the world as a member of the White Sox, now coupled with the New York Giants for the tour, is also acting as a scribe and is syndicating a daily story of the travels of the ball tossers.

Writing recently of a game at Blue Rapids, Kan., Sam told of how the town only has a couple of hundred inhabitants but that nearly 20,000 people came in from the surrounding country to see the game and the most of them came by motor car.

"I always wondered where the Ford cars went to until I reached that town," wrote Sam. "But when the people began to arrive for the game I knew. I'm not kidding when I say that there were literally hundreds of Ford cars around Blue Rapids the day of the game."

FINAL TIPS FOR THE HUNTING SEASON WHICH OPENS MONDAY

When any person asks for a display of a gunner's license, it must be shown, and, on the other hand, the gunners that have taken out such a license should ask others for theirs, so as to help along the work undertaken by the Fish and Game Commissioners. If you find a man without a license warn him to leave the woods under penalty of arrest and if he fails to go it is your duty to notify the nearest officer. In exercising your right to hunt, remember that where a place is posted it is dangerous to trespass unless consent is obtained from the owners. Many owners are willing to give the consent after they size up the applicants.

Remember that you cannot hunt on Sunday and that the use of a gun holding more than two shells is illegal. Reed birds are protected and so are upland plover. The only snipe that can be killed are the golden and black-breasted plover and the greater and lesser yellow legs.

The bag limit law states that it shall be unlawful to capture, kill, injure, destroy or have in possession in any one day, more than ten quail, three English or ring-necked pheasants (and they must be male birds), three Hungarian partridge, ten woodcock, three ruffed grouse (such as we term partridge), twenty ducks, ten geese, ten brant, or ten rabbits, under penalty of $20 for each bird, fowl or animal in excess of this number. The season opens at daylight on November 10, at which time it will be legal to shoot and kill quail, rabbits, squirrel, male pheasants, partridge, railbirds and mud hens, ducks, geese, brant and swan and the golden plover and the black-breasted plover and the greater and lesser yellow legs. Many of the latter species have been adjudged legal game since November 1, but they are now under the control of an act of Congress and a violation of this act incurs a penalty of $100.

There is a fine section south of Englishtown, Freehold and Farmingdale and north of Lakehurst, taking in the lower part of Monmouth county and the upper section of Ocean, where rabbits are as thick as the county will stand. Ten miles from the nearest railroad is Jacksons Mills. It is the centre of this vast waste territory. Rabbits and quail are in there and a great many pheasants will be found close to the road.

Barnegat is noted for its great shooting and right here we can say that if the automobile road to Atlantic City is followed one mile from the centre of the village and then a hunt started either to the right or the left, that the first field entered will produce a dozen rabbits and a dozen quail. North of the village, along the same road, is the property of the Barnegat Hunting and Fishing Club, and hundreds of rabbits and quail will be found there and it is not posted.

Another trip is to head the automobile in the direction of the headwaters of Shark River and Farmingdale and three miles from Spring Lake, leave the automobile on the road and go in after rabbits. It is good country in there and the ribbits are plentiful.

Many automobile drivers know the section of the country west of Elberon, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Belmar, but they do not know that in this very section, from three to ten miles from the coast, quail and rabbits are abundant. A talk to any of the truck farmers will prove this, and like as not an invitation will be extended to bring your gun, but don't do any damage. Pick out Centreville from Elberon, or Green Grove from Asbury Park, and don't stop until either village is reached and then hunt.

By following the track of the Pennsylvania railroad from Freehold to Farmingdale some extra fine hunting can be had. Three miles from Freehold is Howell Station, and by walking to that place, with the railroad tracks ever in sight, quail, rabbits, squirrel and English pheasants will be found.

South of Jackson's Mills and twelve miles from both Freehold and Farmingdale is Vanhiseville and Pleasant Grove. An ideal spot for a preserve and good hunting there now. Freehold has some fine hotels to stop at and if your hunting party is at all sociable they can enjoy every minute of the idle time there.

Englishtown will be a good place for anybody. Just outside of the village limits, rabbits can be started. Inquire the way to Mounts Mills or Matchaponik or Lafayette Mills or the old Monmouth battle grounds and by following directions given at Englishtown, good hunting will be enjoyed.

If Farmingdale is the headquarters of the party take the train to Shark River station and then hunt in the direction of Shark River village, and if a good dog is used on quail it will start enough birds to keep two and even three men busy. There is a road at the Shark River station that, if followed to the left, or east, will lead direct to the village and also to the tributary of the Shark River. It is a well-known spot to several local gunners, but they never say much about the hunting there, as they do not want any company.

Another trip is to walk to West Farms from Farmingdale, a distance of a mile and then turn the dogs loose after some of the liveliest rabbits they ever tackled. Another trip is to hunt to Fairfield, three miles from Farmingdale, and another to the Manasquan River, two miles from Farmingdale.

Toms River station is a good spot for a two or three days' hunting trip, as the accommodations offered there are very good and many trips can be taken west from the village that will furnish good sport for the gunners. Along this section the big sea rabbits are found and they can run like a deer and jump like a kangaroo.

Burlington county is a good hunting spot, but the no trespass sign grows on every tree. If a person is acquainted down there he can secure the privilege of hunting, maybe, and if he does he will find that the Senator of the county was not behind the door when the game was being distributed. Chatsworth is the best place to make the headquarters, as there is quite some open country around its outskirts. Mt. Holly is another and the section east of Burlington found very good.

Black's Mills, three and a half miles west of Freehold, at the head of a wonderful lake, will entertain several gunners for their company. The few people found there were ready with open arms to greet our party because of a visit of two years ago. We were shown the quail and a few Hungarian partridge, and any amount of jackrabbits were kicked out of the brush.

In former years the North Jersey gunner didn't think much of the tip about Mays Landing, but since the advent of the auto this has changed. Go there and hunt in any direction and the quail will astonish the most disgruntled shooter. Rabbits are not bothered, so there are plenty of them down that way. Ducks and geese can be shot on the streams, bass are plentiful in the numerous small lakes, pike are fed to the pigs and any body will act as guide for a dollar and give in return ten dollars' worth of hunting.

WHEN THE ENGINE IS ACTING SLUGGISHLY

Weakening of the valve springs because of set or loss of temper, sometimes is responsible for a sluggish engine and loss of power. A weak spring makes the valve lag in closing, and throws out of time. With a weak exhaust spring, part of the incoming charge will be blown out through the exhaust, while a sluggish inlet valve spring is promoter of back firing in the carburetor. If one or more of the cylinders lack power, and the cause is difficult to ascertain, a few washers inserted between the springs and cups to increase the tension of the former may reveal the cause of the trouble. If this treatment shows a livening up of the engine, new springs should be fitted, where needed. However, while a certain tension is necessary to give the best results, if the springs are too strong more power will be required to open the valves, and the strain and wear on the valve gear will be greater.

OLD TIMERS LOST IN SPEEDY MELEE

Floundering Graduate Quintet Swamped by N. P. H. S. Schoolboy Five.

ROUGH-HOUSE AFFAIR

Final Score 55 to 20—Schoolboys Were Always the Pace Setters—Speedy Team Work Completely Bewildered the "Has-beens."

In Saengerbund Hall last night, the North Plainfield High School basketball team scored a decisive victory over the Alumni by a count of 55-20. The game was rough and exciting and the referee found it necessary to call many fouls (missing many more).

The game started off fast and the High School lads drew first blood when Love dropped a basket. During the entire contest the schoolboys held the lead and through fast team work piled up a large score in the first half. When time was called the card read 34 to 12.

In the second half the old grads strengthened their team by putting "Jake" Abrams in centre and during the first ten minutes of play the schoolboys scored but two points, both from the foul line. In this period Walter Walker made the sensational shot of the game from a difficult position and also did some fine work at the foul line.

At times the Alumni got in some fast playing and had their opponents at sea until they either made points or lost the ball on mistakes.

NEWARK TURNPIKE CLOSED.

The much used, and badly abused Newark Turnpike across the meadows from Jersey City to Newark is closed. The Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America reports that the Jersey City-Newark boulevard, formerly called the Newark Plank Road, is in good condition for automobile use. This road has been paved for the entire stretch across the meadows and affords the best available conditions to Newark, the Oranges, Montclair, Morristown and central New Jersey.

FOR A JUNIOR'S CAR.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8.—Many people of wealth who realize the adaptability of the Ford car are buying Fords for the boys and girls of the family. Instead of having the boys dependant on a hired driver, they are taught self reliance by being given a small car to drive. The Ford is regarded as an ideal car for this sphere as to simplicity of operation and ease of control is such that any boy or girl, who will exercise any care at all, can drive it safely.

OFFICIAL INDIVIDUAL AND TEAM AVERAGES OF THE ELKS' LEAGUE

Rising from twenty-first to the highest perch in the individual standing, Coffman of the Jersey City Elks, snatched first honors in the race from Captain Clauss of the Elizabeth team who was noticeably off form in the matches rolled against Plainfield Thursday night and now tops the list with an average of 192.8 to his credit, four pins better than the Elizabethean. Langton, of Rahway, with his high score of 253, is still alone in the race for high water mark honors, Steinbruck, of Hoboken, being the closest to him with 236.

Bill Nash is still leading the Plainfield herd with 187.4 having risen from tenth to ninth place, although his high score mark remains the same. Captain Frank Blatz led the Plainfielders in jumping, going from thirty-second to thirteenth place during the week and increasing his average from 171 to 185.3, while Campbell slipped back one place. Kiely sank from twenty-seventh to thirty-first place while Stout sank back one rung. Captain Blatz was the only Queen City pin knight to boost his high score mark and he had a big inning in Elizabeth Thursday night going from 189 to 235.

In the team standing the Paterson flag is floating far out in the lead with ten victories and two defeats tallied to date for a percentage of .833. Newark is the runner-up with six wins and three defeats while Plainfield and New York are tied for third place with five and four each. Newark, Orange, Rahway and New Brunswick did not play during the past week and therefore remain in the same places in the team standing.

BUREAU OF TOURS CLOSES A NUMBER OF FERRY LINES

The Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America advises motorists that the only ferry lines operating after November 2 from Long Island to points on the New York and Connecticut short are from Port Jefferson to Bridgeport, and from Greenport to New London.

The ferry from New Rochelle to Glen Cove which had planned to operate all winter, was compelled to stop landing at the New Rochelle dock by an order of the War Department because of complaints that the boat blocked the channel when it was landing. Plans are now underway to establish a ferry slip on other property which will not interfere with Long Island Sound Traffic. This ferry will not be in operation until the early spring.

The Rye-Sea Cliff Ferry, which has been a source of great inconvenience to motorists from points on Long Island, to Connecticut and Westchester, discontinued operations on Sunday, November 2.

Another ferry discontinued for the winter on November 2 is that which was operated between Brooklyn and St. George, Staten Island.

MOTORCYCLE AS A MONEY MAKER FOR ICE COMPANY

More business, less expense and better satisfied customers—that is what the motorcycle has made for a large ice company of Toledo, O. This concern has a flying motorcycle squadron composed of nine men. Each of these riders is assigned to a certain section of the city. In his district he oversees the drivers of the ice wagons, making sure that deliveries are prompt and satisfactory. He adjusts any complaints concerning service, and in case of an emergency call for ice, frequently even makes deliveries on his two-wheeler.

The West Side Improvement Association of Richmond, Ind., has requested the police commissioners to employ motorcycle patrolmen for the city.

There are 5,000 motorcycle riders in Chicago.

"To my notion, there is no sport to compare with motorcycling," said Miss Zella Steel, an enthusiastic rider of Pasadena, Cal. "I feel as safe and at home on a motorcycle as on an ordinary bicycle, and they are so simple and easy to handle."

Noah Greig, editor of the Gabriel (Ind.) News, is making a motorcycle trip to the Dakotas.

BASKETBALL CARD ON TAP TONIGHT

Trio of Excellent Court Battles Arranged by Local Managers.

SIX TEAMS TAKE PART

Woodbridge Will Send Best Men Available to Meet Y. M. C. A. On the Association Court, While Hope Chapel Followers Have Two Games

Another good program of basketball has been arranged by local managers to be played on the two local rendezvous tonight and if anything, the contests for this week even eclipse the opening tilt of last Saturday, especially in Hope chapel where the local contingent had a walk-over last week. The local court performers are fast rounding into mid-season form and both of the managers have scheduled some good attractions for the early part of the season, deviating from the time honored custom of booking preliminary contests during the first two months of the court season.

In the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight the fast Woodbridge Athletic Association aggregation is booked to appear against the Y. M. C. A. team, formerly the Ajax, and verbal statements from those who root for the players hailing from the little town on the P. R. R. indicate that the local five will be pushed even harder than the North Plainfield High School urged it last week. The same lineup that appeared against the borroughites is due to lineup against the Woodbridge representatives and frequent practices during the past week have put the association five in the pink of condition, all of the many rough spots brought to the surface last Saturday night, having been smoothed out satisfactorily to all concerned. While it has been rumored that a number of new men are contemplating getting into the game on the Y. M. C. A. court and it is a well-known fact that there are several consistent performers aching for an opportunity to get into the lineup, it seems likely that Captain Brynairski will pit the same quintet against Woodbridge as played in the opening tilt. Injuries to players or some unlooked for occurrence, however, will give these new stars a chance to shine and some new man may make his debut tonight.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	WOODBRIDGE.
Moulton	Schroeder
Left Forward.
McNamee	Simmonson
Right Forward.
Hewett	Parsons
Centre.
Brynairski	Potter
Left Guard.
Glover	Cushing
Right Guard.

Manager George Leighs has booked a double-header for Hope Chapel patrons and both of these encounters give promise of surpassing the ones of last week. In the main attraction, the Eagle Five, of Elizabeth, will appear on the Chapel court and the record established by this contingent when pitted against Union county best aggregations speaks for itself, victories having been hung up at the expense of a number of the best teams in that section, and there are some good quintets in and about Metuchen as a certain group of Plainfield players who traveled to Elizabeth two weeks ago will aver. Allen Snyder, one of the best players on the chapel team last season, will be back in the game tonight and his appearance will greatly strengthen the West Fourth street regiment. Otherwise the team will consist of the same faces.

The second team, which lost out to the Watchung A. C. by two points after seven minutes of overtime play last Saturday night, will oppose the strong team of the Sophomore class of the North Plainfield High School interclass League.

The teams will oppose each other as follows:

EAGLES	HOPE CHAPEL
O'Brien	J. Heron
Left Forward.
Mahoney	T. Heron
Right Forward.
Thorne	Doig
Centre.
Walsh	G. Snyder
Right Guard.
Caluppo	A. Snyder
Left Guard.
Referee, Rimmer.
N.P.H.S. '16	HOPE 2NDS
Dawe, Day	Thorn
Tilts	Bail
Forwards.
Newkirk	Schott
Centre.
LaPorte, McDonough	Hunter
Townley	Wardrop, Walls
Guards.

ANOTHER TIGER ROUTE.

Automobilists in Northern New Jersey and the section of New York state west of the Hudson in the vicinity of Newburgh, Kingston, Middletown and Goshen will find a very attractive route to Princeton by way of Morristown. The Bureau of Tours of the Automobile Club of America reports that this route will furnish the most satisfactory conditions to Princeton for those wishing to attend the foot-ball games. In addition to being slightly shorter than the route by way of Newark from Tuxedo, it will avoid the heavy traffic which will be encountered between Newark, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and Princeton on the various football days.

"MAC" SAYS

THE OTHER SIDE.

It was an ancient football star who read a sporting sheet,
And laughter shook his carcass from his forehead to his feet.
"Why laugh so hard?" I asked him,
but he did not answer me;
He could not catch his breath because he was so full of glee.
I waited long and patiently, and finally he spoke.
Amid the shouts of glee he put me
jerry to the joke:
"This paper"—here he laughed
again until he almost died—
"It says that modern football is a brutal game," he cried.
"When I was in the game," he cried
—but here he lost his breath—
And later on I learned that he had laughed himself to death.

Do you recollect one year when football performers tried to see which play would result in the highest pyramid? When arms and legs and eyes were distributed about the field following a contest? When the referee wore armour and the player's mouth was the only thing left exposed?

Contrasted with the old time sport the present brand of football is a sad example of the way the gridiron sport has retrograded.

Pin-knights are planning for a busy season on local alleys during coming winter nights and the indoor sport will probably flourish as it never has before among the Queen City enthusiasts. Seldom does a city welcome the introduction of seven new alleys at one time. This is the case here however, three of the shutes having been laid in the Columbus Club and four in the Elks' new home.

With basketball and bowling occupying our attention during the winter, sport writers will be able to keep the wolf from the door until base ball steps before the footlights for another inning.

Those Somerville pigskin artists who cancelled the game with Plainfield High School are evidently afraid of contracting chilblains.

We are led to suspect through the article of basketball put up by a contingent of North Plainfield High School maidens against a weighty Alumni quintet last night, that the Plainfield feminine basket tossers will be given another stiff run for the Interscholastic title this year.

Dame rumor has it that Leal School will not enter a girls' team in the Feminine Interscholastic Basketball League. Startling revelation to the basketball populace.

Don't forget that basketball game in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight. It is due to be a corker.

Hope Chapel followers of the court game are also due for a treat tonight, a fine double bill having been arranged for the Chapel rendezvous.

It's about time those City Leaguers met to elect some governor or undertaker as president of their organization for next year? The magnates are evidently in their winter hibernation.

As a prize fight that N. P. H. S. Alumni clash in Saengerbund Hall last night, was the real thing but as a basketball contest it was rather disappointing. Coach Collier is evidently priming his charges to meet Bound Brook or some other contingent of wall bruisers.

Speaking of basketball, however we have to hand it to those boroughites in the passing art. Once in their clutches the big marble always traveled toward the net and invariably resulted in that two point swishing sound.

Dancing is fast gaining popularity as a basketball conditioner. Even North Plainfield High School has introduced the terpsichore part into its basketball programs. After the game the players polish up their work by tripping the light fantastic

LOCAL WOMEN LOST TO VISITING TEAM

Plainfield Field Hockeyites Defeated by Superior Team Work.

Superior team work and ability to work the ball down the field despite a stiff defense on the part of the Plainfield forwards won the first field hockey match of the season for Staten Island Women's Club against the Plainfield team on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, one goal in each period giving them a 2 to 0 decision over their Queen City rivals. So swift was the attack of the Islanders that the local forwards were at times completely bewildered and had to resort to strong defensive work alone.

While the victors led in advancing the ball and were plainly the best offensive players, the local backs did some good work at various intervals and kept their opponents continually on the alert. Several times the Plainfielders launched rallies only to have them squelched by a sensational play made by one of the Staten Island club wielders.

Considering the fact that this was the initial game of the season for the locals and with such a formidable opponent for an opener, Miss Leila Hedges, captain of the Queen City eleven, was greatly encouraged by the brand of hockey put up by her charges and in a return match the locals hold high hopes of turning the tables on the team that practices continually on the Livingston Country Club grounds on Staten Island. The Plainfield team lined up as follows: Mrs. Morris DuMont, center forward; Miss Ruth Wean, left inside; Miss Helen Brown, right inside; Miss Ashwell, right wing; Miss Marion Brown, left wing; Miss Guendolyn Grough, center halfback; Miss Jean Horton, left halfback; Miss Dorothy Parvin, right halfback; Miss Leila Hedges, captain, fullback; Miss Allison Williams, fullback; Miss Avery, goal.

GOOD RECORDS FOR Y. M. C. A. JUNIORS

Standing Broad Jump the Feature of Employed Boys' Class Work.

Members of the Employed Boys Color League competed in the opening event of the athletic schedule, last night, the standing broad jump, the leap being won by Valard with a mark of seven feet, eight inches. Every one of the competitors established a record of over six feet, which is exceedingly good for the class of leapers who competed.

LEAL'S OPENING GAME.

The Leal School basketball team will open the 1913-14 season on the Y. M. C. A. court Monday afternoon, November 24, when a game will be played with the Columbia Grammar School quintet of New York. Frequent practises are now being held and Manager Stewart is completing his schedule of contests.

GIMBELS

Another History-Making Occasion in This Most Talked-of Rug Store

$210,000 Worth of RUGS AND CARPETS from S. Sanford & Son, Amsterdam, N.Y.

To be Sold, Beginning Monday, For $120,000

There are 12,733 Rugs and 55,000 Yards of Carpets and Borders

The Great Sanford Mills at Amsterdam, N. Y.

Necessity is the mother of enterprise, as much as of invention. This Sale probably would never have happened, if, about a year ago, GIMBEL BROTHERS had not done some amazing selling of carpets and rugs from the stock of John & James Dobson, and had to do the extraordinary in order to top last year's business.

So we went to the famous old Sanford firm of carpet and rug makers, founded in 1838, whose vast mills stretch along the Mohawk at Amsterdam, N. Y., and made them an offer for the large surplus stock of rugs and carpets which we knew they had at the mill.

We staggered them not only by the size of our proposed purchase—THE LARGEST, TO OUR KNOWLEDGE, EVER MADE BY A RETAIL STORE—but by the low price we offered them.

But our business with the Sanfords runs into many thousands of dollars a year, and after much discussion they accepted our offer.

And So Monday Will See Another Astonishing GIMBEL Distribution of Fine Carpets and Rugs

The Sanford qualities, as found in their Beauvais Axminister, Velvet and Tapestry Rugs, and their Wilton Velvet and Tapestry Carpets. As nearly as we can estimate, there are over

150 Designs and Colorings Among the Rugs—100 Patterns Among the Carpets and Borders

All, save a few in the Subway Store are absolutely perfect—and the prices are, in many cases, the lowest that to our knowledge have ever been quoted on floor coverings of these standard qualities. To assure greater facility in displaying and selling this stock, we have divided it into our Sixth Floor and Subway Store Carpet and Rug Sections.

MAKE MONEY WITH POULTRY

AMERICAN POULTRY is a magazine devoted entirely to helping earnest men and women make a financial success of poultry raising. Its staff of writers is composed entirely of those who have made a practical, instead of theoretical, success of poultry farming, and who are glad to pass on the results of their hard earned experience to AMERICAN POULTRY readers.

There are many pit-falls in the path of the novice which may be entirely avoided by those who will follow the teachings set forth in this magazine. It fully explains how to make a start, how to construct houses, coops, and other devices, how to get a large egg yield, how to cure and prevent disease, how to exhibit, how to get the top price for eggs, how to use incubators and hundreds of other points which everyone wishes to know. It explains the famous secret system through which poultrymen have become rich and afterwards sold for hundreds of dollars.

AMERICAN POULTRY is a large, handsomely illustrated, monthly journal, well printed on fine paper, and should be found on file in the home of every poultry lover. No beginner in the poultry business should think of being without it. It will save him many times the small subscription price. The advanced poultryman will also find it of great value; the articles being varied in their scope.

SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of AMERICAN POULTRY is 50c per year, but in order to introduce it to several thousand new readers, we will, for a short time, give a large 200 page poultry book, which is a complete guide in the poultry business, absolutely free to everyone sending 50c for a yearly subscription or $1.00 for a three year subscription to AMERICAN POULTRY. A trial six months' subscription (without book) will be sent for 25c. Never has so much been offered for so small a sum. Advantage of this offer should be taken at once.

SWEDISH PEOPLE DEDICATE CHURCH

Impressive Ceremonies Held When Cornerstone of New Edifice is Laid.

LOCAL MEN SPEAKERS

History of the Swedish Lutheran Faith in This City—Parish Now Has Over One Hundred Communicants.

Several hundred persons interested in Swedish religious work in this city attended the inspiring and impressive ceremony arranged by Rev. Augustus Gaufred Olsson, president of the New Jersey District of the Lutheran Augustana Synod and pastor of the Gethsemane Lutheran church in this city, for the laying of the cornerstone of the new Gethsemane Lutheran church at 522 East Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, the affair being one of the most elaborate of its kind ever held by that denomination in Plainfield. The services, which were originally scheduled to be held last Sunday but had to be postponed because of the unprogressed condition of the construction of the house of worship, were attended by an inter-denominational audience, interest having become widespread over the new home for the people of this faith. The congregation of the Gethsemane Lutheran church was organized twelve years ago by the late Rev. A. Aaron, of this city, with the assistance of a small collection of Swedish people that had settled in this vicinity.

Since the congregation was organized evening services have been held in the German Lutheran church in Grove street and the congregation has steadily grown until it now numbers over one hundred communicants. The new edifice on East Seventh street has been erected by the Swedish people who have raised a building fund through popular subscription and social gatherings and the work was started about three weeks ago, Alfred Johnson, of this city, being the contractor.

Rev. Dr. L. H. Beck, of Kane, Pa., president of the New York Conference, was expected to take charge of the cornerstone laying but was unable to be present and the ceremony was conducted by Professor Abel Ahlquist, of Upsala College, and he read the service that had been outlined for the occasion. Rev. Dr. E. Vicar Stevenson, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, in a short address complimented the people of this denomination on their perseverance and told of the early days when the Swedish populace met in small rooms, churches at that time being a luxury unknown to the communicants of that faith. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, expressed greetings to the Swedish church people on behalf of his own congregation and described the mission of the church in the world and its powers of redeeming mankind.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, also complimented the people of the Lutheran faith on their zealous efforts to establish a place for their meetings in this city and told of the relation bond of the Christian fellowship to the civilized world and referred to this bond as even stronger and more remarkable in its powers than the bond of strength. He said that unless the new church had been built on God's word it would be unsuccessful in its mission, especially in these days of the twentieth century. Mayor Percy H. Stewart was also expected to speak but was unable to be present.

Following the cornerstone laying those present inspected the construction work, members of the church and board of trustees acting as guides. The new edifice is of frame construction with shingles covering the exterior. The basement is built of concrete and has been laid out in such a way as to make it adaptable for Sunday-school and Bible class rooms. The auditorium will be on the ground floor and the seats and interior woodwork will be finished in chestnut. No balcony will be erected at present but provisions have been made making possible the construction of such an addition when it is deemed necessary.

Rev. Augustus Gaufred Olsson, pastor of the Bartholomew Lutheran church in Elizabeth, is also pastor of the local church, and is president of the local board of trustees, which includes E. C. Ostlin, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., as treasurer; Hogen Hansen, secretary; Alfred Johnson and Oscar Peterson.

IN BOROUGH COURT.

Herbert Sutphen, 41 years old, of 140 North avenue, crossed Green brook last night and "celebrated" too freely and Marshal Dennis placed him under arrest. Mayor Clark this morning fined him $2.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 41 degrees; 11 a. m., 42 degrees; 1 p. m., 42 degrees.

HIS AUTO DAMAGED WHEN ROADBED SINKS

Dr. Marcus Clawson, of Park avenue, reported to the police that while driving his automobile yesterday afternoon shortly after 6 o'clock near West Sixth street and Lee place, a portion of the roadway gave way and partly submerged the forepart of his machine. He said the cave-in was caused by the digging of a hole to install a water hydrant. The physician asserted that the two front tires of his car were destroyed and that six feet of curbing on the property of W. W. Wilson was damaged by the auto as the result of the accident.

The police have notified the street department.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL WILL HOLD A MOCK TRIAL

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will give a "ladies' night" entertainment Wednesday night in Junior Hall, which will be in the form of a mock trial. Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be the complanamt, charging Joel Pennington, of Plainfield Council, with stealing a black Spanish rooster.

City Judge W. G. DeMeza will preside. Harry C. Runyon will represent Franklin Council and W. S. Angleman will be Mr. Pennington's attorney. Horace G. Adams will be clerk of the court and Patrolman Nicholas Myers, who made the arrest, will be an important witness. There will be a jury of twelve men.

CHURCH WOMEN TO SELL SOME FANCY ARTICLES

During the summer vacation many of the members of the Volunteer Bible Class of the Park Avenue Baptist church devoted much of their time doing fancy work and making fancy articles, which they now purpose offering for sale on November 21 and 22, at 237 West Front street, affording an opportunity to secure Christmas gifts.

There will also be a sale of home-made cakes, candies and preserves. The class is composed of about forty women. During the sale there will be music every evening.

TWO ADDRESSES TONIGHT BEFORE THE TWP. SOCIETY

Two addresses will be given tonight at a meeting of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society at Watchung. Dr. Richard Moldenke, internationally famous as a metalurgist, will talk on "Iron Making in America," and former Assemblyman W. de laR. Anderson will speak on "Opportunities in Haiti."

Mr. Anderson recently returned from Haiti, where as a representative of an American syndicate, he obtained concessions for an electric light plant to serve two cities.

INSTALL NEW OFFICERS OF JEHUDAH-HALEVIA

The newly-elected officers of Jerudah-Halevia Camp, No. 57, Order Sons of Zion, were installed last night by Isaac Schick, of New York, who took the place of Dr. Bluestone, who was unable to come to Plainfield. The meeting was held in Knights of Pythias Hall on West Front street, and was largely attended.

These officers were installed. President, Harry Rosenbaum; vice-president, Samuel Goldfaub; treasurer, Hyman Moledesky; recording secretary, Samuel Rosenbaum; financial secretary, Samuel Saidel; inner guard, Max Matlin; master of ceremonies, Morris Rosenbaum; trustees, Dr. Finkel, Harry Ullman and Harry Katz.

Following the business session an installation and banquet was enjoyed, during which there were short addresses by the newly-elected officers and Mr. Schick, and plans for an active season was discussed.

BUSINESS MAN'S NIGHT.

Somerville, Nov. 10.—The members of the Somerville Athletic Club held a "Business Man's Night" at the clubhouse Friday evening, which proved a popular event. There were a number of short speeches by the members and by invited guests, and altogether the evening proved a very enjoyable one. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of W. S. Vroom, W. M. Morehead, George R. Nevius, J. T. Fritts and H. L. Seltzer. A number of similar events are planned for the future.

SOMERVILLE COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Melick Receive Congratulations of Many Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Melick, of Main street, Somerville, parents of George Melick, of Summit avenue, North Plainfield, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home yesterday. Unfortunately, Mrs. Melick fell about a week ago, injuring her hip so that she has been detained to her bed ever since, and no formal celebration could be arranged by the relatives and friends. However, a few people called yesterday to extend congratulations.

Mrs. Melick, before her marriage, lived at South Branch, being Miss Sarah A. TenEyck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ten Eyck. She is now eighty years of age. Mr. Melick was born at Peapack, and is 75 years of age. The couple was married at South Branch.

Mr. Melick enlisted in Co. A, N. J Vols., which was mustered into the service of the Civil War at Readington. He first served three months, after which he re-enlisted and served until near the close of the war. He now enjoys excellent health. Both Mr. and Mrs. Melick are members of the Second Reformed church, Somerville.

By the union the couple had three children, George Melick, of North Plainfield; Mrs. Ella Ammerman, of New Brunswick, and William Melick, superintendent at Duke's place, Raritan. Mrs. Melick has one sister, Mrs. Mary Ellick, of Iowa.

SO. PLAINFIELD FIREMEN WILL HOLD ANNUAL FAIR

The Middlesex Volunteer Fire Company, of South Plainfield, will hold its annual fair in its new fire house on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, the proceeds being intended to equip the company with more fire-fighting apparatus. The committee in charge comprises John Kaine, Harry Phillips, Louis Hendrickson, Edward Horn, William Hamilton, George Rowland, Edward TenEyck, John Thornton, Joseph Delaney, P. F. Kaine and Charles Brantingham.

PLAINFIELD'S EAGLES ANNUAL FAIR IS OPEN

The annual one-week fair and dance of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E., opened Saturday night in Sebring's auditorium, where several hundred persons purchased articles and enjoyed the program of entertainment. The hall was decorated and emblems of the aerie were conspicuous. Wednesday night will be known as "Eagles' Night."

The committee consists of J. D. Varden, James Mahoney, James Buckley, E. J. McCann, Horace G. Adams, John Yose, David Guinee, Charles Anderson, Charles Walden, Nelse Anderson and George York.

PLAINFIELD POLICEMEN TO DANCE THURSDAY NIGHT

The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, of this city, has issued invitations for the fifth annual ball to be held Thursday night at Saengerbund Hall. Music for dancing will be furnished by L. R. Anderson's orchestra, and an attractive program has been arranged. "Musical" Edward Stewart, who has just returned from a long engagement in vaudeville, will also appear on the program, with two or three professional singers.

The committee of arrangements comprise the following: General chairman, Richard J. Birmingham; reception, Cornelius McCarthy; hall, Tobias W. Nolan; music, Ferdinand Bader; refreshments, Den. O'Keefe; printing, Arthur A. McGinley.

DR. EATON RAISED A $300,000 FUND

Contribution of $200,000 Inured When Pastor Succeeds in Getting $100,000.

AFTER YEAR'S WORK

Future of Church, the Madison Avenue Baptist of New York, Made Certain by Successful Efforts of Cleric.

After delivering a sermon asking the communicants for liberal contributions yesterday morning, the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, in New York city, was rewarded for his earnest plea, when $4,000 was pledged, completing the amount required to raise $100,000 to insure a contribution of $200,000 and an endowment fund amounting to $300,000.

A year ago a contribution of $100,000 toward the endowment fund was given by Joseph Milbank, of New York, upon condition that the church raise the balance. Later his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, donated an additional $100,000.

In the course of his sermon yesterday, in which he urged the completion of the $100,000 fund, and pointed out that yesterday was the last day of the year in which it was stfpulated the money must be acquired, Dr. Eaton traced the history of the church from its organization in 1848 until the present time, calling attention to the fact that a number of the wealthy members of the congregation had drifted away. He also called attention to the fact that it had been said that the site upon which the church stood was too valuable for such an edifice.

"What do they intend to do with the plot of ground on which this church is located, if it is not to be used for the house of God?" inquired the minister. "Do they intend to erect a theatre or a loft building? No piece of property is of too high intrinsic value to be dedicated to the Lord's work."

Dr. Eaton spoke at length of the work being done by the church along sociological lines, and of the benefits which would be derived from the income of an endowment fund of $300,000.

"A dollar contributed to this fund will never cease working," the pastor said.

DECISION RESERVED IN TWO HOOD CASES

Final Arguments Over Ownership of Property Rights of Estranged Couple.

Newark, Nov. 10 (Special).—After final arguments by the respective counsel, decision was received by Vice Chancellor Stevens in the two suits instituted by Richard Haden Hood, of Plainfield, against his wife, Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, to recover real estate and personalty located at their mansion on Stelle avenue. Mrs. Hood, it will be recalled, is suing her husband for an absolute divorce. Hood pleaded guilty on Friday before Judge Connolly in the Union County Court to have committed an assault and battery on his wife.

Former Judge Gilbert Collins, appearing for Hood, in his argument today, said that the presumption of title by putting the property in his wife's name could be rebutted and it could be proven that there was a resultant trust in favor of the husband which might be enforced. He said that the natural and normal result would be in the husband's favor. As to the personalty, if the alleged gift to the wife was made by word of mouth, as she alleged, there must be some evidence to fortify it.

Arguing for Mrs. Hood, Mr. McCarter said that the house was hers, not only by title, but by ante-nuptial agreement, which was shown by the trend of letters received at that time. He had little to say as to the personalty.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Bessie L. Kline, of Somerville, last night, by her sister, Miss Frances Kline, and cousin, Miss Helen Kline, at the latter's home. There were friends present from this city, Somerville, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Paterson and Bound Brook. Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Frances Kline, Benjamin and Leo Berse and Miss Helen Kline and violin numbers by Benjamin Berse.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON TRACKS, HE DIES

Circumstances Lead to Belief Ezra Peney Was Struck by Railroad Engine.

Ezra Peney, aged about 55 years, an old resident of South Plainfield, who was found unconscious on the tracks at the Lehigh Valley Railroad at that place Friday morning, died Saturday night at 7 o'clock. It is believed that he was struck by a train while picking coal on the tracks and this belief is borne out by the fact that his hat was found on the pilot of an engine at Perth Amboy.

Mr. Peney's mother, with whom he lived, retired Thursday night, leaving the door unlocked for the return of her son. Early Friday morning she was informed that his dead body was found on the railroad tracks by John Daly, of Perth Amboy, who is employed on the railroad as a brakeman.

Dr. William J. Nelson, of New Market, was summoned, but an examination showed that the man was beyond hope. Aside from exposure, Mr. Peney suffered from a number of bruises about the head and body. The dead man leaves a mother, two brothers, John and Silas Peney, and a sister, Mrs. Carl Nelson.

The funeral will be held at the late residence, South Plainfield, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and the burial will be in the Methodist cemetery.

EQUAL SUFFRAGIST TO HOLD CAKE-CANDY SALE

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League, a cake and candy sale will be held at the residence of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers on Monday afternoon, November 25. At that time addresses on equal suffrage will be made by Miss Louise Connelly, formerly superintendent of schools at Summit, and Mrs. Reba Childe Dorr, of New York, a noted student of sociological problems and the author of the book, "What Eight Million Women Want."

MISS EDNA DEBELE NOW MRS. CHARLES P. M'VICKER

Miss Edna Margaret Debele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Debele, of 111 Somerset street, and Charles P. McVicker, of Elizabeth, were married Saturday night at 6 o'clock at the home of Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. The ceremony, which took place at the home of the officiating minister, was witnessed only by the immediate members of both families.

The bride, attired in a blue traveling suit, left with her husband for Buffalo, following a reception at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Lynn McVicker, in Dunellen avenue, Dunellen.

The newly-weds will be "at home" after November 15 at their recently constructed home in Duer street.

APPROVE TWO BRIDGES AND ENJOY A LUNCHEON

Members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders accompanied by several members of the North Plainfield Council, made an inspection of the recently constructed Sycamore and Rockview avenue bridges this morning, and reported favorably on the work.

At noon the officials had luncheon at W. G. Pfeister's Somerset Hotel, in Somerset street, the borough.

ELKS' BIG NIGHT.

Somerville, Nov. 10.—Somerville Lodge of Elks is making great preparations for the meeting on Thursday evening, when the grand exalted ruler, Edward Leach, and a number of visiting lodges will be in attendance. This will be another red-letter day in the history of Somerville Elks. The lodge has also under preparation a big minstrel performance, with the following committee in charge: W. D. Nolan, J. D. Hall, H. D. Hoagland, J. J. Cunningham, B. W. Moore, T. G. Winsor, A. M. Beekman, A. G. Koehler, S. D. Skilliman, Philip Gasell, G. D. Fromnell.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Edgar S. Hyatt, 243 East Ninth street. All enrolled members are urged to attend.

PEDDLER ARRESTED.

Joseph G. Berlowing, of 432 Watchung avenue, who was arrested Friday, charged with peddling without a license, will be arraigned Wednesday morning before Recorder Gano in the borough court.

C. L. DANA, JR., IN AUTO RUNS DOWN A WOMAN

According to the police an automobile owned and driven by Charles Loomis Dana, Jr., of Evergreen avenue, on lower Park avenue, struck Miss Agnes Vail, of Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, fracturing her left leg and causing severe bruises about her chest and head. Mr. Dana lifted the victim into the car and hurried her to Muhlenberg Hospital. She was not seriously hurt.

The automobile owner told Chief Kiely he slowed up as his car neared the woman, whom he said was walking with a man. Suddenly the woman, after halting, stepped directly in front of his machine and was knocked to the ground, Mr. Dana says.

STATE HAS APPROVED SOUTH AVENUE WORK

State Road Commissioner Stevens has officially approved the paving work on South avenue, Fanwood, and the bridge on the same thoroughfare, the Union County Board of Freeholders has learned. The annual report of Chief Inspector Russel Gies, of the Union County Mosquito Extermination, has been received and filed. It consists of about one hundred pages and is supplimented by many photographs.

The Board approves the expenditure of money for a new railing on the Sycamore avenue bridge, this city, the work to be paid for jointly by Union and Somerset counties. The work is about completed.

LIKELY TO SIGN PAPERS FOR AUTO MACHINE TONIGHT

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight when it is likely that action will be taken toward the purchase of a Nott automobile fire engine. At the last meeting Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed was directed to prepare the form of contract. The engine to be purchased is to cost $7,850 and it is to have 700 gallons capacity with all the latest appliances. The Council is anxious to close the deal this year, otherwise the money appropriated for the apparatus would revert to the general fund of the city.

CUT HIS LEG WITH AXE; BOY IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Carey Coale, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Coale, of East Ninth street, is seriously ill at the home of his parents, the result of complications following an accident a few days ago. The boy picked up a sharp axe which had been left in the yard and in swinging it about, struck himself in the right leg, inflicting a severe gash. He suffered greatly from loss of blood, before help arrived and erysipelas has since developed. The boy is under the care of Drs. Endicott and Probasco.

HALF-YEARLY MEETING OF FRIENDS SOCIETY CLOSES

The half-yearly meeting of the Friends Society was culminated yesterday morning, when a general worship session was held. Robert Barnes, of Purchase, N. Y.; Daniel Willetts, of Trenton, and William D. Williams, of this city, spoke on religious topics. Mr. Willetts told of the Purity Convention held recently in Ohio and said many churches of the western cities observed yesterday as "Purity Day," confining the religious services to a discussion of that subject.

Miss Mabel Vail, who was one of the winners of a Daily Press contest held over a year ago and enjoyed a tour of Europe at the expense of this paper, told of her experiences on that trip. She illustrated her lecture with stereopticon views, many of which she photographed herself.

GETS LIGHT SENTENCE.

Somerville, Nov. 10.—Salvatore Finelli, who was convicted of assault and battery upon Carmino Romano in a fight at Bound Brook, the jury bringing in a recommendation of mercy, was sentenced Friday by Judge Beekman to pay a fine of $150 and to be placed in the care of the probation officer for one year. He is during this time to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors, but he is to pay his fine within 30 days. Finelli was represented by former Judge C. E. Case, who made an earnest plea for clemency prior to the sentence. In view of the sentences received by others for almost similar offences during this term of court, Finelli is considered to have gotten off lucky.

FIND THE BODY OF MISSING MAN

Life of John VanNuys, of East Millstone, Ended in Hackensack River.

SUPPOSEDLY SUICIDE

Railroad Engineer Incapacitated Physically Had Been Despondent—Funeral Services Tomorrow Afternoon.

The body of John VanNuys, of East Millstone, who disappeared from his home about two weeks ago, was found in the Hackensack River, near the Plank Road bridge, on Saturday, and removed to the late home today. The dead man's keys were found on the bank of the river and this furnished a clew which led to the discovery of the body. He was well-known in this city.

Mr. VanNuys was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad as a passenger engineer for many years, being considered one of the most faithful men in the service. Within the past year he developed heart and kidney trouble and the company's physician, after an examination, reported adversely as to his continuing his run. Mr. Van Nuys then began medical treatment and after a lapse of a few months reported for duty, but again the company's physician refused to pass him. Since that time he had been more or less despondent.

It was his custom to go to Newark regularly to draw his sick benefits and about two weeks ago while supposedly on one of these trips he disappeared and a constant search had been maintained. Mr. VanNuys leaves two sons, George and Addison. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Henry Lockwood, of the Reformed church, will officiate.

BAN LIGHTED CIGARS FROM P. S. C. CARS

Order Put in Force on All Lines Today Stops Offensive Practise.

In response to complaints from patrons and requests from various women's clubs and from civic organizations, the Public Service Railway has undertaken to break up the offensive habit many men have formed, of carrying lighted cigars or cigarettes or half smoked pipes into trolley cars. The odor of the "soldiers," especially those of the "two-for" variety does not add to the comfort of occupants of a well-filled car and as the winter season is coming on when doors and windows will be kept closed and proper ventilation will be a problem under normal conditions, the company management is going to try to stop the nuisance.

Why men persist in lighting cigars or cigarettes just previous to boarding a car and then carrying the smouldering weed into the vehicle and holding it so that smoke will curl into the nostrils of defenseless passengers has never been fully explained. Neither has there been a satisfactory reason advanced why a man will carry two inches or less of a five cent cigar into a crowded car and carefully nurse the "butt" throughout a lengthy journey when the "stump," if the smell it produces is any criterion, is strong enough to stand alone or even to push the car if necessary. But that men do such things is amply demonstrated every day as the street railway patrons can testify. And so much testimony along these lines has been adduced that the company has determined to act.

Beginning today every car in operation in the central division carried a conspicuous bulletin announcing that smoking and carrying lighted or partially consumed cigars, cigarettes or tobacco in pipes in the cars or stations of the company is forbidden. The company further announced that the rule was made in deference to the comfort and convenience of a majority of the patrons and the co-operation of all is solicited. The company's right to enforce such a rule has been passed upon by competent authority and it is hoped by the railway management that an appeal to the fair-mindedness of the average person, backed up by public sentiment, will go a long way toward eliminating the evil against which so many justly complain.

TO DISCUSS INDIA.

The regular meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. The subject will be "India," and the meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Samuel T. Carter, Jr., assisted by Miss Munger, Mrs. Howard H. Williams and Mrs. A. V. Heely.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 3, 1913.

AN ORDINANCE

To Regulate the Use of Sewers in the City of Plainfield and the Making of Connections Therewith.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The Committee on Sewers shall have the direction and control, subject to the orders of the Common Council, of all the sewers and house connections in the city, and of the construction, maintenance, repair and use of the same.

Sec. 2. No person shall make any connection with any sewer in the City of Plainfield or open any manhole, lamphole, flush tank, or clean or repair any sewer connection, except with the written permit of the "Engineer in Charge of Sewers" or his authorized representative, and no such permit shall be given to any applicant unless said applicant is properly registered at the office of the Department of Health as a Master or Foreman Plumber. The applicant for a permit shall at the time of making application, deposit with the City Treasurer or with the said Engineer (by him to be deposited with the City Treasurer), the sum of five dollars. If the street surface over the connection is maintained by the applicant in proper condition for a period of one year from date of laying the connection, five dollars of said deposit shall be returned to the applicant, but if the street surface over the connection should require repair during the year, and the plumber should neglect or refuse to make the necessary repairs within 24 hours after receiving notice to make such repairs, then the Engineer shall cause such repairs to be made, and the cost of the work done and materials used shall be deducted from the amount on deposit. The dollar of said deposit shall be counted to be the charge for the connection permit and for inspecting the work. Where openings are made in brick or similar permanent pavements, an additional charge of three dollars and seventy-five cents ($3.75) shall be paid for each square yard of such pavement actually replaced by the City. This fee to be paid on completion of the repair, when five dollars of the amount deposited in security for the permit will be returned to the plumber.

Sec. 3. No more than one building shall be connected with the sewer through one connection without a special permit from the Department of Health.

Sec. 4. No trap shall be placed on any connection between the sewer and the building. All sewer connections shall have free ventilation through the soil, waste and vent pipes of the building.

Sec. 5. No surface, underground or roof water shall be allowed to enter any sewer or house connection, and no vault, cesspool shall be connected with any sewer or house connection.

Sec. 6. No person shall permit any substance to flow into any house connection or sewer which shall injure said house connection or sewer or shall tend to form deposits or obstruct them.

Sec. 7. Every garage shall be provided with a properly constructed gasoline and oil separator to intercept the gasoline and prevent it from entering the sewer, the separator to be provided with a vent pipe to carry off the gasoline vapor.

Sec. 8. All stables, garages, ice cream factories, milk depots and similar establishments, where floor drains are to be connected with the city sewers, shall be provided with catch basins or sand traps to receive and retain all sand, dirt and other refuse which would tend to clog the house drain or sewer. The catch basin or sand trap shall be made water tight and the outlet pipe shall be turned down to a sufficient depth to prevent the sand and other refuse from being washed out into the sewer. The catch basin or sand trap shall have a cover which can be easily removed and the sand and refuse must be removed at sufficiently frequent intervals to keep the deposit below the bottom of the outlet pipe. The entire construction shall be made under the direction of the Plumbing Inspector of the Health Department.

Sec. 9. All work done in making connections from buildings to sewers and all materials furnished therefor shall conform to all the requirements of the specifications annexed hereto and adopted herewith and entitled "Specifications for the Construction of Drains or Connections from Buildings to Sewers in the City of Plainfield, N. J."

Sec. 10. Any person or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding ten days for each offense, or both such fine and imprisonment.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF DRAINS OR CONNECTIONS FROM BUILDINGS TO SEWERS IN THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Inspection.

The plumber shall leave notice at the office of the Engineer in charge of sewers, hereinafter called the Engineer, not later than 8:30 A. M. on the day in which any work is to be inspected during the forenoon of that day, and not later than 1:30 P. M. when the work is to be inspected in the afternoon. All work and materials shall be subjected to the inspection of the Engineer or his representative, and all improper work shall be reconstructed, and all materials which do not conform to the requirements of the specifications shall be removed from the work. In no case shall any work be covered until it has been inspected and approved by the Engineer or his representatives.

Location.

The proper location for the connection will be given at the time the permit is issued and no deviation from this location shall be made and no opening shall be cut into a sewer under any circumstances by plumbers or their employees without special permission from the Engineer or his authorized representative.

Precautions.

All excavations, piles of materials and other obstacles incident to the work must be protected with barricades and lights to prevent accidents. All ordinances relating to such precautions and safeguards must be observed by the plumber and his employees.

Excavation.

All macadam stone or other paving material removed in excavating the trenches shall be piled by itself, and after the completion of the work shall be reiald and the street left in as good condition as before being disturbed. In case the stone is wasted, or if the trenches settle, the plumber shall furnish new stone at his own expense.

Excavations shall be made in open trenches and no tunneling will be allowed except by permission of the Engineer.

In case the ground in the bottom of the trench is soft or spongy, it shall be excavated to such increased depth as the Engineer may direct, and shall be refilled with gravel or other suitable material, thoroughly rammed.

Cast Iron Pipe.

House connections shall be constructed of four inch cast iron pipe, strong, tough and of sound even grain, weighing not less than 13 pounds per linear foot, and coated inside and outside with hot coal tar varnish.

Cement.

Only Portland cement of some standard brand of good reputation shall be used in the work. It shall conform to the requirements of the recent specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials.

Mortar.

Mortar, unless specially ordered by the Engineer, shall be composed of Portland Cement and sand in the proportion of one of cement to two and one-half of sand.

Sheeting and Shoring.

Sheeting and shoring shall be of sound material and of sufficient dimensions to properly and safely withstand the pressure from the sides of the trenches, and shall be used wherever, in the opinion of the Engineer, it is necessary.

Grade.

No connections with the sewers shall be laid with a less inclination than one quarter of an inch to the foot except by special permit at owners' risk.

Laying Cast Iron Pipe.

In laying the iron pope, gaskets of clean, sound, hemp yarn, braided or twisted, and tightly driven, shall be used to pack the joints. The best quality of pure, soft lead, suitable for calking, shall be used, and the depth of lead shall not be less than one inch. Before running the lead the joints shall be carefully wiped out, and shall be run full at one pour. If the gasket becomes wet before time for pouring, it must be removed and dry oakum or jute inserted in its place. No calking shall be done except by competent and experienced men. In all cases the calking shall be toward the place of the gate and other points where the lead is likely to be porous. The joints shall be thoroughly calked and when finished, the lead shall be flush with the face of the socket and the joint shall be absolutely tight.

Pipes to Be Clean.

All earth and rubbish must be removed from the pipes before they are laid, and the open end of the pipe must be protected with a tight plug.

Pipes to Be Plugged.

When the pipe is laid into a building before the soil pipe is in position, the end of the house connection shall be closed with a cemented or leaded plug.

Refilling.

The lower part of the trenches shall be refilled with the best of the excavated material, and in refilling under and around the pipe, only fine material, free from stones, shall be used. No filling shall be done above the pipe until the material around it shall have been thoroughly tamped. The remaining portion of the trench shall be refilled in horizontal layers not exceeding nine inches in depth, each of which shall be well rammed. The plumber must see that the earth is not thrown into the trench faster than it can be distributed and properly rammed, and in filling, the number of men ramming shall not be less than the number of men filling. All extra material and rubbish must be promptly removed after the completion of the backfilling.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to widen Madison Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at eight o'clock P. M., on Monday, the first day of December, A. D., Nineteen hundred and thirteen, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council,
JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., November 3, 1913.

AN ORDINANCE

To Widen Madison Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, The Common Council judge that the public good requires the widening of Madison Avenue between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Madison Avenue in the City of Plainfield from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be widened and laid out so that said Madison Avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the centre line thereof as now established and existing, which said centre line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the centre line of said Madison Avenue, where the same is intersected by the southeasterly side line of West Front Street as now laid out and opened, said point being distant thirty-two and fifty-four one-hundredths (32.54) feet in a magnetic course of south forty-two degrees and twenty-four minutes east (S. 42 degrees 24 minutes E) from an iron monument at the intersection of the centre lines of said Madison Avenue and West Front Street and running from said first mentioned point south 42 degrees and 24 minutes east (S. 42 degrees and 24 minutes E.) a distance of five hundred and seventy-five and forty-nine one-hundredths (575.49) feet to a point in said centre line in the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. The land to be taken for the widening of said Madison Avenue on the northeasterly side of the same from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of the Estate of Samuel Archer Sophia Shrager Jane H. DeMott, Estate of Mary B. Gillies, Minnie E. Stephenson, Marcus L. Clawson, Moses Bender and Public Service Electric Company, which lies between the present northeasterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a northeasterly direction.

The land to be taken for said widening on the southwesterly side of said Madison Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of Fred Endress, William W. Mills, Annnie M. McDonough and Wadley & Goodenough, which lies between the present southwesterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue, and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Madison Avenue as the same is hereinabove ordered to be widened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Assessment Map for the Widening of Madison Avenue from West Front Street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J.," dated February 17th, 1912.

WILSON WEDDING CEREMONY

Historic Mansion Scene of but Twelve Ceremonies In a Century.

THIRTEENTH IN WHITE HOUSE

Some Were Brilliant and Others Exceedingly Simple In Form.

WHEN Miss Jessie Wilson, second daughter of the president, becomes the wife of Francis Bowes Sayre on Nov. 25 she will have the distinction of being the thirteenth young woman in the history of the republic who has been wedded within the historic walls of the White House. "All the world loves a lover," and a love affair that finds its denouement behind the classic portals of the president's official residence holds an interest to the public that is quite above and beyond that of ordinary, everyday romances. In a sense the executive mansion is the people's own house, and so it naturally follows that one who is married there is in some degree the chosen child of all the great family of whom the president is the official head.

For generations the White House has been a familiar figure to the American people. It has stood a central landmark in the national capital since the time of its founding and is known the world over as the home of the chief executive of the republic. Grecian in its architecture, it stands a monument to the stern simplicity of the true ideals of the nation.

MISS JESSIE WILSON.

So it happens that whenever a wedding takes place within the White House the nation is prone to weave a mystical web of beauty and romance about the principals that sets theirs quite apart from other bridals and pedestals them high in the court of the country's affection and regard.

Previous White House Bridals.

Prior to Miss Wilson's wedding there have been just twelve young women fortunate enough to have their weddings celebrated within the executive mansion. The last of these was Miss Alice Roosevelt, the daughter of President Roosevelt, who was married to Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio on Feb. 17, 1906. Until then there had not been a White House wedding for nearly twenty years, the previous nuptials being those of Miss Frances Folsom, now the wife of Professor Thomas J. Preston of Princeton, to President Grover Cleveland on June 2, 1886.

The marriage of Miss Alice Roosevelt was one of the most brilliant ceremonies ever held in the White House, differing much from some of those in the last century. Some of the White House marriages have been severely simple, and the approaching wedding also will partake largely of the democratic simplicity which is the dominant note in the daily life of the bride and her family, but Miss Roosevelt's marriage, like the first held in the White House, which was in President Madison's administration, was accompanied by much display.

Early Administrations Brideless.

In the early days of the republic, when the nation's capital was located at New York and Philadelphia, there were no weddings at the executive mansion. Nellie Custis, the beautiful and charming stepdaughter of General Washington, was too young to be married during the period that he occupied the presidency, and the second president, John Adams, was unfortunate in having no young people in his household during his incumbency.

President Jefferson's administration was the first that began and ended in the White House. He was a widower, and whatever success his administration had of a social character was due to the presence of Mrs. Madison, wife of the secretary of state and the greatest social factor of Washington official life.

The election of James Madison brought this most popular of American women to the highest social position in the republic.

There were two weddings in the White House while she was its mistress, and she took as much delight in making them happy occasions as though both brides had been her own children. The first wedding to occur in the president's house was that of the widow of a nephew of George Washington, Lucy Payne, Mrs. Madison's younger sister, who was married at the age of fifteen, in 1792, to George Steptoe Washington, and lived during her widowhood with the Madisons in Washington.

Payne-Todd Wedding.

The engagement of this sister in the winter of 1810 to Justice Todd of the supreme court, a widower, many years older than herself, the father of five children and a resident of the then far distant state of Kentucky, was approved by her family, and Mrs. Madison reveled in the preparations for the fine wedding she gave the couple. It was celebrated on the evening of March 11, 1811.

The second White House wedding took place after the war of 1812 was ended. The bride was a relative of Mrs. Madison by marriage, Miss Anna Todd of Philadelphia, and the bridegroom was a member of congress from Virginia, John G. Jackson, a great-uncle of "Stonewall" Jackson.

The third wedding was that of Miss Marie Monroe to Lawrence Gouverneur. Being the daughter of a president, it might have been expected that the occasion of her wedding would have been marked by great festivity. But such was not the case, and the affair was a distinct disappointment to those who thought they had a right to expect more from the White House family.

MR. FRANCIS BOWES SAYRE.

Monroe Marriage Simple.

Mrs. Monroe was a city bred woman. She had been brought up in the exclusive circle of New York, and she did not approve of the Virginia style. So the wedding of her youngest daughter was the reverse of a grand affair.

The circular or blue room was chosen for the wedding, and the Rev. Dr. Hawley of St. John's church performed the ceremony, which took place at noon.

The fourth marriage celebrated in the president's house was that of John Adams, the son and private secretary of President John Quincy Adams. He was married to his cousin, Helen Jackson of Philadelphia. Miss Jackson was a niece of Mrs. Adams, and her brother, Walter Jackson, was a secretary to the president and lived in the White House.

It was an evening affair, and the ceremony was performed Feb. 10, 1828, in the blue room in the presence of a distinguished gathering. Dr. Hawley officiated on this occasion as he had done at Miss Monroe's wedding, and the president and Mrs. Adams, though it was known that they did not wholly approve of the match, made the wedding a notably gay one.

The Jackson Administration.

Andrew Jackson's administration succeeded that of John Quincy Adams, and it is recalled as one during which there were three weddings.

The fifth marriage in White House history was that of Miss Delia Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., whose father, William B. Lewis, was one of President Jackson's most intimate personal friends. He practically lived in the president's house and was a member of that famous kitchen cabinet caricatured so persistently in that day.

Miss Lewis was married to Mr. Alphonse Joseph Yver Pageot, a native of Martinique, who was secretary of the French legation at the time of his marriage.

President Jackson was intensely fond of his wife's relatives and, being a childless widower and having not a relative in the world of his own, gathered about him many young people, among whom were several of Mrs. Jackson's nieces.

Mary Easten, a Tennessee girl, was one of these nieces, and when she was married to Lucien B. Polk of Tennessee the president arranged to have the ceremony take place in the Blue room.

Another White House marriage that occurred during President Jackson's administration was that of Miss Emily Martin, a niece of Mrs. Donelson, who became the bride of Lewis Randolph, a grandson of Jefferson.

Tyler-Waller Marriage.

The eighth wedding to occur in the White House was that of Miss Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of the president of that name, to William Waller of Virginia, the bride being but nineteen years of age, on Jan. 31, 1842.

The next wedding, the ninth to occur in the White House, did not take place until the Grant administration, when the general's beautiful daughter, Ellen, or Nellie, as she is better known, became the bride of Mr. Algernon Sartoris. The ceremony, which was without doubt the most brilliant function held at the White House during her father's tenure there, has become a recollection to which all who witnessed it delight to revert.

It was the first wedding to be celebrated in the east room and took place on May 21, 1874, or nearly thirty years after the Tyler wedding.

The Tenth Bridal.

The tenth White House wedding was that of Miss Emily Platt, niece of President Hayes, who was married to General Russell Hastings on June 19, 1878. The bride had been to the president and Mrs. Hayes as a daughter, and she had lived in their home for many years, going to the White House with them from Ohio.

When next the blue room was decorated for a marriage ceremony the wedding was that of President Cleveland, the first president to be married in the White House.

MRS. NICHOLAS LONGWORTH.

Miss Frances Folsom, the bride, was twenty and was noted as being graceful and winsome. Her engagement to the president was made in the summer of 1885. Soon after she went to Europe with her mother and remained there until a few days before her wedding. That occurred on the evening of June 2, 1886, at 7 o'clock, in the blue room.

Roosevelt-Longworth Nuptials.

The wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt to the then Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio in 1906 is of too recent date to need more than passing mention. It was the twelfth in the series and was by far the most brilliant ceremony ever held in the White House, with the single exception, perhaps, of that of President Cleveland and Miss Folsom. It took place in the east room, where the coming nuptials of Miss Wilson and Mr. Sayre are to take place.

Yet while Miss Jessie Wilson will have the distinction of being the thirteenth young woman to become a bride in the White House, as mentioned at the beginning of this article, it is by no means certain that hers will be the only wedding ceremony to be held there during her father's administration. The president has two other daughters, who vie with their sister in charm and attractiveness, and it is by no means impossible that the names of one or both of these may yet be added to the distinguished list of White House brides.

WHITE HOUSE WEDDINGS.

Twelve weddings have been held in the White House in the history of the United States. The marriage of Miss Jessie Wilson will be the thirteenth. The twelve are:

WANTS HIS REWARD.

Men who best know Edward Casper Stokes, and among them we might mention John Kean, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Franklin Murphy and many other conspicuous figures in the Old Guard, must have let loose a "ha, ha!" when they read his guberantorial post mortem statement. But they were not the only ones for such men as Charles Newell Fowler who spoke at Stokes' meetings, but skilfully avoided the mention of his name, and moreover such as John Franklin Fort, Everett Colby and the like who deserted the Republican ranks because they realized only too well that the only salvation of the people would be brought about by the annihilation of that party, surely smiled as broadly as they muttered to themselves "you old political acrobat! do you think you're fooling us?"

"I took the Republican nomination much against my inclination," said Edward the Acrobat. "I felt, however, it would be unfair to desert in the dark hours of the party and someone should be willing to make a sacrifice." How truly noble, how generous, let the whole gallery applaud the hero who unflinchingly went to his martyrdom! Equally sublime is this patriotic expression: "Some one had to lead a forlorn hope or the party would have been totally disorganized." Great stuff, eh?

Having relieved himself in this fashion, Edward the Martyr should have stopped right there but he couldn't help betraying his secret. All along he has coveted the United States Senatorship and his post mortem is but an appeal of sympathy. And this is how he puts it: "I am just as ready now as ever to do battle in the ranks when the occasion requires."

Let's all join in the snicker!

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

As the Scranton Times remarks: "Bishop Thomas of the Episcopal diocese of Wyoming, raises a somewhat novel point in regard to women in politics. In his State so far as woman suffrage goes he finds that neither perceptible good nor perceptible harm has been done; the vote is doubled, but the result is not changed. And when asked whether women mingle in political squabbles he said: 'Oh, yes, their differences are the real ones. Women take political accusations much more seriously and hold the sting longer. This does not apply so much when they are talking about one another. But let a woman say something of another woman's husband, brother or son, and that hurts. It's one of woman's traits to cherish any reflection on the men she loves.' But this trait is not peculiar to women. If campaign libels about his candidating wife should begin to circulate a man would remember it much longer than his own grievances. Equal suffrage is likely to put some new angles into politics.

The election returns proved the wisdom of the Newark News in casting its lot with Fielder as against Colby. It "made no bones" that its sole object was to make sure that Stokes would be vanquished. Thousands of Progressives took the same view and acted accordingly. They loved Colby and they loved the Progressive cause but they considered that their chief duty as citizens was to bury Stokes. That accounts for the apparently small vote polled by Colby. Had Edward the Martyr not been the Republican nominee Colby's vote would have been doubled at least.

Taking into consideration the formation of a new party, whose membership came from its ranks, political statisticans will tell you that Stokes should have received at least 1,000 plurality in Plainfield. He received a plurality of considerably less than 300. That shows conclusively that hundreds of genuine Republicans could not stomach Stokes' candidacy. Hence, they voted for Fielder as did many Progressives who had faith in Colby but who wanted to make sure of Stokes' defeat and consequently voted for Fielder.

No man in the State can make known his thoughts better without saying a word than former United States Senator John Kean. We would like to have had a motion picture of his facial expression when he heard that Edward the Martyr had been defeated.

"All things to all men." What better inscription could E. C. S. find for his coat-of-arms?

Colby, too, might have said, "Don't cheer boys, the poor devils are dying."

It will be Sheriff Sebring tomorrow. Glad to greet you, sheriff.

SALOON GREATEST PROBLEM HE SAYS

The Rev. Evarts C. Conover Deliveries Sermon on America's Biggest Peril.

"The Saloon Our Greatest Peril," was the subject of a forceful sermon delivered by Rev. Evarts C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, at the morning service, yesterday. Mr. Conover said that the time had come when the church means to arrive at its desired goal, to fight the demon rum out of the land entirely. Christians should now show their patriotism by centering their energies upon this evil, just as was done some years ago in regard to slavery and the Louisana lottery.

"In the event of any patriotic celebration," said Mr. Conover, "we have observed that the saloon man is the first to hang up the stars and stripes in front of his place of business. But this does not help the nation. Last summer while our soldiers were encamped at Sea Girt, the liquor men sent a car-load of beer to the camp, but the commanding officer ordered it shipped back. It is said of the late Admiral Eaton that when drunk he would issue orders which if carried out would have annihilated the fleet. We don't want a drunken army and navy to protect the nation.

"A strong evil influence has been exercised over some of our public officials through the liquor men. For instance, a very recent case, when former President Taft was presented with an important bill against liquor interests, he vetoed it. He considered his own relation with the liquor men rather than the welfare of the nation. But we are thankful that Congress passed the bill over the President's veto. Another illustration of this same point. A prominent New Jersey official was asked to support an anti-liquor measure and gave as his reason for refusal that the liquor interests had spent more money upon his election than his whole salary amounted to.

"It is poor policy to take one dollar from the liquor traffic for public use and pay out two to correct the harm done by the one. I have watched closely the cases in the local police court and have come to the conclusion that 99 out of every 100 cases are the result of liquor. God help the nation that is willing to sell its manhood and womanhood for money. We are thankful that there will be launched this week in Ohio a national movement that will result in the downfall of America's arch-evil."

CARRANZA ASKS PRESIDENT'S AID

Officially Requests Right to Import Arms Freely.

WOULD SOLVE PROBLEM.

Mexican Rebel Leader Transmits Statement to United States Government Through Dr. H. A. Tupper of the International Peace Forum—Captain Julio Madero's Mission.

By according the Mexican Constitutionalists the right to import arms freely from the United States President Wilson can readily solve the problems that now confront the government in that country.

Such at least is the substance of an official statement from General Venustiano Carranza, head of the rebel army, just transmitted to the government authorities at Washington by Dr. Henry Allen Tupper of the international peace forum.

The struggle in Mexico will continue until one side or the other is beaten into helplessness, the statement asserts. It further declares that the Constitutionalists are confident of wiping out Huerta and his partisans in a short time if the embargo on arms is lifted.

The statement which follows close on the heels of the arrival in Washington of Captain Julio Madero, an officer of General Carranza's staff, is regarded as important in official circles. It may even prove to be the lever by which Huerta may be pried from his loosening grip on Mexican affairs, in the opinion of many who are in close touch with developments across the Rio Grande.

Captain Julio Madero, who is a brother of Francisco I. Madero, the late president of Mexico, is co-operating with Roberto V. Pesqueiro in presenting to Secretary of State Bryan a statement of the purposes of the Mexican Constitutionalists and of the policies that will be pursued by them in case they succeed in overthrowing the dictatorship of General Huerta.

Captain Madero, who was educated in the United States, accompanied General Carranza on his 3,000 mile tour of inspection through the northern states, starting from Piedras Negras and passing through Coahuila, Durango, Chihuahua, Sinaloa and Sonora to Hermosillo.

Fifty Thousand Men Under Arms.

"During our tour," said Captain Madero soon after his arrival in Washington, "we inspected no fewer than 35,000 men in arms. We estimate that the Constitutionalist force in the northern states—that is, men actually armed and in the field—is upward of 50,000. All that is needed to give us an army of twice the size is opportunity to obtain arms.

"The forces now in the field in the entire country in opposition to the Huerta government must aggregate at least 100,000 men. We are constantly receiving requests for arms. Given the opportunity to purchase such supplies as we need in the United States, and the Mexican problem will soon be solved by us."

Neither Mr. Pesqueiro nor Captain Madero would permit himself to be quoted concerning the purpose of his mission to Washington. That the statement both bring for the information of President Wilson is in the nature of a pledge by General Carranza that his only aim is to re-establish true constitutional government and to cure the evils of the land system, which are the basic causes of unrest, is known.

That they will make a strong plea for the lifting of the embargo which prevents the export of arms and ammunition from the United States is certain, even if the official statement from General Carranza just transmitted by Dr. Tupper to the state department did not urge this course. The military outlook, as they see it, could not be more favorable to their cause.

The Military Situation.

They have prepared a complete statement of the military situation, setting forth in detail the strength of the various commands directly reporting to General Carranza as "first chief," the territory under Constitutionalist control, the weakness of the Huerta government even in the vicinity of Mexico City, the railway situation in the republic and other facts they believe to be of importance to President Wilson.

The Constitutionalists assert that they are in possession of more than three-quarters of the territory of the republic of Mexico and that there is not a single state where Huerta has absolute control.

They declare they are in control of practically the whole of the country from the Texas border to the twenty-second parallel. In addition, the Constitutionalists assert that the rebels in practical control of the states southwest of Mexico City and those in control of Tabasco, Campeche and Yucatan are affiliated with the anti-Huerta movement at the north.

They concede to Huerta the greater part of the states of Mexico, Hidalgo, Queretaro and Puebla and the control of the railways from the capital city to Vera Cruz, but say his authority is disputed even in the territory immediately contiguous to Mexico City.

PRESIDENT'S CHOICE FOR AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA

HENRY M. PINDELL

After a long delay, due, it is said, to Russia's deliberate consideration of inquiries as to his acceptability, President Wilson is preparing to send to the Senate the nomination of Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., as Ambassador to Russia. The interval between the announcement that Mr. Pindell had been selected for this post and the transmission of the papers from the State Department to the White House was filled with reports that it was understood that he would serve only a year. Also that he might not spend a great deal of time at St. Petersburg or establish a permanent residence there. It was reported that the Russian government while offering no objection to Mr. Pindell personally remarked on his ignorance of the language.

THE NARROW WAY IS RIGHT AND NATURAL

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong Discourses on the Straight Gate.

"Straight is the gate, and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it, but wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth unto destruction, and many are they that go in thereat," was the subject of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong's discouse at the First Baptist church, last night.

"The narrow way is not only the right way," said Dr. Strong, "but it is the natural way, and if we find it difficult—and that we surely do—it is because we are abnormal, and tinctured with sinful tendencies which put us out of touch with our Creator. The Christian life demands all there is of a man. When Jesus told his diciples to 'strive to enter in at the straight gate' He meant literally to 'agonize' to enter into it. And the Christian life is not alone in this matter. Over the door of every hallway of learning is the word, 'agonize to enter into the straight gate that leads to an education.'

"In the world of science, of music, of art and of industry it is the same story of 'agonizing' to attain. The great of all ages have not become great by no effort on their part, but because of the unswerving devotion to purpose which made no sacrifice too great that they might attain the goal toward which they were working.

"And so it is in the acquiring and maintaining of Christian character. It takes mettle. The world is against it. Much of our current literature is against it; our very natures are against it. Everywhere we may find opportunities to go down in sin and ruin our lives. However, the hardest of the battle is at the first, and having once made a complete surrender to Christ, and adjusted our plans to His plans for us, we find that the yoke which we wear with Him grows lighter and easier and more natural as the days of loving service lengthen into years, and if we work for those companionships and pursuits which have a tendency upward, we shall find them manifold. Is it not worth everything, anything, that we may enter into life—into abundant life—into eternal life and with Him?"

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.

John LeMatty will celebrate his seventh anniversary as superintendent of the Plainfield Rescue Mission, tonight, when there will be a special program in honor of the event, including vocal and instrumental music by the Misses Burnet, and addresses by Rev. NIMRODS TAKE TO FIELDS country around there to Old Bridge has long been noted for the great number of rabbits it holds. The Orange Mountains from Scotch Plains to Morristown have more rabbits this year than have been known in years and although quail do not frequent these mountains to any great extent, numerous English pheasants have been seen from one end of the range to the other. Over 60,000 hunters' licenses have been issued in the State this year, 450 of which were issued in Plainfield and 200 in North Plainfield.

ADD HUNTING STORY

Harry Drier's store on West Front street has once more become the rendezvous for local hunters and numerous nimrods are daily gathering at that place to outline trips across the field and discuss the prospects for a trip to the tall timbers. Among the Plainfielders who have left to trail the bunny are Dr. P. G. Cregar, Charles E. Terry, Charles Allen, David Van Arsdale, A. E. Force, Frank Shrubby, Henry Shrubby, H. J. Brower, A. Updyke, Bert Toms, Warren Townley, J. A. Staats and Fred Sanford. Clinton Conover went to Flemington; Charles Trotter to Berkeley Heights, Charles Stahl and party to Stirling, Charles Wendell to Mt. Bethel, Harry Bush and party left for Martinsville, and George Johnson and William Frowery and a number of friends have gone to Barnegat, where they will spend several days shooting ducks.

Borough Clerk Charles M. Dollive has issued over 200 hunting licenses, the nymrods coming from many local municipalities to secure permission to shoot game in this State. Many took to the fields and woods this morning, among them being William Hogan, Fred Ahardt and Fred Krausse, who went to Far Hills; Christian Stahl and H. M. Clark; John Schenck, who will try his fortune near Gladstone; Clinton DeWitt Conover went to Cherryville, Henry Haurand and Herman Deis followed the trail to Germantown; Oscar Schweitzer, who will try his rifle on an uncle's farm in Mountain avenue, and Alfred DeCamp and Christian Springle, who went to Culvertsville.

WESTFIELD ELEVEN STILL UNBEATABLE

Mt. Ararat Schoolboys Took Rutgers Freshmen Into Camp Saturday.

The Rutgers Freshmen football team was defeated at Westfield, Saturday afternoon, by the Westfield High School, the score being 19 to 6. The Westfield boys commenced their point gathering in the initial period when on a neat end run, followed by a line plunge by Randall, carried the ball over Rutgers' goal line for the first score of the game.

The Freshmen scored their only touchdown in the second quarter. Scanner recovered a fumble and raced down the field for sixty yards and a touchdown.

Westfield scored its other two touchdowns in the last period. The first was scored on a forward pass from Taylor to Class, while the latter was registered by Randall on a beautiful thirty-yard run. Westfield put up a surprising game throughout, the backfield piercing the Rutgers line with ease.

Scanner, Prince and Abram starred for Rutgers, while Randall, Taylor and Cherry performed in stellar style for Westfield.

The lineup:

WESTFIELD.		RUTGERS.
Crutteneer	Left End.	Powell
Class	Left Tackle	Davis
Poole	centre	Critter
Davies	Right Guard	Test
Hohelnstein	Right Tackle	Bloome
Miller	Right End	Clark
Cherry	Quarterback	Scanner
Marsh	Left Half	Abram
Randall	Right Half	Roy
Taylor	Full Back	Bobby

Summary: Touchdowns, Randall 2, Class 1, Scanner 1; goals from touchdowns, Taylor 1; referee, Mr Huber, Westfield; umpire, Mr. Austin, Rutgers; linesmen, Dumpelman and Rayman; timers, Smith and Chapin.

SPEEDY VISITORS THREW BIG SCARE

Woodbridge Outclassed Y. M. C. A. Outfit in All Around Basketball.

EARLY LEAD WON GAME

Locals Manage to Play Defensive Basketball in the Final Period and Win Out By a Count of 29 to 22.

Playing one of the fastest and most consistent games seen on local courts this year, the Woodbridge Athletic Association basketball team threw a big scare into the Y. M. C. A. camp Saturday night, completely outplaying the association quintet in the late stages of the game and forcing the locals to keep constantly on the defense. Lightning team work on the part of the visitors appeared to have the locals completely bewildered and time after time the Woodbridge players worked the ball up and down the floor unhindered by the Y. M. C. A. guards, who seemed at times to be dazed by the speedy playing of their rivals.

Unlike the contest of the previous week when the association five outweighed its opponents, the North Plainfield High School five, this game was directly the reverse, the Woodbridge contingent considerably outweighing the locals. While the visitors were speedy in their passing they were noticeably weak in shooting and many of the attempts went for naught. On the other hand the association team managed to keep in the running through a number of sensational shots and this was the only thing that prevented a defeat.

Basketball luck plainly hovered about the Y. M. C. A. goal and during the initial period most of the baskets were caged from sensational angles and were of the lucky variety. At the end of the initial period the count stood 19 to 6 in favor of the home team, but the horseshoe was lost some time during the intermission and the association boys put up a decidedly inferior article of basketball in the final period. The Woodbridge five, however, took on additional speed in the final session and came within two points of tying the locals. With the count standing 21 to 19 in favor of the Y. M. C. A. players, the association five suddenly woke up to their perilous stand and caging a quartet of field goals in quick succession managed to ring up a safe lead. Comparative scores show the calibre of basketball put up by the visitors in the second half and Woodbridge outscored the locals by a count of 16 to 10 in this period.

Moulton and Gavett put up the best scoring games for the local contingent, while Glover and Brynairski did some good guarding, especially in the latter part of the second half, when the outcome was swaying in favor of the visitors. All of the visiting players put up excellent games and their scoring was evenly divided. The guards were a set of the fastest and brightest ever appearing on the local court and held the local forwards well in check.

The score:

Y. M. C. A.	G.	F.	P.
Moulton, f	4	0	8
McNamee, f	5	0	1
Gavett, c	4	0	8
Brynairski, g	1	1	3
Glover, g	0	0	0
Totals	14	1	29

WOODBRIDGE.	G.	F.	P.
Campbell, f	3	0	6
Fligen, f	2	0	4
Parsons, c	2	0	4
Simmonsen, g	3	0	6
Potter, g	1	0	2
Totals	11	0	22

Score by periods:

Y. M. C. A.	19	10—29
Woodbridge	6	16—22

Summary: Referee, F. O. Dunning, Sr.; umpire, Buckle; timers, Sminck and McElroy; scorers, Berse and McElroy; time of halves, fifteen and twenty minutes.

REPORTS REGARDING Y. M. C. A. DISBANDMENT ARE ERRONOUS

Reports that have become circulated about in other cities regarding the disbandment of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team are entirely without foundation and have evidently been circulated by some miscreant who is trying to break up the local contingent. Letters have been received by the Y. M. C. A. manager from the manager of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. team, who wants to know if the rumor is correct and whether or not to cancel the game booked with the association team of that place for November 22.

A similar report was spread at this time last year and the association manager was caused no end of trouble by the erroneous press publicity that it received. No games have been cancelled and the schedule will be played as pre-arranged.

WHO WILL BE NEXT TO PASS THROUGH THIS GATE AND BE LOST?

In the prisons the political leaders in Mexico have a great instrument to force people to do their will. How many a promising career has been ended by the clank of the prison gate! How many great men have fled at the threat of prison! If a man high in power wishes something that can be gained only by putting some one out of the way he will resort to the prison. He will have the man arrested on a false charge, cast into a cell and left there to die. This thing is now going on in Mexico, but fortunes rise and fall in Mexico. Who will be the next man of importance who will darken the gateway at the military prison in Mexico City?

Present Incumbents Likely to Get New Terms in Union County.

Elizabeth, Nov. 10.—When the Union County Board of Freeholders organizes on January 1 it will have the appointment of a new county auditor. It is now regarded as almost certain that Benjamin King, of Rahway, will be renamed to that office. The term of Dr. Horace Livingood as jail physician and the county penal institution also will expire this year. He, too, is likely to be reappointed.

While the Democrats made a gain in their representation in the county board at the election last Tuesday the Republicans will still have a good working majority, and will be able to control all of the appointments. This makes it probable that Director John N. Cady, of Summit, one of the members who held over, will again be chosen as presiding officer of the board.

The present Republican county officers who were named by the present board will probably be reappointed. They are Nathan R. Leavitt, of this city, county collector; Joseph Bauer, of Elizabeth, county engineer; William R. Coddington, of Plainfield, county attorney; Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, county physician; J. W. Fink, of Westfield, county road supervisor; William H. Hulskamper, of Elizabeth, custodian; Dr. J. Edward Rowe, of Summit, clerk.

PRESIDENT STANDS PAT.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Wilson told inquirers that he was not ready to discuss recognition of the Constitutionalists and that his opposition to raising the embargo on arms had not been changed. The text of the statement given to the diplomatic corps at midnight on Saturday by General Huerta had not been cabled here today by Chargé de Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy.

WASHINGTON'S DENIAL.

Washington, Nov. 10.—It was officially denied today that John Lind had recommended the cessation of diplomatic relations with Mexico. It was also denied that the United States Government had specified a limited time for General Huerta to abdicate. There is present purpose on the part of President Wilson to send a special message to Congress on Mexico.

GARRISON RETURNS.

New York, Nov. 10.—Secretary of War Garrison arrived here today on the S. S. Colon from the Canal Zone. He refused to discuss the Mexican situation or the subject of defenses of the Panama Canal.

MALONE NOMINATED.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Wilson today sent to the Senate the nomination of Dudley Field Malone, of New York, to be collector of customs for the District of New York.

BEILIS IS ACQUITTED.

(By Telegraph to the Daily Press.)

Kieff, Russia, Nov. 10.—Mendel Beilis, who had been tried for ritual murder, was acquitted today.

BEEKMAN IS IN RACE FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP

Trenton, Nov. 10.—Assemblyman A. M. Beekman, of Somerset county, has announced that he will be a candidate for Speaker of the House for the coming session, and it is said that he stands a very good chance of being finally selected.

It is stated here that a number of the State Democratic leaders favor him both because of his ability, indicated at the session last year, and his affiliation with the progressive element. At the same time he is regarded as having made a record for fairness.

It is stated here that there is a sentiment in his favor in Hudson county and that a number of the Democratic members from the smaller counties will support his candidacy.

William A. Leonard, of Union county, has also announced his candidacy for the post, and is said to be supported by the other two members from Union.

WM. JEFFERY EMULATES THE GREATEST PEDESTRIAN

Emulating Edward P. Weston, William Jeffrey, president of the Plainfield Board of Trade, keeps in trim by covering on foot the distance between Plainfield and his bungalow home in Berkeley Heights. He tramps leisurely over in the morning, pausing now and then to read the sayings of Marcus Aurelius and Polton Hall, in turn, and when he retraces his steps at nightfall he may stop every little while to peruse what Henry George, Lawson Purdy and A. C. Pleydell have written.

The president of the Board of Trade claims that he can cover the distance in forty-seven minutes.

RUINED BY BASEBALL BETS.

Quaker Fan Says He Has Lost $200,000 on National Pastime.

Standing in the long watch shortly before the gates were thrown open before the last world's series game in New York at the Polo Grounds was a soldier of fortune, aged seventy. His name was Michael Hagsmann. Baseball had ruined him, so he said, and he hoped it would finally give him a square meal. It would, he said, if he could sell his place in line for the price of a regular repast.

Once he owned restaurants in Philadelphia and was worth $200,000, but he guessed wrong on the world's series every year and made other bets on baseball, with the result that today he is reduced to membership in the bread line. He sold his place for $2.

—Some store may be placing on "special sale" just now the article you have not felt like paying "regular" prices for.

STATEMENT
OF CHAS. KURTZMAN
THE PLAINFIELD FUR DEALER

To the Plainfield people who are interested in furs—

ON THE FUR QUESTION.

As a rule, any lady, in doing shopping, no matter how small may be the article desired, is careful to buy it right. But when it comes to buying furs, no matter how careful she is, nor how much she may know about the subject, it is still necessary for her to trade at a place where she can have confidence in the reliability of the dealer. In buying of an exclusive furrier you cannot suffer from misrepresentation, because if the dealer was not reliable, he could not stay long in town. You are protected by his personal training and knowledge. In buying at a department store you have no such protection. There you deal with a clerk who merely registers her employer's orders like an automaton.

LITTLE TALKS
BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 29.

WHEN I entered my favorite lunchroom yesterday at noon, I hadn't the silghtest idea what I wanted to eat. The man who sat opposite me at one of the long tables was eating chicken salad. It looked good, so I ordered some of the same.

Pretty soon, two young men came in together and seated themselves at the table with my salad-eating neighbor and myself. They, too, were evidently undecided as to what they desired for lunch. Glancing my way, one of them caught sight of the salad. He nudged his friend. Then the order was given to the waiter: "Bring us two portions of chicken salad, please."

That subtle power about which so much has been written by business psychologists of late—Suggestion—had gotten in its work. Perhaps the man, who seemingly, started this little game of mimicry was himself impressed by a suggestion from another. Who knows? I have seen the same thing happen in various forms in that same lunchroom, time and again.

Suggestion, properly used, is a power. I am speaking now of conscious suggestion—advertising. Advertising, at best, is simply suggestion—the strongest form of salesmanship. There's no deep scientific theory about that statement—it's a plain fact.

A man may not be in need of a new shirt, say, or a cravat, or a hat, or an umbrella. But he sees one of these things attractively advertised somewhere. Right then and there the Power of Suggestion gets busy. And pretty soon that man's interest is aroused. Then, if the advertising man knows his business, that interest is developed into desire. Then money changes hands. What started it? Suggestion—advertising.

Nearly everybody reads the Classified columns of the newspapers. You can keep your personal or business announcement before the people of this city in those columns at small expense. Your advertisement there is a daily—a cumulative—suggestion to the great purchasing public.

Others have profited that way. Why not you?

A Sewing Kit In the Kitchen.

A sewing kit of some kind is a great help in the kitchen. It should not be simply a big needle and a spool of coarse cotton sitting on a window sill and a pair of scissors hiding somewhere in a table drawer. It should be a well-equipped little box or bag or case of some sort, always in a known place, filled with sewing materials—not to mend aprons and torn dish towels, but for use in preparing food.

Incidentally a bag containing a thimble, a spool of white cotton and some needles and buttons, to use to mend kitchen towels, dining room linen, dust cloths and aprons and caps, might be a good idea.

But the sort of sewing kit that is a cook's good friend is one that is furnished with sewing materials for food.

A Convenient Set.

A convenient sort of kit is made by covering two squares of pasteboard, which measure four or five inches each way, with cretonne and then overhanding the two together. Better still, seam the two pieces of cretonne on three sides, turn the seams on the inside and slip two pieces of pasteboard in. This leaves only one side to be overhanded.

Before fastening the pieces of cretonne together, fasten a strip of tape across the face of one. Leave a small loop at one side just big enough to hold a thimble. Have another flat loop of tape in which a paper of big needles can be slipped. Leave the tape loose at one end, and sew an end of tape three or four inches long ameSgph-gafll .,:;vbgkb of chintz. When the boards are slipped in place and the chintz is sewed together, put a paper of needles in the flat loop, an aluminum thimble in its loop and slip a big spool of coarse basting thread, suitable for sewing up poultry, over the loose end of the tape, tying the end of the tape in a secure bow with the other end.

The Scissors.

There should be a good pair of steel scissors hanging with this sewing kit. A pair of tiny, ten-cent scissors might be slipped in another little tape loop, and these scissors might be used to snip threads.

But the good pair of steel scissors should be hung on a peg near the kitchen table—perhaps a peg in the end of the kitchen table.

These scissors will come in for dozens of uses that any housewife will think of.

For one thing, when raisins are to be chopped for cake, flour the scissors and cut the raisins. This will be found far more satisfactory than trying to chop them in a bowl.

When meat is to be cut for a stew it can often be more easily cut with scissors.

Lettuce can be quickly shredded, and so can cabbage, with scissors.

Many other uses will suggest themselves from time to time.

The scissors, of course, should always be thoroughly cleaned and dried after each using.

Some Cookery Suggestions

THANKSGIVING PUDDINGS.

SOME simple and economical puddings are suggested here, as follows:

Indian Apple Pudding. — Into one quart of boiling milk stir one cupful of sifted cornmeal, then one quart of pared and quartered sweet apples, one cupful of molasses, a small teaspoonful of salt and a little cinnamon and nutmeg. Mix well, add two quarts of milk, pour into a well buttered dish and bake slowly for four hours. Serve with sweetened cream, either plain or whipped.

Wholesome Sweets.

Rice Pudding.—Over the bottom of a baking dish scatter one-half cupful well washed raw rice, one-half cupful sugar, a pinch of salt, a sprinkle of nutmeg. Then pour on one quart of milk. Bake in a medium oven an hour and a half. Do not stir at all. Bake until the rice shows above the milk and it is done. Every grain should be separate. The milk is like heavy cream, and it is delicious hot or cold. If the oven is too hot the milk evaporates and the pudding is too stiff.

Golden Pudding.—Bake stale bread a golden brown and crush to a fine powder while hot. Of the crumbs take four ounces, two ounces of brown sugar or golden sirup, two ounces of raisins or dried cherries, half a pint of milk and the same of boiling water, together with half a teaspoonful of allspice. Pour the boiling water on the crumbs, stir well and let them soak until soft. Then mix in all the other ingredients and pour the mixture into a dish rubbed with butter and bake for twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Dainty Baked Pudding.

Fruit Pudding. — Take a quart of stale bread, rolls or cake or a mixture of all. Grease a baking dish and break the bread into pieces. Moisten with hot water to soften and thicken with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cornstarch. Add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and about two cupfuls of cooked fruit. Mix in this one-half cupful of shredded cocoanut and one sliced banana. Save a few slices of the banana to spread on top of the pudding. Bake about fifteen minutes and serve with a sauce made from two beaten eggs, one cupful of white sugar and one-half teaspoonful of flavoring, preferably vanilla or lemon.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Dog Which Had Too Many Good Things.

Dan Was a Clever Dog.

JACK liked good things to eat. Most small boys do. Sometimes, though, he wanted more of them than his mother thought was good for him. There had been very nice cake for tea. Jack and Evelyn had each had a piece, but when Jack asked for a second piece his mother very firmly said no.

"If you eat too much cake you will be ill," daddy advised.

"Let me tell you about Dan, a bulldog which belonged to a man who lives in the west.

"As Dan grew up he became a great favorite with the family. He was as clever and as handsome a dog as you would wish to meet.

"His master became so fond of Dan that nothing was thought to be too good for him. Dan early showed a fondness for chicken, and he was fed chicken twice a day, while ham and eggs, which he also liked, were given to him whenever he wanted them.

"But the more chicken and ham and eggs he ate the fatter Dan became. Every little while he had a sick spell. Oh, dear, how ill he was!

"As soon as he was well again he would gobble more chicken and ham and eggs and have to have the doctor again.

"Then one day he became very, very ill, and the doctor, although he did his best, could do nothing for him. Dan died.

"The dog's master was overcome with grief. The sorrowing family laid him away in a spot in the garden which Dan had seemed to love. There he had buried his bones and slept on hot summer days.

"And his fond master and sorrowing friends said something ought to be done about Dan's death. They did not think so young and promising a dog should have died so young.

"So they went to see the man who had sold Dan to his master, and the man asked how Dan had been cared for.

"'What did you give him to eat?' the dog man wanted to know.

"'Why, chicken and ham and eggs and all sorts of good food,' they answered.

"The man looked very grave and shook his head.

"'That isn't the kind of food to give a dog. No wonder he died. Things like that don't agree with dogs. He died from overeating.'

"So if that happened to Dan, think how bad rich food may be for little boys and girls, and don't fret too much when mother denies you a second piece of cake."

HERE WE NOTE THE DROP SHOULDER ON A COAT

Essentially plain and straight of line, the separate coat must be smart of cut. For trimming it depends more or less upon an oddly shaped rever, an attractive cuff or belt.

The novelty fabrics, in which many of these coats are made, are in themselves decorative, and few trimmings are required. Tweeds in new mixtures effectively relieved by plain materials, ratines, velours de laine and the new fur fabrics are all favored. These new fur fabrics, by the way, are some of them so much like the real skins that it is difficult to tell the difference. They are light, supple and warm. One of them—broadtail, for instance—could be used with 7983 very appropriately. Here ratine was used with cuffs, collar and revers of brocaded satin. To copy in size 36 4⅝ yards of 42 inch material will be needed with ⅝ of a yard of brocade.

There is something very attractive about the lines of 7978. It resembles closely a suit of Poiret, made of bright blue velours de laine with trimmings of black silk braid and touches of scarlet, the buttons were centered with scarlet. The drop shoulder effect, the low belt and the turndown collar are modish and distinctive.

3⅛ yards of 36 inch velours de laine with 5 yards of braid will be needed to make in size 36.

Four Exceptionally Simple and Attractive Designs For Embroidering Handkerchiefs.

Charming indeed are the dainty little hand-embroidered handkerchiefs seen in the exclusive shops and particularly practical, as well as simple and attractive, are the designs shown here.

These designs may all be developed in heavily padded solid work and eyelets on fine linen lawn or handkerchief linen. They would be especially attractive, developed in a color to match the suit or dress, or may be embroidered entirely in white. The scallops should be slightly padded, so as to give a firm edge and keep the material from fraying. Fine mercerized cotton should be used for embroidering all articles which are to be frequently laundered as it washes better and is firmer than silk. One-half or three-eighths in. initials may be placed in these wreaths which are also suitable for use on underwear, infants' clothes and neckwear as well as on fancy articles.

Care should be taken in stamping the design, to see that the edge of the scallops run straight with the threads of the material.

Pattern number 14277 includes borders and corners for stamping four handkerchiefs, also sixteen wreaths. This pattern will be supplied to readers for ten cents.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR HOPE CHAPEL

Local Quintet Trounced the Eagle Five of Elizabeth by a Score of 34 to 18.

WINNERS SHOW SPEED

Hard Fighting and Many Opportunities to Cage Goals From Foul Line Features the Second Victory of the Season on the Hope Court.

Displaying basketball that savored of the sensational, Hope Chapel defeated a worthy foe in the Eagle Five, of Elizabeth, Saturday night, coming out on the advantage end of a 34 to 18 score, after two periods of brilliant play on the Hope court. After piling up a count of 20 to 6 in the first session the Hope contingent resorted to an exhibition of speedy passing and team work and during the final session played rings around their opponents.

As a point getter, Tommy Heron was the shining light, totaling up thirteen points on three goals from the field and seven counters from the foul line. Captain Doig piled up five field goals, while Snyder and J. Heron came next with a brace each. For the visitors Mahoney was the leader in the scoring work, getting two field and four foul goals.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please tell me if one gets sick in service or while employed who is to pay the doctor's bill or what the law provides in this case —S. O. W.

Answer—The law makes one liable for his own debts and therefore if one gets ill and receives a doctor's services he must pay for the same. You probably have the law mixed with the Liability Act, which prescribes the liability of an employer to make compensation for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How many points does a field goal count this year?—N. G.

Answer—Three.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can one secure tickets for the lightweight championship fight in New York tonight?—C. S. D.

Answer—Apply at the box office in Madison Square Garden where the fight will be held. There will be plenty of tickets for the bout and there is no need of purchasing them in advance.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I send a letter to a friend in the army and navy, stationed in New York?—D. S.

GIRLS CAMPAIGNING FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

N. P. H. S. Feminine Basketball Team on the War-path to Squelch "Monopoly."

Contending that the male athletes of the school are monopolizing the $300 appropriation for athletics set aside by the North Plainfield Board of Education and that the girls of the school are subjected to masculine rule, officials of the feminine basketball team are up in arms and have presented a list of demands to the Boys' Athletic Association, which they want granted immediately. The girls claim that the boys' basketball team has assumed the role of superiority in operating the activities in Saengerbund Hall, which has been leased for the season as a basketball court for the borough school teams and furthermore claim that they are subjected to "boss rule."

Although the feminine athletes have delegated Ralph Smalley as counsel they have thus far been unable to gain recognizance from the Boys' A. A. and are planning strenuous measures to bring about a satisfactory agreement. At present the girls' team is given the use of the court on Thursday and Friday afternoons but they want to affect an arrangement by which the practise hours can be more evenly distributed.

HOPE SECOND FIVE WON IN THE SECOND

Behind in the First Stanza, the Chapelites Pile up Ten Point Advantage.

Repeating the good work of last week against a North Plainfield quintet, the Hope chapel second team this time came out ahead on the bigger end of a 32 to 22 score, playing the preliminary game at the chapel Saturday night against the Sophomore class five of the North Plainfield High School. At the end of the first half the visitors led by a margin of six points, the score being 18 to 12 but soon after the beginning of the final session the home team began to climb and soon tied and passed their rivals who made a game effort to hold the fast flying chapelites in check.

During the second period the visitors could ring up but one field goal and managed to net two from the foul line, bringing their total up to four for this stanza.

WATCHUNG HUNT ENJOYS LONG AND EXCITING CHASE

The run of the Watchung hounds on Saturday, about twenty miles, was so long that although the starting time was 2:30 o'clock it was nearly dark before the finish. The meeting place was at Meeker Inn, at Union. The hounds were cast in nearby and started in the direction of Roselle and Cranford, checking on the Miller estate at Kenilworth. Cast in again on the Miller estate, the hounds continued the run toward and crossing the Cranford river, checking at Mountainside.

In this line there was much stiff fencing and one of these brought Miss Marjorie Brown to grief. She pluckily remounted and finished. The hounds were again cast in on the Eastman property going to and checking at Fanwood. During this run some twenty fences could be seen negotiated by both horses and riders from the roadway where autos and traps followed. The hounds were again cast in near Fanwood and started for the final line. A beefsteak dinner was served at the clubhouse in the evening, after the run, there being about forty members and friends present.

The following finished in the chase: Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, R. H. Towner, Miss Gertrude Noe, H. A. Bourne, S. D. French, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Margaret Dana, Beverley Brown, H. L. Finch and Huntsman Harrison.

HARVARD'S STAR BACK WAS PROMINENT IN TIGER DEFEAT

Although he was forced to retire from the preliminary practice at the beginning of the 1913 gridiron season on account of injuries, Mahan came back in his best form Saturday afternoon and was the most conspicuous figure in the Harvard team's all around work, not excepting the great Brickley whose toe sent the logey ball squarely between the goal posts for the three points that meant victory. With Mahan in the back field the crimson attack was strengthened almost one hundred per cent. in the estimation of those who ought to know and the entire repertoire of plays that depend upon speed and precision for successful execution were made possible by his return to the fold.

C. W. MAHAN,

Princeton as a rule was able to gain more ground from scrimmage Saturday, but Harvard's two wonderful backs, Brickley and Mahan, contributed a magnificent run apiece that gave Harvard an edge on the ground gaining. Mahan's run was a masterpiece considering the slippery condition of the field. He employed the use of the straight arm, the change of pace and the other arts employed by football prima donnas to fool thir opponents. His sprint came toward the end of the first half when he caught one of Law's long punts on his own twenty-five yard line and ran fifty yards to Princeton's twenty-five yard line. Several times he was apparently downed; once when blocked off by Princeton tacklers and the side line, he stood stock still until an interferer came along and enabled him to canter on. His run gave Brickley a chance for a field goal from the 35-yard line but the kick was low.

DEXTERS DEFEATED HOLY CROSS AND THUS WIN THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Borough Eleven is Defeated by Perth Amboy Team That Was Considered an Inferior Opponent Last Season When the Locals Coveted the New Jersey Club Title—Final Score 12 to 0—Impregnable and Irresistable Line of the Visitors Held the Red and White Warriors in Close Surveilance.

Following nearly a year of verbal and written argumentation in which rival managers acter as generals, the much-heralded Holy Cross-Dexter football match to decide the club "championship of New Jersey" was relegated to the terra firma of Cricket Field Saturday afternoon and it so proved that the Amboy eleven sprang the inevitable and triumphed over the local eleven by a count of 12 to 0. The forwards of the visiting squad lock-stepped in a literal brick wall which formed a wonderfully adamant defense.

In prying open another era in Central New Jersey football history, the Dexters negotiated two touchdowns almost before the home warriors had an opportunity to become acquainted with the logey pigskin and during the entire first half the dazzling attack of Perth Amboy's ubiquitous forwards was remarkable.

Coupled with their power to spasmodically smash the Holy Cross defense the Amboy aggregation of rushers demonstrated their ability to work an extraordinarily classic secondary defense and the few occasions on which a red and white man found himself past the Dexter forwards he was immediately confronted by the inner wall of defense. In the second half the locals took on a decided brace and had the influx of substitutes ordered to the front at the eleventh hour. Had they been hustled onto the gridiron earlier in the fray the result might have been vastly different.

During the few minutes he was in the fracas Jack Ricketts ran the ball in a finished style and placed himself on the pinnacle with other elect luminaries by his sprint after a fleeing opponent in an open field and pulling the offender unceremoniously to earth, saving his side from another touchdown. Aided by their cleverness in executing series and trick plays the visitors time and again made their distance in two and three downs. Both aggregations pulled off their share of deceptive plays but the Plainfielders lost out because of their inability to diagnose the Amboy attack and take advantage of a few rare openings in the impregnable and irresistable defense of the Dexters.

Apparently recuperating the Holy Cross warriors started off in the second half with a brilliant flash of speed but when once the Dexters got warmed up the local's offensive plunges were aborative and the interference soon markedably slowed down.

The Dexters won the toss and receiving the kick-off at once asserted their superiority making the first down in two tries and carrying the oval to Holy Cross' thirty-yard line. From this point Seal was sent around end for a touchdown on a clever shift play but failed in kicking the goal on an easy try. The Dexters marched straight to a touchdown, making their goal in less than five minutes. Jerry Manning received the ball on the kickoff and in running it back twenty yards knocked out two of the opposing tacklers, one of whom had to retire from the game for good. Holy Cross could not get through the impregnable defense and was held for downs. Both sides took on a decided brace at this point and during the remainder of the game the ball zig-zagged back and forth being in Holy Cross territory the greater part of the time. The Dexters proved to be clever manipulators of the forward pass gaining ten and twelve yards in quick succession by this means. Mair, Ruttledge, Ricketts, Coyle and Caulfield played star games for the home team while to single out an individual set of laurel bearers on the opposite side would be practically impossible, all of the visitors showing up in brilliant fashion.

LOCAL NIMRODS TAKE TO FIELDS

Many Plainfielders Among Those on the Trail of Bunnies and Birds.

WILD GAME ABUNDANT

Some Favorite Spots Where Gunners Can Shoot During the Coming Month—Pointers for the Hunters —Where Plainfielders Have Gone.

It was estimated by local authorities this morning that fully 200 Plainfielders made their first dash into the fields at daybreak today as at that time the hunting season for quail, rabbits, squirrel, partridge, prairie chicken, wild turkey, Hungarian partridge and male English pheasants was opened. Many and scattered were the destinations of the nimrods and while some hiked into nearby woodlands, others went for a trip into the wilds of northern New Jersey where the game is said to be unusually plentiful. Local sporting goods dealers reaped a harvest through the sale of shot guns and ammunition Saturday night and many new guns will be tried out for the first time today and tomorrow.

The Legislature has set a limit on the number of game birds that may be killed or kept in possession during the open season from today to December 15, inclusive, as follows: Ten quail, three pheasants, three Hungarian partridge, ten woodcock, three ruffed grouse or partridge, ten geese, twenty ducks, ten brant and ten rabbits. Reports from different sections of the State show that game is in better condition and in greater numbers than has been the case in a number of years, the credit for which is given to the State Fish and Game Commission because of the number of birds sent out from the game farm at Forked River and because of the systematic manner in which they have been distributed about the State.

Few of the sections boast of the fine hunting that is to be had in Ocean county. The dense pine woods down that way shelters many a covey of quail, and rabbits never were so plentiful as they are at present. Forked River hunting guides report lots of game in that section and the people of Toms River say that the wild animals are abundant.

The best hunting in the northern part of the State is in Warren county, but there is good rabbit and quail hunting in Passaic county, too. Partridge hunters will go to the mountainous district along the Greenwood Lake railroad, especially in that section south of the lake proper, and others may go up along the railroads toward Lake Hopatcong. This latter section has attracted the attention of many Plainfielders who delight in partridge shooting.

Many local nimrods went to stations along the Jersey Central railroad which have always proved good shelters for the quail and pheasants and in sections around Marlboro, Brandeville and Wichatunk, all stations on the Jersey Central, where considerable garden truck is raised, the farmers welcome the gunners, as the rabbits devour their truck, and since the adoption of the law that prohibits the farmer from trapping the rabbits they have caused considerable damage to young crops in that section. Over 1,000 rabbits were taken out of that section of Monmouth county last hunting season.

Nearby woodlands and fields also abound in rabbit and quail and sections of Middlesex county bordering on the Raritan river will receive the attention of many local gunners and there is a large field borderipg on the county road near South Amboy where quail have been seen and the

THE FABRIC'S THE THING

FILMY "LAMPSHADE" on CHARMEUSE GOWN

7930

FRENCH women are revelling in a season of fancy dress so far as fabrics are concerned, and we are certain to follow their lead or be out of fashion, judging from the styles of recent Paris festivities which have set the pace for the winter. After long years when plain materials were worn almost exclusively, the change to brocades and other novelty weaves is welcome. They make possible more beautiful and more elegant costuming than ever, as designers conceive it.

Scarcely a dress or suit is made up on one kind of material by itself. The three models on this page show that and also hint at the variety of fabrics in vogue. There never was a time when so many kinds of loom products could be used as now, ranging from wide width chiffon velvets to delicate chiffon and filmy laces. The French delight to combine these extremes. If you have a very simple one-piece day gown it should have a frill or a vestee of net. On the other hand, your evening gown of velvet, satin souple or gay brocade must have a bodice made almost entirely of lace.

On the left is a dressy gown of the Poiret type with a black and white lace forming the surplice bodice and a tunic overdress outstanding from a scant foundation skirt of brown satin. The model (7930) is youthful, even in the darker colorings, with jet bordering the large armholes and the front sections. There is an upstanding frill of lace and a bowknot ornament on the middle of the corsage. To be ultra smart you can wire the "lampshade" tunic as it is shown. This pattern comes in three sizes only, up to 36 bust measure. Since the lace and chiffon overdresses are an added feature, it is possible to develop many very attractive little gowns from those of last season by combining two or three yards of new lace or some other material that may have been laid away.

Delicate evening shades are now no more fashionable than dark colors, the secret being in artistic and strange minglings with draperies and outlines to give the approved silhouette with outstanding hips.

For street and house dresses the tier skirt is a popular and attractive model (8002) in the "compose" suit, as the French distinguish a three-piece combination favored particularly by well dressed women in the American metropolis. Any appropriate fancy blouse is included. Satin souple is a soft silk used for the tier skirt as illustrated, with a plain foundation and two upward curved tunics.

The jaunty bolero (7761) is the latest type of short jacket which supercedes all longer garments in suit models. It is loosely hung and therefore simple to copy with the pattern for a guide. Blue and black brocade is the rich looking material, set off with collar and cuffs of fox.

Moire is extremely stylish, not alone in silk, as used in a Hague blue color for the illustration on the right, but also in short nap plush and velour for day and evening dress wraps and for trimming. The skirt (7956) is a peg-top with a graceful drapery at the knee, caught with a jet pendant. The gathered blouse is of net with pink satin ribbon cross banding, veiled with blue chiffon. The peplum girdle with pointed front pieces is a snappy adjunct, suitable for many other kinds of less dressy gowns. Each number of all the patterns described on this page is 15 cents.

Roses and Other Flowers Made of Ribbon.

ACCESSORIES are an indispensable feature of this season's modish gowns, adding as much or as little cost as the wearer is willing to pay for. First of all come the innumerable filmy vests and guimpes, frills and plaitings which are separable from the dress most frequently, as they need to be cleaned or replaced so often. Scalloped and embroidered net guimpes and vestees are among the choicest and daintiest belongings possible for the clever needlewoman to make at a mere fraction of the cost of the ready made article. Vests and girdles of rich brocades add a telling bright note to sombre suits, and may also be made easily from choice bits of old materials, rich tapestries and the exquisite new embossed, brocaded and printed ribbons. Quite as important, too, are small flowers, fruits, garlands, wreaths and even buckles fashioned of hand-made ribbon blossoms and bits of silk. They are very dainty and effective as trimmings of lace and net gowns. Soft sashes are seen on French frocks with a circle of buds in the knot at the belt and another bunch caught in the end. Berries and small apples with a stem and a leaf or two or are worn on some of the smartest soft velvet and plush hats.

The illustration above shows a full blown rose made of pink satin ribbon with artificial leaves, a carnation flower and bud from ribbon cut in sharp points to resemble the natural blossom, and the sections of a rose in the process of making. The fine wire for stems may be bought on spools at any "notion" counter, and green calyxes may be bought where paper flower materials are sold when they are preferred to ribbon.

The tiniest roses are perhaps the simplest to make. Use the softest satin ribbon available, or even bits of wide dress material, in pieces one and a quarter inches wide and six long, or more according to the size of the flower. Join the two edges and run a gathering thread through them as pictured and begin to roll round and round after fastening one end for the centre. Pull the thread as you wind. Fasten and sew to the wire, which should be looped at one end. Slip the calyx over the wire and add leaves made from two inch squares of green satin. Fold the leaf squares in triangles and gather the edges.

Forget-me-nots may be made from No. 1 ribbon, making a loop for each petal and fastening to the stem, with yellow seed stitches in the centre. Larger roses, such as are used singly on the corsage or for sachets, and other decorations for fancy work are made from two sets of ribbon petals in one or two shades of material. The outer row consists of four pieces, each five inches long, and the inside of the flower is of six pieces, four inches long. Fold each in a loop, turn back and tack each corner and gather the separate petals on the bottom, after which they may be attached to a stem and artificial yellow stamens.

Tunic edges and the neck and sleeves of new evening gowns are very up to date when bordered with a trimming of tiny chiffon or satin roses. They are sewed at equal distances on a gold or silver soutache braid and have little leaves or bows of rope silk tied in bowknots between the flowers. This is a suggestion possible for one to carry out who may be too far from city shops to buy the ready-made French novelties.

Equally effective trimmings are those of sparkling rhinestones, jet, pearl and other colored beads as shown on gowns on this page.

Useful Hints For House and Larder.

MANY women find it easier or better to sprinkle freshly laundered clothes from a bottle than with the hand. There are perforated aluminum tops with cork bottoms to fit in almost any large bottle to be had for ten cents each, but a cork notched lengthwise will answer the same purpose.

Crepe tissue paper or brown tissue in rolls or packages is a most practical addition to the kitchen supplies, for it can be used in numerous ways to save labor and keep grease from clogging waste pipes. Dinner plates may be rubbed almost clean with the paper before being put into the dishpan and the last coffee grounds wiped from the pot before it is washed. Paper polishes windows and mirrors and leaves no traces of lint.

As effectual as many cleaning devices for silverware to be bought in the shops is a home method of using a piece of common sheet zinc in a pan of water in which have been dissolved a tablespoonful of salt and the same quantity of bicarbonate of soda (baking soda). Each article to be cleaned must touch the zinc and be wholly immersed or else only that part which is under the water will become bright. The process is instantaneous. The solution may be used over and over while it is strong, and the zinc must be thoroughly scrubbed and clean in order that the galvanic action will take place.

Cold meat left-overs, so unappetizing to many, may be prepared in dishes that will prove among the choicest on the family menu. One of these is Beef Rissoles.

To make them, chop cold roast beef and season with salt, pepper and kitchen bouquet. Make some plain pastry dough, roll it thin and cut into four inch squares. In each place some of the prepared beef, fold one edge over like a turnover, drop in deep fat and fry.

Parsnip Croquettes.

Boil one pound of parsnips and press them through a sieve or mash until they are smooth. Pour one-half cupful of boiling milk over half a pound of breadcrumbs and the parsnip paste, one ounce of butter, a teaspoonful of grated cheese, the beaten yolks of two eggs and a few drops of lemon juice. Mix thoroughly and form into balls. Roll each in the beaten white of an egg, then in breadcrumbs, and cook in deep fat.

Stuffed Eggs.

Chop very fine one pickle, one green pepper, a little parsley and onion. Rub the yolks of half a dozen hard boiled eggs with the vegetable and add a tablespoonful of anchovies or sardines. Moisten the ingredients with a little French salad dressing. Fill the halves of the whites of eggs with the mixture and serve them cold on crisp leaves of lettuce.

Butter Curls.

Butter curls are a newer form in which to serve butter than balls. They are made with a steel knife turned up on the end like a hook and corrugated on one side. From a cake of butter in a pan of ice water draw the hook toward you and a "curl" will roll up.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE

"If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible: Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. MARTIN ANXIOUS FOR REAL FIGHT

Jersey National Guard Major Tells Co. K He's Ready to March on Mexico.

'AGIN' WILSON POLICY

Trophies and Medals Presented at Second Reunion of Citizen-Soldiery Feedfest—"Serg" Tranchard Tells All About Mexico.

Plans for forming a veteran association together with the awarding of prize medals for marksmanship and a "feed" were features of the second reunion of Co. K, Second Regiment, held in the armory on West Front street, last night. Among the visitors present was Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, former captain of the company, and the boys gave him a hearty welcome.

The proposition to form a veteran association was well received and a committee comprising Corporal Philip Winter, Lieut. Hort and "Doc" Richards was appointed to arrange the details and report at the next meeting of the company.

After the banquet, at which Captain Charles A. Peterson was the toastmaster, medals were awarded to several of the present members and one former member for one hundred per cent. duty during the past years. Former Corporal Philip Winter received a silver medal for five years' continuous faithful service. In presenting this medal, Captain Peterson briefly outlined what it means to win such a medal.

Major Martin then presented the company with the John Roger William trophy, a hansome silver loving cup won by Co. K's five-man team at Sea Girt last year. This trophy was first awarded to the regiment by the widow of John Roger William, one of the best shots in New Jersey, to be competed for every year by teams of five men from companies of the Second Regiment and to be awarded to the company having the highest total score on the 200, 300 and 500 yard ranges. The men that comprised Co. K's winning team were Lieut. James B. Conkling, Corporal, now Sergeant, George B. Howell, Corporal, now Sergeant A. H. Van Arsdale, Quartermaster Sergeant Arthur Dow and Sergeant Oliver R. Pearson.

Major Martin also presented the company with the Dungan trophy, a bronze statue awarded the company for making the greatest amount of improvement in rifle practice for one year. Sergeant George B. Howell was the winner of the gold medal, awarded to the member having the highest qualification score of the company winning the Dungan trophy. Major Martin expressed great pleasure in being privileged to present the trophies to Co. K, adding that any organization capable of winning such honors in one year showed that it gave a great deal of attention to rifle practice.

Turning his attention to Mexico, Major Martin gave the boys a little insight into the troubles in that country. While he said that he was not in sympathy with the policy of the Administration, if the time ever comes and the War Department ever wants his battalion to go to or across the border he hopes that it will be as a unit.

"In 1898 when the Spanish-American War broke out," said Major Martin, "I closed up my business and after pestering the colonel succeeded in obtaining a place on his staff and went through the campaign. This time if intervention is to be had I will not have to bother the colonel, but will immediately close up business and proceed accordingly. If that time ever comes I hope to have you all with me and I will promise you now that I will harden you up and fix you both physically and mentally so that you can fight and do all sorts of things."

Former Lieut. N. H. Hort after giving a few reminiscences, made a short talk on what was expected of each and every member to make the organization a success and urged all the men to show the same spirit as the gallant eighteen men of a company of the 9th Regiment (regulars), who survived the massacre in the Philippines.

Battalion Adjutant Albert I. Littell presented the members of the company who had served faithfully during the past year, with 100 per cent. medals and bars to be added the string of bars by those who have served year after year out with a faithfulness that deserves great credit. Those who received these medals were Captain Charles A. Pearson, Lieut. Arthur R. Phillips, Sergeant George B. Howell, Sergeant Oliver R. Pearson and Privates Rudolph Heinold and Philip Millwater.

Among the other speakers of the evening was former Sergeant Alfred R. Tranchard, formerly of this city, but now of Richmond, Va., who gave a brief account of his visit through Mexico, in which by way of compari-

SEWER COMMISSION WILL BE SELECTED

Officials of Three Municipalities to Decide on Its Membership.

The Councils of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, together with the Mayors of those municipalities will hold a joint meeting in the Common Council rooms of the city tomorrow night, at which time a commission will be selected from the three bodies to handle the joint trunk sewer matter in the future under the terms of the State law. This is another one of the final steps required to complete the transaction.

One of the most important features of the proposition will be the condemnation proceedings in connection with the purchase of the Darling farm where it is proposed to locate the disposal works. After the joint commission is appointed the condemnation proceedings will be undertaken.

INTERIOR DECORATION TOPIC FOR DISCUSSION

Monday Afternoon Club Science Department's Subject.

"Interior Decoration" was the general topic of the meeting held at the Plainfield Public Library, yesterday afternoon, under the direction of the science department of the Monday Afternoon Club. There was a large attendance of members and others interested in the study of household economics.

The subject was opened by Miss Beatrice B. Gardner, who is in charge of the housekeeping school being conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association. Every phase of housekeeping is taught by Miss Gardner and it was about this work she spoke yesterday. Her talk was of unusual interest treating as it did a somewhat new line of study here.

Following Miss Gardner's talk, Miss Edith Van Boskerck gave an interesting lecture on "Interior Decoration," going into small details of household interior decoration, giving the principles, color-scheme and other important features which combine to make the interior of a house attractive. After the lecture there was an informal discussion of the subject in which many of those present took part.

COMMISSIONERS FOR THE SEWER EXTENSION

Howard C. Tracy, Daniel J. Couran and John G. MacLaughlin were appointed commissioners in the matter of assessing benefits and damages under the provision of the act to provide the sanitary sewers by Mayor Stewart, at last night's meeting of the Common Council, and the appointments were confirmed through a resolution offered by Councilman C. C. Randolph.

The commissioners' first duty will be to apportion the benefits and damages in the matter of sewer extension made by contract with Charles A. Peterson, Mobus Brothers and Michael Garfone, the whole amount of cost being $78,156.

ITALIAN SONG BIRDS TO GIVE RECITAL HERE

Nana Genovese, the Italian mezzo-soprano, and Umberto Sorrentino, the Italian lyric tenor, are to unite in a joint recital at Hartridge Auditorium, Monday evening, November 24. As a favorite pupil of Lombardi, Madame Genovese made her debut in opera in her own country and then was engaged by Oscar Hammerstein for his former Manhattan Opera Company. Her voice is rich and beautiful and she sings with much warmth and charm.

Sorrentino is one of the most versatile singers before the public. He sings in English, French, Italian, Spanish and a half dozen dialects. His programs are made up of classical arias and arias from modern operas; he sings many kinds of songs and is particularly delightful as an interpreter of the Neapolitan street song and Stornellos. His costume recitals at the Plaza Hotel, in New York, last season attracted throngs of the musical and fashionable elect. Sorrentino has won fame in this country, for his records of Tosti's songs.

PARK CLUB SEEKING MEMBERSHIP INCREASE

Social Organization Plans to Make Total Enrollment 300.

While planning for numerous attractive social events for the winter season, the Park Club is making a campaign to increase its membership to 300. At the beginning of the fall the membership numbered 225, and when twenty names have been added to the roster at tonight's meeting, 285 local persons will be identified with the popular club, forty having joined at a previous meeting.

The Park Club offers many attractions for both the young and old. In the summer several tennis courts prove a mecca for lovers of this sport and many contests and tournaments are held. Bowling and five-back tournament hold the attention of the members in the winter, aside from the many social events, including reception and dances, playlets and entertainments of various descriptions. A dance is now being arranged for Thanksgiving eve.

After December 6, Saturday night semi-monthly informal dances for members and their guests will be held. If these affairs prove popular, as the committee expects, the terpsichore program will be given every Saturday night.

CELEBRATES 7 YEARS AS A MISSION HEAD

Special Service Marks John LeMatty's Anniversary as Superintendent.

John LeMatty, who has been superintendent of the Plainfield Rescue Mission for the past seven years, celebrated that anniversary at a special meeting last night. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the mission and an interesting program was presented. F. H. Andrews presided and introduced the speakers.

Following prayer by J. A. Powlison and the reading of the 91st Psalm by Robert Love, Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardiner, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, made a short congratulatory address in which he referred to the excellent work done by Mr. LeMatty during the past seven years.

Mr. LeMatty reviewed in a general way the work accomplished since he became identified with the work, showing how many persons have been helped toward living a better life. He spoke of one convert who is now engaged in mission work in Seattle; another, Rev. Thomas Leach, who since leaving here has been ordained a Methodist preacher and is doing mission work at Henry, Ill., and still another who is engaged in work in Spring Garden Mission in Boston. He said that there were a number of other converts doing good work.

The Misses Burnet sang a selection after which the anniversary address was made by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church. He took for his topic, "The Soul and the Body," showing how dependent one is upon the other. In the course of his remarks he referred to the importance of the work being carried on by Mr. LeMatty. After the meeting those present accepted the opportunity to congratulate Mr. LeMatty.

CONTRACTED BERI-BERI IN UNION COUNTY JAIL

Several prisoners who have been discharged from the County Jail in Elizabeth suffering from beri-beri, a disease which has held the attention of the medical profession in the county as a result of several inmates of the jail becoming afflicted, have returned to their homes in this city, where they have been under close observation. Apparently they are completely cured, and no other cases have been called to the attention of the authorities, which bears out the belief of the county jail physician, that the disease is not contagious.

Beri-beri is a disease common in India. The victims suffer a general nervous and muscular debility and stiffness of the limbs.

COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PENSION FUND

Mayor Appoints W. F. Arnold, D. C. Ivins, P. S. Kiely and A. McGinley.

Police Chief P. S. Kiely, as a superior officer; Patrolman Arthur McGinley, representing the Patrolmen's Benefit Association, and City Treasurer William F. Arnold and DeWitt C. Ivins, disinterested citizens, were named as police pension commissioners by Mayor Percy H. Stewart at an adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night. This matter has been hanging fire for about a year or in fact since Mayor Stewart went into office.

The law provides that there shall be four commissioners who shall have charge of the police pension fund, their terms to be for four years. The fund is now of considerable size, including a bequest of $5,000 by the will of Mrs. Minnie E. Edgerton.

Several months ago, the Patrolmen's Benefit Association, communicated with Mayor Stewart, and suggester that he appoint Patrolman McGinley to represent the association on the commission, and the fact that he did so is pleasing to the patrolmen. The other appointments, it is said, meet with the approval of the men.

Captain Christian Frederickson is the first member of the department entitled to enjoy the privileges of the pension system, in fact he could have retired three years ago. It is thought that within a short time he will retire from active service.

SUSPEND SENTENCE ON THE POLICEMAN

Marshal Ramsey, of Somerville, Accused of Clubbing Prisoner, Gets off Easy.

Somerville, Nov. 11.—Marshal Edward Ramsey, who was charged with clubbing a prisoner of the name of George Fairheller, and using abusive language, appeared before the Borough Council last night and after explanations were made sentence was suspended. Mayor W. V. Steele stated that many friends of the policeman had interceded in his behalf asking that no severe sentence be imposed.

It was learned that Marshal Ramsey was engaged in separating Fairheller and another man, who were fighting. Fairheller, the marshal explained, was a giant in stature and of considerable weight. The prisoner bore a scalp would as a result of thefight, it being claimed that it was inflicted by the marshal. Mayor Steele complimented the marshal for his good work, but warned him not to abuse his powers nor use abusive language.

Under a suspension of rules, F. G. Thomas petitioned for a light on West Cliff street; Henry Reimer complained of the action of the P. S. C. in refusing to lay gas mains in East Somerville; S. Judson Galpin, who had built an extension of the borough sewer to his premises on West Cliff street, asked what was to be done in the matter of reimbursing him for his outlay when other property-owners connected with the sewer. It was admitted that those who had connected with the sewer had paid no assessments for benefits.

Dr. W. H. Merrill, in the interest of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, gave a demonstration of the use of pure air in arresting the progress of the disease, using a number of charts. The Council voted to set aside what is known as "lottery field" as a public park for the use of the society.

In response to a petition, the Council voted to sell A. T. Van Fleet a sufficient strip of land whereby he would be enabled to straighten the lines of land already owned by him. The consideration is $100. The monthly report of the collector showed a balance on hand of $3,000, which is now being increased by the receipt of taxes, and it was not necessary to borrow money to pay the monthly claims of $3,500. I. L. Shepherd, constable-elect, filed his bond, which was approved. The Council voted that Mayor Steele should represent the borough in the matter of the tax appeal of North Plainfield which is to come up in the borough Thursday morning.

A CHIMNEY FIRE.

The North Plainfield Fire Department answered a still alarm last night sent from the home of David T. Kenney, in Rockview avenue. The chimney of the house was thought to be afire. No damage was done.

MARRIED 25 YEARS; COUPLE CELEBRATES

Fifty Relatives and Friends Congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harper, of South avenue, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, when they entertained about fifty relatives and friends. The evening was spent in playing games interspersed with vocal and instrumental numbers. Supper was served about midnight. The couple received a large collection of gifts of both value and use.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper were married in the Cliftonville Presbyterian church, Belfast, Ireland, November 7, 1888, by Rev. O. K. Mitchell, the pastor. They have lived in this city about twenty-one years.

Among the guests at the celebration were W. F. Birrell, Mrs. Charle Cowling, Miss Grace Cowling, Mrs M. Smith, of New York; Mr. and Mrs Frank Sowden, Miss Grace Sowden William Sowden, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. John Bicknell, Miss Ariada Bicknell, Miss Mary Bicknell, Mrs. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Syhback, Miss Ellen Syhback, Mrs. Giebeler, Miss Jennie Giebeler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. James Heron, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Pope and son, Mrs. Frank Manchester, Miss Ethel Manchester, John Harper, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. James Manson, Mrs. Margaret Keenan, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Banghart, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jomini, George Bremmer and George Lund, of this city.

COUNCIL PURCHASES AUTO FIRE MACHINE

Contract Drawn by Corporation Counsel Reed is Approved by Body.

The form of contract prepared by Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed providing for the purchase of a New auto fire engine was read and approved at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, and a resolution authorizing the purchase of the engine according to certain specifications was adopted. The contract, which must be accepted by the Nott Fire Engine Company before the sale is made, gives lengthy specifications which must be met. The company is given sixty working days to furnish the engine, which must not be less than 600 gallons capacity, be subject to a one-hour test under the direction of the National Board of Underwriters, have at least 30-horse power. The price of the engine is $7,850. The company must agree to furnish any defective parts within a period of three years, and the whole construction must be of the best material. It is understood that the company is willing to accept all the provisions of the contract and when it does the city agrees to pay cash for the engine within thirty days.

In this connection another resolution prepared by Mr. Reed and adopted, set forth the result of the recent test, showing that the LaFrance company did not submit an engine for test, that the engine of the International Motor Company failed to meet requirements and their bid was withdrawn and that the bid of the Nott company being the lowest and most satisfactory one be accepted. Robert C. Woodhouse, representing the Nott company, says that the engine can be delivered within sixty days.

C. J. Cross, representing the Robinson Fire Engine Company, in a communication, informed the Council that the company was not encouraged to enter into competition for the sale of an auto fire engine in this city under the conditions which bids were received, the concern understanding that the specifications were drawn to favor one engine above all others. Mr. Cross presented a catalogue and asked to be allowed to submit a bid and specifications. This was referred to the fire and building committee.

MRS. P. H. STEWART GIVES $1,000 TO 4 MILLION FUND

Mrs. Stewart, wife of Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city, is among the contributers to the $4,000,000 fund which is now being raised during the two weeks' campaign inaugurated by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., of New York. She gave $1, 00 toward the fund which last night reached $1,986,346.

Among the largest contributors to the fund are John D. Rockefeller, $350,000; Mrs. Willard D. Straight, $300,000; Cleveland H. Dodge, $250,000; Miss Grace Dodge, $250,000, and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, $200,000.

ELECTIONS' WINNERS TAKE OFFICE OATH

Judge DeMeza and New Councilmen Are Sworn in by Mayor Stewart.

Prior to the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, Mayor Percy H. Stewart administered the oath of office to City Judge William G. DeMeza and the Councilmen-elect, George S. Clay, Theodore Martin, Thomas F. Hylan, Juan A. Babcock, John H. Cose and Charles C. Graves. Councilman-elect Richard A. Claybrook was sworn in on Friday last.

The West End Civic Association had planned to give a reception to the new Councilmen, last night, but owing to the illness of some of the members of the association and the fact that the new officials had to be sworn in the affair was postponed. The association was adjourning its meeting just as the Councilmen walked in. They then returned to the Common Council chamber and that body adjourned as the new members walked into the room.

NO FIRE PREVENTION FOR THE COMMUNITY

State Government's Proclamation Not Observed in City or Borough.

Although James F. Fielder, when acting Governor of the State, over a month ago dedicated today as "Fire Prevention Day," when rules, methods and practical demonstrations in fire prevention are to be given, no efforts are being made to observe the project by local citizens. This lack of interest on this important subject is probably due to the fact that the idea is a new one. Another reason is that the announcement of the dedication has not been officially forwarded to the city officials, as investigation shows.

The observance of "Fire Prevention Day" called for the cleaning out of houses and buildings of all that material which might possibly have accumulated, which would tend to start a fire. This feature of the program is an excellent idea, according to Fire Chief Doane, who feels that there is plenty of such fire agitators which unknown to occupants have gathered in homes and office buildings.

Supervising Principals Henry M. Maxson and Arthur B. Vossler, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, respectively, although having heard that such a "Day" was to be dedicated by the State, did not know that the time had been selected, and no demonstration will take place in the city and borough institutions of learning. One of the objects of the celebration is to teach school children how to escape from a building when trapped by flames.

MISS RUTH M'CARTHY IS NOW MRS. HARDING

Miss Ruth Marie McCarthy and Edward Harding, Jr., were married in St. Mary's church at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Rev. B. M. Bogan officiating. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCarthy, of West Fourth street, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harding, of Park avenue. Both attended the local public schools and St. Mary's parochial school. The wedding was attended by about 250 friends and relatives.

Louis Harding, a brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and Miss Nora Callahan was maid-of-honor. Miss Mary Smith, the church organist, played the wedding march. The bride wore a light traveling suit with a black picture hat to match, while the bridesmaid was gowned in a traveling suit of white with a picture hat to match. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and Miss Callahan carried a bouquet of pink roses

A wedding breakfast given in the new home of the couple was attended by numerous relatives and friends and a number of the employes of the Hudson-Manhattan Railroad Company, for which Mr. Harding is assistant paymaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding left this morning for Atlantic City, where they will spend a short honeymoon. Included in the numerous gifts of cut-glass, linen and silverware was a chest of silver from the employes of the office in which Mr. Harding is employed in New York.

HE WOULD DEFY STATE'S BOARD

Former Mayor Smalley Urges Boro School Body Not to Obey an Order.

RATHER WOULD QUIT

The Changes Demanded at Somerset School He Characterizes as a Bluff—No Money for Improvements Just at This Time.

Asserting that he was in favor of disregarding the State law in regard to minor improvements to the Somerset School building, which would cost the borough thousands of dollars Newton B. Smalley at last night's meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education referred to the members of the State Board of Education as "bluffers" who were trying to place hardships on the borough taxpayers by demanding improvements not needed at the present time. He added that he was ready to defy the State Board and that if the local Board did not want to do the same he was ready to "get out," evidently meaning that he would resign from the borough body. Mr. Smalley's statements were made during a discussion regarding the advance in school expenses in the borough and the repeated urgings of the New Jersey authorities upon the North Plainfielders to make alterations. It was emphasized that the Borough Board is in favor of changes, but wished to delay the making of them because of the heavy expense which is now burdening the taxpayers because of improvements already effected.

A heating and ventilating plant has been recently installed at an expenditure exceeding $18,000, and because of the school laws eight more teachers are now required to teach the same number of pupils as in 1906. The installation of a number of lavatories is now in the course of construction at an expenditure of approximately $9,000. The State Board is urging that the Somerset School building be entirely remodeled to meet State requirements regarding protection against fire, etc. This will necessitate the construction of fireproof stairways, enclosed with fire walls; fireproof interior stairways and other alterations. When these additions and improvements are made they will eliminate four to six class rooms, which would necessitate the building of a new school. It was stated by E. C. Boyer last night that the alterations and the construction of a new eight-room school would cost at least $70,000.

It was suggested that in order to save the expense of erecting a new building at the present time that four or five grammar grades could come to school on part time, but this would cause considerable confusion, it was stated, because two sets of pupils would have to use the same rooms and desks—one class attending from 8:30 to 12:30 in the morning and the other class from 12:30 to 4:30. If this plan is adopted the teachers of the classes affected would have to work double time with no intermission for luncheon, or the engagement of other instructors would be necessary, it was asserted.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, president of the Board, was absent from the meeting. If he had attended it was Mr. Smalley's intention, he said, to resign as chairman of the buildings and grounds committee because he could not devote enough time to the duties of the office. The former Mayor said he made a tour of inspection of the schools in the borough yesterday and was surprised at the fine discipline and appearance of "readiness to learn" shown by the pupils. "Mr. Vossler is doing great work" Mr. Smalley continued. "I didn't realize that it was possible for one man's influence directed by an intelligent administration of school affairs to effect such changes and reap so much good."

Liability insurance was discussed, but the matter was laid on the table. It was suggested at a previous meeting that the janitors be insured, but it was found that in order to do this the teachers would also have to be included. A resolution was adopted authorizing the expenditure of $30 to buy a bicycle for a truant officer.

'OUR FATHER' TOPIC OF MISS TRAVILLA

Interesting Discourse a Feature of the Friends' Half-Yearly Meeting.

Miss Mary Travilla, of West Chester, Pa., a prominent member of the Religious Society of Friends, was the principal speaker at the 11 o'clock service at the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue, Sunday morning, when she gave an able and interesting talk on the subject, "Our Father." This fact was of special significance because Miss Travilla was recently bereaved by the death of her father and her remarks were impressive.

It is not often that Friends choose a subject for their remarks, but in this case the topic was suggested by a prayer offered by W. D. Williams, and throughout Miss Travilla's discourse she held the close attention of the assemblage. She also spoke on the topic of "Purity."

Miss Travilla spoke of being a visitor to the home of the late Aaron M. Powell in this city seventeen years ago, and recalled several interesting incidents in connection with that visit. She is an eloquent and forceful speaker and the Friends felt highly privileged to be able to hear her speak.

TEACHERS' SALARIES GROW GRADUALLY, REPORT SHOWS

Trenton, Nov. 11.—A gradual increase in the salaries paid to teachers in the public schools was disclosed in a report submitted to the State Board of Education Saturday by Commissioner Calvin N. Kendall. It was shown that ten per cent. of the teachers were receiving less than $500 during the year ending June 30, 1913, as compared with twelve per cent. for the year ending June 30, 1912. The number receiving less than $400 a year has been reduced from 371 to 294.

These figures, Dr. Kendall said, are all the more significant in view of the fact that the total number of teachers in the State increased during the year from 12,652 to 13,312. Another encouraging fact disclosed by Dr. Kendall was that the number of teachers receiving between $800 and $900 increased from 1,484 to 1,779. The number of teachers receiving from $1,200 to $1,300 increased from 497 to 569.

Notwithstanding the upward movement in salaries, Dr. Kendall still deplored the fact that the remuneration paid to teachers is in many instances at least far below that which their services warrant. Commenting upon the fact, the report said:

"Salary schedules are not what they should be in all sections of the State, if efficient instruction is to be given to the children. In one county, for example, where 169 teachers were employed, 111 were receiving less than $500 a year, and twenty-six were receiving less than $400. Where such low salaries prevail there is liable to be much inefficiency in the work of the schools. Changes in teachers are altogether too numerous the standards of the school are low, and the children consequently suffer. It should be said, however, that in this particular county, conditions have somewhat improved in the last year."

The statistical portion of the report showed a range of salaries varying from less than $300 a year to upward of $3,000. In 1912 forty-one teachers were receiving less than $300, while in 1913 the number was decreased to twenty-eight. In 1912 eighty teachers were receiving $3,000 or more, and in 1913 this number had been increased to ninety-one. The table throughout indicated that the low paid teachers are becoming fewer, while those receiving the higher salaries are gradually increasing.

What do YOU plan to do on

to mark it as a day different from all other days of the strenuous year? For it should be different, don't you think?

We all have much to be thankful for, even though it may be but for the greater strength that has come from struggling with temporary adversity? How shall we express our thanks?

Music

Centuries of discovery and progress have not revealed any medium for the expression of emotion so fine as music, the natural medium.

They have, however, brought us dangerously close to a materialism which would substitute trivialities and the commonplace for the moving majesty of music.

Let us remain natural

When we lose our inborn love of music we shall have no need to give thanks, nor any inclination to do so.

After availing yourself out-of-doors of the opportunities Thanksgiving Day may bring—and incidentally whetting your appetite for the family feast——gather the family around the piano.

—play a little finer music than you have ever played before,— anyone can play music without even a moment's practice on an

Angelus

the world's first and finest player-piano.

—sing some of the good old songs.

And if this does not bring you all closer together in spirit and understanding, and make you all feel better than you have felt in many days, we know mighty little of human nature.

If you have no piano, or if you have a piano but cannot play it, come and consult us. We have investigated, fully and without prejudice, the piano and player-piano industry, and have assembled in the Wanamaker Piano Salons what, in our judgment, are the most worthy pianos and player-pianos made in America.

DR. EATON'S ACHIEVEMENT.

It was really a remarkable achievement for Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton to raise an endowment fund of $300,000 among the membership of his church, the Madison Avenue Baptist, in New York, within the brief period of one year. Two contributions of $100,000 each were obtained on condition that he secure another $100,000 within the twelve months. At the close of the morning service Sunday the entire amount was at hand.

In former days, Dr. Eaton's church membership was composed of the fashionable and rich folk. The neighborhood then was an aristocratic one. But the inpouring hordes of immigrants gradually changed the complexion of that locality, as has been the case in many other formerly fashionable sections of Gotham. The rich people moved to other parts and the church lost their financial support. The land value, however, naturally increased immensely for big business houses invaded the neighborhood.

There were but two things to be done to save the church, Dr. Eaton concluded. Either to sell the property and remove to another neighborhood or to raise an endowment fund to provide for its future existence. No land is too valuable to be consecrated to God's service, the clergyman held, and therefore he accepted the alternative—he would raise the necessary money. He put his whole life in that effort and triumphed. The $300,000 fund is now contributed and the church is saved to minister unto the people of the neighborhood which represents twenty nationalities, whereas in the days of its great prosperity there was but one.

As this big fund will be perpetual, so also will be the memory of Dr. Eaton's great work in obtaining it.

Did you ever hear of the New Jersey Progressive League of Republican Clubs? Yes? Then you know that former Assemblyman William de laR. Anderson is its president. Anderson has thrown all his might and power against Roosevelt and of course you appreciate what a blow T. R. has suffered in New Jersey in consequence. Well, Anderson lets us into the secret that he wishes Roosevelt were President because he believes "The Big Stick" would have declared war long ago against Mexico. A marked copy of this should be sent T. R., for he would be overjoyed to learn that William de laR. has some kinw word to say for him.

There's a movement on foot to make the popular "Joe" Tumulty chairman of the National Democratic committee. He would be a rattling good man for the job, but if he is wise he will remain where he is just now making a reputation for himself as secretary to the President. A Cabinet job should be the only advancement urged in his behalf and surely he has all the qualifications for such a berth.

President Wilson is pursuing the "safe and sane" course in not plunging the country into a conflict with Mexico. Thousands of precious lives would be sacrificed by a war and after it was all over the United States would get as much appreciation for its services as the Cubans gave us after they were freed from a tyrannical government.

While your cheering over the news that the Federal Board of Arbitration has presented a report granting the trainmen and conductors a seven per cent raise in wages just remember that you will have to pay your share of that increase.

The Public Service has put an effectual stop to an offensive habit by forbidding passengers to carry lighted or partially consumed cigars, cigarettes or tobacco in pipes into trolley cars.

It didn't remain for "Bill" Jeffrey, the live-wire citizen, to indulge in the exercise of walking between Plainfield and Berkeley Heights twice daily to demonstrate that he has some speed.

In answer to a question, an applicant for citizenship papers when under examination said that Charles F. Murphy was the Governor of New York. He got his papers.

Within a few days our Industrial Edition, the finest "boom" advertisement for Plainfield ever produced, will be issued. Watch for it. You will want extra copies.

Bet that Frank H. Smith soiled all his handkerchiefs in weeping over the fate for Edward Casper Stokes, otherwise known as Edward the Martyr.

Plainfield should be proud of the handsome home of the Elks in Watchung avenue which was informally opened on Saturday.

Mayor Stewart made good selections in appointing the commissioners for the police pension fund.

NIMRODS REPORT GAME PLENTIFUL

Local Gunners Got a Big Supply of Rabbits and Squirrels Yesterday.

MANY WENT OUT TODAY

Surrounding Districts Are Well Stocked with Wild Birds and Hunters Had Great Sport During Opening Hours of the Season.

Plainfield and North Plainfield nimrods left the city on every train and trolley car all day yesterday and last night to take advantage of the open season for bagging wild game and the woods and fields on the outskirts of the town are literally packed with gunners today. The cold snap has injected enough life into the bunnies and birds to make the hunting real sport and the numerous furred animals seen by the first day hunters ran like a streak of greased lightning and jumped like kangaroos. It was estimated that fully 150 local gunners left for different parts of the State yesterday, some going into the woods for a few hours' recreation while others will remain away for a week or two weeks.

Local sporting goods dealers did a brisk business in hunting supplies yesterday and numerous farmers from nearby farming districts came to town and left with a full supply of ammunition and other supplies. Inside information concerning the best shelters for the wild animals was supplied by those who spent the day in the woods yesterday and many hotstove meetings were held in various local hunting rendezvous last evening to discuss the prospects of a trip to the tall timbers during the month of legitimate hunting.

All reports indicated that the game was in the best condition and more plentiful than it has been in years, due largely to the work of the Fish and Game Commissioners during the past season in restocking districts where certain species were found to be almost extinct last year. Rabbits, partridge, pheasants and squirrels were found in abundance by the nimrods and big bags were reported from all quarters last night and this morning. The prospects of a snow storm and possible suspension of the sport for a short time were overcome this morning when the atmosphere cleared up, making the weather ideal for the sport looked forward to by the gunner from one end of the year to another.

A number of local gunners gathered at Harry Dreier's store on West Front street after returning from the fields last night and this morning, and many big bags of rabbits, pheasants, woodcock and squirrels were reported. Among those who came back with game yesterday are: Charles Wendell, six rabbits; William Jefferson, seven rabbits; both of these shot in the vicinity of Mt. Bethel; Jay VanArsdale took seven rabbits near South Branch; Al Emmons and Lew VanDyke got a number of bunnies from the vicinity of Whitehouse; L. Updyke and John McDonald got fifteen rabbits and one woodcock from North Branch; William Brower and party got fifteen rabbits near Oak Tree; Warren Townley shot fourteen rabbits and two gray squirrels in Hunterdon county; Frank Swody got fourteen rabbits, five squirrels and one pheasant near Pluckemin; Fred and Frank Jeffreys and party bagged eighteen rabbits, four gray squirrels and eight black birds near Berkeley Heights.

CHARLES P. SEBRING IS NOW THE SHERIFF

After Taking Oath of Office He is Host at Banquet at Somerset Hotel.

Somerville, Nov. 11.—Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield township, was sworn in today by Judge Daniel H. Beekman, as sheriff of Somerset county. He was elected to that office by a plurality of 10 votes over his Democratic opponent, Charles S. Hamilton.

Those who furnished parts of the $20,000 bond for Mr. Sebring, as specified by law, are former Sheriff L. M. Coddington, former Sheriff Selah Schoonmaker, David J. Smith, manager of Duke's Farm, and William H. Cawley, all of Somerville.

After being sworn into office, Mr. Sebring entertained about fifty friends at a banquet in the Somerset Hotel.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Donald C. Ketcham, who until this year was a member of the present senior class, has sent the High School a pennant of Clarkson nstitute of Technology, where he is now going to school. The pennant is the largest of the collection and has the school seal and name on it.

Any graduate of the High School who wishes to enter upon a scientific career and secure a position with the U. S. Bureau of Standards at Washington, may secure an application blank and further information from Mr. Earley.

Newton B. Smalley, a member of the Board of Education, visited the High School recitations yesterday.

Charles Beckman, '14, manager of the baseball team, is compiling his schedule for next year and already has eight games arranged. Those teams with whom he has already settled dates are New Brunswick, Plainfield, Reading Academy and Leal's. He has many other games pending.

Stanley Stillman, teacher in manual trainin, has presented the High School with a pennant of Alfred University. Alfred is a Baptist institution in southwestern New York.

Miss Ann Hull, '15, entertained about fifteen of her schoolmates at her home on Grandview avenue, last night. The evening was spent in playing the piano, singing old songs and playing games. Before the party broke up refreshments were served. Those who were present are Ann Hull, Edna Green, Margaret Ewart, Jubilee Rowley, Lucy Douglas, Marion Avery, Edith Dalley, Marjorie Burtis, Marielle Dunham, John Hull, Ashley Burner, Roy Love, Franklin Lowe, Elmer French, Lester Chandler and Russell Lee.

Charles Roll, '16, has made a bulletin board for the department of history. Messrs. Franklin Lowe and Atwood Giddings, Seniors, are making some models for the mathematic classes.

The basketball substitutes are still striving for the three extra jersays which are to be given out in a few days. Captain Ashley Burner is satisfied that two should go to Ronald Conroy and Addison Newkirk, but is undecided about the third. The three will be given out bore the first game next Wednesday.

The poster contest for the Junior class mock trial will close one week fro mtomorrow. All posters must be handed to Miss Ray at that time. The prize for best looking poster will be a large Syracuse University seal on white leather.

Miss Maude Casselle, teacher in the seventh grade who event to her home in West Coxsackie, N. Y., last week because of the slight illness of he rmother, has returned.

Principal Earley has not yet received enough names for that prize tc warrant its being given.

GRANT—ISAAC.

Miss Mary I. Isaac and Joseph Grant were married yesterday afternoon in the Shiloh Baptist church before a large gathering of friends and relatives, the Rev. E. W. Roberts, the pastor, officiating. Upon their return from a short honeymoon trip the couple will live on West Third street.

GOVERNOR BREWER ATTACKED

Enemies of Mississippi's Executive Charge Him With Misconduct.

It may be that still another governor will have to stand trial on impeachment proceedings. Political enemies of Governor Earl Brewer of Mississippi are reported as conspiring to bring impeachment proceedings against him. A big political fight has been precipitated by the publication in a Texas paper of a charge concerning Governor Brewer.

It is alleged that Lieutenant Governor Theodore G. Bilbo, Mayor S. J. Taylor of Jackson, several state senators and representatives and C. R. Boyce of Memphis are behind the movement to impeach the governor. Boyce was involved in a cotton deal criticised by Governor Brewer. Brewer's friends assert that the "plot" is the result of his activity in sending several prominent men to the penitentiary for grafting.

GOVERNOR EARL BREWER.

Earl Brewer was inaugurated as governor of Mississippi on Jan. 16, 1912. He is a native of Mississippi and is forty-three years of age. He graduated in the law department of the State university in 1892 and took up the practice of law thereafter. In his youth he worked as a farm hand in a levee camp, was a brakeman and fireman on a railroad and for several years a cowboy in Texas. He decided to study law, and with the money he had earned he paid his expenses part way through his studies. Then the law firm with which he studied advanced him a loan sufficient to carry him through to his graduation. After graduating at law he was very successful at its practice, and he enjoys a wide popularity throughout the state.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST'S 43RD ANNIVERSARY

Celebration Will Start Tonight and Will End on Sunday Night.

A celebration will be begun tonight at the Mt. Olive Baptist church in observance of its forty-third anniversary and the fifth year of the pastorate of Rev. M. W. Vaughan. The program tonight will be in charge of the B. Y. P. U. and the Sunday-school, under the direction of Miss Effie Ivy, president of the former body. The special services will be continued on Friday night, when Mrs. Peter Gordon will be in charge and on Sunday, November 16, special services will be held both at the morning and evening sessions.

The program:

Tonight—Opening address by Deacon T. J. Banks, superintendent of Sunday-school, subject, "Our Sunday-school and Its Worth;" paper by Miss Martha Greene, subject, "The Meaning of the B. Y. P. U. and Its Object," followed by addresses by others; greetings from the Shiloh B. Y. P. U., by the president, Elmer Wilson; closing address by Rev. D. Y. Campbell, pastor Calvary Baptist church, with greetings from church and B. Y. P. U.; music for the evening furnished by the B. Y. P. U. choir; Miss Martha Greene, directress; Miss Mauricea Vaughan, pianist.

Friday—Opening address, Mrs. L. M. Dempsey, corresponding secretary of Missionary Society, subject, "Our Church and Its Relation to Missions," followed by Deacon John W. Reed, Mrs. Katherine Kingslow, recording secretary, and others; closing address by Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor Shiloh Baptist church; music by the Junior Missionary Society, under direction of Mrs. M. W. Vaughan, superintendent; Miss Elnora Green, pianist.

Sunday—11 a. m., services in charge of the deacons, Deacon George Carter presiding; fifth anniversary sermon by the pastor, Rev. M. W. Vaughan; 3 p. m., free for all meeting, Miss Bettie Pollard presiding; opening address by Mrs. S. M. Fields, subject, "The Pastor and His Work In the Church," followed by an address by Nathan Pollard, assistant church clerk; greetings from the Second Baptist church, Roselle, by Deacon T. C. Woody; greetings from the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, this city, by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Hicks; greetings from the Bethel Presbyterian Mission by the pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon; greetings from the First Baptist church, Bound Brook, by the pastor, Rev. D. W. Brown; greetings from St. John's Baptist church, Cranford, by the pastor, Rev. D. W. Cannon; greetings from Bethel Baptist church, Westfield, by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Jordon; greetings from Second Baptist church, Rahway, by the pastoir, L. L. Croon; 8 p. m., services in charge of trustees, Oscar Greene presiding; forty-third anniversary sermon by Rev. J. R. Brown, pastor Mt. Zion Baptist church, Newark; music for the day in charge of the organist, Miss Alberta Gordon.

SOME FREE MUSIC.

The junior municipal orchestra will give a public concert in the Washington School auditorium tomorrow night, a special program of instrumental numbers having been arranged for the occasion by Leader Martin A. Korff. A number of the younger pupils have so far advanced since the organization of the orchestra that Mr. Korff has arranged for the rendition of several solo parts by the juvenile players.

LUMBERJACK SKY PILOT.

Rev. Frank Higgins, sometimes known as the "Sky Pilot of the Lumber Jacks," who is to address the Plainfield Federation of Women's Missionary Societies on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 18, at 3:30 o'clock at the First M. E. church, has recently returned from visits to the lumber camps in the South and in the Adirondacks, and his talk should be of unusual interest.

MOTHERS TO MEET AT NEW BRUNSWICK

Annual Congress of the State Association on Friday and Saturday.

New Brunswick, Nov. 11.—Announcement was made yesterday of the program for the New Jersey Congress of Mothers' Convention, to be held here at Brunswick Hall Friday and Saturday. Three hundred delegates are expected from all sections of the State. Plans have been made by the committee of arrangements, under the direction of Mrs. Drury W. Cooper, for the entertainment of the visitors.

The subject under discussion will be "Training the Future Citizen in the Home and the School." The several sessions will be presided over by Mrs. Augustus H. Reeve, State president, of Morristown. The opening session will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Invocation will be by Dr. W. W. Knox, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and music by the public school orchestra. The address of welcome will be given by George H. Eckels, city superintendent of schools. Mrs. Drury W. Cooper will also extend the greeting from the local auxiliary. The president will make the response.

Two addresses will be given at the session, one by Mrs. Frederic Schoff, of the National Congress of Mothers, on "The Mission of the Parents and Teachers in the Home and School," and the other by Miss Myra Winchester, late president of the National Kindergarten Association, and now in the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, at Washington. She will speak on "Foundation of Principals for Future Citizenship Laid in the Kindergarten." Following this, a reception will be given the visiting delegates at the chapel of the Second Reformed church.

The Friday evening session will be opened with an invocation by Rev. Jasper S. Hogan, of the First Reformed church. Music will be given by the Bayard School chorus. Two addresses are on the program for this session. Mrs. J. S. Haberling, superintendent of the Carter Junior Republic, at Readington, Pa., will talk on "Training the Future Citizen in the Home." The other address will be on "Training the Future Citizen in the School."

The Saturday morning session will be entirely devoted to the business of the organization, reports being submitted and officers elected. Following this session, a luncheon will be served at Hotel Klein.

The closing session Saturday afternoon will open at 2:30 o'clock, the invocation being by Rev. H. P. Sloan, of Pitman Methodist church. Miss Pauline Long will sing a solo. The first address will be by Mrs. Edwin E. Grice, honorary president of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers. This will be followed by an address by Lewis S. Carris, assistant commissioner of education in this State, on "Vocational Training."

The session will close with a general discussion by county superintendents, city superintendents, principals, teachers and parents. Among those who will take part in this feature of the program will be: Dr. W. H. S. Demarest, of Rutgers College; Miss Charlotte Herchner, supervisor of manual training at Hackensack; Miss Sarah B. Askew, State library commissioner in this State; Christopher Gregory, superintendent of schools at Long Branch, and H. W. Foster, superintendent of schools at South Orange.

All of the local schools are represented on the reception, luncheon and finance committees. The Bayard School auxiliary has charge of the music, the Washington School, invocations; the Lincoln School, press; Highland Park School, reception; Lord Stirling School, luncheon; Rutgers Elementary, finance; Livingston, information bureau, and Nathan Hale, literature. Mrs. Cooper is at the head of the hospitality committee.

ANXIOUS FOR REAL FIGHT

son he said that the militia organizations of the north outranked the southern type of men for both regular service and business-like appearance. Lieut. Hort, Captain Peterson, former Corporals Walter Sampson, Samuel Rothberg, former Quartermaster Sergeant J. Arthur Dow and former Sergeant Harry Manning also made short addresses. First Sergeant George L. Apgar read replies of regrets from various members who could not be present.

The committees in charge of the affair: Reception, Capt. Charles A. Peterson, chairman, Lieuts. Arthur R. Phillips and James B. Conkling; entertainment, First Sergeant George L. Apgar, chairman, Quartermaster Sergeant James A. Thompson, Sergeants LeRoy DeCamp, Oliver R. Pearson, George B. Howell and Augustus H. Van Arsdale, Corporals Mryton E. Glover, August Kmoske, Hullett S. Perrine, Otto Hansen and Elmer E. Johnson, and Privates Albert Trotter and Walter Kennedy.

PLAN AN EXTENSION OF SPOONER AVENUE

To Cut Street Through From West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue.

An ordinance to lay out and extend Spooner avenue from West Eighth street to Sherman avenue, was presented by Councilman C. C. Randolph at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. A public hearing on the ordinance before final passage will be given on Monday night, December 2. In connection with the ordinance a map showing the improvement was filed.

Councilman Fred Endress asked for permission to remove a dwelling from 408 Lee place a short distance on the same tract. The matter was referred with power.

Resolutions offered by Councilman P. J. Reville and adopted, provided for a light at Hillside and Thornton avenue and two lights on Randolph road, between Hillside and Woodland avenues.

MRS. GILES SUCCUMBS OF PARALYTIC STROKE

Mrs. Elizabeth Giles, aged about 75 years, widow of Henry Giles, died at her home on West Front street, at noon today, following a paralytic stroke. She had been a resident of Plainfield all her married life and prior to that at South Plainfield, where she was born. She was a daughter of the late William Ryno, of South Plainfield.

Mrs. Giles lived for many years at Plainfield avenue and West Third street, where the family was well-known. Mrs. Giles was a member of the Baptist church at South Plainfield. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Sarah Giles with whom she lived, and Mrs. Julia Harris, of Metuchen. The notice of funeral will be given later.

BIG POULTRY SHOW FOR UNION COUNTY

The Greatest Exhibition Yet to Be Held at Elizabeth Dec. 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Elizabeth, Nov. 11.—Reports from members of the Union County Poultry Association planning for the annual poultry and agricultural show to be given in the Second Regiment Armory on December 3, 4, 5 and 6, are to the effect that the exhibition will be the most successful ever attempted here and second to none ever held in New Jersey. The poultry association has the co-operation of the Union County Board of Agriculture in arranging for the affair.

The premium list contains 546 special prizes, including sixty silver cups, beside the regular prize medals offered by the association. According to F. Warren Sumner, president of the poultry association, the prizes to be awarded are worth $3,000. There will be 2,000 separate exhibits, including poultry stock, argiculture specimens, samples of honey and domestic science products in both cooking and sewing. According to A. M. Bancher, who is in charge of the domestic science exhibit, the prospects are good for a superior display in this department. The school children are also taking a great deal of interest in the needlework exhibit, which augurs well for the success of this feature.

The poultry association has a membership of 410, and it is proposed to increase this number to 500 before the annual show is opened. At the last meeting twenty-four new members were admitted.

There will be 1,000 specimens of all varieties of poultry, pigeons, ducks, geese, turkeys, pheasants, guinea fowls, capons, eggs, rabbits and pet stock on display. Gold, silver and bronze prize medals will be awarded in every class. A silver cup will be given for the best display of the white variety of every breed and a special premium to bird winning a second prize. A number of silver cups and other premiums will be given to the best pens or individual specimens.

It is expected that the agricultural exhibit will prove one of the big features. Many valuable prizes consisting of cash, silver cups and merchandise, will be awarded for the best specimens of all varieties of apples, pears and other fruits. Prizes will also be awarded for the best displays of pumpkins, turnips, carrots, potatoes, beets, mangels, cabbage, celery and wheat, corn, oats, barley, buckwheat or other grains grown in Union county. For the best sheaf of alfalfa clover, rye and oat straw, timothy and other farm products, premiums will be awarded. Liberal prizes will be awarded for the best three boxes of comb honey and the best three jars of extracted honey; light and dark honey to be judged as separate classes.

STATEMENT OF CHAS. KURTZMAN THE PLAINFIELD FUR DEALER

To the Plainfield people who are interested in furs—

ON THE FUR QUESTION.

As a rule, any lady, in doing shopping, no matter how small may be the article desired, is careful to buy it right. But when it comes to buying furs, no matter how careful she is, nor how much she may know about the subject, it is still necessary for her to trade at a place where she can have confidence in the reliability of the dealer. In buying of an exclusive furrier you cannot suffer from misrepresentation, because if the dealer was not reliable, he could not stay long in town. You are protected by his personal training and knowledge. In buying at a department store you have no such protection. There you deal with a clerk who merely registers her employer's orders like an automaton.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.
No. 30.

IN writing advertisements don't be afraid to let yourself get into the copy. Let a smile get into the ink bottle, if it will. If advertising you are dealing with very human men and you cannot mistake by letting your copy be human. In writing advertisements I first try to have an idea; then I strive to put that idea into a form that may be easily read. Cut out every superfluous word. Make what you say interesting. Literature, and that means good advertising, need not be deadly dull."—Elbert Hubbard in an address to the New York Advertising Men's League.

Perhaps in no department of advertising is there so much need of "getting yourself into copy" as in the Classified. The average man who wants to employ a cook or buy a gas engine or sell a horse writes a perfunctory little two-line notice, runs it once or twice in a newspaper, and then wonders why the Government doesn't have to build an addition to the postoffice in order to handle the answers to his ad.

Being a good advertiser is simply being human. If I owned an automobile and wanted to sell that automobile so that, perhaps, I could buy a bigger and better one, it would be a practical waste of money for me to write an ad. something like this: "For Sale—A second-hand automobile; Winton car; seats four. Address The Want Ad. Man, Blank Building." Such an ad. would indeed be "deadly dull." It does not awaken interest. There is nothing in it to catch and hold the attention of the man who might be looking for that car and lead him to get into touch with me for further details.

How would I do it? Well, in the first place, I don't own an automobile and am not familiar with the "talking points" of a car. But, offhand, how would this do?: "I want to sell my Winton car simply because I have purchased a larger one. It is a 1912 model, four-cylinder, 18 horsepower; seats four passengers comfortably; dark green finish, lamps, wind-shield, hood, etc. In first-class condition. Phone me, or address The Want Ad. Man, Blank Building."

Yes, that ad. would cost a few cents more to insert than the other one, but its chances of getting results are a hundred per cent. greater. Crude as it is—for no man can write enthusiastically and compellingly unless he has something to write about—there is yet something human in its frank statement of facts. If I were looking for a second-hand automobile and saw an ad. like that, I would instinctively feel that the advertiser was honest and that by getting in touch with him I might find exactly what I was seeking.

Classified advertising in this newspaper pays. It pays best the advertiser who puts some brains and thought into his copy. The wooden Indian has passed into oblivion as a cigar-store advertisement. The up-to-date cigar dealer shows something more interesting—he depends upon his windows to display attractively the goods he has for sale. Don't make your Want Ad. wooden.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Indian Economy.

Every one who has ever been in India comes home with glowing accounts of the Hindoo cook's use of sauces. It is a matter of economy, this use of sauces—a means of making the economical foods of the East, rice, various forms of legumes, salads and roots, palatable to the exacting appetites of the European. Most of us who have not been in India have an idea that Indian sauces are all highly spiced, like the bottled imported chutney and curry sauces. But this is a mistaken notion. Of course much highly seasoned food is eaten in India—as it is eaten in all warm countries. But the Indian cook makes use of many sauces that are not highly seasoned in the course of his culinary practices.

Melted butter is the foundation of many of the sauces of India; and, remember, in copying any of these recipes, that melted butter does not mean butter that has been heated beyond the melting point.

Indian White Sauce.

The Indian white sauce is made as follows: Take half a cupful of milk and two ounces of melted butter and bring them to the boiling point. Put a tablespoonful of flour in a cup and add cold milk until it reaches the consistency of cream. Mix out all the lumps and then add to the hot milk and butter. Allow it to boil over water for five minutes. This cauce, like our own white sauce, forms the foundation of many sauces. With a little anchovy paste mixed in it, it is a delicious sauce for fish. With the addition of capers it is excellent served with lamb or mutton. To make parsley sauce to serve with boiled meats or potatoes the Indian cook makes a thin white sauce and then adds a handful of parsley that has been parboiled and chopped fine.

The Indian cook makes a delicious egg sauce to serve with salads or vegetables by simply boiling two eggs twenty minutes, cooling them, chopping them very fine and adding them to a cupful of melted butter.

Tomato Sauce.

There is no cook in the world who makes better tomato sauce than the Hindoo. This is how he does it. He takes a dozen tomatoes, opens them and squeezes them gently to force out the water and seedy pulp. Then he puts them in a saucepan with a capsicum—a dash of red pepper will do—a little mace, twenty-four cloves, two cloves of garlic, a sprig of tarrogon, a sprig of chervil and three bay leaves. To this he adds four tablespoonfuls of rich beef gravy—dish gravy from a roast beef or beef steak is the best. He allows this all to simmer slowly for an hour. Then he puts it through a sieve and adds a tablespoonful of melted butter, mixes it thoroughly and the sauce is ready for the table. To anyone who did not like high spiced food the amounts of spice used could be reduced.

Indian apple sauce is served as a dessert but always as an addition to cooked meat or vegetables. This is how it is made: Take four large, firm apples, peel and core them and slice them into two ounces of melted butter and a teaspoonful of water in a saucepan. Simmer until the apples are quite soft, mash to a pulp and season with salt and pepper—never with sugar. This sauce is delicious.

POTATOES A LA MODE.

JUST at present the fashionable way to serve potatoes is to bake them. They may be served in their jackets or in any of the undress forms suggested here.

Attractive Dishes.

Potato Pears.—Boil and mash some potatoes, put them through a sieve and return them to the saucepan. Add a little milk, a small piece of butter, the yolks of two eggs, pepper, salt and nutmeg. Stir well and leave on a plate to cool. Shape into pears. Egg and breadcrumb and fry in deep, hot fat. Make a stem for each "pear" with a small piece of parsley stalk.

Potatoes Crumbed.—For this dish choose well shaped, large potatoes. Boil them and take care not to let them break. When cooked lift them out and dry them gently in a clean cloth. Get a sharp knife and slice each in half lengthways and well season them with salt and pepper. Dip each half in beaten egg and then cover with some crumbs which have been browned in the oven. Put the potatoes on a greased baking pan and bake for about ten minutes in a quick oven. Serve on lace paper on a hot dish. Garnish with sprigs of fresh or dried parsley.

Cut In Balls.

Parisian Potatoes.—Cut out of uncooked potatoes a pint of little balls and cook them in salted boiling water until nearly tender. Drain and toss into a frying pan with four tablespoonfuls of melted butter and a little salt. Set the pan in the oven, shaking it frequently until the potatoes are cooked and well browned. Add a little fresh butter, more salt if needed and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Toss the balls about and serve at once.

Potatoes In Shells.—Take medium sized potatoes and bake as ordinary baked potatoes. Take from oven when done, cutting a slice from the top of each, and remove the inside. Mash and add two tablespoons of butter, salt, pepper and three tablespoons of hot milk to each six potatoes; then the whites of two eggs, well beaten, in like proportion. Refill the skins and bake five to eight minutes in very hot oven, sprinkling the tops with grated cheese before putting into oven.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Teaching Kitty to Jump Through A Hoop.

The Kitten Jumped Through the Hoop.

EVELYN was telling daddy about the dear little kitten that her little friend May had just been given.

"It's just as cute as cute can be!" Evelyn exclaimed. "And May says she's going to teach it to do all kinds of tricks."

"Huh," scoffed her brother Jack; "you can't teach cats to do tricks! They won't learn 'em like dogs do."

"Well, they just can," Evelyn answered. "And daddy knows cats are just as clever as dogs."

"Of course they are," daddy cheerfully agreed. "It all depends on how you treat your pussy. If you try to teach a cat by punishing it and scolding it, why then you will soon begin to think the animal is cross and stupid.

"I once knew a little boy who had a pussy cat that he had taught to jump through hoops covered with tissue paper and to sit up and beg when it wanted anything to eat.

"The lessons began when the cat was a kitten. First the boy taught her to jump through a hoop without any paper on it. The hoop was placed very low, and just on the other side he held a small piece of liver. The kitten jumped through the hoop to get the bit of liver.

"Then he held the hoop a little higher until the kitten had learned to jump through it at that height. The piece of liver was always on the other side of the hoop as a reward. The boy never lost his temper with the kitten and coaxed instead of scolded her when she was slow.

"By and by the boy began covering the hoop with a piece of tissue paper. The first time he shoved the cat through the paper. The cat found that that was the way to get a tidbit of liver, and after that she never hesitated to jump through.

"After his cat could jump through the hoop the boy taught her other tricks. I am sure if May is equally kind and patient she will be able to train her pussy too.

"One of this pussy's amusing little ways was to sit up and beg for anything she especially wished to eat. She had seen her master's little dog sit up and beg and be given a piece of meat as a reward, and she was clever enough to reason if she did the same her reward would be the same. She also knew that food was kept in the refrigerator, and so when she was hungry and there was nothing to eat in sight kitty would go over to the refrigerator and sit up, begging, until some one opened the refrigerator and fed her. She was a kitten with odd ideas about eating. She would nibble a bit of cake or candy and simply loved rice and custard pudding. Perhaps pussy's love of good things to eat made it easier for the boy to teach her these tricks."

GREATEST BATTLE YET FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—The great field day of suffrage will be on December 2, when the opposing forces of suffrage and anti-suffrage, represented by their ablest orators, will appear before Chairman Robert Henry, of the House rules' committee, and argue for and against the creation of a House suffrage committee.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the anti-suffragists, who is in Washington, claims that if this committee is appointed suffragists will call it a victory and it will thus create the idea that the House is in favor of woman suffrage. In connection with this point, Mrs. Dodge says:

"The concession of a committee would not quiet the suffragists at all. It would merely result in their utilizing it as an alleged proof of victory. They would attempt to point out that it was the entering wedge, that it meant Congress favored an amendment to the Federal Constitution for woman suffrage and that it committed the Democratic party to suffrage. Of course, this would be absurd when it is remembered that both the committee on rules and the House are undoubtedly opposed to woman suffrage."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

THE separate skirt is perhaps one of the most convenient things in the wardrobe. Whereas it has been slighted a bit for some seasons past this fall it has come back into favor stronger than ever.

7861 is a very modish new design. The arrangement of the graduated tuck gives the effect of a tunic in front and a slightly draped appearance in back. There is a bit of fullness at the waist-line confined by a narrow stitched belt. It is a two-piece design, with a seam down the center front and back.

Plaids are most effective and very fashionable, especially the softly blended plaids. The new "pile" fabrics are much used for these separate skirts, and corduroys and velveteens are good for dressy wear.

Moire would be most attractive made after this design, and, combined with a blouse of chiffon or net, could be worn for almost any occasion.

Any size requires 3 yards of 36, 42 or 54 inch material, with 1 yard of 2 inch belting for foundation girdle.

This Is a Perfect Pattern

Be sure to state right size, taking waist measure tightly around the smallest part of the waist and hip measure loosely around the fullest part of the hips.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Dainty Design For An Apron.

Just the thing for the church fair: Attractive, quickly and easily made and readily sold is such an apron as this. It serves a double purpose, as it may be used as an apron or a bag, in which small articles of embroidery or knitting may be kept. The bag is formed by tucking the top of the apron into the pocket and drawing up the ribbon, which runs through eyelets in the pocket and a casing across the back of the apron.

The top of the apron should be transferred to a separate piece of material from the pocket, leaving a plain piece of material, below the scallops, the same size and shape of the pocket. These two pieces should be basted together and scalloped.

The design may be developed in solid work and eyelets in white or a color. Handkerchief linen, fine lawn or batiste, may be used for making this apron which is 20 inches long and 19½ inches wide. The pocket is 14½ inches deep.

Pattern number 14647 will be supplied to readers for fifteen cents.

STIFF SCHEDULE FOR BOROUGHITES

Manager VanMater Has Arranged Long Program for N. P. H. S. Quintet.

MANY NEW OPPONENTS

Several Rivals Have Been Dropped—No County League This Year—Interscholastic League Dates—Some Open Dates.

Manager Duclos Van Mater, of the North Plainfield High School basketball team, has issued his schedule for the season and has to date twenty-three games arranged with about eight others pending. The schedule is one of the hardest the borough team has ever had and the boys will be kept busy after the first of next month.

Thirteen of the games that Van Mater has are to be played on the home court. Many teams that the boroughites have never met before are on the schedule this year while a few old opponents have been dropped. Van Mater has been trying to arrange games with Summit and Bernardsville but neither team seems to want to play. As both of these trips have always been popular, having been made by stage, they will be greatly missed by basketball supporters.

The Alumni will take another chance at the school team on the night of November 28 and will put out a much stronger team than they did last week. At that time "Rus" Conroy, "Hub" Stine and other old stars will be home and will try to work out the defeat of last Friday.

Van Mater was unable to form a county league because Bound Brook and Somerville would not enter into a compact. The dates for the city league have all been settled and they will be played as last year, one with each team at the Y. M. C. A. and a return game at Saengerbund Hall. If necessary, the third game will be decided by a toss-up, as was the case last year.

Van Mater has scheduled the following teams that have never met the boroughites before: Townsend Harris Hall, of New York; Passaic Nutley and Morristown Schools. The team will open the season with its first scheduled game next Wednesday when a trip will be made to Kearny.

The complete schedule follows:

NOVEMBER.

Wednesday, 19—Kearney at Kearny.
Saturday, 22—Open.
Wednesday, 26—Open.
Friday, 28—Alumni at N. P. H. S
Saturday, 29—Open.

DECEMBER.

Wednesday, 3—Kearny at N. P. H S.
Saturday, 6—Open.
Wednesday, 10—Open.
Saturday, 13—Rutgers Prep. at N. P. H. S.
Tuesday, 16—Westfield at N. P. H. S.
*Saturday, 20—Plainfield at Y. M. C. A.
Wednesday, 24—Somerville at N. P. H. S.
Saturday, 27—Bound Brook at N. P. H. S.

JANUARY.

Saturday, 3—Townsend Harris Hall, of New York, at N. P. H. S.
Wednesday, 7—Passaic at Passaic.
Saturday, 10—New Brunswick at N. P. H. S.
Wednesday, 14—Nutley at N. P. H. S.
Saturday, 17—Somerville at Somerville.
*Saturday, 24—Leals at Y. M. C. A.
Wednesday, 28—Morristown at Morristown.
Saturday 31—Bound Brook at Bound Brook.

FEBRUARY.

Monday, 2—Westfield at Westfield.
*Wednesday, 4—Leal's at Y. M. C. A.
Saturday, 7—Woodbridge at N. P. H. S.
*Thursday, 12—Plainfield at N. P. H. S.
Saturday, 14—Open.
Wednesday, 18—Plainfield (undecided).
Saturday, 21—Open.
Wednesday, 25—Open.
Saturday, 28—New Brunswick at New Brunswick.

MARCH.

*Wednesday, 4—Leal's at N. P. H. S.

*City League games.

Games are now pending with Woodbridge, Bernardsville, Passaic, Y. M. C. A. and Upsala College.

Manager Van Mater would like to hear from any local independent team who will play at Saengerbund Hall on Monday nights.

HOPE CHAPEL WAS EXPECTED IN ELIZABETH LAST NIGHT

Through some error on the part of either the Hope Chapel or Trinity manager, the Trinity Church basketball five, of Elizabeth, took the court last night with the expectation of lining up against the Hope Chapel basketball team of Plainfield, but Manager George Leighs knew nothing of the date and as a consequence no Hope quintet appeared on the Trinity Juniors' court last night.

Harry Blundell manager of the Betsytown junior five, announced the contest to be played with the Plainfielders on the Chestnut street court with a game between the Trinity Crescents and a Combination Five as the preliminary attraction. The first contest was played all right but the Chapel team did not put in an appearance for the second battle and as a consequence the home quintet was idle last night.

LEAL SCHOOL BASKETBALL FIVE TO PLAY MONTCLAIR

Coach C. H. Garrison, of the Montclair Academy, has completed his basketball schedule for the season of 1913-14. The Montclair town team will open its season January 9, playing the Battin High School team at home. The final game will take place March 6 with the Montclair High School five as their opponents. The schedule:

January 9—Battin High School.
January 17—Bordentown Military Institute.
January 20—Orange High School.
January 24—Mt. Pleasant Academy.
January 28—Rutgers Preparatory School.
February 6—Jersey City High School.
February 13—Leal's School.
February 18—Randolph Military Academy.
February 27—Kingsley School.
March 6—Montclair High School.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer and stationer.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you kindly print on your sporting page the names of teams averaging 135 pounds who play independent basketball and the addresses of their managers?—C. J. K.

Answer—They are too numerous to mention, but if you will send in your name and address the information you desire can be supplied you by the managers themselves. Some of the teams in this city, however, are Hope chapel, managed by George Leighs, 714 West Fourth street; Y. M. C. A., address manager, care of Y. M. C. A.; Company K, managed by James K. Thompson, care of Co. K, and Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools, piloted by John Cotrell and Duclos Van Mater, respectively, who can be reached by addressing the schools.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What electrical charge is carried in the over-head trolley wires? Do all wires carry the same amount of power? Can a car be operated by having its trolley connected with the wire, but not its wheels on the track? Can a person touch one of the over-head wires without standing on rubber or other insulation?—V. D. S.

Answer—The over-head wire contains a uniform charge of 550 volts. The wire is charged with the positive current and the tracks with the negative current, therefore, the car cannot be run if its wheels are not on the track, as no power could be obtained without both connections. A person touching the wire would receive a severe shock if he were not insulated from the ground.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What would be a suitable Christmas gift for a young man in Alaska?—H. J. U. T.

Answer—Ear-muffs, red-hot stove, fur-lined overcoat, ditto hat, ditto gloves, buckskin bag to hold gold nuggets, a side of bacon and a ticket home.

Sporting Editor:

Query—To whom should I report a factory that is working overtime in Plainfield?—C. S. A.

Answer—To the Commissioner of Labor, Trenton, N. J.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What kind of a word is "Mizpah" and what does it mean?—B. G.

Answer—"Mizpah" is a Hebrew word and it means "watch tower."

Sporting Editor:

Query—If a man gets on a trolley car with a five-dollar bill can the conductor refuse to change that bill and put him off the car?—D. R. T.

Answer—The conductor is instructed by the company to make change up to $2, but there is no law to compell him to make any change at all. If a passenger offers a bill of a large amount and refuses to give the exact fare the conductor is not obliged to make change and can refuse to carry the passenger. According to the common law the purchaser is bound to offer the exact price and making change on the part of the seller is only a courtesy to the buyer.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a premium on a gold dollar dated 1853?—F. G. T.

Answer—There is no premium on your coin.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the width of the boardwalk at Asbury Park?—J. M.

Answer—The width of the boardwalk varies from thirty to sixty feet. In some places it is much wider than in others, as you have probably noticed.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the speed of a racing auto?—F. T.

Answer—The average racing machine gets up a speed of twenty-seven seconds to the mile.

HOW TO WATCH THAT FOOTBALL GAME.

There is much in the work of two elevens on the gridiron that the spectator misses through lack of effort in attempting to study some of the details of the game. To go to a game with one's heart set on a victory for Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Cornell or whatever the college where the interest lies, is enough for many, and those perhaps, have some excuse for not following the finer points of play. It is victory they want, and if the favorite is in the lead, happiness is complete. But football may be watched from the technical side and with as great an enjoyment as though there was naught but the thought of yardage gained and lost. Football is miniature warfare. You cannot get away from the fact, and as such the plan of campaign, the generalship displayed, and the various advances and retreats and false moves, are there to be seen by those who know and understand.

If possible, the spectator should, first of all, get the proper sort of a seat. One near the top of the stands is the best, and as near the middle of the field as possible. In this position some of the small details of the individuals' play will be missed, but every move in the gridiron campaign will be caught. Close to the field one loses the chance to see all the men in action in every play. Higher the observer can look down over the whole field and in looking at the players, is at such an angle that no man is eclipsed by the one playing next to him. Once seated note the direction of the wind, the position of the sun. Then think it over and decide which goal will be the most advantageous to defend. When the game is in progress watch for the tactical positions gained and lost.

When the teams are lined up forget the ball and watch the men. See which line is getting the quickest start. See if they are playing low and charging with heads up, or are boring into the opponents. If they are doing the latter they are not able to see what is going on. In the backfield see if the men are starting fast and seem to know their work. When the backs start on the attack see if the interference is good. See what the men not carrying the ball are doing. If a back fails to gain don't put him down as a dub. If he gains don't give him all the praise. See who is helping him out. In the same manner watch the defending line and backs. See if they fail to stop a play because some one has "put them out," or if they are slow and do not get to the point in time.

Watch the tactics of the game. If a certain play is used in a certain place, think it over and see if some other method would not have been better. Watch the punting game. Follow the results of the punting duel. This will mean as much as anything in the play. The team that has the best punter and punts at the proper time generally wins. It is the long range firing that worries the other team. In following the kicking game remember this: The eleven that keeps the ball in its opponents' territory by constant kicking is doing much to bring victory. Remember, too, that a team should not rush the ball when a kick will serve to force the other eleven back. Most gains are lost and won in the punting duel. Watch this in the next game you see. Study the game's tactics and the play of the individual, and you'll enjoy the play to a greater extent than following the ball just to see how near it is to the desired goal.

RUTT'S CONDITION IS STILL CRITICAL

World's Champion Was Expected to Compete in New York Grind.

Paris, Nov. 11.—No change has been noted in the condition of Walter Rutt, the famous German racing cyclist and sprint champion of the world, who was badly injured in a race at the Velodrome d'Hiver, Sunday. Late last night his condition was said to be about the same as when first taken to the hospital. Owing to the rugged build of the German champion it is figured that his chances of recovering are excellent.

The fast Teuton has many lucrative contracts in view for the coming winter season both in this city, at the track where he was injured, and the new indoor track in Brussels, Belgium. In addition he had been signed to ride in the New York six-day race in December. Since taking to the racing game in 1899, at the age of sixteen, Rutt has made a name for himself in his line of work in all parts of Europe, America and his one visit to Australia, winning many cycling events, which includes the New York six-day race, a like contest in Berlin, the famous Grand Prix, run annually in this city, and the world's championship the latter being won in Leipsic, Germany, about two months ago.

CHAMPION RITCHIE OUTPOINTED CROSS

Lightweight Title Holder Has the Better of a Ten Round Milling.

Willie Ritchie, holder of the world's lightweight championship, gave Leach Cross, of New York, the most artistic trimming that the New Yorker has suffered in his long career in their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden, last night. It was the first appearance of the title holder in the metropolis since he won the title from Ad Wolgast almost a year ago, and he left the impression among 7,000 boxing enthusiasts that the title is safe in his hands for some time to come. When he climbed from the ring to battle through a throng of admiring thousands who blocked his way to the dressing room all doubts as to his cleverness, hitting ability, and stamina had been dispelled and the idea that he was an accidental champion had vanished like mist before the sun.

For activity by the principals the bout far excelled anything that has been shown at any New York club in months. Thrill followed thrill so rapidly that the crowd which jammed for seating space near the ring and comfortably filled the rear section of the big amphitheatre was howling bedlam most of the time. Cross was dangerous right up to the time that the last bell sounded, though Ritchie was showing his superiority in a more pronounced fashion as the contest wore on. And no one had more respect for the Cross wallop than the champion, who fought aggressively, but cautiously, all the time. With him it was a case of avoiding the punch which, properly placed, would divorce him from a title and a small fortune.

SOMERSET COUNTY LEAGUE DROPPED

There Will Be No Three Cornered Basketball Organization This Year.

Owing to conditions that have arisen in past years, the trio of managers representing the basketball teams of the North Plainfield, Somerville and Bound Brook High Schools have decided not to organize the Somerset County League for the coming season. There has always been some dispute in regard to the court on which the games should be played, the matter of selecting competent officials has also provoked much discussion.

North Plainfield High School has always been one of the strongest contenders for the league bunting and Manager Duclos Van Mater made efforts to re-establish the league this season but Bound Brook and Somerville could not be brought to an agreement.

FREDDY WELSH WANTS TO SCRAP RITCHIE

"FREDDIE" WELSH

Freddy Welsh, the English lightweight champion, who has been aching for sometime to get a crack at the present American champion, Willie Ritchie, was a spectator in Madison Square Garden last night, when his prospective opponent whipped Leach Cross in a bout for the lightweight title. Ritchie fully demonstrated in that bout that he was the peer of Americans and Welsh was treated to a great exhibition of the way the boxing game is carried on in this country.

It is more than likely that Welsh will now challenge the winner of last night's fight at once and the Welsh-Ritchie bout will probably be the next big program presented to the fight fans.

TWO NEW YORK COLLEGE TEAMS WILL PLAY HERE THANKSGIVING

What will prove beyond a doubt the greatest holiday program of athletic competition and a precedent in local sport circles has been brought about by two Plainfield athletic managers for Thanksgiving Day afternoon and night and local sport enthusiasts will be treated to a program such as was never before equalled here. Two New York Universities, leaders in the collegiate athletic world, have been scheduled to appear in the Queen City on that date, the Fordham University football team taking the field against the Holy Cross eleven in the afternoon, and the New York University basketball team lining up against the Y. M. C. A. quintet on the local association floor in the evening.

Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross team, has secured the metropolis collegians for that date and Coach Jack Thorpe has promised to bring his best combination of huskies to this city for a battle with the local gridiron warriors.

The manager of the Y. M. C. A. has just completed negotiations with the manager of the New York University basketball team to have that aggregation appear on the Y. M. C. A. court in a game against the local association five Thanksgiving night, and this game should prove one of the best basketball exhibitions ever staged here. The New York collegians have been conspicuous factors in the Intercollegiate Basketball League during past seasons and will prove clever opponents for the local five. Intercollegiate rules are played by the New Yorkers and this is one feature that will have to be modified to some extent before the game is played. It has been proposed to play one half with A. A. U. rules and the other period with collegiate regulations and it seems probable at the present time that this settlement will be arrived at.

TWENTY-ONE BOYS IN JUNIOR JUMP

Kirk Wins Color League Event With a Leap of Thirteen Feet, Nine Inches.

Twenty-one members of the Y. M. C. A. junior department took part in the Color League athletic competition yesterday afternoon, the event being the running broad jump and the competition was close and interesting, bringing out a number of exceptionally clever leapers. All of the juvenile records were above the average for jumpers of this size and Kirk's winning mark of thirteen feet, eleven inches was only two inches better than that of Bohl, the runner-up.

Six of the jumpers passed the thirteen foot mark, fifteen did eleven feet or better and all of the rest passed the nine foot mark. Each of the contestants competed for his respective team and a complete summary of the event, giving the winners, their marks and the team to which they belong, is given below:

MILLER THE WINNER OF RUNNING JUMP

Large Field of Contestants for Indian League Honors in the Y. M. C. A.

Miller won the running broad jump event in the Y. M. C. A. junior department's Indian League yesterday afternoon defeating a field of twenty-three contestants by hanging up a mark of twelve feet, nine inches, just one inch better than his nearest rival, little Jim Brownlee, of the Omaha team. Miller has not as yet been assigned to a team in the league and the aggregation fortunate enough to get his services will have their standing materially boosted.

All of the records were good for youngsters of this class and the competition was keen among the various teams and their representatives.

The summary:

THERE'S SOME CLASS TO JOHNNY CAMPBELL'S FOUR-MAN QUINTET

Officers of the Elks Bowling League have been caused much annoyance during the past three years and more, noticeably during the past two weeks because of the fact that the secretary of the league has catered to a selected few of the newspapers on the Elks League circuit and refused point-blank to give out any information regarding the operation of the league, all of which is claimed to be a matter of public interest, to papers he does not personally harmonize with. For some time past it has been Campbell's habit of collecting remorse by giving the official averages to a "chosen few" of the public sport chronicles and when certain wide-awake sport writers resented this partiality of an individual who has been entrusted with an official capacity the whole league was made to suffer through petty mistakes in the averages brought about by typographical changes in the team scores as published following the games.

Sport writers are only human and no human being is infallible, especially when fifty-seven individual averages are at stake and fifty-seven pairs of eager eyes are losing sleep figuring out their personal marks. We are led to suspect that even Secretary Campbell would fall a few pins short of hitting the bulls-eye if he had to resort to newspaper publications for the averages he had to figure from but in his case he is supplied with official information by the managers or captains of the various teams and as the secretary of the league it is his duty to see that the newspapers or any other organ of publicity promoting the welfare of the antlered league, get correct first-hand information. If the league officials are made to suffer, the blame must be shifted to Campbell's door and if he decides he is willing to bear the brunt of it, he will continue on in his biased way to the detriment of the league and the individual bowlers.

As an example of Campbell's "unerring qualities" and taking into consideration his right to criticise other average compilers, we are forced to publish a couple of the many notable examples of his infallibility as published in another local paper last night. Campbell, as the official average keeper and secretary of the Elks League, turns the remarkable, world-startling stunt of presenting a four-man team, something that has never before been heard of by pin-knights. Campbell issues the averages of four Rahway men, but where is the fifth? What has become of Baldwin's records, which were published in the Daily Press last Saturday afternoon? Campbell has discovered twenty-two mistakes in the Press averages although a thorough comparison of the two records by an Elk bowler and the sporting editor of this paper failed to reveal more than twelve errors and a big majority of these were one and two pin slips. Campbell must have been seeing double when he made his remarkable discoveries and during the next week he may be able to discover the missing bowler on the Rahway team who is one of those individuals who "have been peeved and annoyed" by Campbell's partiality.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE SCHEDULE

Program of Games Arranged for the Tri-Cornered Organization This Season.

A tri-cornered league between North Plainfield and Plainfield High Schools and the Leal School is now a surety for the coming basketball season a complete schedule of games having been drawn up. All of the contest dates have been definitely decided upon except two games between Plainfield and Leals and tentative arrangements have also been made for these contests.

The league will open Saturday, December 20, when North Plainfield and Plainfield High Schools meet on the Y. M. C. A. court. Manager Van Mater, of North Plainfield; Stewart, of Leals, and Cottrell, of Plainfield, have completed all arrangements for the opening of the organization and the games will be played on the Y. M. C. A. and Saengerbund courts.

The schedule as completed to date:

December 20—N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S. (Y. M. C. A.)

January 24—Leals vs. N. P. H. S. (Y. M. C. A.)

February 4—Leals vs. N. P. H. S. (Y. M. C. A.)

February 12—N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S. (Saengerbund).

February 18—N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S. (Y. M. C. A.)

February 23—Leals vs. P. H. S. (Y. M. C. A.)

March 4—Leals vs. N. P. H. S. (Saengerbund).

RIVAL COACH ISSUES STATEMENT TO P. H. S.

Local High School Athletes Are Protected by New Facts That Have Been Found.

Coach W. E. Sharp, of the Rahway High School, issued a statement this afternoon to opponents of the Rahway High School explaining the situation which has developed recently concerning several of the players on his football team being alleged to be ineligible to play on account of professionalism. This matter has evoked a large amount of interest, especially in this city, the Plainfield High School boys being affected by the decision of the A. A. U. officals in the matter. If the athletic authorities declare the Rahwayites professionals when the matter is threshed out the Queen City athletes will also be classed as "pros," having been the opponents of the pro team on the gridiron last month.

The matter was first brought up by the Roselle High School authorities, one of the members of the Union County League, in which Rahway is at present football champion. Coach Sharp states that the Roselle High School, previous to the Rahway eleven meeting the Plainfield High School team, had written the Queen City school's manager, Eynon White, concerning the ineligibility of certain members of the Rahway eleven.

This brought up the question as to whether or not Roselle was correct in his accusations. To prove the contrary, Coach Sharp investigated the matter thoroughly and procured facts which he has shown that the members of the Rahway football team who played with the Rahway A. C. baseball team during last summer were not hired, as accused, but simply played as sport.

HERZOG AS MANAGER.

Garry Herrmann Reported to Want Infielder For Cincinnati.

With a gun over his shoulder Charlie Herzog of the New York Nationals is now hunting in Maryland with Frank Baker totally unaware of an impending danger that is headed in his general direction. Charlie is about to be burdened with the management of the Cincinnati Reds next season, according to a rumor. Garry Herrmann is not entirely satisfied with the showing Joe Tinker made this year and is casting sweet glances at McGraw's utility third baseman.

Herzog, who is just now trying to forget baseball, would probably not at some other time consider favorably a berth in Cincinnati, a town that is traditionally hard on baseball managers. But under conditions in which he is involved now he might be willing to accept if the arrangements could be made satisfactorily.

It is a fact pretty generally known, although seldom mentioned, that there is a breach between McGraw and Herzog. The Maryland boy adorned the bench for the Giants this past season right following his wonderful showing in the 1912 world's series. There has been considerable conjecture, naturally, as to the reason for this. McGraw, of course, had developed in Arthur Shafer a wonderful ball player and one who when he wants to play can step along with any of them. But Herzog looked like a mighty good ball player to be holding down the bench. There is probably no doubt that he felt displeased over the condition of affairs and some of his critics have been unkind enough to accuse him of not trying in the last world's series on this account, which is not true.

Herzog should make a good manager. He is not only well versed in the game, but he is energetic and resourceful. He injected more ginger into the Giants than any other man on the club. Without him the Giant infield was as quiet as a night in the country.

Costly Power Boat Trophy.

The donation of a $5,000 trophy to be raced for in Chicago next summer and promises of four foreign entries for the 1914 speed boat championships, were announced at a "welcome home" dinner that was recently given by Chicago yachtsmen and power boat men in honor of Commodore James A. Pugh, and Commodore William Hale Thompson. The dinner celebrated the return of Pugh and Thompson from England, where Pugh's Disturber III. competed for the Harmsworth international trophy.

CAFE CHANTANT CABARET GREAT

Rattling Good Vaudeville Bill Featured Silver Cross Entertainment.

KEPT CROWD LAUGHING

The Kitchen Band Was Immense—"A Brown Paper Parcel" and "Mrs. Piecrust and Followers" Were Real Screams.

Under the auspices of the Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters, the Cafe Chantant given last night at the Park Club, to raise funds for the work of the circle, proved highly entertaining and profitable. In keeping with all of the performances which have been given in the past by the members of this organization, there was nothing left to be desired when the evenings entertainment had been concluded, and those in the audience heaped congratulations upon the various members of the circle who had charge of the arrangements.

The vaudeville acts provided were amusing to a degree seldom equalled by amateurs, and the big audience which filled the assembly room at the club liberally applauded all of the efforts of the entertainers. The room has been attractively decorated with evergreen boughs and trees, autumn leaves and big posters. Along the sides boxes were built and about the floor and in the balconies tables were placed, at which the spectators sat. During the performance members of the circle, attired as dainty French maids sold refreshments, while a number of attractive young women in peasant costume, offered candy, flowers, cigars, cigarettes. Between the acts and after the performance, an orchestra composed of colored men, played popular airs, and many of the younger people remained until an early hour to dance.

The vaudeville performance opened with a concert by the kitchen band, consisting of Harry McGee, as leader, Mrs. Allen B. Laing, Mrs. Edward C. Suffern, Mrs. William B. Nash, Mrs. C. P. Titsworth, Donald A. McGee, Lewis A. Williams, Jr., Rosewell G. Rolston, Charles P. Titsworth and William B. Nash. Attired as cooks and maids, the double quintet played a number of popular selections on unique musical instruments made out of various kitchen utensils. There was a "cornet" solo by Mrs. Suffern, while Mr. Rolston, in his inimitable style amused with a burlesque "bagpipe" act, the "instrument" consisting of a clothes tree, a pillow and a coat hanger.

Miss Eunice Watson pleased with a solo dance, and was encored several times, while Stella Butler, a diminutive pupil of Miss Watson was repeatedly applauded for her graceful dancing. Both were well received when dancing together to close the act.

Russell Bliss, made up as an old darkey, was in excellent voice in his three old-time Southern songs, and Mrs. Alson M. Abbott and Miss Elizabeth McGee caused much laughter with their presentation of "A Brown Paper Parcel."

The performance was closed with the presentation of an act prepared by Rosewell Rolston, billed as "Mrs Piecrust and Followers." In it the

MIXED FOURSOMES THANKSGIVING DAY

Kicker's Handicap Golf Tournament at Country Club Planned.

On Thanksgiving Day morning the Plainfield Country Club will hold a mixed foursomes kicker's handicap golf tournament. The competition will be open to all classes of members, providing one of the players forming a side or team is an active or non-resident member of the club. A mixed foursome consists of a man and woman forming a side and playing the same ball alternately, except that if the man begins the play at the first tee and drives off first, his partner shall drive off from the second tee, the man from the third tee and so on.

A "kicker's handicap" provides that the golf committee draw the winning score by lot, and makes no announcement of the score until the competition is over. In this case the winning score will be drawn from numbers 80 to 90 inclusive. Before starting and at the time of posting their entry each side or team must choose a handicap which they think will make their net score equal to the score drawn by lot; namely, somewhere between 80 and 90. This handicap must be posted with their entry. The players whose net score is the same as or nearest to the score drawn by lot are the winners.

It has always been customary to hold the annual cross country event on Thanksgiving Day, but it was moved forward to Election Day this year to make room for this event, which should prove as popular and as much a fixture as the other.

PRE-CANCELLED STAMPS LATEST

Innovations Made to Expedite Business at Postoffice in Xmas Season.

ARE SPECIALLY MARKED

Inspector Opdyke Praises Postmaster Bird—P. O. Men Must Lick Your Stamps Postmaster General Decrees.

As a means of lessening the work incident to and during the holiday rush at the postoffice, an order has been issued allowing the sale of what is called "pre-cancelled" stamps, which are to be affixed at the postoffice at the time of the sale. These stamps bear a heavy line above and below, with the word "Plainfield" printed in the centre, indicating the office where the stamps are sold.

Postoffice Inspector Opdyke, of Philadelphia, was in town yesterday, during whichn time he made a casual visit among some of the business places for the purpose of ascertaining how the merchants regarded the postal service as to the delivery of mail. He was gratified to learn that there was not a single complaint, in fact there was nothing but words of praise for Postmaster E. H. Bird and his staff. A somewhat remarkable incident was reported to the local office a day or two ago, when it was learned that a Plainfield citizen, who is a New York business man, had brought a package from the city to Plainfield to register because he did not have time to wait in line at the New York postoffice, showing that some of the largest offices have as much difficulty some times in handling the business as the smaller ones.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Postmaster-General Burleson has inaugurated a new duty for postmasters and assistants—that of stamp licking for sending Christmas mail. Under the new ruling bearers of Christmas parcels will pay the required postage and then the stamps, pre-cancelled, will be affixed by some clerk. The purpose is to prevent long waiting lines.

IT'LL BE A BIG TONIGHT AT THE EAGLES' FAIR

"Eagles' Night" will be observed tonight at the fair and dance being held this week at Sebring's Auditorium by Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E. The platform on which the orchestra is seated is draped with American flags and red, white and blue bunting and at several decorated booths novelties and souvenirs will be sold. A paper dome with streamers of assorted colors hanging downward, occupies a portion of the ceiling, forming an appropriate centre-piece.

The fair opened last Saturday night, when several hundred people enjoyed the program. Large crowds featured the occasion on Monday and last night. The visiting Eagles that will attend tonight, will come from Newark, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Rahway and Somerville.

MORE THAN 800 NOW ON THE ANTI ROLL

Membership of Local Organization Opposed to Woman Suffrage Grows.

An additional one hundred new members was reported at the meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage held at the home of Mrs. Edgar S. Hyatt, on East Ninth street yesterday afternoon. This makes the total enrollment more than 800. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and plans were discussed for the winter campaign. It is proposed to have a large public meeting within a short time at which there will be several prominent speakers.

It was announced that Miss Bronson would soon address a meeting to be held in the High School, Westfield, the date of which will be announced within a short time. Miss Bronson, it will be remembered addressed a large anti-suffrage meeting at the Plainfield High School several months ago, and many have expressed a desire to hear her speak again. Inasmuch as the Westfield School authorities allowed the use of the High School for a suffrage meeting, they decided to be fair and permit the antis to meet there.

POULTRY SHOW'S LIST OF ENTRIES

More Than 1,500 Fowl Will Be Exhibited at the N. J. Association Event.

OPENS NOVEMBER 17

Endicott Farms to Show Greatest Number of Birds—Largest and Most Varied Attraction of Kind Ever Held in State.

With the closing of the entries for the second annual poultry show of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement to be held Nov. 17 to 22, inclusive, in the City Market, North avenue, the greatest exhibition of birds ever held in the State is assured. Not alone in numbers, but as the association's slogan denotes, "The Quality Show," the event will demonstrate to all that attend that the choicest specimens of the feathered world will be seen. The entries show that Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and all parts of New Jersey have contributed most liberally to make it a big success. In many ways it will surpass last year's exhibition held in Sebring's Auditorium. Over 1,500 birds will be shown, this number far exceeding last season's figure.

The Endicott Farms will prove to be the largest exhibitor, closely followed by W. H. Williams. The prizes will be numerous and the special trophies represent a magnificent and valuable assortment of cups. The committee is making arrangements to cater to a large crowd each day of the show and an experienced collection of poultrymen will act as ushers and directors to make it easy for the spectators to locate the various classes. M. L. Chapman, of Brown's Mills, N. J., and F. G. Bean, of Collegeville, Pa., will act as judges. J. H. Kimball is secretary of the show.

The show committee comprises George W. Endicott, Jr., chairman; W. J. Trembath, Frank Legge, George Apgar, William Iseman, A. R. Morehouse and L. W. Rosebault. The executive committee: W. H. Taverner, Rufus Delafield, D. S. Daudt and R. H. Armstrong. The officers of the association are: President, S. R. Clarke; vice-president, G. W. Endicott, Jr.; secretary, J. H. Kimball; treasurer, R. LOCAL COLLEGE CLUB TO GIVE PANTOMIME

Plans Made at Session Where Miss Melvin Gives An Instructive Talk.

A discussion of plans for an elaborate pantomime play to be given at The Plainfield theatre on Saturday, December 20, and an interesting talk on recreational work by Miss Anna Melvin, the newly-appointed superintendent of this work here, were features of the meeting of the Plainfield College Club held at the home of Mrs. Morris Benton, on Crescent avenue, yesterday afternoon. The play to be given will be similar to "Alice in Wonderland," by Mrs. Maxwell Perkins, and if anything even more pretentious, for there will be a larger cast.

Miss Melvin, who was invited to address the club on recreational work, spoke more especially of the distinction between settlement work and public recreation work as carried on in public buildings such as public schools. The first distinction referred to was that it is supported by public funds; secondly, settlement houses provide a residence for the worker and there are not many facilities for recreation such as dancing, etc.; thirdly, the members are formed in groups and clubs and not classes.

The recreation work provides opportunities for self-organization, self government and are self-sustaining, encouraging an independent spirit which is an important factor among wage-earners. Miss Melvin in closing made an appeal for the need of club work among girls with training and co-operation.

After the meeting there was a social hour and tea was served. Miss Harriet Goddard and Mrs. Benjamin Aiken poured tea and some of the young women assisted in serving.

PATENT MEDICINES PRICES ARE LOWERED

Druggists' Association Forced to Meet Competition in Plainfield.

For the purpose of meeting the competition in prices charged by those not affiliated with the association, the Plainfield Retail Druggists' Association at a meeting at the Queen City Hotel, last night, adopted a revised schedule of prices, chiefly on proprietary medicines, which will become effective in about a week's time.

This action has been contemplated for several months and it was finally decided to come to an agreement last night. There are a few druggists in this city and vicinity who have been selling proprietary medicines, as well as other articles cheaper than those who are members of the association, and it had reached that point where a move was made necessary to meet the competition.

The revised schedule of prices has not been made public, but the cut in prices ranges from five to ten cents on proprietary medicines, and on other articles it is a little more.

NATIONAL CONVENTION WORK OF W. C. T. U. TOLD

Mrs. L. B. Elliott, of Elizabeth, the Union county delegate to the National W. C. T. U. convention at Asbury Park, gave a comprehensive report of that gathering at a parlor meeting of the local union held at the home of Miss Anna Boice, on Park avenue last night. She presented some of the more important happenings of the convention, showing the progress being made in the world-wide campaign in behalf of temperance.

Miss Nan Randolph sang a pleasing solo and then followed a social hour during which refreshments were served. Mrs. T. C. Bodine presided.

EDITOR-CLERIC TO SPEAK.

Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, one of the editors of the Sunday-school lesson quarterlies now used by the main school, will speak at the mid-week meeting in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, this evening, on the plan of arrangement and the best method to use the lessons.

DUNN'S CHARGES CONSIDERED SILLY

Despite Strict Regulation of Liquor Traffic Here He Said City Has Much Crime.

WORSE THAN ELIZABETH

Former Mayors Buckle and Moy and Police Chief Kiely Rush to the Defence of Plainfield—Dunn's Talk Absurd.

The movement to eliminate the excessive number of saloons in the downtown section of Elizabeth and bring about a rigid enforcement of excise laws has become of county-wide interest, particularly in this city, owing to the statement of Excise Commissioner Dunn, of Elizabeth, that there was more crime in Plainfield than in the downtown section of the county seat.

Former Mayor James F. Buckle, who is foreman of the October Grand Jury, and Police Chief P. S. Kiely have come to the fore with unqualified statements denying Mr. Dunn's assertion. It is the belief that Mr. Dunn's declaration was based on the fact that at times many Plainfielders appear in the Union County Courts, but this indicates that the police are hot on the trail of offenders and perhaps more active in this respect than some of the officials in other parts of the county.

County criminal records not only disprove Mr. Dunn's statement regarding crime in Plainfield, where there is not one-tenth the number of saloons as in the downtown section of Elizabeth, but show that there is more law-breaking in Elizabeth than in most of the municipalities of the county combined.

Mr. Buckle who is thoroughly acquainted with conditions in this city, when asked if it was a fact that the backroom evil existed in Plainfield, as inferred by Mr. Dunn, declared that he did not know of a municipality in the State where there was less. He said that the proprietors of the Plainfield cafes would not stand for young girls drinking in their places. They would not take the chance of being found violating the laws and losing their licenses.

In comparing Elizabeth with Plainfield in so far as crime is concerned Mr. Buckle declared that the character of the populations of both cities had to be taken into consideration. He admitted that the majority of the crime cases considered by the Grand Jury were Elizabeth cases but he did not hold that this was unusual, because of the great number of people there and the cosmopolitan population.

The great trouble with Elizabeth was that the excise laws were not enforced, he said. If the men who have the authority to enforce the laws had more moral than political courage, conditions would be remedied, he said. Of course, it is more difficult to accomplish excise reform in Elizabeth than in Plainfield, he said, but if the excise laws were enforced by the local authorities the number of criminal cases would certainly be reduced.

The admission by Mayor Buckle that the majority of the criminal cases considered by the Grand Jury were Elizabeth cases and the denial that the back-room evil exists in Plainfield, is in direct contradiction of Mr. Dunn's statement. It holds considerable weight in view of the fact that the police records in Elizabeth show that nearly all the crime cases are from the downtown section of the city.

Chief of Police Kiely in refuting the arguments advanced by Mr. Dunn in support of the conditions downtown declared that there is no city of its size in the country any more free from crime than Plainfield. He strongly denied that Plainfield saloons had back-rooms where women were served drink. Mr. Dunn was not familiar with conditions or he would not make that statement, he said.

"We are not entirely free from crime," Chief Kiely declared. "No community is perfect. But if you want to find out whether there is more crime of an immoral nature in Plainfield than in the downtown section of your city look over the criminal records available at the courthouse. These records contain the facts and compared with those of the section you speak of I believe Plainfield stands out as a far cleaner and better party of the county."

Chief Kiely declared that he was a believer in high license and he said that Plainfield was cleaner than the average city because of the high license and because the excise laws were enforced. There are but nine saloons in Plainfield.

In speaking of the enforcement of the law Chief Kiely declared that the police of any municipality whether it had a cosmopolitan population like Elizabeth or not could enforce the law if he was not interferred with by the politicians. "Let the politicians keep their hands off and the police

of

Women's & Misses' High-Class Dresses

While they last, choice $8.98

For Dresses worth up to $18.50

Seldom, if ever, have we been in a position to offer values like these, right in the height of the season. Our buyers, ever on the alert and untiring in their search for the best interests of our stores, have been rewarded as seldom any buyer can ever hope to be. A manufacturer of high-class dresses wanted to dispose of enough stock to raise a certain amount of ready cash; a careful examination of the same revealed an extraordinary opportunity for one in a position to handle the ENTIRE LOT. Quick as a flash the wires were tapped, a hurried consultation followed, and the deal was closed.

The lot was divided into four, so that not more than three of any one style will be found in any one of our stores and in most cases only one of a style. Most all sizes in the lot; colors are Black, Navy, Gray, Brown, Copenhagen and Plum. Both high and low necks. See window for styles or better still, come and try one on. Better be among the first to get the pick.

The attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening, is J. Hartley Manners' exquisite comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," which has been enjoying a continuous run at the Cort Theatre, New York, for nearly a year. The action of the play takes place in Scarboro, England, and has as a central figure a wild mischievous girl, who has been reared amid poverty in New York and who, nevertheless has preserved a flower-like fragrance of a nature born to the wildwood. Loyalty to her father and to her father's country, Ireland, the memory of an aristocratic mother is the watchword of her nature. The play is said to have an abundance of humorous situations and heart interest. Oliver Morosco, who has made the production, has given it a splendid setting and supplied an excellent cast. Blanche Hall will be seen in the title role, and others in the cast are Lionel Glenister, Vivian Gilbert, T. Jerome Lawler, Ruth Gartland, Alma Chester and Gabrielle Galinas.

Some of the foremost art and dramatic critics in America claim that the animated scenes in the actual hues of nature as presented by Lyman H. Howe, whose Travel Festival comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, November 26 and 27, cannot be surpassed. The fidelity and beauty of these colors, they say, make the scenes resplendent beyond comparison. But even aside from this wondrous reproduction of natural colors, it is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the views in themselves. They portray life in foreign lands and under unfamiliar conditions in a manner that no amount of written description can rival. If man's chief study is mankind, surely Mr. Howe's Travel Festival is the royal road to acquire such knowledge because it reveals with extraordinary faithfulness and truth the activities and pageantry of life everywhere. What enhances Mr. Howe's exhibition above all others is the fact that he confines his reproductions to the realities of life—not to imaginary or dramatic productions—and, consequently, since "An ounce of fact is worth a ton of fiction," the inherent worth of this entertainment, from an educational standpoint—aside from its merits purely as an entertainment—is indisputable.

CABARET GREAT

suffragette movement received a full share of ridicule, and the act caused roars of laughter and repeated encores, from both friends and foes of votes for women. Those who took part were, beside Mr. Rolston who burlesqued Mrs. Pankhurst, Donald A. and Harry McGee, Charles P. Titsworth and William B. Nash, while Lewis A. Williams was at the piano. All were attired in feminine apparel.

To a number of the women of the circle belongs the credit for the great success which the entertainment enjoyed. Mrs. F. E. DuBois was the general chairman of the entertainment committee; Mrs. Alson M. Abbott, Mrs. Harry McGee and Mrs. C. P. Titsworth arranged the program; Mrs. L. D. Albin had charge of the refreshments and Mrs. William R. Faber the sale of cigars and cigarettes. Mrs. Wilbur Rogers arranged the decorations, Mrs. Allen B. Laing directed the waitresses; Miss Margaret Long the candy sellers, and Mrs. Donald A. McGee those who dispensed flowers.

Those who occupied the boxes with their guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Milne, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. THE COMMUNION CUPS.

While undoubtedly its purpose is to give the fullest protection for the public health, yet it is a question in some people's minds whether the Board of Health is not treading on rather dangerous ground and is likely to stir up some ill-feeling when it urges all the local ministers to have the individual communion cup adopted. The question is asked, is it not an infringement on religious freedom? Is it not going beyond reasonable limits in efforts to protect the public health?

As stated in our news columns a few days ago, probably the only creed affected by this request, recommendation, or call it what you choose, is the Episcopal Church. During all their history the Roman Catholic and the Anglican Churches the Episcopal being a part of the latter, have used the common cup in the observance of this sacrament. It seems impossible to believe that either would change and it must be known to all that no priest or rector is of himself vested with any power to do so. In the Roman Catholic Church, the wine is withheld from the congregation and therefore the request would not affect that communion. But in the Episcopal Church it is partaken of by the communicants. The ultimate authority for a change to the individual cup lies in the House of Bishops, and the Episcopalians claim the ancient custom of the one common cup is a matter of principle with them.

The utmost precaution, however, we are told is observed in the celebration in the Episcopal Church. Not only does the clergyman use the purificator after the cup is touched by a communicant's lips but the cup is slightly turned before it again touches a person's lips. Other safeguards are used to prevent any germs being gathered for special provision is made for those who are afflicted with disease. Moreover, it is claimed that as fermented wine is used the possibility of live germs being passed to a person in such a way is extremely remote.

Of course this is the view taken by many people, but, of course, there are two ways of looking at the matter.

Plainfield's Young Men's Christian Association will inaugurate a volunteer subscription campaign in the near future for the purpose of obtaining a fund with which to erect a commodious and handsome home building at Sycamore and Fifth streets. The Y. M. C. A. is one of the greatest instruments for good in this world and its usefulness here is as great as anywhere. When the time comes, contribute your share to this work for indirectly at least it is of value to you.

You will observe that Judge McCall, the defeated Tammany mayoralty nominee, has not brought those libel suits against the World and other New York papers who told the truth about him, his friend "Murph," Tammany and the Delmonico Directorate. Did anyone suppose that McCall would make good his "bluff?"

"Bryan is a dangerous man." Who said that? Why the man who made him Secretary of State—New Brunswick Home News.

Yes, but we all "live and learn" and as "experience is the best teacher," Woodrow Wilson is a wiser man.

Plainfield's streets in their present condition are a disgrace to this progressive city, which boasts of its improvements. But, then, what are you going to do about it? Taxes are higher now than they ever have been.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will be a prominent resident of North Plainfield who has a "hobby." He will tell you all about it and what he will have to write about will prove interesting to say the least.

"Pitchfork" Tillman and Blease, the friend of the "jailbirds," are at it hot and heavy. All respectable South Carolinans should take to the storm-cellar.

The "Do It" part will be done Friday. Watch for the Industrial edition of the Plainfield Daily Press.

Mr. Dunn offered his statement as an argument against the Plainfield high license plan.

FIRE CHIEF HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM INJURY

Fire Chief Doane and Driver Daniel Keiderling had narrow escapes from serious injury while answering an alarm this afternoon. The fire alarm rang incorrectly although box 63 was pulled. While passing the engine house in East Second street the chief's car almost ran head-on into the chemical apparatus as it was chugging out of the building. Keiderling sent the runabout scurrying to one side and ran up on the curb, narrowly missing several passersby. Continuing to the fire, which was in a small shed in Berckman street, the chief's car ran into a Main Line trolley car as the motorman sent his vehicle around the corner at Berckman and East Second street, instead of stopping the trolley as the law requires. The rear wheel of the machine was almost torn off. The chief says he will prosecute the Public Service Corporation.

PROCTOR'S ATTRACTIVE BILL.

Harry First, one of the foremost Jewish comedians in vaudeville, and his excellent company of players will present a comedy character sketch of Jewish life at Proctor's tomorrow, entitled "The Marriage Broker." The marriage broker is a peculiar institution in Jewish society and the sketch affords a fine opportunity for good acting. The Westoff Trio, a European novelty dancing and instrumental act; Manne and Belle, known as "The Queens of Ragtime"; the Keeley Brothers, in a comedy sketch, "Fun in a Sporting Goods Store," and Ed. Estus, the sensational equilibrist, complete a fine bill. Pathe's Weekly will be shown today, as usual.

"NAVAL HOLIDAY" URGED BY CHURCHILL FOR ALL NATIONS

Plan to Suspend Battleship Building Indorsed by Secretary Daniels.

Meanwhile Increased Activity In Naval Construction Is Noted Everywhere.

CLOSE on the heels of the announcement that Winston Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, urges strongly that all the great nations join in a "naval holiday," the same being a period of a year or more, during which the powers shall refrain from building battleships, comes the news that the first keel plates of the great super-Dreadnought Pennsylvania, destined to be the most powerful fighting machine in the world, have been laid at Newport News, Va. Almost simultaneously the battleship Texas, just completed and at present the largest war vessel afloat, justifies the predictions of her builders by averaging a speed of 21.128 knots on the five high speed runs which marked the climax of her standardization trial at Rockland, Me.

From all the rest of the world news comes also of increased activities in naval construction. Nearly all the naval programs of the great powers contemplate the building of from one to five battleships annually for the next five years. Even New Zealand is planning a navy of her own, the first step in this direction being the building of a cruiser of the Bristol type of 4,800 tons displacement to cost $2,000,000, which on occasion may become a part of the formidable fleet of Great Britain.

Germany, too, will adhere to her existing program of naval construction and development, at present consisting of two battleships a year.

"Naval Holiday" Impractical.

Unofficially the kaiser's experts declare the suggestion of the British statesman to be impractical. The German fleet, they assert, is for defensive purposes only and as such must be maintained in a condition capable of protecting the coasts of the fatherland against possible enemies.

That the German naval experts are not without justification for the stand they have taken is evidenced by the report of a new invention lately tried out by the British government, by means of which a mine may be exploded at a distance of several miles without wires or other connecting apparatus. This, in view of the fact that a clash between John Bull and the kaiser is the ever recurring bugbear of the German and British publics respectively, would seem to give color to the alleged need of a "defensive fleet" for the German coast, to say nothing of the fact that England's naval construction program includes the building of at least four Dreadnoughts a year for several years to come.

Yet while other nations besides Germany have thus far turned a deaf ear to the suggestion of the British first lord of the admiralty, at the same time in nearly every country there may be found a steadily growing sentiment in its favor. Indeed, there is scant doubt but that this feeling will take some definite form in the near future.

Daniels Indorses Suggestions.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in a recent interview strongly advocated the Churchill plan as a means of reducing the annually increasing naval budget of every nation and the added taxation which it necessitated. Economic reasons alone, he asserted, even without considering those tending toward a world peace, dictated the advisability of a worldwide agreement between all first class nations to close or at least curtail the construction of battleships for a stipulated period.

"I believe such an agreement must be made sooner or later for economic reasons," the secretary declared. "The hysteria of naval preparations is proving too great a burden for the people. We ourselves are spending about $140,000,000 annually on our navy and an equal amount on our army, and that is but a bagatelle compared to what the great powers of Europe and Japan are spending, with new vessels superseding and making obsolete all that have been built before.

"The world today is facing the anomaly of making its navy less adequate by increasing it, for when new vessels are built with their more powerful armament they render useless the smaller warships, save for coast defense."

Would Benefit Humanity.

The secretary said that such an agreement joined in by Germany, England, France, Russia, Japan and the United States would result in the greatest benefit to humanity in general from an economic standpoint.

"Unless some such agreement is soon reached," he said, "every citizen will, figuratively, be carrying a soldier on his back."

Secretary Daniels' statement is directly in line with the offer Mr. Churchill made directly to Germany, as the chief rival of Great Britain, while he was discussing the British naval expenditures of $375,000,000 a year and warning the nation of the inevitably heavy increase in armament if the rivalry continued.

BATTLESHIP TEXAS, MOST POWERFUL FIGHTING MACHINE AFLOAT, ON HER TRIAL TRIP.

After making his plea for a universal "naval holiday" Mr. Churchill expressed the opinion that if Great Britain and Germany took the lead all the other great countries would follow suit, and they would all be just as great and as sound as if they had built the ships at present projected.

Feasibility of Plan.

If Austria and Italy did not build, the obligation, he said, would be removed from France and Great Britain, and the fact that the triple alliance (Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy) was just now building no ships would make the proposal possible without the slightest danger or risk.

That no one will take issue with Mr. Churchill on the question of the benefit accruing to the world if his suggestion should be adopted is self evident. The problem lies in its feasibility, at present at least.

Great navies are rising everywhere. France, Russia, the United States, Japan, even Greece and the South American states, to say nothing of Austria-Hungary and Italy, in addition to England and Germany, are spending millions on naval construction.

The difficulty will be to set a time far enough in the future and yet not too remote to be of practical value to the present generation when all the nations will find it convenient to arrest for a time their naval development.

In the meantime the shipyards of every nation will be busy turning out great war machines, which, despite their enormous cost, become obsolete within but little more than the time it takes to build one of them.

As far as the United States is concerned, the annual naval budget will probably not be much changed, although the completion of the Panama canal will add much to the effectiveness of our navy in some respects.

Canal Strengthens Navy.

Far from greatly adding to the sea power of the United States, however, the canal will really be a negligible factor, although it was formerly claimed that its opening would double the navy's effectiveness. But it will increase its possibilities for coast defense vastly.

In this connection Secretary Daniels recently asserted that the canal, while adding much greater mobility to our fleets, would not greatly increase their strength except as defenders of our coasts.

"During the long campaign," said the secretary, "one of the strongest arguments for the large expenditure was that such a canal would double the efficiency of the navy. We were told also that it would make for efficiency in the army and make the United States the dictator of the western hemisphere and the mistress of the seas.

Larger Navy Unnecessary.

"Now that the canal is nearing completion and the day is near at hand when ships will sail from San Francisco to the Caribbean in about 240 hours, as against the 1,824 hours it took the Oregon to sail around Cape Horn, we are told that the building of the canal demands twice as large a navy as formerly and that control of the canal demands a large standing army on the isthmus.

"The canal will not double the effectiveness of our navy, but it will greatly increase its ability to defend every part of the coast on the Pacific as well as the Atlantic. It will not virtually multiply the numbers of the army."

Yet even if the canal will not greatly augment the sea power of the United States, except as regards coast defense, there is no reason why battleship construction should not be curtailed. It only remains for some of the powers to show the way.

Bryan Peace Plan.

Many regard the plan of Mr. Churchill as following in logical sequence the suggestion of William J. Bryan, secretary of state, that the nations of the world enter into peace treaties, agreeing to try the arbitration of difficulties before going to war. A similar idea was embodied in Secretary Bryan's original proposal to the world powers for a universal peace pact, but was abandoned when it became evident that strong opposition would follow.

If Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia and Japan would adopt the British suggestion there is scant doubt that the United States would readily join in the agreement, and now that the plan has been presented in concrete fashion to the whole world it may not be long before negotiations between some of the powers are opened.

STATE LIFE INSURANCE TRIED OUT IN WISCONSIN.

Man Who Drafted Law Authorizing System Gets the First Policy.

The first policies in a state life insurance fund in America have just been issued by the insurance department of Wisconsin. Former Speaker Charles A. Ingram of Durand, who introduced the bill in the 1911 session to create state insurance, received the first policy.

Applications came from several states, but under the law policies may be issued only to residents of Wisconsin.

The lawmaking provision for state life insurance was enacted after the idea had been worked out by Commissioner of Insurance Ekern and a legislative committee. A study had been made of similar laws in Germany, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium.

No policy is issued for a larger amount than $1,000. When the number of policy holders reaches 1,000 the maximum policy will be issued for $2,000, and when the number reaches 2,000 the maximum policy will be for $3,000, the highest amount authorized.

Existing governmental machinery will be used in the administration of the law without the creation of additional offices. No paid agents will be employed.

BARS PHOTOS IN WATCHES.

Illinois Central Issues an Efficiency Order to Operating Employees.

No longer may engineers, conductors, brakemen and other employees in the operating department of the Illinois Central railroad carry pictures of their wives, sweethearts and babies on their watch crystals. An order against the practice has just been issued by the management.

Officials of the company have decided that such pictures are likely to distract the attention of employees from their work, and that accidents might result. The order also specifies plain dials of a uniform design.

"This rule may seem to be a small matter, but, after all, it is the little things that count," said Vice President W. L. Park in discussing the order. "Every railroad man will admit that success in the operating department requires strict attention to duty."

Ways of Burmese Beauties.

Instead of a coming out party as we know it, the Burmese girl's entrance into society begins when she has her ears pierced. As soon after this as she feels inclined she selects a husband and goes to live in a home of her own. The home is provided by the man, but it becomes his wife's as soon as they are married. All women, young and old, are addicted to the use of tobacco. The women seem to prefer the very large size black cigar. Often one meets a woman on the streets of a village with one of these huge cigars in her mouth and two or three more stuck in the holes of each ear.

The Cosmic Law.

There is neither waste nor economy in nature. Energy is as indestructible as matter—no trace of waste anywhere, no economy. Nature does not use a fraction more than necessary nor less. The two words "waste" and "economy" cannot apply to the stupendous cosmic law, the conservation of energy.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

JOHN PAUL NOLTING.

John Paul Nolting was associated for the last fifteen years with Grace Parish, Plainfield, New Jersey.

He was a member of the Vestry one of the Trustees of the Men's Club, Assistant Superintendent of the Sunday-school and was active in founding and promoting the interests of the Young Men's and Boys' Clubs

He loved his Church and was scrupulous in the performance of his duties at all times in the various agencies where he found work to do and being possessed of ability, judgment and rare energy, his work was always effective.

He was a devout man, of modest disposition, while kindness and delicate consideration for others were probably the most conspicuous traits of his sweet character, and these won for him the love of a host of friends young and old, in all walks of life who now mourn his departure.

We, of the Vestry, realize that our Church has sustained a great loss in his removal, and we feel a deep sense of personal sorrow in no longer having him as our comrade and friend yet we are indeed enriched by the precious memory and the worthy example he leaves behind.

While no formal resolution can adequately express our sense of the loss which we have sustained, we desire that this Minute be placed upon our records, and that a copy thereof be engrossed and transmitted to the bereaved wife and children of our late associate.

Adopted by the Vestry at its meeting November 11th, 1913.

NAMED BY MISTAKE.

That Is What Happened to Three of Vermont's Towns.

It is not often that a town is named by mistake, but about 150 years ago this thing happened—not to one town but to three towns in Vermont. At that time a grant of land was made by New Hampshire to some Connecticut settlers. This tract then, as now, was divided into three townships—Burlington, on the hillside of Lake Champlain; Colchester, just north, and Williston, east. The three towns were chartered on the same day, and it was at this time that the names were mixed.

The Burling family took up their land in the north section (Colchester), and it seems to be true that their name was to have been given the town, so that it should have been called Burlington. Other settlers took up the eastern portion (Williston), and the rest remained in the part by the lake (Burlington). Among these last was the Willis family, and there is evidence that they expected to call the city Williston. However, there was so much confusion in the entering of the records that the town where the Burlings settled was called Colchester, the town of the Willis family was named Burlington, while the town to the east was called Williston. And so they have remained to this day.—Ladies' Home Journal.

ORIGIN OF BLACKMAIL.

The Term Was Born of Outlawry on the Scottish Border.

The etymology of the expression "blackmail" is historically interesting. It appears to have its origin on the Scottish border and dating from times when frequent political feuds between the then two kingdoms of the British islands tacitly justified a sort of perennial terrestrial buccaneering as between borderers of each realm.

Many of these were outlaws on both sides of the border. Their neighboring victims to save their cattle from being lifted sometimes compounded for safety by an annual payment as insurance to the bandits. This fee not only gave them immunity, but entailed them to protect them from rival freebooters. It was their "mail," or "protection." The "mail" coach was so named because it had its armed guard with loaded blunderbuss on the dickey.

But the mail paid by border farmers was not for honest royal protection, but for guardianship by thieves, and hence was "black" mail, the color of black being typical of what was nefarious, whether in art or in guardianship, while the guardian of this stamp was known as the "blackguard" of the district. The last named latter day term of reproach seems to have obtained its expression originally as here described.—London Field.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.
No. 30.

IN writing advertisements don't be afraid to let yourself get into the copy. Let a smile get into the ink bottle, if it will. In advertising you are dealing with very human men and you cannot mistake by letting your copy be human. In writing advertisements I first try to have an idea; then I strive to put that idea into a form that may be easily read. Cut out every superfluous word. Make what you say interesting. Literature, and that means good advertising, need not be deadly dull."—Elbert Hubbard in an address to the New York Advertising Men's League.

Perhaps in no department of advertising is there so much need of "getting yourself into copy" as in the Classified. The average man who wants to employ a cook or buy a gas engine or sell a horse writes a perfunctory little two-line notice, runs it once or twice in a newspaper, and then wonders why the Government doesn't have to build an addition to the postoffice in order to handle the answers to his ad.

Being a good advertiser is simply being human. If I owned an automobile and wanted to sell that automobile so that, perhaps, I could buy a bigger and better one, it would be a practical waste of money for me to write an ad. something like this: "For Sale—A second-hand automobile; Winton car; seats four. Address The Want Ad. Man, Blank Building." Such an ad. would indeed be "deadly dull." It does not awaken interest. There is nothing in it to catch and hold the attention of the man who might be looking for that car and lead him to get into touch with me for further details.

How would I do it? Well, in the first place, I don't own an automobile and am not familiar with the "talking points" of a car. But, offhand, how would this do?: "I want to sell my Winton car simply because I have purchased a larger one. It is a 1912 model, four-cylinder, 18 horsepower; seats four passengers comfortably; dark green finish, lamps, wind-shield, hood, etc. In first-class condition. Phone me, or address The Want Ad. Man, Blank Building."

Yes, that ad. would cost a few cents more to insert than the other one, but its chances of getting results are a hundred per cent. greater. Crude as it is—for no man can write enthusiastically and compellingly unless he has something to write about—there is yet something human in its frank statement of facts. If I were looking for a second-hand automobile and saw an ad. like that, I would instinctively feel that the advertiser was honest and that by getting in touch with him I might find exactly what I was seeking.

Classified advertising in this newspaper pays. It pays best the advertiser who puts some brains and thought into his copy. The wooden Indian has passed into oblivion as a cigar-store advertisement. The up-to-date cigar dealer shows something more interesting—he depends upon his windows to display attractively the goods he has for sale. Don't make your Want Ad. wooden.

Your Old Furs.

There was never a time when any piece of old fur could be so easily utilized as the present.

The most expensive pieces of fur—some of them—are made up apparently of scraps of furs of various sorts. A collar, for instances, will show broad-tail and fox, or mole and skunk, or seal and anything else. And muffs are made in the same way.

Silk, satin and velvet are also combined to make neck scarfs and muffs. And fur is used in dozens of ways to trim clothes of all sorts.

So get out all the old fur you may happen to have and see what you can do with it.

Collars and Muffs.

Velvet can be utilized with fur for muffs and collars with very good results. So if you have an old neck piece and muff that match make them do service for another season by combining them with velvet. Some of the most interesting new sets show a muff of velvet trimmed with fur and a collar of fur trimmed with velvet. So, if your old muff is badly worn, make a velvet muff—good patterns can be bought for collars and muffs—and trim it with bands of fur. A band can be put around the ruffle that falls over the hands, and another can mark the joining place of the ruffle to the muff. Or a big, full muff can be made and gathered into two small bands of fur at the hands. To go with this velvet, fur-trimmed muff make a collar consisting of a strip of the old collar—the best part of the fur—surmounted with a frill of velvet, either on one side or on both sides. Or make a little dog collar of the fur—a tight band that fastens at one side of the throat with a velvet bow. Or else make a wide, long scarf and edge it with the fur.

Old Marabou.

The small dog collars which are worn this year suggest a way to make an old marabou scarf do for a few months longer. The section of the scarf that was about the neck last year and perhaps the year before is doubtless worn and soiled. Use the ends to make a small collar that fastens snugly about the throat. Even if the old marabou is not worn, fasten the collar tightly this year, with a big satin or silk bow to cover up shabby spots.

As Trimming.

Any fur can be used as trimming for this year's gowns. Street suits are made with collars and cuffs of fur that could easily be cut from an old collar and muff set. An old fur scarf could be cut up into bands to edge a skirt, perhaps, and the muff could make bands to go about the sleeves and neck.

Smaller pieces of fur can be made to trim house gowns of any material.

An old suit, the coat of which is shabby along the front edge, can be remodeled into a sort of cutaway coat that opens over a little fur waistcoat cut from an old muff or collar.

There is no excuse for letting the moths get into old fur this year.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

LAWS IN STATES WHERE WOMEN VOTE.

The one question that suffragists and antis alike are constantly asking is, "What are the laws that have found a place on the statute books of suffrage States since the women have had a share in the law-making?" After an enormous amount of research and recording of results by Elinor Byrns and Helen Ranlett, members of the New York Bar and of the National Suffrage Association, a complete answer to this universal question has at last been tabulated and put in available form. The Evening Post of November 10 prints the digest in full and comments upon it editorially as follows:

"The very attacks upon the results of woman suffrage have been of a tenor implying that much was expected of it. Notably in Colorado and California, the specific objection has been that various evils, old as mankind itself, still flourished in unabated vigor! The digest of equal-suffrage legislation which we publish today on another page should confute those who hold that the grant of the ballot is futile so far as it satisfies John Stuart Mill's old demand that women be given an actual influence on law-making. How much of the general humanitarian legislation listed is attributable to their voice it is difficult to estimate, except by comparison with States where they have no vote; a comparison damaged by the greater native radicalism of the West. But it is surely not a negligible part; and as for the unique corpus of legislation touching directly upon women and children, that speaks for itself. The woman who moves from California to Illinois, where her ballot has as yet scarcely affected the laws, loses the tithe of her privileges, from the right to limit her work to eight hours, not ten, to important safeguards in her possession of property and her domestic relations. The absence of "freak laws," or at least those obviously such, from the list is notable."

It is true that the gravest charge that the antis bring against the franchise in the hands of women is that it has not yet redeemed the world or even that particular section of it where women share in the making of the laws. It is also true that the suffragists themselves are in great measure to blame for the widespread notion that political and social redemption were to be brought about by the ballot in the hands of women. The pioneers in the suffrage movement were women of such lofty idealism and high standards that they could not help seeing a vision of the mellenium. But mellenium making is a slow process, and the highest types of reform, like the highest types of life that the scientists tell us about, are the slowest in their evolution. All the laws in all the suffrage States are not better than any of the laws in the non suffrage States; all the man-made laws are not to the detriment of women and children; all the evils that exist in non-suffrage States are not there merely because they are non-suffrage, and all the good in the suffrage States is not due simply and solely to the fact that there women can vote. The digest of laws as printed in The Post is introduced by the statement:

"No attempt is made here to estimate the influence which women as voters have exercised upon legislation. The digest is intended merely as a record, not of man-made laws, not of woman-made laws, but of laws for which men and women are equally responsible."

When men and women make the laws together these are some of the results:

CALIFORNIA CHILD LABOR LAW.

Minor twelve to fifteen years cannot be employed, unless he has permit from Superintendent of Schools. Minor under sixteen who is employed during school hours must go to night school, unless he has completed grammar school. Minor under eighteen, maximum eight hours per day; forty-eight hours per week; no work 10 P. M.—5 A. M. But act does not prohibit employment of minors at agricultural, horticultural, viticultural, or domestic labor after school hours or in vacation. "Horticultural" includes curing and drying, but not canning.

Other suffrage States have similar restrictions on labor of children. Utah adds to her statutes the following precautions:

"In cities of the first and second class messengers doing night work or sent to places of objectionable character must be over twenty-one. No boy under twelve and no girl under sixteen shall peddle on the streets and no child under twelve work as bootblack. Exceptions. Unlawful to pay less than seventy-five cents per day to female minors."

A stroll through Front street and a few inquiries among its places of business will enlighten one as to how New Jersey compares with the Western States mentioned in these matters.

One statement in the digest is common to several States:

"Age of consent raised to eighteen."

New Jersey still makes such age sixteen, although the best legal authorities in the State declare twenty-one to be "full legal age" in matters concerning property.

Colorado and California have equal guardianship laws.

New Jersey makes the care, custody, education and services of minor children the business of the father only. The exception to this is in the case of so-called "illegitimate" children—then the mother is sole guardian, and must bear her heavy burden alone. In California they see this matter differently:

"Father, as well as mother, of illegitimate child must give him support and education suitable to his circumstances. Civil action by mother or guardian to enforce obligation."

The statutes mentioned are only a few taken at random, from those especially relating to women and children. Under the head of "general laws" there is a mass of legislation vitally affecting both men and women, and through its affect upon the fathers and mothers of today it is full of potential influence upon their children and children's children. Here are some of the laws:

"Red Light Abatement and Injunction Act (making houses of prostitution a nuisance and providing for injunction against manager of house, owner, lessee, or agent, by State or private individual).

"White Slave law.

"Certificate of freedom from venereal diseases required of men before marriage license is given.

"Soliciting for or living on earnings of prostitute made a felony.

"Inspection of meat and slaughter houses. Sanitary inspection of stock.

"Pure food act. Law regulating sale of milk and drugs.

"Initiative, referendum, and recall. (Offices not decisions). Direct primaries.

Prostitutes and those maintaining or frequenting houses of ill-fame may not vote.

"Cities and villages given power to regulate and suppress prostitution.

"Itemized statement required from charitable, educational, and penal institutions.

"Pure Food law.

"Sterilization of habitual criminals, idiots, insane and epileptics.

"School buildings to be used for social centres."

From these few instances gathered from the statutes of the various suffrage States it would seem the honest and evident thing to conclude that team work in law-making is as great a success as it is in all other lines today. Since men and women must both live under laws and obey them, and furthermore, train their children to understand and obey them, why in the name of common sense should it be regarded as dangerous or unseemly or paradoxical in any way for the women of the State to work with the men in the making of these laws?

In short, if New Jersey sees nothing dangerous or unseemly or undesirable in men and women working side by side in her factories and stores, why is she so opposed to their working side by side in her legislative halls at Trenton If New Jersey men and women working together can turn out good commercial products, is it not probable that they might also, working together, make good laws?

GRACE SAVAGE SELDEN.

Some Cookery Suggestions

HOMEMADE THANKSGIVING ICES.

Of course the nicest dessert of all for the Thanksgiving dinner is a nice homemade ice.

Ice creams can be easily and cheaply prepared at home with quite simple apparatus, all that is essential being a wooden bucket, or, rather, deep and not very wide earthenware crock, a good tin can with a well fitting lid having a handle on top, a freezing mixture of ice and salt and the cream, custard, fruit juice or other sweet mixture which is to be frozen.

How to Freeze.

Prepare the cream or custard or whatever is to form the ice cream and put it into the can. The inner pan of a double saucepan will do if the handle is not in the way and set it in cold water or in some cool place to reduce its temperature as low as possible, thus preventing it from readily melting the ice.

Keep the ice in the coldest place available, wrapped in a piece of blanket, until required for immediate use; then break it up into small pieces in the usual way.

Economical Ices.

Vanilla Ice Cream.—An inexpensive ice cream can be made thus: Boil one and one-half pints of milk (leaving out enough to mix the cornstarch) with six ounces white sugar, stir in a dessert spoonful of cornstarch made into a cream with a little cold milk, and boil gently for two or three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain if necessary and leave to become quite cold, setting the bowl in cold water (frequently changed) if a cold place is not available. Flavor with essence of vanilla, about half a teaspoonful, add a little saffron coloring, and freeze.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Prepare a boiled custard by beating up three yolks of eggs, pouring in a pint of hot but not boiling milk, then returning to the pan and cooking gently by the side of the fire until it thickens. Add six ounces of any good jam rubbed through a fine sieve (chopping and adding a few of the kernels in the case of peach or apricot) and mixed with the juice of half a large lemon. Use any preserved fruit in the same way. The appearance of the ices will be greatly improved by the addition of a little suitable coloring—viz. cochineal or carmine or saffron. Sweeten to taste, add one-fourth pint of cream, stiffly whipped when quite cold and freeze.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Spoiled That Lovely Cranberry Pie.

The Elf Sees the Pie.

THERE were times when Jack and Evelyn took daddy's stories as jokes, and when he told them he meant to tell them about Red Flush, the cranberry pie elf, they laughed hard.

"I see you don't believe in elves—in pie elves, at any rate—but I am just going to tell you that Red Flush was as handsome and sprightly a little elf as ever hopped about in a cranberry skin," said daddy.

"Though Red Flush looked like a cranberry, he wasn't really one of them. He was so fond of cranberries and had eaten so many of them that the fairy queen one day said he ought to look like one, and so after she waved her wand he did.

"Red Flush traveled around a good deal. One day he crept in for a nap among some cranberries in a bin at the corner grocer's.

"Before he wakened a little girl came in to buy a quart of the berries, and Red Flush was dumped in with the others.

"When the little girl got home she handed the bag to her mother, and it was put in the pantry until the next day. Red Flush then crawled out of the bag and prowled over the house.

"The elf hopped out into the kitchen and up on to the kitchen table where the little girl's mother was busily stirring something in a bowl.

"Something good to eat!" sniffed Red Flush, for he was very fond of good things.

"She was cutting up the cranberries and mixing them with minced raisins. Then she added water and sugar and lemon juice and poured this sauce into a deep dish lined with a white crust. Over this she spread another white crust, cutting slits in the top that Red Flush took for windows and doors.

"'What a jolly little house, with something inside to eat!' Red Flush exclaimed, and he wriggled through one of the slits and snuggled inside.

"In a minute the pie was put into the stove, and Red Flush wondered why his little house began to get warm.

"The perspiration was steaming down his face as he jumped out of the pie. He would have been in a bad way, I am afraid, if just then the little girl's mother had not opened the oven door to peep in. Red Flush hopped out.

"'How queer the pie looks!' the lady exclaimed, for it was bulged up in spots all over the top, and one of the cut places was torn and had a stream of cranberry juice trickling out.

"'I'm afraid it's spoiled,' she said, and she took it out and threw it away. But she never found out about Red Flush, and Red Flush was so disgusted with cranberries that from that day he gave them up and took to eating plain elf fare, so that now he looks just like any other little elf."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

A SEPARATE coat is an absolute necessity this season. Are you going to make it yourself? It is a very simple matter with the right pattern. Stiff, tailored effects are no longer the thing, a fact that makes matters still easier for the home sewer. The double faced materials may be used with no lining or stiffening at all very satisfactorily, the seams being bound with seam binding.

7829 combines many of the newest features. It is a three-quarter length model, with a low, deep belt, a set-in sleeve and an effective collar. The pattern is perforated for a shorter length if desired, the body of the coat being slightly fulled into a low belt. There is a new reversible coating this season, which is very practical for models of this description. It is 54 inches wide, comes in all the new shades, dark or light, and is faced with white or a harmonizing color. Three and one-quarter yards would be sufficient to make this coat in size 36. These reversible materials range from $2 to $8 a yard.

This Is a Perfect Pattern

Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Cross-stitch Designs Suitable For Embroidering Guest Towels.

Cross-stitch is one of the simplest of embroidery stitches and yet it is very effective when developed in heavy silks or mercerized cottons. It is done by taking two stitches of equal length crossing each other at right angles. If the stitches are all made in one direction first, and then gone over in the opposite direction, the design will appear on the back of the towel as well as on the front.

This design is appropriate for embroidering guest towels, bureau scarfs and table covers as well as waists, dresses, aprons and children's clothes in one of more colors or shades of color.

The butterflies in pattern number 14525, may be used as a border or cut apart and applied in various ways. This border is 1⅛ inches wide and the pattern also included three borders for darning, ⅜, ¼ and ½-inch wide. One yard of each border is contained in the pattern for ten cents.

The attractive garland design, in pattern number 14498, is 2 inches wide and may be developed in two shades of pink, one of blue and two of green. The pattern contains three yards of border for ten cents.

Pattern number 14391 includes six yards of border 2 inches wide and 4 corners for fifteen cents and pattern number 14521, three yards of border 2½ inches wide for ten cents. The border of ducks is particularly appropriate for embroidering children's clothes and the ducks may be used separately on bibs and fancy articles.

These patterns will be supplied to Daily Press readers upon receipt of price.

Raritan

Job C. Kenyon, for many years chief of the Raritan fire department, has presented to the members of Relief Hose Company an excellent life-size picture of ex-Chief Eugent Dilts, who was also for many years an honored member of the company, serving it up to the time of his death. The picture has been on exhibition for several days in the window of Rohn's drug store. It will be hung in the parlors of the fire company on Anderson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Smith have returned from their wedding trip, and have been visiting relatives here. They will make their home in Dunellen.

GOOD PINNING ON ELIZABETH ALLEYS

Team and Individual High Score Averages Are Smashed in Close Series.

With both teams smashing the pins in top-notch style the bowling fans who witnessed the Elizabeth-Hoboken tilt in connection with the Elks' League on the former's alleys last night, were treated to a great exhibition of the alley game and some excellent scores were rung up by the rival pin-knights. Although the visitors managed to get away with two out of the three games rolled they were extended to the limit in each match and were lucky to come out on the plus end of the count.

Hoboken started off with a flourish, rolling up a count of 927, which gave them the initial tilt by a margin of fifty-two pins, Elizabeth ringing up a total of 875 in the first match. The home quintet reversed its form in the middle game, however, and while the visitors were dropping from their lofty 927 record to a mere 838, the Elizabetheans jumped to 981.

In the third game the Hobokens regained the stride with which they had started and when the last frame had been totaled up the count read 949 to 842 in their favor. This contest was decided by the widest margin of any of the three, 107 pins separating the rivals on this occasion. Earle, of Hoboken, starred for the evening with records of 256 and 223, gaining for himself an average of 218 for the series. Bock rolled 213 for the Betsytowners and Clauss cleaned up 206.

Both teams raised their high score mark by virtue of their good pinning last night, Elizabeth going from 931 to 981 and the visitors from 925 to 949. Bock and Earle both boosted their previous high score records by two and fifty-four pins respectively.

ORANGE PIN-KNIGHTS SMASH THEIR RECORD

By Winning the Twelfth Game of the Season They Shatter Losing Streak.

After dropping eleven straight games without tasting a single victory the Orange Elks smashed their record last night by taking one match of the three rolled against the Jersey City pin-smashers, rolling up a count of 106 to 86 in the play-off after the third match had ended in a tie. After bringing their losing record up to eleven the Orangers showed a decided reversal of form in the twelfth and sprang a big surprise in the 'Skeeter camp.

After the regulation ten frames had been rolled off without a decision, the Orangers scored 106 in the extra box and won out by a margin of twenty pins. Jersey City had no trouble in capturing the first game, but took the second by the slim margin of thirteen pins, a number that proved both unlucky and disastrous to the quintet in the next contest. Russell, of the winning aggregation, was the brilliant star of the evening, getting scores of 236 and 200. Oetzel rolled 216 and Corydon bowled 214.

In last night's series Orange tied its high score mark but failed to pass the 862 mark established in the last series. Jersey City also failed to pass its high score record. Russell, of Jersey City, raised his high score average by thirty-five pins, setting up a mark of 236 to displace his former 201; Henderson, of Orange, increased his by six pins, and Oetzel raised his high score card to 216, fifteen pins better than his former mark.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Larry Bankhead's Colgate team is a hummer. The eleven is fast, heavy and full of fight.

The return of Jimmy Craig to the Michigan eleven has strengthened the Wolverines at least fifty per cent.

Harry Williams has a contract to coach football at the University of Minnesota, that runs two more years.

Pogue, of the Illinois University eleven, is ranked as one of the greatest quarterbacks of the year in the West.

In case Cornish should not be able to play any more this year, Yale will be hard put for a first-class quarterback.

Streit, of the Princeton Tigers, and Brickley, of Harvard, are running neck-and-neck in the way of scoring touchdowns this fall.

For the past two years the Penn State team has had every team it tackled faded. But this season the "Staters" are sorely up against it.

The Cornell eleven is improving right along, and should be able to put up a rattling good contest in its annual combat with Pennsylvania.

Just to show how difficult it is to distinguish football players in action —"Pooch" Donovan, the Harvard trainer, was unable to pick out his own men in a recent game at Cambridge.

WITH THE BOXERS

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight, is in New York again looking for bouts.

Harry Lewis, the Philadelphia middleweight, who has been dangerously ill for several weeks, is now able to be out.

Aleck McLean, manager of Gilbert Gallant, is anxious to match his protege against either Ad Wolgast or Matty Baldwin.

Tommy Maloney, of New York, who claims to be the welterweight champion of America, announces that he will defend the title against all comers at 142 pounds.

BASEBALL NOTES

It is said the Western League magnates contemplate the dropping of Wichita and Topeka from the circuit.

"Rabbit" Maranville and Tommy Griffith, of the Boston Braves, have "doubled up" for a season on the vaudeville stage.

Portland, winner of the Pacific Coast League pennant, won the season's series from every team in the league except Los Angeles.

Pitcher Johnson, who comes to the Red Sox from the Syracuse team, defeated both the Giants and the Red Sox in exhibition games last season.

Jimmy Johnston, of the San Francisco Seals, leads the Pacific Coast League base stealers with 123 pilfered sacks to his credit. He returns to the big top next season as a member of the Chicago Cubs.

SOME GOOD JUMPERS IN COLLEGE LEAGUE

Krausse Won First Place in Field of Sixteen Junior Contestants.

In finishing as the winner in the running broad jump event held in connection with the Y. M. C. A. junior departments' College League activities yesterday afternoon, Clarence Krausse was forced to clear fifteen feet, nine inches in order to beat out little Godfrey Clay, the runner-up in this event, who hung up a mark of fifteen feet flat. Considering his size when compared to the other competitors, Clay's mark is little short of phenomenal, many of the contestants much bigger and with considerably longer legs to assist them in covering ground, having fallen one, two and three feet short of the second man's mark.

All of the records were good, no one of the sixteen contestants having fallen below the eleven foot mark, and all but two did twelve feet or better on the leap.

While Harvard won first place by virtue of Krausse's winning leap, it will probably fall far short of snatching the largest number of points in the events, as Princeton had five entrants, Yale and Columbia each had four and Harvard had but two. The jumpers are given points for their respective efforts and the teams they represent will be given their points.

K. OF C. PIN LEAGUE WILL OPEN TONIGHT

First Games to Be Played on the Newark Alleys—Locals Bowl Friday Night.

The Knights of Columbus Bowling League, of which the local lodge is a member, will open the season tonight, when the members of the Olive Branch Council and Belleville Council quintetes meet on the latter's alleys. Friday night the Elizabeth team is scheduled to appear on the Plainfield alleys and the Montclair Council team will roll the Star of Bethlehem team at Newark.

President John J. Berry, of the Columbus Club of Newark, will make a speech at the opening game of the organization in Newark tonight, and National Warden Thomas J. McLaughlin will roll the first ball. George Taylor has been elected captain of the local team and is giving his men tryouts every night on the Columbus Club shutes.

TWO ELKS' LEAGUE GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW

Plainfield Elk bowlers will take a trip to New Jersey's metropolis tomorrow night, where they are due to lineup against the antlered pinners of the Newark lodge in a regularly scheduled Elks' League series. The Queen City wood smashers have been practising on the Knights of Columbus alleys and expect to make things hot for the fast traveling Newarkers.

The game originally scheduled for October 30 in the Elks' League between the New York and Hoboken teams, and which was postponed, will be rolled tomorrow night on the Hoboken alleys.

HOPE CHAPEL WILL PLAY CLINTONS OF PATERSON

Seven basketball representatives of Hope Chapel will go to Paterson tonight to lineup pagainst Professor Williard Gravestone Stanton's Clinton Athletic Club five at that place. The team, in expectation of an all night tour, will leave the Queen City this afternoon on the 4:26 train and the return will be made sometime between 2 and 3 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Those who will make the trip are Johnny and Tommy Heron, George Leighs, Allen and Guy Snyder, David Wardrop and Jim Doig. The Clinton five averages 150 pounds to the man, according to Mr. Stanton, so the Chapelites will evidently have their hands full in attempting to tame the Silk City five.

RETURNNG MONEY FOR TICKETS.

The Army and Navy officials have notified Secretary Foster that the Government institutions will exercise their option on all the available seats for the Army-Navy game at the Polo Grounds, November 29. These will levy such a demand on the New York club as to leave only approximately 400 seats for New York sales. The New York club yesterday returned a large sum of money to applicants who had sent in their orders on the condition that the Army and Navy would not exercise their option on all additional tickets. The office has been swamped with applications and the tickets are going to be much scarcer than was at first supposed.

BOROUGH ATHLETES GOT RECOGNITION

Went to Bernardsville Yesterday Afternoon and Scheduled a Basketball Game.

Following the failure of the Bernardsville High School basketball and baseball managers to answer numerous communications sent them by North Plainfield High School game bookers, a committee of athletes representing the borough school was delegated to take an auto trip to that place yesterday afternoon to see if Bernardsville was still holding down its place on the map and if possible to reach some satisfactory agreement whereby the two teams could be brought together on the basketball court this season.

Manager Van Mater, Captain Burner, Frank Duazing and Roy Love made the trip and when the Bernardsville students got a glance at the husky gladiators of the Canadian wilds they hastily condescended to arrange a contest between the two basketball fives to be played at that place February 21, the day before Washington told his first lie.

THIRTY-FOUR MEN IN SENIOR EVENT

Some Good Marks Hung up in Novel Events at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

Interest continues to grow in the Y. M. C. A. senior department Number League activities and no less than thirty-four contestants turned out last night to take part in the snap under for distance. Considering the nature of this event, one that is seldom used in amateur competition, the marks established by all of the men were extremely creditable. The snap under requires a knack that is perfected only after considerable practice and the fact that this was the first time many of the contestants had ever heard of the event made it a novel one for the entrants.

Karlberg, competing for team number five, won the event with a stretch of seven feet, eight inches, with Sharp running a close second, three inches in the rear.

ELI WARRIORS WHO WILL BE PROMINENT IN GAME AT NEW HAVEN WITH TIGERS

WILSON, YALE FULLBACK. KNOWLES, YALE RIGHT HALF BACK.

These two sturdy backfield performers will be big factors in the Yale-Princeton game next Saturday afternoon in New Haven, when the bulldog and tiger meet for their annual gridiron battle. Odds have been quoted on the outcome of the clash in favor of Princeton by a margin of 10 to 7, but either of the men in the above group can be relied upon to bring about a complete reversal in previous dope if they are given the ball in an open field or if the contest resolves itself into a punting duel.

Wilson, during the past week has been shifted to quarterback and Knowles is playing right half for the Eli outfit. A report was circulated yesterday to the effect that Knowles would be unable to play in the Tiger clash and this gave the Princeton stock a considerable boost. Captain Ketcham, of Yale, set all the rumors aside this morning by announcing that the big halfback would positively be in the lineup and is looked upon as a strong man on the offense for the blue.

Old Ed. Geers Is Still a Winning Driver.

SOCCER FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

A National Organization Is Formed to Conduct Championship Tourney In Association Football—Many Teams Represented — Hardwick, Harvard's Physical Prodigy.

By TOMMY CLARK.

I guess that Ed Geers person is an old cripple and ought to be thrown to the wolves, eh? He drove the winners at Lexington, Ky., recently in both stakes on one day's card, the Castleton cup and the pacing division of the Kentucky Futurity, the features of the Grand Circuit program. In the former he piloted the crack trotter, Anvil, to victory in two straight heats, while in the latter he drove Homer Baughman, defeating Tilly Tipton, driven by Thomas W. Murphy, in three straight heats.

Time doesn't seem to affect the genius of the great driver, who is the Methuselah of the light harness brigade.

Arrangements have been made for the first cup title competition of the United States of America Football association, the new soccer authority in this country. The tournament will be started in November, and the teams will play for the National Challenge cup. Teams from thirty-eight clubs in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New England, Michigan and Illinois have already sent in entries. The clubs will be divided into sections. Applications have been received from the following clubs:

New York—German Football club, Interborough Rapid Transit Football club, Columbia Oval Football club, New York Celtics, Hudson United Football club, St. George Field club, Rangers Football club, Cameron Football club, all of Manhattan; Brooklyn Football club, Clan MacKenzie Football club, Brooklyn Celtics, Fulton Athletic club, all of Brooklyn; Yonkers Football club of Yonkers; Niagara Falls Rangers Football club, Niagara Falls; Buffalo Corinthian Football club of Buffalo and McNaughton Rangers Football club of Rochester.

New Jersey—Watsessing Football club of East Orange, Cowboy club and Jersey Blues of Jersey City, Babcock & Wilcox Football club of Bayonne, West Hudson Juniors of Harrison and Alley Boys Football club of Harrison.

Pennsylvania—Peabody Football club, West Philadelphia Football club, Kensington Association Football club of Philadelphia, Bethlehem Football club of Bethlehem, Wissinoming Association Football club and Disston Football club of Tacony and Braddock Football club of Braddock.

New England—New Bedford Football club of New Bedford, Mass.; Fair Alpaca Football club of Holyoke, Mass., and Presbyterian Football club of Bridgeport, Conn.

Michigan—Roses Football club and Packard Football club of Detroit.

Illinois—Clan MacDuff, Campbell Rovers Football club, Pullman Football club and Hyde Park Blues, all of Chicago.

Huntington Hardwick, a New England youth, who won Harvard's strength test, showed more physical efficiency than John L. Sullivan, Jeffries, Sandow and other noted physical giants ever did in their prime, and the Crimson strong man only a few years ago took up athletics as a last resort to improve poor health.

Hardwick recently passed Dr. Dudley Sargent's strength examination, with 1,296.2 points, over 300 more than Jack Johnson's best, and yet the Harvard marvel weighs but 174 pounds.

The latest physical wonder, while very muscular, is not overdeveloped, and Dr. Sargent, who has examined nearly every prominent strong man during the last decade, paid Hardwick the following tribute. "He has more real physical efficiency than any man I ever examined."

Aquatic fans who have been looking forward to the consolidation of collegiate swimming interests in the east will be disappointed to learn that there is no hope of bringing together the various associations this season.

E. C. M. Richards of Yale, who has been busy all summer trying to bring to maturity his plan of establishing graded championships and so inducing all universities to take membership in the Intercollegiate league, confesses to failure.

"I found," he said, "general unwillingness among the teams not strong enough for the regular championship to compete for minor titles, and my scheme fell through. We will have to wait until better material is developed before we can think of an all embracing body."

A new clause will be inserted in the form of a baseball player's contract for the major leagues next year. It will prohibit a player from "writing" or selling the use of his name to newspapers or other publications during the playing season. This is the result of the national commission's crusade against player-authors, which has received the indorsement of John McGraw among others.

From all accounts Pittsburgh university is likely to be heard of in the swimming game this season. The Smoketown institution has gathered into its fold several of the leading paddlers of the district and will give them every opportunity to improve. Meets with clubs and rival colleges are already being negotiated for.

No event that could happen would give the powers that be in the Amateur Athletic union greater pleasure than the development in this country of a real "nine-three" sprinter. The circumstances attending the effacement of Duffey's work from the record books, and the general doubt cast upon the timing that gave Dan Kelly credit for running faster than any amateur that ever lived, have made the 9 3-5 seconds record a sore spot, and the quicker some athlete comes along with a genuine performance like that the better athletic officialdom will like it.

Harry Clark, third baseman, who piloted his team to the top of the American association this year, has signed a two year contract as manager of the Milwaukee team. Mrs. Agnes Havenor, owner, refused to divulge the terms of the contract.

Fast Subs at Penn.

Coach Brooke is developing a set of substitutes that will be the best the University of Pennsylvania has ever had. Merrill has qualities that make him almost as valuable to the team as Marshall, while he will be a big factor should Minds be incapacitated, as he gives the signals in very good shape.

GRIDIRON HEROES WHO WILL SUPPORT DARTMOUTH AGAINST INDIAN ELEVEN

When Dartmouth takes the field at the Polo Grounds, Saturday afternoon to defend its recently established right to be recognized among the contenders for the 1913 collegiate football championship, these pigskin warriors will be among the most prominent of those selected to represent the green against the Carlisle Indians. One of the innovations that will be introduced at the Polo Grounds by Dartmouth next Saturday will be the numbering of players and this sytem will help the spectators to know who is carrying the ball and which player makes each down.

The men in the above illustration are a set of the most consistent ground gainers and best defensive players developed on college gridirons this fall and will probably establish their claim to be recognized as All-American material in Saturday's game with the redskins.

WALTER JOHNSON IS THE REAL THING AS LEADER OF STRIKEOUT ARTISTS

It is a little bit early to print stories about what will happen in baseball next year, but one of the things that is pretty sure to happen is that Walter Johnson will then pass the 1500 mark in strike-outs—unless he breaks his priceless arm or decides to abandon the national game. The man who won the Chalmers car for being the most valuable player in the American League last season has since he entered fast company, claimed 1458 strike-out victims. No other major league hurler has, in the seven consecutive seasons from 1907 to 1913, amassed this total of whiff exploits—in fact, only three other men have fanned over 1000 ball players in this length of time. These three are Ed Walsh, Nap Rucker and Christy Mathewson.

Big Ed Walsh, the spitball star of the White Sox, has been Johnson's closest rival for the title of the Strike-out King of the Majors. The Chicagoan has compelled 1405 of his to take the whiff route to the bench since he has been a contemporary of the illustrious Washingtonian. Walsh twirled only in sixteen games last season, but from 1907 to 1913, inclusive, he has been in forty-eight more battles than has the renowned Kansan.

Christy Mathewson has fanned 1137 men in the last seven campaigns and Nap Rucker 1128. Eddie Plank, Connie Mack's peerless portsider, almost reached the thousand mark in that time, 997 of his adversaries taking the strikeout count. Chief Bender claimed 864 victims, Howard Camnitz 804, Jack Coombs 784, Mordecai Peter Centennial Brown 747, Leon Ames 748, George Mullin 704, Harry White 628, Ed Reulbach 603, and George Wiltse 580.

Johnson's average of strike-outs per game from 1907 to 1913, inclusive, has been 5.41, Ed Walsh's figures being 4.38 and Chief Bender's 4.02. Only two of the men mentioned in this article have averaged more than 200 strikeouts per campaign, the pair being Johnson and Walsh. The Easterner's average is 208, the Westerner's 201. Ranking third on this basis is Christy Mathewson, with 162. Walsh has been the busiest toiler from 1907 to 1913, inclusive, with "Big Six" next in line.

Here are the totals of strikeouts piled up by the fourteen major league hurlers from 1907 to 1913, inclusive:

Pitchers.	Games.	Strike outs.	Av. Per Game.	Av. Per Season.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Plainfield People.

Thirty thousand voices. What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Plainfield people are in this chorus. Here's a Plainfield case.

Mrs. Cecelia Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am only too pleased to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope that all kidney sufferers who read my statement will profit by my experience. I have had a world of good from this remedy, backache, headache, dizzy spells and trouble with the kidney secretions being removed by it. I do not know what I would have done without Doan's Kidney Pills and I am certain that there is no kidney medicine that can be compared with them."

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the laying out and opening of Spooner Avenue from West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at 8 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the first day of December, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Thirteen, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., November 10, 1913.

AN ORDINANCE

For the Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue From West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue.

WHEREAS, The Common Council have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that Spooner Avenue should be laid out and opened between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That a public street, to be known as Spooner Avenue, be and the same is hereby ordered laid out and opened in said city as hereinafter specified, that is to say:

The centre line of said street shall begin at a point in the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street distant along said side line 12.53 feet in a northeasterly direction from the centre line of Spooner Avenue produced, and running from said point in a southeasterly direction, over lands now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown and Fred A. Martin, a distance of 400.68 feet to an iron monument in the centre line of Stelle Avenue as shown on map entitled "Map of Woodland Park, Plainfield, N. J., November 1909. Owned and Developed by Central Holding Co., 1328 Broadway, N. Y. C.," on file in the office of the Register of Union County, said point being distant along said centre line 322.84 feet in a northeasterly direction from an iron manhole head, marked, in the intersection of the centre lines of Grant and Stelle Avenues, and running from said point in a southeasterly direction and parallel with and distant 25 feet in a northeasterly direction from the line between lots 15 and 16 on the above mentioned map, over lands now or formerly of Walter F. Manning, a distance of 181.2 feet to the line between lots 15 and 38 on said map, thence still in a southeasterly direction and parallel with and distant 25 feet in a northeasterly direction from the line between lots 37 and 38 on said map over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company, a distance of 181.22 feet to an iron monument in the centre line of Sheridan Avenue as shown on said map, thence in a southerly direction in a straight line over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company and Helen B. Banchella, a distance of 362.80 feet to a stone monument in the centre lines of Sherman and Stillman Avenues and there to end. Said street shall be 50 feet in width, that is to say, 25 feet on each side of said centre line, and the roadway shall be 30 feet in width, that is to say, 15 feet on each side of said centre line. Said centre line and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk, November 10, 1913, entitled "Map showing Proposed Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue from West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J., October, 1913," to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said Spooner Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street to the northwesterly side line of Sherman Avenue are all those lands, real estate and appurtenances included between the side lines above described lying 25 feet on each side of the above described centre line and parallel therewith, and includes all that part of the lands, real estate and appurtenances now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown, Fred A. Martin, Walter F. Manning, The Central Holding Company and Helen B. Banchella which lies within said lines.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinbefore ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE

"If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible: Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will lose. You may think not, but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you."

STATEMENT

OF CHAS. KURTZMAN

THE PLAINFIELD FUR DEALER

To the Plainfield people who are interested in furs—

ON THE FUR QUESTION.

As a rule, any lady, in doing shopping, no matter how small may be the article desired, is careful to buy it right. But when it comes to buying furs, no matter how careful she is, nor now much she may know about the subject, it is still necessary for her to trade at a place where she can have confidence in the reliability of the dealer. In buying of an exclusive furrier you cannot suffer from misrepresentation, because if the dealer was not reliable, he could not stay long in town. You are protected by his personal training and knowledge. In buying at a department store you have no such protection. There you deal with a clerk who merely registers her employer's orders like an automaton.

N. P. H. S. PLAYER SERIOUSLY HURT

"Poly" Love Retired From Basketball Indefinitely by Fall After Practise.

TEAM HAUNTED BY JINX

Veteran Forward Will Be Sadly Missed by the Team—Love's Misfortune Follows the Recovery of Dunning and VanMater.

There is a saying that misfortunes never come singly. This is the case in the camp of the North Plainfield High School basketball team. Two players, Duclos VanMater and Frank Dunning, have just recovered from injuries and now Roy Love is out of the lineup with an injured right hand. The accident occurred in Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon, before the practise of the first team. Love had started for the dressing room and was about to pass through a swinging door when the slippery floor caused him to lunge forward. In trying to regain his balance, Love stuck out his right hand, which went completely through a stained glass window that was in the middle of the door.

The sharp edges of glass cut his wrist in many places and went through to the bone. In doing so it cut four blood vessels and one artery, which caused the blood to flow from his hand very rapidly.

Ashley Burner, who was the only one with Love at the time, the rest of the squad having already gone to the dressing room, showed his presence of mind by tying a handkerchief around Love's forearm and winding it tight by the twist of a pencil, thus stopping the blood circulation. Burner then accompanied his injured companion to the office of Dr. Frederick Hughes, of Somerset street.

Love showed great nerve by very calmly allowing the doctor to wash the wound out, tie the torn blood vessels and take nine stitches, which were required to close the cut. Never during the entire time did he falter and afterwards returned to the hall and watched the practise. He will be out of the game for an indefinite length of time and his absence will be greatly missed by his teammates. While unable to play his place will be filled by Ronald Conroy.

MRS. EMMA COLMY IS NOW MRS. ALFRED BINZ

Alfred Binz, formerly proprietor of the hotel at Mt. Bethel, and Mrs. Emma Colmy, formerly of New York, but who for several months has been living at Mt. Bethel, were married at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the new Catholic church, Mt. Bethel, Father Ruddin, of Bound Brook, officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by a few friends of the couple.

Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Binz left in an automobile for Plainfield, where they took a train for New York. Today they left for Europe, where they will spend the winter. The bride is a native of France. Mr. Binz conducted the Mt. Bethel Hotel for ten years and is popular in that section.

Friends of the couple decorated the automobile which brought them to Plainfield, and all along the route, neighbors and friends turned out to give the bride and groom a good sendoff.

TOPICS FOR SERMONS.

Dr. Hervey Wood, secretary of the Baptist General Temperance Committee, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday morning. His subject will be "The Irrepressible Conflict Between the Church and the Liquor Traffic." At night, Rev. Dr. Maguire will preach on "Shall We Know Each Other In Heaven; Is It a Guess, a Myth, or a Whim."

TO ISSUE BONDS.

The school voters of Dunellen at an election held Tuesday night in the Whittier School voted to authorize the Board of Education to issue bonds to defray the cost of construction of an addition to the Lincoln School and the alteration of the latter institution at a total cost of $17,000.

SPEEDER ARRESTED.

George Pierson, 29 years old, of West Fourth street, driving an auto truck through North Plainfield was arrested by Marshal Walter Dennis on a charge of speeding. When arraigned Recorder Gano yesterday morning released him on a suspended sentence of a $10 fine.

WM. A. CLARK PASSES AWAY

Son of Late Congressman Succumbs to Complications After Long Illness.

WIDELY KNOWN MAN

A Banker and Also in Real Estate Business—One Son, W. M. Clark, Resides Here—Funeral Saturday Morning.

William A. Clark, for a number of years a prominent resident of this city and well-known through Union county, died at 3 o'clock this morning at Tuell Inn on Park avenue of a complication of disease with which he had suffered for some time. He spent the summer at Lakewood, where he seemed to be improved somewhat in health but recently he contracted the grip and was brought home a few days ago.

Mr. Clark was the son of the late Congressman Amos Clark, of Elizabeth, in which place he was born and spent his early life. He was engaged chiefly in the real estate business in Union county and Westchester, N. Y., being a member of the firm of F. E. Fontaine & Co., of Elizabeth, which was founded by his father. Mr. Clark was a member of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, and a director in the Citizens' Bank, that place, before it was merged into the Union County Trust Company. He was also a director in The State Trust Company, this city, and he had a number of other business interests. He was not identified with any lodges.

Mr. Clark possessed a genial disposition and had the faculty of making friends. He was devoted to his home and family. He is survived by a wife, a son, William M. Clark, of West Eighth street; three brothers, Sigourney B. Clark, of Elizabeth; Lincoln and Arthur Clark, of Westfield; Fred Clark, of Tarrytown, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. George Webb, of Boston.

The funeral service will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the son on West Eighth street. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

RAISE OLD GLORY AT WARRENVILLE SCHOOL

Flag Presented by Fairview Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.—H. C. Krebs a Speaker.

Representatives of all the schools in Warren township, together with a delegation of forty members from Fairview Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and county school officials attended the flag raising at Warrenville School yesterday afternoon. The affair was arranged by the Warrenville School Improvement Society composed of children. They raised the money for the pole and Fairview Council presented the flag.

The first part of the program of a patriotic character, was presented by the children and comprised singing and recitations. Then followed addresses by H. C. Krebs, county superintendent of schools and John E. Flammer, representing the Board of Education of the township.

The flag was presented on behalf of Fairview Council by Past State Councilor William B. LaRue, of Bound Brook, who made an appropriate address. The flag was raised to the top of the pole by Jessie Cooper, Myrtle Williams and Mildred Miller, members of the improvement society, amid the cheers and applause of the large crowd present.

Among the teachers present who made brief remarks were George W. Spencer, of South Sterling School; Miss Rose Jackson, of the Mt. Bethel School and Cecil Hofer, of Springdale School. After the exercises all adjourned to the school where refreshments were served.

NURSES' NEW HOME.

At a meeting of the Somerset Hospital Association, at Somerville, on Tuesday night, the nurses' new home recently erected by Mrs. J. Harper Smith, was turned over to the institution with appropriate ceremonies.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE.

TEMPLE SHOLEM ORGANIZED HERE

Hebrew Reformed Congregation Elects Herman Schwed As Its President.

GIFTS ARE OFFERED

Starts With Thirty-four Members—William Newcorn to Draw Incorporation Papers—To Meet November 21.

Following the report of the special committee of arrangements at a meeting held in William Newcorn's office last night, it was unanimously decided to organize a Hebrew Reformed congregation to be known as the Temple Sholem, (Peace), of Plainfield. The membership committee reported a total of thirty-four enrolled. An offer of the Young Men's Hebrew Association to allow the use of its building on Grove street for services until permanent arrangements are made was accepted. The first meeting will be held on Friday night, November 21.

The following were chosen as a board of trustees, Herbert Schuldenfrei, William Newcorn, Harry Dreier, Emanuel Schloss, Max Tepper, Herman Schwed, Victor L. Drellich, Dr. Raphael Yood and Samuel Rothberg. Later the trustees organized by electing these officers: President, Herman Schwed; vice-president, Max Tepper; secretary Samuel Rothberg; treasurer, William Newcorn.

The union prayer-book which is in general use by reformed congregations was adopted. The prayers are the same as in the orthodox book except that they are shorter and are translated into English.

Ferdinand E. Cassler, of New York, a member of the local congregation, presented the new temple with a Bible and prayer books, and William Newcorn read a letter received from Jacob H. Schiff, of New York, in which he offered to contribute $100 toward a building fund. M. A. Eiseman, of New York, offered a plot of ground on West Fourth street, near Darrow avenue, should the congregation want to erect a temple there, and Emanuel Schloss offered the use of the former Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall in the Scheuer building for meeting purposes. William Newcorn will attend to the incorporation of the organization without charge.

It was explained that this is a movement to take care of the younger members of the Hebrew faith, and it is proposed to conduct an active work in Bible school teaching making the Young Men's Hebrew Association a stronger factor for good. As soon as a permanent place of meeting is secured arrangements will be made to install an organ and there will be a choir. As yet no decision has been made in securing a preacher for the congregation.

Another meeting of the trustees will be held Wednesday night, Nov. 19.

PIGEON FOUND NOTHING TO EAT IN ELKS' ROOM

While making preparations to move to the Elks' new lodge rooms on Watchung avenue last night, one of the members had occasion to enter an ante-room in the old meeting rooms on West Second street and upon opening the door of the closet-like compartment discovered a pigeon lying dead on the floor.

The supposition is that the feathered bird was locked in the room by the last one who used it and indications were that it had died from starvation. Around the leg of the pigeon was a ring, such as that borne by carrier birds, bearing the inscription "B. 39824" and one man severed the limb bearing the identification mark and took the ring as a curio.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Housewives are once more reminded that there are still a few rapid vacuum washers left at The Daily Press office, which can be had for the small sum of 98 cents. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Daily Press to obtain a washer and those desiring this handy machine are urged to call promptly as the supply will soon be exhausted.

JUNIOR CONCERT TONIGHT.

Members of the junior municipal orchestra will give their first public concert tonight in the auditorium of the Washington School on Darrow avenue. Martin A. Korff, the leader, has arranged a program of instrumental selections and a number of the more talented musicians will render solo numbers.

COMMISSIONERS TAKE OATH.

Police Chief P. S. Kiely, Patrolman Arthur McGinley, William F. Arnold and DeWitt C. Ivins, the recently-appointed police pension commissioners, were sworn into office last night by Mayor Percy H. Stewart.

MISS TITUS BRIDE OF GEORGE ALLEGAR

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Titus Wedded to Neschanic Man.

Miss Florence Titus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Titus, of New Market, and George Allegar, of Neshanic, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the New Market Baptist church, of which the bride is a member, officiated. Miss Florence Martenis, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. The best man was Mr. Norton, of Somerville. Irene Titus and Blanche Martenis were flower girls. There were about seventy-five people present from Plainfield, Somerville Belvidere, Neshanic, New Market, Newark and Washington.

The bride was gowned in white brocaded satin trimmed with white Venice lace. She carried white roses. Her veil was caught up with lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid wore pink voile trimmed with shallow lace and she carried pink roses.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Loretta Clawson and Angello Sobo, of Plainfield. The decorations were pink and white with many potted plants. Supper was served following the ceremony and the guests then enjoyed dancing. The music was provided by Miss Clawson, piano; Angello Sobo, violin, and Mr. Norton, cornet. The couple are spending their honeymoon at Washington, D. C., and on their return will reside in Dunellen.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond pin and a solid silver service. The bride's gift was a gold watch chain and fob. The bridesmaid received a gold brooch and the best man a gold pin. Among the many presents received by the bride was an upright piano, the gift of her parents.

GOLDFARB IS GUILTY OF STEALING BOTTLES

Arrested by Patrolman Vanderweg and charged with stealing milk bottles, Samuel Goldfarb, 26 years old, a milkman, of 673 West Third street, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or be committed to the county jail for a term of sixty days when arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza.

Numerous complaints have been received from milkmen in the city that bottles filled with milk as well as the empty receptacles have been taken in large numbers from the door steps of local residents. Patrolman Vanderweg was assigned to investigate. According to Chief Kiely he has been laying in wait for the offender for several days and this morning saw Goldfarb mount the front steps of a house at Elmwood place and West Second street, take an empty milk bottle and place it in his wagon. Vanderweg then placed him under arrest.

In his defense Goldfarb said he thought the bottle belonged to him.

ORGANIZED FOR THE JOINT SEWER

George S. Clay Chosen Chairman at Tri-Municipality Meeting.

W. F. ARNOLD, TREAS.

Committee of Three to See to Condemnation of Darling Farm—J. Edward Ashmead Special Counsel.

One of the most important of the final steps in the plans for the proposed joint trunk sewer to be built by Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen was taken last night at a joint meeting of the Councils of those municipalities held in this city, when an organization was effected to carry on the future work. This was the last move prior to the actual work of beginning condemnation proceedings to acquire the Darling farm in Piscataway township for the disposal works.

The Councils organized by electing a permanent chairman, secretary and treasurer, and authorizing the appointment of a committee of three to acquire necessary land for carrying out the provisions of the law regarding the sewer plans, the permanent chairman or a committee of five to call a special meeting upon a three days' notice and fixing the first Wednesday in each month as a time for meeting. Another committee of three will be appointed to secure a permanent place of meeting. The question of fixing the compensation for the officers will be determined at the next meeting, Wednesday, December 3.

Plainfield was represented at the joint meeting by Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Councilmen George S. Clay, Francis J. Blatz, Leighton Calkins, F. E. Mygatt, C. C. Randolph, Cornelius vanHerwerden, and North Plainfield by Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Councilmen E. C. Boyer, Allen Cowperthwaite, Julius J. Stahl, Alexander Milne, L. B. Woolston, and Dunellen by Mayor Charles E. Richards, Councilmen A. F. Todd, J. J. Bolard, William Shiveley, W. A. Gastner, Richard M. Ryan, while Mayor-elect E. B. Latham, who takes office there January 1, was present to acquaint himself with the proceedings. William J. Buttfield, a former North Plainfield councilman, one of the moving spirits in the sewer matter, was also present.

As the first business, President George S. Clay, of the Plainfield Council, was made temporary chairman, and Charles M. Dolliver, clerk of the North Plainfield Council, was made temporary secretary. They were afterward made permanent chairman and secretary, and William F. Arnold, city treasurer of Plainfield, was made treasurer of the joint committee. J. Edward Ashmead, representing the law firm of Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, which has been attending to the legal work of the sewer matter, was present and directed the proceedings of the evening. He also swore in the newly-appointed officers.

Mr. Dolliver read the call of the meeting, which provided among other things that the joint meeting first organize by the selection of a chairman, secretary and treasurer and fix the compensation, acknowledging the affidavit of George B. Wean that he had served the proper notices, after which upon motion of Mr. Mygatt the joint meeting proceeded to organize. Throughout the meeting Mr. Dolliver was required to take a separate roll call of each Council, and there were no dissenting votes.

A resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, provided that the officers shall serve at the pleasure of the joint meeting and their services shall be terminated at the will of the meeting. The bond of the treasurer was fixed at $20,000. Another resolution by Mr. Mygatt, which was adopted, provided that Lindabury, Depue & Faulks be continued as the counsel of the meeting until further notice.

It was further provided that the committee of three appointed to acquire lands, etc., report to the meeting from time to time the result of its work. Rules of order were adopted, providing that meetings be held the first Wednesday of each month and special meetings upon three days' notice, a quorum to consist of a majority of all members.

AT WARREN CHAPEL.

Under the auspices of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel a sale of pie, bread, cake, candy, baked beans and potato salad will be held at the chapel Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. The proceeds will be used for chapel work.

—Florida grape fruit, oranges and tangerine oranges, Malaga, Tokay and English hothouse grapes, fancy table apples and pears and new figs and dates are but a few of the delicacies which will be offered for tomorrow's trade by Neuman Brothers, Watchung avenue and Fifth street.—

AWARD HUSBAND THE PERSONALTY

One of Three Suits in Which Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hood Are Concerned Decided.

BY VICE CHANCELLOR

Proof of Gift to Wife Not Satisfactory—Decision in Divorce Case and Real Estate Litigation to Come Later.

Newark, Nov. 13.—Vice Chancellor Stevens today, in an oral opinion, decided the personal property rights of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Haden Hood, of Stelle avenue, Plainfield, awarding the estranged husband the personalty in the mansion. He excepted, however, a piece of marble statuary, which was bought by Hood for his wife before their marriage and a marble plaque, which was claimed by the wife to be a Christmas present from him.

In handing down his opinion, the Vice Chancellor stated that he had intended to decide all three suits at the same time but he had decided later to give his decision in the one only because it had been represented to him by Hood's counsel that it would have a bearing in the assault and battery case in the Union County Court, wherein he pleaded guilty and is to be sentenced tomorrow. He stated that as he expects both the other cases to be carried to the Court of Appeals he had decided to carefully write his opinions in the divorce suit brought by his wife and also the suit over the real estate which stands in the wife's name and which the husband is fighting to have deeded back to him.

Vice Chancellor Stevens stated that as to the wife's claim to the personalty as a gift from the husband, there were two questions: First, an intent to give must be proven, and second, if proven, delivery must be shown. He asserted that he thought the wife had not proven either of these requisites. The goods remained in the house after the alleged gift and were enjoyed jointly by the couple just as they had before. The intent to give was supported only on the wife's uncorroborated testimony. The proof should be clear and satisfactory, he said, and in this case it was neither. A transfer was essential, he added.

Hood will appear before Judge Connelly tomorrow morning for sentence in the assault and battery case.

SAURER PLANT LAYS OFF MORE EMPLOYES

The Entire Force at the Works Now is 250—Not to Shut Down.

Eighty-seven employes of the International Motor Company were laid off at the plant on West Front street last night, in addition to the fifty which were let go last week. There is a force of about 250 men now employed at the works. It is semi-officially stated that there will be no further reduction in the force for the present. The reason assigned for the discharge of the 150 men is that the company intends to be more conservative and has adopted a policy of retrenchment in certain departments.

Of the eighty-seven men laid off yesterday the majority are machinists, while there are a few clerks among the number. It is said that it is proposed to combine some of the departments, believing that greater efficiency will result. There was a report that the plant would be shut down tomorrow night, but this is denied by men connected with the concern in a semi-official capacity.

COPS DANCE TONIGHT.

"Musical" Stewart, together with other professional talent will furnish the entertainment at the annual reception and dance of the Plainfield Patrolmen's Benevolent Association at Saengerbund Hall tonight. It is expected that a number of officials from both the city and borough will be present.

RESTAURANT CLOSED.

Neighbor's restaurant on North avenue, which has been in operation about a year, was closed last night. It is not known what plans Irvin Neighbor, the proprietor, has decided upon. Following the retirement of Thomas Timbo from the business, Mr. Neighbor re-opened it after a short time.

MRS. GILES' FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary E. Giles, who died at her home on West Front street, Tuesday, were held from her late home this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, officiating. The burial was made in Samptown cemetery.

BORO TAX 'KICK' HEARD BY BOARD

State Body Listens to North Plainfield's Complaint Against Somerset Board.

REBATE IS DEMANDED.

Other Municipalities in County Represented—Briefs of Argument Are Ordered to Be Filed—Major Lentz On Hand.

Attended by representatives of many municipalities in Somerset county, borough officials, members of the Somerset County Board of Taxation, and some men interested in tax matters from other parts of the State, the tax hearing in the North Plainfield Council chambers before the State Board of Taxation, ended at 1 o'clock this afternoon after arguments had been made and the State officials had issued an order that counsel for the various municipalities should submit briefs. These briefs will be presented before the State Board, in Trenton, on Tuesday, Nov. 25.

The meeting opened shortly after 11 o'clock this morning with Frank Jess, president of the State Board of Taxation presiding. His associates are Senator Bloomfield Minch, L. T. Russell, George T. Bouton and A. T. Holley. Major Carl Lentz, of Newark, former president of the State Board, represented the Borough of North Plainfield. Former Judge Clarence E. Case, of Somerville, representing Warren township, and Peapack and Gladstone, opposed the Major, bearing the brunt of the opposition in behalf of the other municipalities against the borough, to recover over $7,000, alleged to be due North Plainfield because the property in the borough is alleged to have been assessed at $912,003 more in 1912 than it should have been. In support of the borough's claim for refund, a resolution, termed by Major Lentz as "a solemn judgment," adopted, agreed to and and signed by the County Board of Taxation and stating that a refund should be made, was placed in evidence.

The valuations in the borough in 1912 were placed at $4,983,625. After an appeal had been taken by the Council to the County Board, the latter bady granted a deduction in this amount of 18.31 per cent., which amounts to $912,003. The benefit of this refund was to be realized in the 1913 assessments, which were placed at $4,344,950. Borough Assessor J. H. Cooley stated on the stand that this latter amount represented the true assessment according to present valuation, less the $912,003, plus the natural increases in assessments, due to improvements and additions. Figured on this basis the increases in true valuations this year amount to $1,185,331. The actual increasing including the deduction figures at $273,328. While practically admitting that $912,003 had been deducted from this year's valuation, the contention of the borough is that the municipality has not been refunded for the taxes paid to the State and county on the over-assessed valuations of 1912, which amounts to $7,000 in round figures, representing the amount of taxes paid on the $912,003.

Former Judge Case after listening to a review of the situation by Major Lentz, contended that a borough cannot under the law attempt to appeal for a refund on behalf of the individual taxpayers. He contended that the appeal or petition should have been made by the individual taxpayers who believed that they had been discriminated against. He further claimed that the petition had been presented on a mistaken principle. Case, continuing, asserted that the county can give back only that which the treasury of the municipality concerned had lost, and claimed that the State Board had no right to recognize the petition of a borough for the over-payment of taxes a year before.

The County Board, composed of Andrew E. Kenney, as president; M. W. Sculley and James E. Bathgate, wished to introduce evidence to show that the borough assessments for this year are not as high as they should be but the State Board would not allow this evidence to be admitted at this proceeding.

Among those present at the hearing were Everett Colby, as a spectator, and the following appeared in behalf of the respective town municipalities: H. O. Hance, for North Plainfield township; Mayor William V. Steele, of Somerville; W. H. Morecraft and George W. Anderson, for South Bound Brook; Abram Dunn, for Bedminster, and L. J. Suydam, for Franklin township.

GIANT ELECTRICAL GENERATOR USED

Greatest Machine of Its Kind Put in Operation by the P. S. C.

There has just been placed in operation in New Jersey the largest unit, of its kind, for the generation of electrical energy to be found anywhere in the world. It is a 20,000 kilowatt turbo-generator of the horizontal type, for the production of sixty-cycle, three-phase current at a voltage of 13,200 volts.

The machine—and it might be said here that the term largest is used to denote capacity rather than size—occupies one end of the Public Service Electric Company's power station at Marion. Steam was turned into it yesterday for the first time by General Manager Dudley Farrand and several days will be given to tuning up and adjusting the mechanism before the giant power producer is called upon to assume its share of the daily burden of supplying energy for turning the wheels of industry, moving street cars, and lighting the homes, shops, and highways of a section of northern New Jersey embracing several counties.

The new machine is an object lesson in the progress being made in the electrical industry. Until recently a 20,000 kilowatt unit was unheard of and it is not many years ago that the electrical experts of the country were amazed by a report that one of the great manufacturing companies was going to attempt a 3,000 kilowatt unit. The first unit of that size was built and hailed as a wonder when it was put into service. It is now, after a few years use, standing in the scrap yard of the concern that made it, obsolete, a monument to the wonderful strides which have been made and the rapidity of changes which have marked the development of the art. There are two or three other generating units in the country of as great, or greater, capacity as the new one at Marion, but they are of the twenty-five cycle type for power purposes only, while the Marion generator with its greater frequency sixty-cycle current will supply light and power.

It is not easy, perhaps, for the lay mind, unfamiliar with electrical terms, to realize what a 20,000 kilowatt generator means in the industry, or what it is capable of doing. To the average person, electricity is just electricity and watts and volts and amperes and the like are expressions with which the average person is not particularly concerned. To more readily convey an idea of the power and capacity of the new machine it may be well to use comparative terms. For instance, 20,000 kilowatts of electrical energy is the equivalent of about 26,600 horsepower, and if one can realize what a hundred horse power steam engine is capable of doing all one has to do is to multiply that result by 266 and the answer will show what the biggest generator of its kind in the world can do. Easy to grasp, isn't it? To put it another way, if the entire energy of the generator were to be devoted to supplying current for the ordinary incandescent lamps used for household or store lighting, it would keep an even 1,000,000 of these lights aglow with light twenty-four hours a day.

THOUSANDS OF PLASTERS GIVEN AWAY.

In the last five years, thousands of plasters have been given away throughout the country absolutely free. These plasters draw out through the pores and absorb all uric acid or other poisons in the blood. The results obtained through their use upon rheumatism have been wonderful. Hundreds of former sufferers from this and kindred diseases testify to rapid and permanent cures. The plasters are still being given away free throughout the United States by the Spalding Plaster Co. A Spalding representative will be in Plainfield on November 14 and will give away hundreds of plasters to all sufferers of rheumatism, together with full instructions as to their use and a complete explanation as to their curative powers. Announcement will be made in this paper as to where he will be located and between what hours he can be consulted.

SCHOOL PHYSICIAN BUSY.

Dr. A. F. Van Horn, school physician, began an examination of the local public school children yesterday, starting in the Plainfield High School where he will conduct tests until the entire student body has been examined, and will then go to the primary grades.

Women's & Misses' High-Class Dresses

While they last, choice $8.98

For Dresses worth up to $18.50

Seldom, if ever, have we been in a position to offer values like these, right in the height of the season. Our buyers, ever on the alert and untiring in their search for the best interests of our stores, have been rewarded as seldom any buyer can ever hope to be. A manufacturer of high-class dresses wanted to dispose of enough stock to raise a certain amount of ready cash; a careful examination of the same revealed an extraordinary opportunity for one in a position to handle the ENTIRE LOT. Quick as a flash the wires were tapped, a hurried consultation followed, and the deal was closed.

The lot was divided into four, so that not more than three of any one style will be found in any one of our stores and in most cases only one of a style. Most all sizes in the lot; colors are Black, Navy, Gray, Brown, Copenhagen and Plum. Both high and low necks. See window for styles or better still, come and try one on. GAME IS PLENTIFUL LOCAL HUNTERS SAY

Some Returning Sportsmen Give Reports of Their Good Luck.

Although the hunting season is but four days old local gunners have slain large numbers of bunnies, partridge, quail and pheasants and the wild game is still plentiful in the wooded districts skirting Plainfield and throughout the entire State. Many local nimrods are spending the week in northern New Jersey and many have risen early in the morning and tramped the fields until working time in search of the huntsman's quarry.

All of the shooters have been recompensed for their loss of sleep and long trips by the abundance of rabbits and other live stock they have encountered and the returned hunters still claim that the game is more plentiful and in better condition than it has been in years. Conspicuous in the reports turned over by Harry Dreier, the local authority, have been the returns from the regions near Whitehouse, Far Hills, Mine Brook, German Valley, Graceland, Easton and Oak Tree. All of these places are within easy traveling distance of the Queen City and Plainfield huntsmen can find all the sport they are looking for in these districts.

The bags have been filled with rabbits, pheasants, woodcock, squirrels, partridge and quail, these animals having proven the most plentiful in nearby regions. Among those who reported to Harry Dreier last night and this morning are: W. H. Campbell, Herbert Chase and S. T. Adams, who pulled down twenty-seven rabbits and six pheasants near Whitehouse; J. A. Perry, who took two pheasants and two rabbits from the woods near Far Hills; H. P. Vosseler and friends, who shot four pheasants, sixteen rabbits, eight woodcock, four squirrels, two partridge and one quail at Mine Brook; Hayes Keller and party, who hunted in the vicinity of German Valley and bagged thirty-six rabbits, two woodcock and several pheasants; J. Ryno and party killed ten rabbits and one quail near Graceland; Robert Pierson and party shot twenty-seven rabbits and three gray squirrels near Neshanic; Charles Terry got seven rabbits near Easton; and S. L. Maltby, Warren Townley pulled down twelve rabbits and one woodcock near Oak Tree.

SCHROEDER'S PROMPT ACTION AVERTED A SERIOUS BLAZE

While delivering milk in the west end of the city at 4:30 o'clock this morning, Frank Schroeder discovered a threatening blaze in the house owned by Benjamin Mann, at 217 Spooner avenue and which is occupied by John L. Lassiter, colored, and turned in an alarm from box No. 45, the West End apparatus responding to the call. The flames were found in the front portion of the building directly under the sleeping rooms and when the firemen arrived has assumed serious proportions. They were extinguished with chemicals and little damage resulted.

After notifying the fire department Schroeder went to the scene of the blaze and after smashing in the front door warned the family of their danger. This was the first intimation the occupants of the house had of fire and but for the delivery man's prompt action house and sleepers might have been consumed. Schroeder is a call man of No. 4 engine company.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL PLANS

A special meeting of the officers and teachers of the Holy Cross church was held in the Parish House last night to perfect an organization of these departments and to hear reports from the special committees on organization which were appointed at last week's meeting. Miss Catherine Carman, chairman of the Christmas exercises committee, outlined the plans that have been drawn up for the holiday by her workers.

The candle service participated in by the children of the church will be repeated again this Christmas but instead of having it the same evening as the Christmas tree exercises it will be held the Sunday evening following this event.

Harry Faun, chairman of the committee to get data on a Sunday-school booklet, gave the committee's findings which were the subject of a long discussion. Following the business session light refreshments were served by a committee of the women members of the church.

PREPARING TO MOVE.

What will probably be the final meeting in the Elks' Lodge rooms on West Second street was held there last night and six candidates were added to the roster and several propositions for membership were received. It is exepcted that next week's meeting will be held in the new lodge rooms on Watchung avenue.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

H. Newton Spencer, '13, who returned the first part of this year to take a post-graduate course, has left to take a position with the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company, in the New York office.

Elva Lippincott, '15, is unable to attend school because of illness. She will be out of school for at least two weeks.

This afternoon at 4:15 o'clock the girls' second basketball team will meet the Freshman girls in the first inter-class contest to be held this ear. The Freshman team will be captained by Rose Cooper.

Principal Farley has made two changes in the basketball schedule for the use of Saengerbund Hall. Hereafter on Tuesdays the girls' first team will have the hall from 4:15 to 6:00 p. m., and on Thursdays the sophomore class team will occupy the floor for the first period from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m.

The members of the Girls' A. A. are busy trying to find a new way to make money. The financial committee finds that money that was made at the cake and candy sale will not support both the first and second teams. Miss Ray has offered several suggestions and the girls will probably act under her direction.

At a meeting of the senior class yesterday afternoon the class was divided into four sections.

The Camp Fire Girls will hold a supper and ceremonial meeting at the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow evening. Supper will be served at 5:30 o'clock and after the ceremonial meeting a general social time will be held.

This morning a vote for the new High School motto was taken but it has not been counted. There were nine mottoes placed on the boards in each classroom and the pupils voted before chapel.

Amelia Brizzie, '16, who has been unable to attend school for the last week on account of illness, is recovering.

PERSONAL.

James Cock, of 331 Bergen street, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment, has returned home.

Joseph Clark, formerly of this city but now of Newark, is spending several days in town. Clark is still incapacitated by the injury to his hip, received when he fell beneath the hook-and-ladder truck on East Second street last winter, but is steadily recovering.

Miss Ina Rudd, of Hillside avenue, has returned home from London, Ont., where she was called by the death of her mother.

Albert J. Andrews, of West Sixth street, is spending two weeks with relatives in Philadelphia.

Mr and Mrs. Harry H. Moore, of Netherwood avenue, have returned from a month's stay in Bermuda.

Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, of this city, has been called to Brooklyn, owing to a serious accident which her mother, Mrs. Murray, suffered on Election Day when she was run down by an automobile. An early recovery is expected.

William E. MacClymont, formerly of this city and now of Montreal, Canada, was in town yesterday.

Rev. John G. Currier, curate of the Church of the Advocate, Philadelphia, is visiting old friends here today.

ONE ON THE MAJOR.

After the tax meeting at the North Plainfield Council chamber this morning, Everett Colby, the Progressive gubernatorial nominee, shook hands with Major Carl Lentz.

"Ha, ha, ha! They beat you, didn't they?" said the Major with a laugh.

"Yes, but I beat your gang, didn't I?" responded Colby.

The crowd had the laugh at Lentz's expense.

DUNN'S TALK SILLY.

Following the Union county grand jury's presentment regarding the sale of liquor and its relation to crime in Elizabeth, Excise Commissioner Dunn, of the county seat, has attracted some notoriety by declaring that despite the unusually large number of saloons in Elizabeth there is more crime in Plainfield than even in the downtown districts of that place.

Of course, Dunn did not know what he was talking about or he would not have made so ridiculous a statement. The excise commissioner's claim has been refuted by former Mayor James F. Buckle, who happens to be foreman of the grand jury. The records of the court also bear testimony to the absurdity of the charge. Police Chief Kiely has added that there is no city of its size in the United States less free from crime than Plainfield and he also brands as a falsehood that Plainfield saloons have back rooms where women are served drinks.

Plainfield has a State reputation for the manner in which it regulates the liquor traffic. When former Governor Fort's State excise commission completed its investigations in its report it more than once commented most favorably on the Plainfield plan for high license and strict regulation and the enforcement of the ordinances. When the two Roman Catholic and the two Episcopal prelates framed a bill, now known as the Bishops' law, for the regulation of the traffic in the State, it was found that almost all of the provisions previously in force here had been put in that measure. In fact it was the Plainfield plan with modifications.

Thus the merits of the Plainfield system have been recognized. They don't raid saloons here for keeping open on Sundays or after hours because there are no violations. But what can Elizabeth say? True it is that there have been some liquor cases from Plainfield in the county courts, but few in number as they have been they bear witness to the efficiency of our police department in getting after speak-easies. If the law were enforced the same way in Elizabeth, wouldn't the prison pens be overcrowded?

But after all, why pay any attention to what this obscure man, who juggles with the truth, has to say about Plainfield?

INDEPENDENT VOTING.

What Dr. Austin W. Scott, the mayor-elect of New Brunswick, had to say at the Rutgers Club in that city a few nights ago will be approved by every right thinking citizen. He declared himself in favor of divorcing municipal elections from general elections for as he said National issues should not be confused with municipal issues. He added, very correctly, that parties should have no place when it comes to a municipal election.

Plainfield is a high type community and experience here has shown during recent years, despite the merging of elections, that the voters are a mighty independent lot. The average man here has forgotten how to vote a straight ticket. Even party leaders openly boast of independence in marking their ballots. And this applies not only to city and

If you can't say a good word for your home town, don't say anything. But in Plainfield you can't help saying something nice. If every man, once a day, made some single good remark about the community, it would be the greatest and most effective advertisement that could be obtained. Have you ever tried it yourself?

The Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and all other local civic bodies should lend their support to the committee to make the poultry show to be held here this month the biggest possible sort of success. Exhibitions of that type are desirable advertising for Plainfield.

Jeffery turned a good thing for the city by having the Board of Trade officials and its expert mechanism examine the various types of apparatus offered for the fire department's automobile fire-fighting service.

county elections but to State and National ones. The political "boss" and the "dyed-in-the-wool" party man are very lonely here in this progressive day.

DR. LITTLEFIELD TALKS ON SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

Rev. Dr. Milton S. Littlefield, one of the editors of the lesson quarterly now used in the main Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue M. E. church, outlined to a number of teachers and others interested in Biblical teaching in this city the plan and arrangement of the course and the methods which have proven the best through practical use in the various Sunday-schools, at a meeting in the church, last night.

The speaker urged parents of Sunday-school children to have their children give more attention to home study and to require a certain amount of preparation work to be done each week for Sunday lessons.

GRAND JURY DINNER.

White House Wedding the Cynosure Of the Nation's Eyes

ALL the world cannot attend the Wilson-Sayre wedding at the White House, for which 400 invitations have been issued, but all the world loves a lover and so is interested in the wedding and has its eyes upon it and its ears open to catch all the echoes therefrom. The two leading figures in this event are both striking personalities per se, even without the fierce white light that is beating upon them, and this but adds to the interest of the event.

Miss Jessie Wilson, the second of President Wilson's three daughters, is twenty-three years old. She was a Phi Beta Kappa and an honor member of the class of 1908 at the Woman's college, Baltimore. For two years after graduation she was in settlement work in Kensington, Philadelphia. While engaged in settlement work she gained a considerable knowledge of industrial questions, which she has followed closely in all the work in which she has been interested.

Miss Wilson is a member of the national executive board of the Y. W. C. A. She addressed members of the Delaware legislature in February last in behalf of a ten hour day law for working women, and they passed the bill. In the latter part of October she gave an address in New York city at a meeting held under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association and described the work of the national board of the association as it is administered throughout the United States. Her address rang with earnestness and vigor and made a deep impression upon her auditors.

Francis Bowes Sayre is twenty-eight years old. He was born in South Bethlehem, Pa., and was graduated from Lawrenceville school, in New Jersey, in 1904 and from Williams college in 1909. He then entered the Harvard law school, from which he was graduated "cum laude."

Photo of Mr. Sayre © 1913, by American Press Association.

EAST ROOM OF WHITE HOUSE, SCENE OF THE WEDDING, AND THE BRIDE AND GROOM.

Like his fiancee, Mr. Francis Sayre is fond of out door sports, and he has made some interesting excursions into the north. He spent two summers with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell in Labrador and was secretary to the mission Dr. Grenfell established at Battle harbor. Dr. Grenfell came all the way from Labrador to act as Mr. Sayre's best man at the wedding. Mr. Sayre accompanied Admiral Peary from Labrador to New York on Peary's return from the discovery of the north pole. He has also tramped over a large section of Alaska. Since these experiences he settled for a time in New York city and was made a special assistant by District Attorney Charles S. Whitman. He resigned this position to accept a position as assistant to President Harry Garfield of Williams college, a position he will take up as soon as the honeymoon is over. A house in Williamstown, Mass., has been newly furnished and put in order for the young couple under the supervision of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson herself. The plans for the honeymoon include a visit to Windsor Forges, near Churchtown, Pa., the home of Miss Nevin, the bridegroom's aunt, where Miss Wilson and Mr. Sayre were visiting when they first met.

Regarding Dr. Grenfell as best man, the interesting fact may be mentioned that Miss Wilson's dearest wish from little girlhood was to become a missionary in foreign countries, and when she was finally discouraged by her family in this she immediately turned her thoughts to social settlement work, in which she has taken an active part for several years.

Miss Jessie Wilson brings the number of White House brides to thirteen, but thirteen is a lucky number in the Wilson family. Woodrow Wilson became the thirteenth president of Princeton after he had served the university as professor for thirteen years. He became president of the United States in 1913, and he usually selects the thirteenth row at a theater. He has therefore broken the spell of thirteen as an unlucky number. Because of the president's partiality for the number 13, it seems entirely fitting that his daughter should overlook the superstitious prejudices usually entertained by brides toward that number.

POOR FARM EXPENSE CAUSE OF CRITICISM

The Piscataway Township Committee, which has been in charge of the township's poor farm, was criticised sharply at a meeting of the Taxpayers' Association of the township, last night, when the question was taken up as to what to do with the township's $25,000 poor farm, which has been "eating its head off" with only six occupants.

It was suggested that if the farm could not make a better showing operated with unlimited capital and credit given by the township, it must be unfair to levy the individual farmer for the privilege of cultivating the acres from which he was supposed to get a living. It was the opinion that the township must have better results or new management.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Miss Manning, of South Plainfield, will speak on "Nehemiah," at the weekly meeting of the Graded Union of Sunday school teachers, at the Y. W. C. A. Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. All interested are invited.

DIST. VICE-PRESI.

Arthur M. Harris, superintendent of the First Baptist Bible School, was chosen a district vice-president for Essex and Union counties of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, at its closing session in Asbury Park, yesterday afternoon. Edward W. Cooper, of South Orange, was re-elected president of the association. Joseph H. Wright, of Trenton, is district vice-president in charge of Hunterdon, Somerset and Mercer counties.

GAVE A DANCE.

Councilman-elect and Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, gave an informal dance in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, last evening. There were about thirty-five guests from this city, Dunellen, Bound Brook and other nearby places. The room was elaborately decorated with flowers and American flags. Music for dancing was furnished by an orchestra. During an intermission refreshments were served.

MEXICAN SITUATION.

SUFFRAGISTS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

Twenty-third Yearly State Convention Opened Today at Newark.

Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, of this city, are among the prominent women attending the twenty-third convention of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association which opened in Newark, today. The morning session was taken up with business matters and this afternoon's session was opened by Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, who is eighty-eight years old, and still takes and active interest in suffrage. She says she intends to live until New Jersey women get the vote.

Mrs. Mark K. Colvin, of East Orange, first vice-president of the association, is presiding this afternoon. Among the speakers will be Mrs. U. L. Decker, Miss Dillie Hastings, Miss Esther E. Gordon, and Mrs. Clara S. Laddey. The convention banquet will be held this evening at the Y. W. C. A. Mayor Jacob Haussling, of Newark, will give the address of welcome and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will be the speaker. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and Mrs. Everett Colby will be among the speakers tomorrow.

TEACHERS VISIT P. H. S.

A committee of teachers from the Westfield High School were guests in the Plainfield High School this morning where they inspected the work in the various courses and the new building being constructed here. The Westfield Board of Education is planning for the erection of a new school building and the teachers came here for the purpose of getting ideas on the construction work.

THEY HAD LOTS OF FUN AT THIS MOCK TRIAL

The people who attended the entertainment last night given by Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., which had termed the occasion, "Ladies' Night," enjoyed a mock trial of unusual merit. City Judge DeMeza was assigned to be the presiding magistrate. Dropping all the usual sternness of a judge, he took his part in a humorous way, as did another lawyer, Harry C. Runyon, who played the part of prosecutor. Winfield S. Angleman was counsel for the defendant, who was Joel Pennington. The latter was "arrested" and charged with stealing a chicken belonging to Joseph Kriney. Nicholas Meyers, acted as "officer," and during the "trial" was ordered from the court room for "influencing" the jury. The defendant was found guilty.

The other characters of the play were as follows: Jurors, Miss Try Mattox, Mrs. W. F. Richards, Lester Dunham, Fred Winn, A. G. Lewis, George Laird, Silas Mundy, Harry Pangborn, John Oakley, Sidney Winn, Guy T. Thomas and J. J. Kliner. Witnesses for the State- Samuel Kriney, Nicholas Meyers, William Hartpense, Harry Winn and Charles S. Wilson. Witnesses for the defense —Joel Pennington, J. F. Rutledge, Arthur Spicer, Frank Downs and George Ackerman. The staging of the play was perfected by W. F. Richards.

The serving of refreshments concluded the pleasant evening.

LECTURE POSTPONED.

Owing to conflicting dates the lecture scheduled to be given in connection with the Home-makers' Course at the Y. W. C. A. tonight has been postponed until next Thursday night. Dr. Benjamin R. Andrews, instructor in Columbia University, will be the speaker on that occasion.

MRS. DORR TO SPEAK.

The Equal Suffrage League, which will hold a cake and candy sale at the home of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, 139 East Seventh street, Tuesday afternoon, November 25, announce that Rheta Childe Dorr, of Brooklyn, whose work in the interest of the suffrage movement is well-known, will speak. Mrs. Dorr is a sociologist, author and lecturer, and speaks intelligently on all subjects pertaining to women.

MURDER RECORD SHOWS DECREASE

Figures For 1912 Show Rate Is Still Very High.

THIRTY CITIES INCLUDED.

Rate Per 100,000 For 1912 Is 8.1 Against 8.4 For 1911—Memphis the Worst, With Advance of 11.6—United States Homicide Ratio Is Highest In World, Says Report.

The annual murder record for the United States, while showing a slight improvement over previous reports, still suffers by comparison, according to statistics of homicides published in the current issue of the Spectator. Compilations made by Frederick L. Hoffman show that there were 1,344 homicides in thirty large cities of this country in 1912, a rate of 8.1 per 100,000 of population.

Similar records for 1911 were 8.4 per 100,000. There is a corresponding decrease in the relative number of suicides, equivalent to 0.8 per 100,000, or 1 per cent. The highest homicide record reported occurred in 1907, when the rate was 8.8 per 100,000, and the lowest rates were in 1891 and 1897, when 4.2 per 100,000 was the record.

Of the large American cities Memphis, Tenn., with 88 homicides, shows a rate of 64.3 per 100,000, an increase over 1911 of 11.6. It is explained that suburban murders are counted in with the city percentages.

New York Rate Increases.

The New York city record does not show the same improvement that the average suggests. There were 198 homicides during the year, a rate of 2.8 per 100,000, or an increase of 1.4. For the ten years ended in 1911 there were 1,364 deaths of a homicidal nature, with a rate of 5.4 per 100,000.

The high rate of homicide shown by Memphis is carried out when the cities are taken by geographical groups. Of the thirty cities cited those of the southern group reported 411 homicides, an increase of 4.5 in its rate of 20.2 per 100,000. The eastern cities had the lowest rate, 416, or 4.6 per 100,000, while the western group showed 10.8 and the central group 8.9 per 100,000. All these rates showed an increase over the average for ten years.

Of special interest in the tabulations is the inclusion of a record kept by the Chicago Tribune of the causes of homicides from 1908 to 1912. According to this, 48.9 per cent of the whole number was caused by quarrels, while unknown causes were responsible for 14.1 per cent. Liquor is given as the cause of 9.6 per cent of the total, while murders by highwaymen caused 8.5 per cent of the deaths. Jealousy, incidentally, was responsible for the same percentage.

No Homicides In Reading, Pa.

To Reading, Pa., is given the distinction of having no homicides committed within its limits in 1912, while in Philadelphia there were only twenty-three homicides, a rate of 1.4 per 100,000. For the ten years ended in 1911 Hartford, Conn., had the lowest number of homicide deaths, twenty-six, although Milwaukee showed the lowest rate, 1.9 per 100,000. The largest number of deaths from homicide in the ten years is shown by Chicago, with a total of 1,770.

In support of its comment on the unfavorable record of this country, comparisons are made with the homicide records in foreign cities. In Italy especially, where it is generally assumed that human life is held cheaply, the rate for the latest year available, 1910, is 3.4 per 100,000. A five year average shows a rate of 3.9. In other words, to every 100 homicides in the United States there are only sixty-six in Italy.

London, including only the city proper, shows a five year average of 1.31 per 100,000 as compared with the same average for New York of 6.0. In Paris in 1910 a rate of 3.6 was recorded. The city of Copenhagen, Denmark, is shown as the safest European city, with a record in 1910 of only one homicide and a five year rate of 0.45.

MOTOR HOSPITAL NOW.

Bureau of Mines Makes New Use of Auto Truck.

A thoroughly equipped motor hospital recently completed for the bureau of mines for use in Pittsburgh discloses a new use for the auto truck, a variation of which might find an application in the work on water supply projects such as the Catskill and Los Angeles aqueducts.

The first fully equipped vehicle of the new type includes in its equipment two pulmotors, six oxygen tanks, fifty regenerators and oxygen pump, two stretchers, a life line, a box of explosives, lanterns, tents, fire extinguishers, a complete telephone system and a full complement of hose, axes, saws, miners' tools and medical and surgical supplies. Even the bird and cage used in detecting poisonous gases in mine shafts are to be found in the ambulance.

Finds Foot Imbedded In Rock.

John Magill, employed in the Lovington mines, near Decatur, Ill., recently unearthed what appeared to be a petrified human foot. It was imbedded in the rock 1,000 feet below the surface.

A GREAT COLLECTION OF UNITED STATES STAMPS

"It is one of the greatest pleasures of my life," said King George of England when discussing his hobby of collecting postage stamps, a pleasure that seems to be not alone confined to England's King, as we find the hobby indulged in by Alfonso of Spain, the King of Siam, the late King of Portugal, the Earl of Kintore, the late Earl of Crawford, premier peer of Scotland, and many other men whose tastes lead them to scientific and exacting hobbies that require brains as well as mere money to unravel some of the history and mystery of by-gone days.

Nor is the hobby of accumulating postage stamps confined either to the nobility of Europe or the plain ordinary citizens of the Old World; in America the study of stamps and their ramifications has occupied the minds of many of our most influential business men—men whose ordinary every-day business it is to deal in large amounts of money, intricate problems of commercial finance and stupendous undertakings in traction, in engineering and in manufacturing that require the master mind to direct and the financial ability to complete.

In New York city, less than a month ago, if one had looked up the amusement columns of the daily press there could have been seen the unusual announcement of "Rare Stamps On Exhibition. Engineering Building, 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., all this week."

There, at that exhibition, were shown to the public some of the wold's greatest rarities in postage stamps—little bits of paper worth their weight not in gold but in radium, stamps—worth three, four aye five thousand dollars a piece. Stamps that millionaires wounld enter into a keen competition to acquire as though they were a Rembrant or a Frans Hals. From all over Europe came collectors and specialists to see these little bits of paper. The Times, The Herald, The Post and other papers printed columns in their news matter and in some cases editorials also about there old stamps. The insurance companies placed nearly two millions of dollars insurance on these little scraps of paper; Pinkerton's picked men guarded them, their owners watched them and exhibited them to their friends with as great pleasure as the mother exhibits her first-born. Collectors banqueted and speech made at the Hotel Astor; the New York Collectors' Club gave a luncheon and reception; the New York Stamp Society gave a Fest Kommess; everyone went to the exhibition; noses were pressed close to the frames, thousands came and saw, asked questions, wondered and then began to collect postage stamps.

Then the big collections were all put back in their albums and shipped all over the world to their owners, who in many cases received gold medals or diplomas for the excellence of their exhibits. Amongst the finest exhibits of the stamps of the United States was one from our own State of New Jersey, the owner being the Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, ex-Senator of Union county, Acting Governor during Mr. Wilson's oft repeated absences from Trenton, and a resident of Plainfield, who is well known all over the State.

Mr. Ackerman is a great traveller. He has covered more than 500,000 miles circling and recircling this globe of ours in 107 stamp issuing countries. He has basked in the sun of Italy and frozen in the Trans Siberian Railroad, up in Iceland, down in South America, over at Macan or down in Palestine. Everywhere he went his first and most important memorandum was to see the postmaster and dig up stamps for his collection, so that the result is his collection of foreign stamps, particularly those of the countries he has visited, is one of the best in the United States, but his star attraction (if one might so term it) is his collection of the stamps of his own country. Volume after volume of these are on the shelves, everything carefully mounted and described in beautiful script lettering. Here we see the rare Buchanan stamps from Baltimore issued by Postmaster Buchanan before the general issues appeared. Here is the famous "Bear" stamp, issued by the postmaster at St. Louis way back some seventy years ago. Here is a curious little sheet of stamps issued by the postmaster of Providence, all of five cents denomination except one in the corner, which is ten cents for a double rate emergency. Passing to the regular issues Senator Ackerman shows the first issue of 1847 in many combinations and shades. There were only two stamps in this issue; the five cents printed in brown with a fine portrait of Benjamin Franklin; the ten cents printed in black with the head of the "Father of his Country," George Washington. Here are curious combinations, a ten cent cut in two and postmarked and passed as five cents, and a big envelope with six of these "ten centers" must have been a heavy document. In the next issue the Senator shows all the issue complete as it appeared between 1851 and '56: One cent blue, three cents red, five cents brown, ten cents green, 12 cents black and 24 cents grey. Here are envelopes with one, two, three, four, yes, even five stamps on one envelope, letters to France, Germany, England, almost everywhere where the postal systems of the world had grown since Rowland Hill first introduced the penny postage stamp in England in 1840. Here are shown the interesting issue of 1869, printed in two colors, America's first pictorial issue. The one cent with Franklin's head, the two cents depicting the then everyday sight of the postboy riding his horse, the three cents with the old steam engine with the bell top smoke stack; the six cents with George Washington's head, the ten cents with the national arms, the 12 cents showing the mail steamer ploughing the seas, the 15 cents with a beautiful brown frame and a blue vignette showing the landing of Columbus. One sheet of this value got the centre printed upside down by mistake, making what philatelists call an "inverted centre." This error is worth three hundred dollars today and the Senator shows a beautiful copy. The 24 cents value shows the signing of the Declaration of Independence in violet, is known with reversed centre also and is shown in the Ackerman collection. The 30 cents has a peculiarly beautiful combination of red and blue and portrays the national shield, flags and eagle and is also known with inverted centre. This is one of the great rarities of the stamp world and is easily worth a thousand dollars today, although Mr. Ackerman's copy cost him less than half this sum. The ninety cents and last value of this beautiful series shows a superb frame of carmine and a medallion vignette in black of Abraham Lincoln, perhaps the grandest stamp ever issued by the United States, who issued beautiful and artistic steel engraved stamps whilst most of the world's stamp issuing countries were producing very mediocre designs and poorly printed stamps. Original covers—that is stamps on the envelopes as used—has long been Senator Ackerman's chief delight and to this branch of the hobby he was quietly devoting his attention when other collectors were soaking off their specimens from the envelope. Envelopes that cost a mere pittance thirty years ago are today exceedingly sought after and of great intrinsic value. Mr Ackerman shows United States stamps used from St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, Shanghai, China, Honolulu via San Francisco, stamps from the Pacific coast postmarked "Via Nicaragua ahead of the Mails," and other exceedingly interesting and historical combinations. In addition to this he shows United States stamps used from America to England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Italy, Australia, India, in fact almost everywhere. In this article it is almost impossible to even attempt to describe all the wonders of this wonderful collection. The Government Bureau of Printing and Engraving places a number on every plate that prints postage stamps. The Senator has all the numbers from 1 to 6500 odd, with very few exceptions a collection that our Washington Government itself has not got. No more enthusiastic collector can be found than this ex-Senator. The chief point of interest to the public is that Mr. Ackerman stands ready to give his valuable time to showing this collection to those interested, be they boy of twelve or man of sixty. New Jersey philatelists, and there are many hundreds of them we all know who hope to have an opportunity some day of again voting for Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield, for some really important national office, a hope that, though long deferred, has not made their hearts to sicken or their admiration for the man to lessen, and it is devoutly to be hoped that like the Hon. T. K. Tapling, M. P., of England, who gave his magnificent collection to the British Museum, that perhaps Ernest Ackerman may see fit to donate to the Metropolitan Museum in New York his wonderful collection so that generations for all time to come may enjoy these priceless little pieces of paper and collectors be enabled to have free access to so important a collection for the purposes of comparison and study. Philatelists of the world "Here's to Ernest Ackerman."

WHERE SALT WATER MEETS FRESH; THE TUG GATUN MEETING FRESH WATER FROM GATUN LOCKS

The two salt water sections of the Panama Canal are now open for actual use. These two sections of the canal connect respectively the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. In this view the spectator has his back to the Atlantic Ocean and is facing the Gatun locks. The tug shown in the foreground has come up a wide channel between low wooded hills. The waterway at this section has the appearance of a natural estuary. It ends at the lock shown here. It is at this point that the vessel encounters the fresh water which operates the two sets of locks. In order that the Atlantic and Pacific locks may be in constant use an immense supply of fresh water will be necessary as by the passing of every vessel millions of gallons of water will of necessity pass out of the canal. This fresh water will be replenished from the huge reservoir known as the Gatun Lake.

TOMORROW

The Plainfield Daily Press Special

Industrial and Business Edition

WILL BE PUBLISHED

After nearly three months of preparation, the Daily Press will present to its regular readers on Friday, a forty-eight page paper, the largest edition ever published by any Plainfield newspaper. In the edition will be illustrations and descriptions of Plainfield and its business houses, and much valuable information regarding the city. The edition will be preserved by those who procure it for many years to come.

THIS PAPER WILL BE DELIVERED TO ALL REGULAR SUBSCRIBERS OF THE DAILY PRESS, but to transients the price will be ten cents per copy. The edition is limited to 5,000, so if you want to be sure of your copy order from your newsdealer now.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Mike is only a "Mutt," not even a "plain dog," is the frowsy little mongrel canine who chaperones and in return receives the caresses of the charming young star of "Peg o' My Heart," the J. Hartley Manners' comedy of youth which will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening. But Mike, just like the most humble in the great system of universal economies has his place, and it is a prominent one even among a cast of such stage celebrities as Blanche Hall, Ruth Gartland, Alma Chester, Gabrielle Gellmaz, Lionel Glenister, Vivian Gilbert, and others who constitute the company interpreting Oliver Morosco's latest theatrical production.

Thrills, throbs, sensations, information, amusement, superb scenery, historic cities, stormy seas, daring exploits,—all this, and more, may be confidently looked forward to at the Plainfield theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, November 26 and 27, with the positive assurance that expectations will be surpassed, because the attraction is Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival. For this is one of those exceptional attractions that, judging from its many engagements here, can always be depended on to fulfill more than it promises. More real "human interest" and amusement is compressed in two hours "travel with Howe" than is usually derived from two months of actual travel. In addition to scenes of surpassing beauty, the new program to be presented comprises scientific, comic, topical and thrilling spectacles that are unparalleled. "Undeniably the finest exhibition of animated photography ever presented in this city" are the words in which the Dallas (Tex). News describes it.

—There's not a dull, nor an unimportant ad in today's paper. There's not one that may safely be overlooked by any great number of the paper's readers.

TO SEND PATIENTS TO THE SANITORIUM

Somerset County to Pay for Patients' Care at Union's Institution.

Somerville, Nov. 13.—At the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, at the Court house, at Somerville, Tuesday, it was voted to send the two tuberculosis patients from Bound Brook, in whose interest the visiting nurse from that place had made appeals to the board, to the Bonnie Burn sanitorium, of Union county. A communication was received from the managers of the institution, stating accommodations for only two or three patients could be provided for at a cost of $12 each per week. It had been expected that a site in Warren township could be secured for the tuberculosis hospital, but this was objected to by the Bound Brook Water Company and the project has been dropped.

A communication was received from the State Road Department, offering to donate $5,000 out of the county's share of $19,000 of the automobile fund for the purpose of improving the Mine Brook road through Bernardsville, and it was voted to accept the offer, the work to be done under the supervision of Director Douglass.

Dr. C. R. P. Fisher, representing the Somerset County Mosquito Commission, and Dr. Headley, of New Brunswick, addressed the members of the board in an endeavor to have $500 set aside this year for the use of the commission, but nothing resulted.

A communication was also received from the State Road Department, refusing to approve the plans for the Finderne bridge as filed by County Engineer Doughty, and suggesting what should be done in the premises. This topic has been under monthly discussion for over a year, and the members having grown weary of the subject, passed a motion that Gaston & Richards be asked to prepare plans in conformity with the State Department's plans, which will be submitted in the hopes of bringing the matter to a conclusion.

CONNELLY ENDORSED FOR CIRCUIT BENCH

Elizabeth, Nov. 13.—The Union County Bar Association yesterday afternoon endorsed Judge James C. Connolly, of the Union County Court, as a successor to the late Judge Benjamin A. Vail whose term as Circuit Court Judge for this district will expire in January. A committee was named to wait upon President Wilson in behalf of Judge Connolly.

Judge Connolly was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge E. S. Atwater, who died several months ago. Before that time he was city attorney for Elizabeth for twenty years.

BAD TEETH CAUSE OF MUCH DISEASE HE SAYS

Dr. R. G. Hutchinson, Jr., of New York city, gave an informal talk at the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Dental Association at The Homestead on Washington avenue last night. He demonstrated that a larges percentage of the disorders and diseases of the system in general had their origin traceable directly to bad condition of the mouth. Dr. Charles G. Davis, president, called the meeting to order, and after the talk by Dr. Hutchinson refreshments were served.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 31.

SOME philosopher once said: "There would be no profit in owning a gold mine if somebody else didn't want gold."

It is upon the law of supply and demand that all business is based.

The merchant who best advertises his wares is most likely to supply the demand of his fellow-beings, provided his wares are right and his prices reasonable.

People with demands to be supplied depend upon the newspapers to guide them to stores where the most economical and satisfactory shopping is possible.

This means that the modern newspaper is really something more than a dispenser of news—it is also a shoppers' guide—a directory in which the ever-changing story of the business man is sure of wide and respectful attention.

People read the Classified—the Want Ad. pages—read them closely, regularly, confidently. Write out your announcement today—now—Mr. Merchant, and put your name and your business before the great purchasing public—put your claim for more business where it is sure of consideration—in the CLASSIFIED columns of this newspaper.

The Economical Tea.

A tea is, probably, the easiest way of repaying social obligations. In the first place, a tea is all embracing. All your social obligations can be repaid at once. In the next place, a tea is much easier to manage if you have not much, either in the way of service or wealth, at your command than a luncheon or dinner or dance.

Without Servants.

It is quite possible to give a delightful tea without servants. To be sure there should be some one in the kitchen to wash spoons and cups and other dishes as they come soiled from the dining room. This can be a woman who comes in by the day if there is no regular servant.

As for the other duties connected with a tea, they can all be performed by friends or members of the family. If there is a young son or daughter in the family, let him or her stand at the door to open it for the guests. In warm weather the door is sometimes left open, that guests may come and go as they please.

A daughter of the house might be in the bedroom where hats and coats are removed to help with coats and get pins or needles and threads or anything else that might be needed by the guests.

As for the rest, the assistants of the hostess can do that. Of course at a formal tea a servant would carry dishes to and from the kitchen and get hot water, fresh sandwiches and cakes. But anyone would gladly perform these small duties. If the hostess is reticent about asking her guests to take the soiled dishes to the pantry or a table spread to receive them near the kitchen door, she might ask one especially well-known friend or some member of the family to do this.

It is customary for the young women asked by the hostess to assist her to see that the guests are served with refreshments and to assist the women who pour tea or coffee or chocolate or serve frappe.

Refreshments.

If the tea is given without servants, the refreshments should be simple. Sandwiches, tea and coffee or tea and chocolate, and candies are all that are needed. Or tea and frappe, with cakes and salted nuts, can be served. If frappe is served it should be offered to everyone, just as the tea should.

Of course, napkins and plates—excepting the plates under the frappe glasses—are not necessary. The only dishes needed are glass cups for the frappe, cups and saucers for the tea or coffee and chocolate, plates to put under the frappe cups, and spoons. The sandwich or cake passed with the coffee or tea is placed on the side of the saucer.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

THE NEW JERSEY CONGRESS OF MOTHERS.

By invitation of the Parent-Teacher Associations of New Brunswick, the thirteenth annual meeting will be held at Brunswick Hall, Church street, New Brunswick, on Friday and Saturday of this week, November 14 and 15. The opening session will be at 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The general topic for all sessions will be "The Training of the Future Citizen in the Home and in the School."

Addresses will be given during the conference by Mrs. Frederic Schoff, Miss Myra Winchester, James Heberling, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice and Lewis T. Carris, followed by formal discussions participated in by county superintendents, principals and teachers of the schools of the State.

The Mothers' Association and the various Parent-Teacher Associations of Plainfield and North Plainfield are planning to send large delegations to the congress. Those wishing to go on Friday will take the 11:45 Main Line trolley, which connects with the New Brunswick trolley at Bound Brook. Those wishing to go on Saturday will take the 8:15 Main Line trolley at the Watchung avenue trolley station.

The following are some of the aims and purposes of the Congress of Mothers:

To raise the standards of home life.

To develop wiser, better-trained parenthood.

To give young people, ignorant of the proper care and training of children, opportunities to learn this, that they may better perform the duties of parenthood.

To bring into closer relations the home and the school, that parent and teacher may co-operate intelligently in the education of the child.

To surround the childhood of the whole world with that living, wise care, in the impressionable years of life, that will develop good citizens, instead of law-breakers and criminals.

To carry the mother-love and mother-thought into all that concerns or touches childhood in Home, School, State and Legislation.

To interest men and women to co-operate in the work for purer, truer homes in the belief that to accomplish the best results men, women and children must work together.

To secure such legislation as will ensure that children of tender years may not be tried in ordinary courts, but that each town shall establish juvenile courts and special officers, whose business it shall be to look out for that care which will rescue, instead of confirm, the child in evil ways.

To work for such probationary care in individual homes rather than institutions.

To rouse the whole community to a sense of its duty and responsibility to the blameless dependent and neglected children because there is no philanthropy which will so speedily reduce out taxes, reduce our prison expenses, reduce the expense of institutions for correction and reform

The work of this nation-wide congress is civic work in its broadest and highest sense and every man or woman who is interested in the aims of the congress is cordially invited to become a member and aid in the organized effort for a higher, nobler national life, which can only be attained through the individual homes.

The North Plainfield Parent-Teachers' Association has just joined the State Congress of Mothers and expects to be well represented by delegates at the New Brunswick Conference.

The Washington School Parent-Teacher Association met on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and was presided over by Mrs. William Sandford.

The McKinley Parent-Teacher Association, of Westfield, has just joined the State Congress. This association is over two years old.

As a result of the recent tuberculosis exhibit held in Bayonne, an open-air school room will be installed in an addition to No. 6 School, and tubercular pupils will be taught there exclusively.

Coffee.

FRESH SAUSAGE.

SAUSAGE lovers now may enjoy it at its best, for fresh pork and also fresh sausage meat are to be purchased.

Some nice ways of cooking this popular meat are the following:

Cooked With Potatoes.

Sausages and Potatoes.—Take one-half pound of sausages, a pound of mashed potato, an egg, one-half ounce of butter, two tablespoonfuls of milk and salt and pepper. Mash some cooked potatoes, adding the butter, the milk, the eggs and seasonings and then beating thoroughly. Form this into three or four neat elongated ovals, set these on a buttered baking tin and make thoroughly hot in the oven the next morning. The sausages should be parboiled the evening before and then slowly fried when wanted. To dish place a friend sausage on each potato mold and serve immediately.

Baked Sausages With Potatoes.—Boil and mash several potatoes and lay them in a baking dish. Make into small pats three-fourths of a pound of uncooked sausage and cover the potatoes with them as nearly as possible. Place in hot oven to brown, turning them when the upper side is done, so that both sides may be well browned and all well cooked.

A Well Seasoned Combination.

Sausages and Eggs.—Take a pound of sausages, two tablespoonfuls of fat and three eggs. Use the cold sausages, skinning and cutting them in slices. Put them in the frying pan with the melted fat, fry them on one side, turn them over and when they have had time to fry sufficiently on that side pour the beaten eggs into the pan over them and cook until the egg "sets." Fold like an omelet and serve hot.

Sausage and Veal.—Take one-half pound of sausage, one-half pound of minced raw veal, one-half cupful of breadcrumbs, a teaspoonful celery salt, a teaspoonful lemon juice, a teaspoonful scraped onion, one-half saltspoonful red pepper, a teaspoonful chopped celery, a teaspoonful chopped pickle. Mix together and moisten with white of egg, make into small balls, brown in butter, cover one minute. Serve with horseradish sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Orpheus, The Wonderful Musician.

Orpheus Sang to the King.

DADDY was very fond of music. He liked to talk to Jack and Evelyn about the people who had written the beautiful songs and the lovely pieces that mother played on the piano.

"I don't know who was the first musician," daddy said one evening, "but one of the first we hear about was Orpheus, of whom the Greeks told wonderful stories.

"Orpheus sang the songs he made up to the music of his lyre, an instrument that must have been something like the harp. When Orpheus sang it is said the music of his lyre charmed all who heard it. The story is told that when he began to play in the forest the wild animals would gather around and listen with the greatest pleasure.

"Now, the wife of Orpheus was a lovely lady by the name of Eurydice. One day when out in the fields a snake which lay hidden in the grass bit her heel, and she died of the wound.

"Orpheus grieved and grieved for her. He no longer cared to play his harp or sing his beautiful songs.

"At last Orpheus started out, taking his lyre with him. He said, 'I will go seek my Eurydice.'

"Up and down the earth he wandered until at last he came to the gate that led to the Land of Shadows, where the souls of the dead were believed to stand. Orpheus played so lovely an air on his lyre that the grim guardian of the land let him go in. Past the shadows, who stared wondering at him, Orpheus went steadily until he came to the great field of poppies that grew close by the garden of the king of the Shadows. The garden was a wonderful place, in which grew lovely fragrant white flowers called asphodel. They clustered all about the golden palace of the king.

"Orpheus passed straight through the garden, into the palace and, standing before the throne on which sat the king and his beautiful wife Persephone, sang a wonderful song about Eurydice.

"The stern king wiped the tears from his eyes, and Queen Persephone wept openly.

"Then Orpheus begged the king to give back Eurydice to him.

"And the king said she might go if Orpheus would promise not to look behind at her until they had passed out of the Land of Shadows and were safely in the world again.

"Orpheus promised, but when he had almost reached the world he forgot his promise and looked back. Then Eurydice had to go back and leave him. He grieved for her so much that it was not long until he joined her. At least that is the way I have heard their story told."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

A BLOUSE so simple that it could be made in an hour is shown in this design (7729).

Satin, crepe de chine, a light wool or linen may be used to advantage.

Natural pongee is excellent for this style of blouse; as it wears well, may be laundered easily and, touched with some bright color, is most generally becoming. The business girl or woman will find it especially practical.

For the collar and revers of this model one of those attractive flowered cretons or a printed silk would be effective.

A long or short sleeve may be used as preferred. There is a removable chemisette, and a stitched plait over each shoulder gives the required fullness.

To make this waist in size 36 it requires 1¾ yards of 36 inch material, with ⅜ of a yard of contrasting material for the collar and revers.

This Is a Perfect Pattern

Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

YALE'S LEFT END WAS A LOCAL MAN

But 'Twas Long Ago When "Kid" Wallace Starred for "Pa" Corbin's Eleven.

ELI, 68; OTHERS, 0

Reunion of Blue Gridiron Stars of a Quarter of a Century Ago Held in New Haven Last Night—Frederick W. Wallace Played Left End.

Long forgotten, but exceedingly interesting, football facts were unearthed last night in New Haven at a dinner given by William H. (Pa) Corbin to the Yale eleven of '88 of which he was center and captain and Frederick W. (Kid) Wallace, of Hillside avenue, was end and star man on the defense. Around the dining table were former players, cracks of twenty-five years ago, who firmly believe that football was a much more interesting game then than it is now.

Coaching wasn't anything like the elaborate system it since has grown to be, and the head coaches of Pa Corbin's team were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Camp. In those day's the center snapped the ball with his foot exerting pressure on it to make it bound into the quarterback's hands. Up to that year word signals were used, but Corbin and his men devised a system of sign signals which were used in the Princeton game. Words were still used, but they were a bluff. Pulling the visar of the cap meant a kick. Everything Corbin did with his left hand in touching different parts of his uniform meant a play on that side of the line. The system worked well and there were no missed signals.

Although injuries hampered the team considerably in that year, it made 68 points to its opponent's nothing. Princeton was favorite over Yale and on the same day that Yale played Wesleyan, Princeton met Harvard. Camp and Corbin attended the Harvard-Princeton game. When they returned to New York there was a telegram from Mrs. Camp telling them that Yale had beaten Wesleyan 15 to 0. This appealed to the graduate coach who hunted up some Princeton men and got down a few bets at long odds before the Wesleyan-Yale result reached town, for they had no tickers and up-to-the-minute sporting extras in those days.

Officials at that time weren't so strict as they are now. As Mr. Corbin naively observes, "It was often a case of give and take." In the Yale-Penn game someone swatted Gill, the Yale left tackle, now a minister, in the jaw and knocked out two teeth. Picking them up he showed them to the umpire and exclaimed, "Now will you put him off?"

"Kid" Wallace, Plainfield's contribution to the great eleven, was an end and at that time was recognized as the fastest man in the business He got down the field like a streak of lightning and his tackles meant sure death to the pigskin carrier.

The team averaged only 163 pounds and the weight was distributed as follows: Ends, Lon Stragg, 150, and Kid Wallace, 150; tackles, Bill Rhodes, 164, and Fats Gill, 170; guards, Gaw Woodruff, 183, and Pudge Heffelfinger, 192; centre, Pa Corbin, 185; quarterback, Wirt Wurtemberg, 138; halfbacks, Bum McClung, 151, and Billy Graves, 154; fullback, Bill Bull, 161. Gifford Pinchot was a substitute.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the parliamentary meaning of the word "quorum?"—C. G. F.

Answer—Technically and grammatically it is the genitive plural of the Latin pronoun "qui" and means "of whom." In a parliamentary sense it means the requisite number of members to do business, and unless otherwise provided by the constitution, this means majority. That is the rule in Congress and all the State Legislatures and in most parliamentary bodies, but in the British House of Lords three members out of 632 constitute a quorum. In the House of Commons forty members out of 670 constitute a quorum.

REFEREE WOULDN'T LET WESTFIELD WIN

So the Mt. Ararat Schoolboys Walk Off Field and Forfeit to Carlton Academy.

Claiming that they were subjected to unfair penalization on the Summit field yesterday afternoon, the Westfield High School football warriors walked off the field when the game stood a 7 to 7 tie, thereby forfeiting the contest to the Carleton Academy eleven, who were their opponents on that occasion. In the last session, when the score stood 7 to 7, the ball was taken from the Mt. Ararat warriors on six different occasions when on the ten yard line. Four of the six times were on the first downs and two were touchdowns.

Westfield walked off the field three minutes before the time limit, much to the indignation of their opponents who could not see the stand the Mt. Ararat team took. Thus far this season the Westfielders have had an unusually successful gridiron record and the result of yesterday's battle caused no little amount of comment among the team's cohorts who were out in large numbers.

INTERCLASS TEAMS IN OPENING GAME

Sophomores Defeated the Freshies in a Rough and Tumble Fight.

Inter-class basketball was started in the North Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon when the teams of the Sophomore and Freshmen classes met in Saengerbund Hall. The Sophomores won by the score of 22 to 18. The game was fast and close throughout and although the second year men held the lead continually there were times when they were in danger of being tied by the "freshies."

The majority of the scoring was done in the first half and the score ended 15 to 10 in favor of the "sophs." The second period was unusually rough and the referee had to make several threats to disqualify men for repeated intentional rough playing.

The Sophomores played defensive ball in this half and succeeded in winning with a four-point lead. Captain McDonough and Warren Townley were the point-getters for the winners while Denny and Carson tallied up 17 of the then team's 18 points. The guarding of Adams was also a feature. This contest will not be registered in the standing of the class league.

New Brunswick bowlers made a fine gain in the Elks' League last night, when, on their own alleys, they got three games in a row from the New York quintet. New Brunswick is now tied with Newark for second place, while New York fell back to a tie with Elizabeth for eighth place. There was some lively competition last night. In the first game New Brunswick was there for 859, winning by twelve pins. In the next encounter the home five advanced to 905 and showed the way by twelve pins. The third contest was even closer and a total of 924 to New Brunswick's credit was only sufficient to win by a single pin. Engleking turned in 214 for New York, A. Westphal had 208 and L. Westphal 200. Harkins tallied 214 for New Brunswick and McCormick 203.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY PLAYERS WHO WILL MEET LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Negotiations were completed last night for the appearance of the New York University varsity basketball team in this city on Thanksgiving Day night to line up against the Y. M. C. A. quintet on the local Association floor and the manager of the Metropolitan quintet promised to produce the greatest array of material that has ever invaded Central New Jersey for a court battle. This is the first time in the history of local basketball that an intercollegiate basketball league contender has played on a Queen City Court and the contest is evoking no little amount of interest among local followers of the sport.

Prominent among the players in the New York college's uniforms will be Eddie Gilhooley, who formerly played on the champion St. Benedict's, of Newark; Helfant, who for two years has been a member of the N. Y. U. varsity five; Milburg, who formerly played on the Hoboken High School quintet before he entered college; and Kanter, formerly of Passaic High School. All of these men have had much experience in intercollegiate competition and have been playing during the past month without encountering a single reverse.

The New York University coach is planning to take his charges on an extended training trip during the Thanksgiving recess and Plainfield will be the first stop on this tour. The varsity regulars will be the only ones taken on this trip and in each game the coach promises to put his fastest men in the game.

The Y. M. C. A. quintet will have its regular lineup in the field including Gavett, Brynairski, Moulton, Glover and McNamee and along light and inexperienced, as far as college rules are concerned, this aggregation expects to hold the visitors in close surveillance.

SECOND TEAM FIVE DEFEATED RIVALS

Freshman Maidens Trimmed by Second String of Boro High Players.

Playing between the halves of the boys' game yesterday afternoon, the North Plainfield High School girls' second team defeated the freshmen five by the score of 13 to 7. The game was one-sided and one player starred for each side. For the winners, Marguerite Barkalew, '17, made all but two points and played the best game of all. Many times she lost her guard and took advantage of an opening to make her shots good. Lillian Spencer, forward on the first eam, was literally the whole freshman quintet and made every point for her side. She scored two field goals and dropped three from the foul line. Elsie Wyckoff, the freshman's midget guard, kept her tall opponent to one basket during the whole game. She was also good at passing and, considering her inexperience, was the star guard of either team.

OLYMPIA BOWLERS GOT A WALLOPING

Local Pin-knights Dropped Three to the Rahway Representatives.

By clever pinning on McCartney's alleys in Rahway, Tuesday night, the Nationals, of that place, walloped the Olympias, of this city, in three games by wide margins. The first game was the hardest fought, after which the home five took on an added spurt and ran away from the five representing the Queen City.

McCartney, one of the performers in the Elks' Bowling League, was high man on his own alleys, while Keller and Crowell followed closely. Miller did the best pin smashing for Plainfield but his highest mark was a 177. None of the players passed the double century mark.

Following the match their developed a discussion concerning the bowling ability of Miller, and Repkie, of Rahway, and the matter was ordered settled on the spot by making the opponents roll a pair of games. Both of these contests were won by the versatile Rahwayite and the local quintet had to return to the haunts of the Queen City minus everything and with a firm resolve not to let the matches get into the hands of the newspapers.

The scores follow:

BATTIN WINS OPENER.

The Battin High School girls' basketball team, of Elizabeth, rivals of the Plainfield and North Plainfield maidens, defeated the Milburn High School quintet in the opening game of the season yesterday by a score of 26 to 11. The Milburn team is also one of the borough team's opponents this year.

INITIAL DEFEAT FOR CHAPEL FIVE

First Out of Town Rival to Trim Hope Five in Two Years.

A BURLESQUE CONTEST

Y. M. C. A. Team the Only Team to Lower Local Church Boys Colors Previous to Last Night's Farce—Plainfielders Greatly Outweighed.

Battling against adversaries far superior in weight, height, experience and everything else on the Paterson court, last night, the Hope Chapel basketball five was forced to lower its colors for the first time in two years to an out of town team, succumbing to a 56 to 12 walloping at the hands of the speedy Clinton A. A. five of the Silk City. Playing on a court better fitted for a roller skating rink than for the court game and against foes who are so used to winning by unusually wide margins that they have become unpopular even in their own town, the Chapelites didn't have a lookin from start to finish and presented a ridiculous spectacle as basketeers.

Tommy Heron, Leighs and Doig were participants in a similar struggle at Elizabeth three weeks ago and were more than surprised to find that two of the same men who wore Elizabeth uniforms on that date were sporting Clinton regalia on this occasion. These two players, Sonne and Spinnler, by virtue of the spectacular playing, were the real trouble makers on both occasions and showed up particularly strong last night.

For the losers the Heron brothers and Jim Doig each got a brace of goals and their counters comprised the sum and substance of the Hope team's score. Spinnler, with nine goals, and Snyder, with seven, were the laurel bearers for the winners and also were conspicuous in the team work and passing pulled off by the heavy Paterson contingent. Despite the fact that the visiting guards exerted themselves to the limit in order to check the ravages of the Patersonians their efforts went for naught and the home basket cagers piled up baskets at will.

SIOUX INJUNS FOUGHT HARD TO TAKE IROQUIOS' SCALP

After a hard fight featured by unusually close guarding, the Sioux basketball quintet, of the Y. M. C. A. junior department Indian League, defeated the Iroquois outfit by a margin of 10 to 4. Unlike the other battle in the league scheduled yesterday afternoon, this contest was close and interesting and either team had a chance of winning out until the final whistle was sounded.

For the victors Henwood's trio of field goals proved to be the winning tallies, while Angerbauer and Erickson got the loser's pair of two point goals.

WAWAYANDA INDIANS BEAT RIVAL SAVAGES

Twenty points separated the Wawayanda and Omaha fives, of the Y. M. C. A. junior department, at the conclusion of the scheduled league match yesterday afternoon, the Wawayanda warriors piling up a count of twenty-two against the rival tribe's two during the court contest. The solitary brace of counters were made from the foul line by Brownlee and were the only semblance of a score the Omaha Indians had during the entire battle.

For the victors Morrell and Snyder were the shining lights with six and four field goals respectively to their credit. The Wawayanda tribe displayed superior team work and were by far the best all around performers.

HUNT CLUB'S RIDERS FOLLOW THE HOUNDS

The mid-week run of the Watchung Hunt Club, yesterday afternoon, while not as long as some, furnished good sport for those who followed the hounds. The going was heavy and this probably accounted for the small field. The hounds were met at the kennels and thrown in on the Rufus Delafield farm, crossing the Hamilton, Holton, Barron farms, and checking on the Slattery farm.

Thrown in on the Tappen farm, the hounds continued the chase to New Market, a check being made on the Clark estate. They were thrown in on the Clark estate crossing the Randolph, Hadley, Dunbower farms and checking on the Smith farm. Thrown in again at the New Market bridge, the run continued back to the kenneis, the finish. Those who finished were R. C. Finch, M. F. H., S. D. French, H. S. Hollis, H. L. Finch and Huntsman Harrison.

The Watchung Hunt Club is enjoying a successful season. Saturday night a beeksteak dinner was served at the club house and it is planned to have a similar affair every week. On Saturday the chase will start from Melrose Manor, where the hounds will be met at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

RETURN OF TALMAN TO RUTGERS ELEVEN

Coach Sandford Lined His Men up Against Rahway for Practise Tuesday.

On Saturday afternoon Rutgers will meet Trinity in the final home game of the season. Coach Foster Sanford has been working the men hard this week in preparation for one of the hardest contests of the season, and a close and exciting game is predicted. On Tuesday afternoon the strong Rahway High School team played a practice game with the varsity and succeeded in crossing the Rutgers goal-line by a pretty forward pass formation. After the game the members of the team were entertained at the various fraternity houses and taken to the vaudeville show at the New Brunswick Opera House.

It is probable that Talman, the sensational punter and fullback, will start the game against Trinity. He was kept out of the Hamilton contest because of deficiences in studies but has cancelled the conditions and is in excellent shape for Saturday. The Rutgers backfield will be composed of Talman, Todd, Captain Elmendorf and Bracher, the latter a Rahway boy, who has made an excellent record this year. Rockfeller, who has been kept out of practice because of a weak shoulder, will play one of the ends, with Seller at the other side of the line. Toohey and Nash, both of whom weigh over 200 pounds, will be the tackles, McCallum and Folensbee guards and White center. The largest crowd of the season is expected to view the contest.

COMMITTEE ADMITS CHARGES ARE FALSE

Bomb Manufactured to Oust Great Runner Was Exploded Harmlessly.

The biggest bomb manufactured by the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. exploded harmlessly last night in

HANNES KOLEHMAINEN SPRINTING LAST LAP

New York when it was admitted that the charges against Hannes Kolehamainen were groundless, and the world's long distance champion runner, who was haled before the committee left the hall with the stain removed from his character. In proving the committee's claims false he provided an art exhibition for its members by placing on view for their entertainment all of the prizes he has won since coming to this country.

There is now nothing to prevent the little Finn from competing in the cross-country championships next Saturday afternoon. Last night there was a distinct revulsion of feeling toward him by those who have endeavored to formulate charges and even Harry Smith, who has been placed before the public as an inimical to the great runner, said last night that if Kolhemainen was barred he would not compete in the cross-country championships. The Finn defeated Smith two weeks ago in the senior ten-mile championship.

PACIFIC OCEAN TRAFFIC WITH THE UNITED STATES.

One-fourth of Total Trade Supplied by Uncle Sam.

About one-fourth of the total trade of all countries fronting on the Pacific ocean is supplied by the United States, according to figures just produced by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Into these ports $2,223,000,000 worth of imports entered in 1912, according to the figures, and their exports aggregated another $2,000,000,000. Of the total imports about one-half represents eastern Asia, a little less than one-fourth western America and the remainder the countries and islands of the south Pacific.

The imports of China are approximately $350,000,000, Japan about $300,000,000, Straits Settlements $200,000,000, Hongkong $200,000,000 and Siam, French Indo-China, Chosen (Korea) and Asiatic Russia about $100,000,000. Those of western South America are about $200,000,000, western North America (including $127,000,000 at the Pacific ports of the United States) $200,000,000, Australia $375,000,000, New Zealand $100,000,000, Dutch East Indies $150,000,000, Philippine Islands $55,000,000 and the Hawaiian Islands $34,000,000.

Of the imports of these Pacific frontages other than those of the United States this country supplies about 12 per cent, the United Kingdom about 25 per cent, continental Europe about 15 per cent and India about 10 per cent, the remainder being chiefly exchanges among the countries forming the group under consideration.

NEW TARIFF LAW'S EFFECT.

Treasury Statement Finds but Little Decrease in Duties Collected.

Although the new tariff act, with its lowered rates of duty, has been in effect over a month, the customs receipts have shown little falling off.

A treasury statement made a few days ago shows that the customs receipts for October amounted to $30,138,000, about $80,000 less than those of October, 1912.

The deficit for the fiscal year to date, the statement shows, is $5,757,627, about $3,900,000 more than at the corresponding period last year.

Pension payments under the Sherwood act are apparently largely responsible for the larger deficiency. In 1912 the October payments amounted to about $52,500,000, and for the same period this year nearly $57,000,000.

The total pay warrants for October, 1913, were $59,366,994, with total receipts of $64,196,633. The net balance in the general fund of the treasury on Nov. 1 was $124,923,123. In national bank depositaries to the credit of the United States treasurer there was $91,121,101.

WANT ARMY OF 115,000.

Plan to Increase Infantry Arm of the Service Outlined.

An army of 115,000 men is what the infantry arm of the service has asked of the secretary of war, according to advices from Washington. This would permit the formation within the United States of a mobile army of three infantry divisions of twenty-seven regiments, one cavalry division of twelve regiments and seven regiments of field artillery.

This increase also contemplates increasing the number of men in the infantry companies from 65 to 100, the former being at present the minimum on a peace footing.

On the basis of the proposed increase the mobile army, exclusive of the coast artillery and troops serving beyond the seas, would consist of 85,000 infantry, 12,000 cavalry, 5,400 field artillery, 2,200 auxiliary troops, a total of 54,600 men, or an enlisted man to every 1,700 population.

A LOOMING FIGURE IN MEXICO; GEN. CARRANZA, THE REBEL LEADER

The Leader of the Constitutionalists an Important Factor in Mexican Affairs.

He Claims That His Party Controls the Greater Part of Mexico.

GENERAL VENUSTIANO CARRANZA, the leader of what are called the Constitutionalists in Mexico, is a person to be reckoned with and certainly a picturesque and interesting personage. In a recent statement he claims that there are more than 80,000 men under arms in the Constitutionalist army and that with the exception of Yucatan, Chiapas and Oaxaca all the other Mexican states, leaving out a few fortified cities, are under control of the Constitutionalist forces.

Don Venustiano Carranza was governor of the state of Coahuila in February last when Madero and Suarez met their tragic deaths and Huerta was proclaimed president. While the belief prevailed that death would be dealt out to all who opposed the government and that Huerta would establish himself firm in power, Carranza raised the flag of revolution and burned his bridges behind him. His action was immediate and without qualification.

GENERAL VENUSTIANO CARRANZA.
